CORONATION PROGRAMS

Winchester Residents May Obtain Much Sought Book

Of much interest to all Winchester residents is the announcement that the much sought for coronation programs may be obtained here. Of equal interest is the fact that the proceeds from this sale will be devoted to the support of our Winchester Hospital. The programs are in tremendous demand, as only a limited number have been alloted to the United States.

First copies of the official souvenir program for the coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, May 12, arrived in New York this week.

The shipment, 50,000 copies in 102 cases, reached New York aboard the Queen Mary.

Subscriptions for the program, which will be placed on public sale April 23, the world release date, are being taken by Hevey's Drug Store, the Winchester Trust Co., the Winchester National Bank and the Winchester Savings Bank.

The sale price will be $1 and the proceeds will be for the Hospital. Although the quantity has already been oversold, Hospital authorities have been fortunate in obtaining a limited quantity. All purchases must be made by subscription, as the copies will not be released until April 23, at which time it will not be possible to secure any additional orders.

The program consists of 32 pages printed in black with a red border on each page, on glossy, 8½ by 11¼ inch stock.

King George's Jubilee Trust, organized in 1935 to benefit the youth of Great Britain, is to be the beneficiary of all proceeds derived from the sale of the program throughout the world. The Duke of Gloucester, brother of King George VI, as chairman of the trust's administrative council, has written a one-page foreword, printed with his picture and signed "Henry."

The program is illustrated with photographs of other members of the royal family, with the exception, however, of the Duke of Windsor. He is referred to only in a genealogical table on the program's last page, in which the descent of the royal family is traced from the invasion of England by William the Conqueror in 1066. In the family tree the only allusion to the present Duke of Windsor is: "Edward VIII, Jan.—December, 1936, abdicated, Duke of Windsor."

Embossed on the cover of the program is the royal coat of arms in red, gold, blue and black. Under it printed in black is: "The Coronation of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth; Official Souvenir Programme."

The title page bears the seals of the four dominions—the Union of South Africa, Australia; Canada and New Zealand—and of the Irish Free State. Under them are the badges of the crown colonies, the States under the crown's protection and the mandated territories.

John Masefield, poet laureate, has written a brief prayer for the new King's reign, which appears on the second page. A full page photograph of the King in uniform follows this, and next is a photograph of Queen Elizabeth, followed by a picture of Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret. The next page bears a camera portrait of Queen Mary.

Next come a two-page article titled "The King's Majesty" by John Drinkwater, and a three-page biography of King George VI illustrated with pictures of his early life.

Subscriptions may be made at Hevey's Drug Store and at the Winchester banks.

MISS LAWSON NEW HIGH SCHOOL SECRETARY

Miss Amy Lawson, daughter of Mrs. Hertha Lawson of 19 Verplast avenue, has been appointed by the School Committee as secretary to Principal Wade L. Grindle of the Winchester High School, succeeding Mrs. Hertha Parker, the former Gunhilde Nelson, who is leaving the position she has filled so admirably on Aug. 1.

Miss Lawson has already commenced her duties at the high school office where she will have the advantage of several months under Mrs. Parker's guidance. She is a graduate of Winchester High School, class of 1936, with an excellent scholastic record, and has been employed in the National Shawmut Bank of Boston.

POLICE HELD ANNUAL BALL

Enthusiastic Crowd Jammed Town Hall for Event

The annual entertainment and ball of the Winchester Police Relief Association was held Monday evening in the town hall with an estimated attendance in excess of 1500 persons who jammed every available inch of space in both halls, the seats having been taken from the small hall for standees. Twenty minutes before the scheduled starting hour the balconies were filled and only a few seats on the sides and under the balconies were available.

Members of the regular police force, garbed in tuxedos, acted as ushers and were kept busy until after eight o'clock trying to find seats for late comers. Places were reserved for members of the Board of Selectmen, who accompanied by their ladies occupied seats at the front of the hall. Former Selectman and Mrs. Harold V. Farnsworth, former Selectman and Mrs. Raymond S. Wilkins and former Selectman and Mrs. Franklin J. Lane were among others present, with State Senator and Mrs. Harris S. Richardson, Rep. and Mrs. William E. Ramsdell, Lieut. John A. Harrold retired and Mrs. Harrold, Town Clerk Mabel W. Stinson and Assistant Town Clerk Helen E. Stinson, Town Collector and Mrs. Nathaniel M. Nichols and Miss Mary H. French, clerk in the Selectmen's office. Out-of-town guests included Police Chief Clarence Nelson of Stoneham and Police Chief James Sullivan of Lexington, Miss Mary Golden and Miss Valborg Anderson of the Woburn District Court clerical staff and Mr. and Mrs. James McCauley of Woburn.

Karl Rhode's 10-piece orchestra, under Mr. Rhode's personal direction, played the overture for an excellent two hour vaudeville show, put on by the Yankee Network Entertainment Bureau and featuring Alice O'Leary, favorite radio soprano, whose group of solos included "Sing Me a Thousand Love Songs," "Chapel in the Moonlight," "De-Lovely" and "My Mother Came from Ireland," the latter a special number which the Star reporter was surprised to hear that he had "requested."

Gowned in soft green, Miss O'Leary combined a most attractive appearance with a pleasing voice which was heard to advantage in the type of songs she chose to sing. She was warmly welcomed and obliged to respond to encores. Her helpful accompanist was Miss Alice Rogers, popular "Lady of the Ivories" on the Yankee Network Chain."

Irrepressible Carl Moore smiled and wise cracked his way into instant favor with the audience as master of ceremonies, having the temerity to suggest that the audience had been "shaken down" in buying the tickets which guaranteed their presence at the ball. There may have been some connection between this remark and the "ticket" he found on his car at the conclusion of the show, but he and the audience got a laugh out of his reference to the ticket selling ability of Miss police, and the officers got a chuckle out of the "ticket," so every one was pleased.

The marriage of Miss Marguerite Hanley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hanley of Main street, to John Yore, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Yore of Cambridge, took place at 3:30 o'clock Easter Sunday afternoon in the Immaculate Conception Church, with Rev. Fr. Charles Foley officiating.

James Ryan performed the marriage ceremony at 2:30 o'clock.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. Upon their return from a honeymoon in Washington, Mr. MacElhiney and his bride will make their home in Winchester.

STREET FAIR NEWS

On Wednesday of this week a meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Franklin Lane for all of the Street Fair managers. Each chairman reported the progress made on her particular booth and from all the reports and the enthusiasm shown the Street Fair this year is going to be bigger and more interesting than ever. The Dutch atmosphere will prevail everywhere, with all the workers in costume, and the Town Hall grounds will literally be transformed into a little bit of Holland.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Locatelli the store at the corner of Thompson and Main streets will be the Street Fair headquarters beginning April 19. Here one may buy tickets and receive any information desired concerning the Fair. Some of the attractive hand made gifts from the gift booth will also be on display and orders gladly taken.

No doubt by now everyone in town has bought a coupon for one of the five donations hoping that their number will be the lucky one drawn and that they will be the winner of one of the following: a knitted dress or sweater donated by the Knit Shop, 100 gallons of gasoline given by Kenneth Grant of the Socony Station, a weekly pass for two tickets at the University Theatre in Harvard Square, good for one year and donated by Mr. Stanley Sumner, manager, a bicycle for either girl or boy purchased through Oscar Hedtler, and a Ford car purchased through Ralph Bonnell. Who would not like to be the possessor of one of these five prizes and the tickets are only 10 cents each and may be purchased from any En Ka member.

Mrs. Guy Howe, chairman of the supper, told about the tempting meal which will be served for 50 cents with absolutely no waiting—money refunded if one has to wait. Mrs. Clark Collins has charge of the supper tickets so call her and get your tickets early.

The various booths and their managers include:

The Attic—Mrs. Arthur Rutter.
Apron Shelf—Mrs. Harold Dover.
Gift Booth and Bench Booth—Mrs. Samuel Cole, Mrs. Stephen Neiley.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

NOTICE FOR HIGH SCHOOL PARENTS

The parents of the Winchester High School students are cordially invited to be the guests of the school on the evening of April 9, to witness a demonstration of the work of the Physical Education Department.

The program will begin at 8 o'clock in the high school gymnasium and will last approximately an hour and a half. The exercises presented will be so planned as to give you a rather definite idea of the Physical Education work covered during the year and will include Danish work, games, folk and tap dancing, body building exercises, fundamentals of baseball, football, basketball, field hockey, apparatus work and skiing technique.

Since the seating capacity of the gymnasium is limited this invitation is restricted to parents of high school students.

K. OF C. TO OBSERVE 40TH ANNIVERSARY

Winchester Council, 210, Knights of Columbus, is making elaborate plans for the banquet and dancing party to be held Monday evening, April 12, at the Calumet Club, in honor of the 40th anniversary of the institution of the Council.

Three charter members of the Council, Edward F. Maguire, Thomas K. Lynch and John W. Donahue, will be especial guests of honor, Mr. Donahue coming on from Philadelphia for the anniversary.

State Deputy Patrick J. Moynihan will be the guest speaker, and among others prominently identified with the order who will be present is District Deputy Thomas Power.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND

The Winchester Mothers' Association is beginning its annual work of raising the Scholarship Funds, to be awarded at the High School Commencement. All those whose contributions and co-operation, in the past, have assisted some of our outstanding High School graduates to enter institutions of higher education, will be proud of the records made by these young representatives of Winchester.

The first award, in 1933, went to Richard Barksdale, now a senior at Bowdoin. He has been on the honor roll during his four years at college, sung on the Glee Club and Chapel Choir, captained the football "J. V.'s" and played leading roles in the college dramatic presentations.

In 1934, two scholarships were awarded. With one, Esther Loftus entered Radcliffe where her high standing has won the Julia L. Peterson and the University Women's Scholarships. The other award went to Margaret Ekern, who is on the dean's list at Smith. She is also chairman of the Literature Committee of the American Student Union and Assistant Editor of the college literary publication, "Opinion."

The 1935 awards helped to send David Grosvenor to Wesleyan, Albert Gaum to Yale, and Susan McGonigle to Northeastern Law School, where she is secretary of the Rugg Law Club. All three are making excellent records in their sophomore year.

The winners of the 1936 scholarships are doing good freshman work, —Anna MacPartlin at Lowell Teachers' College, Iver Olson at Dartmouth, and Joseph Dineen at Tufts.

The number of scholarships awarded depends upon the funds the Scholarship Committee is able to raise. The record of the scholarship winners during the past four years is outstanding proof of the value of this investment. There are students of brilliant promise in each senior class who need help to continue their education. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Leicester Armstrong, treasurer of the Scholarship Fund Committee at 6 Mystic avenue.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

Annual Meeting at Country Club

The annual luncheon of the Winchester Women's Republican Club will be held at the Country Club at 12.30 p. m., on Wednesday, April 7, with an imposing roster of guests, including Senator Harris Richardson, Representative William E. Ramsdell, State Committeeman Kingman P. Cass, State Committeeman Mrs. Mary Jones, and Mrs. J. Hasbrouck Le Fevre, head of the Political Committee of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts.

Luncheon must be served promptly at 12.30, and reservations must be in the hands of Mrs. W. E. Priest and Mrs. A. W. Drew, not later than Monday morning.

The speaker of the afternoon, Leland C. Bickford, editor-in-chief of the Colonial and Yankee Network News Service, is famous throughout New England for his vocal editorials over WAAB each evening. Among other national and state questions to be presented by Mr. Bickford is that of the unsavory reputation of the horse and dog racing conditions existing in our state at the present time.

As a final high note in this very worth while program, we are to enjoy a group of original character sketches by Miss Dale Anthony, and if you'll lend an ear while your reporter shares with you a secret she has just ferreted out of the air, you'll learn that Dale Anthony is the stage name of our good friend Alice Landergh, who entertained us so delightfully at Fortnightly last spring. She promises us another amusing hour of laughs, and with that sprightly piece of information to spur you on, I'm sure you'll need no urging to find yourself a front row seat next Wednesday at the Country Club.

SCAVENGER HUNT A GREAT SUCCESS

A large and enthusiastic gathering met in the office of Goods' Riding School last Saturday evening for the Junior Florence Crittenton Scavenger Hunt. The list of 18 articles to be found was given out to each car and the search was started at great speed at twenty minutes past eight. The hunt took the contestants to all of the surrounding towns and even into Boston for those articles less easy to find. The loot was brought back to the barn, the last car returning at 11 o'clock, and each car of four persons placed theirs on a blanket to be judged for its worth. Those judging were Mr. Herbert Stone, Mr. Benjamin Hill of Winchester and Mr. Robert Foote of Newton.

The winners of the Grand prize of $10 were Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Russell, Miss Elizabeth Tucker and Mr. Sherman Russell. Those in the second car were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ash.

Refreshments of doughnuts and coffee concluded one of the most enjoyable events of the spring season.

COMMUNITY RECREATION CENTRE

The Recreation Centre will be open daily from 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m., except Saturday and during school vacation, when it will be open also from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. until further notice.

EDWARD C. MASON

Edward C. Mason, general attorney of the New England Power Association with headquarters in Boston, died suddenly of an acute heart attack Wednesday afternoon, March 31, at his home, 8 Grove street. He had gone to his office as usual in the morning, but toward noon had complained of feeling ill and had returned to his home, being stricken not long after his arrival.

Mr. Mason was born Nov. 17, 1864, in Ravenna, Ohio, the son of Rev. Edward Beecher Mason, D.D., a Congregational minister, and of Myra Campbell Mason. His father's pastorates took him as a boy to Indianapolis, Detroit and finally to Arlington where he concluded his public school education in the Arlington High School.

Entering Harvard, from which he was graduated in 1888, he did outstanding work in the Department of Political Economy, and later while a student at Harvard Law School he served as an instructor in that department both at Harvard and Radcliffe. At the instigation of Professor Taussig and Professor Albert Bushnell Hart he wrote the first in the Harvard Monograph Series on, "The Veto Power," an exhaustive treatise of this important subject, which was used for years as a text book in many colleges.

After his graduation from Harvard Law School in 1892 he commenced the practice of law in Buffalo, N. Y., coming to Boston in 1904 and specializing in corporation law since that time. He was a director of the Dorchester Mutual Fire Insurance Company, a trustee of the Massachusetts Utilities Associates and of the Central Massachusetts Electric Co., also a director of the Worcester Suburban Electric Company, Amesbury Electric Light Company, Marlboro Electric Company, Winchendon Electric Light & Power Company and of many other corporations.

He was also a member of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and a trustee of their endowment fund, a member of the American and Middlesex Bar Associations, Harvard Club, Exchange Club and of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce. He had made his home in Winchester since 1916.

On Oct. 6, 1892, Mr. Mason was married by his father in the Congregational Church on Pleasant street in Arlington to Martha Sprague, who survives him with a sister, Miss Maud Mason of Wellesley.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this Friday afternoon at the late residence with Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiating. Interment will be in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, Arlington.

POLICE TAKE BOY AT EAST STREET HOME

Last Friday afternoon at 2:45 Police Headquarters was notified that some one was breaking into a house on East street in the North End section of the town. Patrolmen Clarence Dunbury and James Noonan were sent to investigate.

Upon arrival they found a cellar window propped open with a broom handle and on the side steps of the dwelling, a 15 year old boy with a quart bottle of milk in his hand. His answers to the officers' questions proved unsatisfactory and he was taken to Police Headquarters where he gave his name as William Perry of 14½ Cottage avenue, Cambridge. After being questioned he was held until the arrival of his parents, in whose custody he was placed by the police.

Subsequent investigation disclosed the fact, police say, that the youth had been placed on probation by the Brighton Court for larceny of a saddle from the Commonwealth Armory and had been involved with the Metropolitan District Police for the larceny of a gasoline launch.

Another phase of his visit to Winchester became known Saturday afternoon when Ralph Carvill of 1122 Powder House Parkway, West Somerville, called Headquarters to report the theft of a canoe from Robinson's Boathouse on the shore of Mystic Lake near the Winchester Boat Club.

Motorcycle Officer Winthrop Palmer went to investigate and found that the rear door and service door of the boathouse had been forced, the locks having been broken. A canoe, one of two in the house, and three paddles were missing.

Sunday afternoon Officer Palmer found two local boys in possession of Carvill's canoe. He questioned them, and one of the boys stated that the canoe had been left at his house by a youth and that he had been given permission to use it. Both youngsters described the boy who had left the canoe and their description fitted that of the Cambridge youngster, found at the house on East street. Police say he will be summonsed into juvenile court as a delinquent.

Friis, now of Cambridge, a member of the executive committee. Mr. Lybeck was graduated from Tufts in 1915. Messrs. MARJORIE McKOWN

Marjorie McKown, 11 year old daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Winfield McKown, formerly of Winchester, died Wednesday morning, March 31, in the Childrens' Hospital, Boston, after several blood transfusions had been made by surgeons in an unsuccessful effort to save her life.

Marjorie, or "Polly" as she was generally known, had been in poor health for several years. On Saturday, March 19, she became seriously ill, and through the efforts of Mrs. K. B. Toye of Bonad road, was removed to the Childrens' Hospital for treatment. As her condition became more grave Mrs. Toye set out to locate the child's father, who was at sea with the S.S. Hampden, a tanker, of which he is first mate.

Capt. McKown was finally located through the combined efforts of his ship's owners, the coast guard and lighthouse keepers, between Norfolk News and Vineyard Haven, bound for Portland. He landed at Portland Monday night and rushed to Boston on the "Streamliner" to be at his daughter's bedside.

Meanwhile last Saturday night "Polly's" condition became so grave that Mrs. Toye was notified a blood transfusion would be necessary. She in turn appealed to the Police Department and less than ten minutes after her call Sergt. Charles J. Harrold and Patrolman D. Irving Reardon were accompanying her to Boston ready to give their blood for the little girl.

Tests disclosed their blood unsuitable and they and Mrs. Toye returned to Winchester, where they found several other members of the Police Department dressed in civilian clothes and ready to submit to blood transfusions if they were needed.

Despite transfusions from professional donors and the efforts of skilled physicians, "Polly" grew steadily worse until the end came Wednesday morning. The little girl who was a pupil in the Wyman School, was born in Somerville and had lived in Winchester for about eight years. She leaves her parents and a brother, Robert, living on Pond street.

The funeral was held from the Moffett & McMullen funeral parlors on Waterfield road, Thursday morning with committal services at the grave in Wildwood Cemetery, where the interment was made. Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiated.

FISHERMAN'S SERVICE APRIL 11

Lane Memorial Window to Be Unveiled

After a lapse of a year Fisherman's Sunday will again be observed this year at the First Congregational Church on Sunday, April 11, in connection with the unveiling of a Fisherman's Window, given by Miss Constance Lane, Roland Lane and Franklin J. Lane in memory of their father, the late Chares A. Lane, founder of Fisherman's Sunday and for many years organizer of annual fishing parties to Moosehead Lake in Maine.

Many fishermen who have enjoyed "Charlie's" parties to Marr's Camps will wish to attend this doubly significant service, for which arrangements are being completed by Harris S. Richardson, Vincent Farnsworth and Charles A. Gleason. All men interested in fishing are cordially invited to attend and special seats will be reserved so that the sportsmen can sit together. As usual the pastor of the church, Rev. Howard J. Chidley, himself an enthuiastic fisherman, will preach an especially prepared sermon of interest to lovers of the out-of-doors.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The regular business meeting for April will be held next Thursday evening at the home of Director Mary Carroll, Lincoln street.

Plans for the joint installation of Arlington, Cambridge, Immaculate Conception and Winchester Branches on April 29 at the Arlmont Country Club will be completed at this meeting. The Watertown degree staff and several of the State officers will be guests.

PUBLICITY FROM THE JUNIOR LEAGUE OF BOSTON, INC.

The American Merchant Marine Library Association, often called the public library of the high seas, last year distributed 260,000 books and 150,000 magazines to American seamen traveling on some 1250 ships of the Merchant Marine. And still more books are needed!

To help fill this need the Junior League of Boston is running its 15th annual drive. Those with books and magazines to contribute can deliver them to the temporary headquarters of the drive at 122A Newbury street, Boston, during the week starting Monday, April 5. A telephone call to Kenmore 1360 will bring a collector, or contributions can be left at the nearest public library marked "For Seamen."

Miss Charlotte Ives of Winchester is a member of the Book Drive Committee and among the prominent persons who are acting as sponsors for the drive are: Mr. Charles Francis Adams, Cardinal O'Connell, and Bishop Henry K. Sherrill.

LOOK FORWARD TO SATURDAY NIGHT'S PLAY

Group Theatre Presents "Michael and Mary"

The audience attending the Winchester Group Theatre presentation of "Michael and Mary" on Saturday evening, April 3, will enjoy one of the dramatic treats of the season.

The English dramatist and poet, A. A. Milne has written a touching and poignant play about two charming English people, Michael Rowe and Mary Weston. Their chance meeting in the bleak but romantic British Museum, Michael's sincere concern over Mary's pitiful story of a faithless husband, and the clever way in which Michael helps Mary to regain her self-respect and happiness make a telling first act for Mr. Milne's play.

There follow many happy days as Michael strives for recognition as a writer and Mary continually proves her gratitude and love for his kindness and loyal devotion.

How Michael and Mary decide to marry even in the face of her husband's possible return, their successful married life, Michael's rise to fame as an author, their happiness in their son David, all are handled with feeling and dramatic skill by the playwright.

Mr. Milne's play builds to a clever climax in an apparent murder and with Michael and Mary facing the greatest crisis in their lives. As the mystery unfolds and the play concludes, the dramatist subtly points a moral and leaves the spectator desirous of further evidence of Michael and Mary's mutual love and devotion.

This ambitious play, the sixth production of the Group Theatre, calls for four sets of scenery, a variety of properties and costumes dating from 1905 to the present, and a large and competent cast, 15 people in all.

George Hayden Designs Sets

George W. Hayden, Jr., has skillfully designed the elaborate sets and with the assistance of a number of Group Theatre members has constructed not only flats, but dormers, book cases, French doors and show cases.

Martha W. Kelley and Esther B. Hall have large committees working on properties and costumes typical of the three periods of the play.

Harris W. Richardson, as head usher will have the assistance of Samuel J. Elder, Dermot Townley-Tilson, Wayne Davis, William H. Gilpatric, Arthur S. Kelley, Theodore von Rosenvinge and Theodore R. Godwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Whitman are production managers for this ambitious presentation, and Mr. Arthur Holman, a faculty member of the Leland Powers School of the Theatre, is doing a most professional piece of work as coach.

Those who wish to attend the performance of "Michael and Mary" on Saturday evening, April 3, at the high school auditorium and have not already become sustaining members of the Group Theatre may secure such memberships from Mrs. Bowen Tufts, 7 Stratford road, or from Mrs. Theodore von Rosenvinge, 14 Wedgemere avenue.

The play begins at 8:30 p. m. and the doors will open at 8 p. m.

WEEK-END FIRES

The first of several week-end fires occasioned considerable excitement about the center early last Friday afternoon when an alarm from telephone box 55 called the department to put out a fire in the basement of the three story brick block at 31 Church street next door to the Winchester Trust Company.

The fire started from some unknown cause on top of a small chest of drawers. It was not discovered until the smoke began to seep through into the ground floor apartment occupied by Dr. Philip J. McManus. The heat had put the telephone line out of commission and Dr. McManus had to cross the street to the automobile accessory shop of Oscar Hedtler to summon the Fire Department.

When the men arrived they found a hot fire in progress in the basement and plenty of smoke in the upper part of the block. All the occupants got out safely, and joined the crowd watching the efforts of the firemen.

The fire was confined to the basement which was pretty well gutted, the timbers being burned and charred. Only at one spot, in the office of Dr. McManus, did the flames break through on the first floor. Being largely in the partitions of the house, the fire was difficult to estimate and the firemen remained on the job for some time after the last trace had been removed to guard against recurrence. Considerable smoke damage was done throughout the building.

Saturday's first run came at 9:25 in the morning, for what was believed to be a chimney fire at the Home for Aged People. The run proved needless. At 1:45 Saturday afternoon there was a grass fire on High street near Manomet road, and at 3:52 there was a second grass fire near the home of Mr. Marshall England on Ledgewood road.

Sunday forenoon at 11:20 the department was called to put out a fire in a truck owned by the Central Hardware Company of Mt. Vernon street and stopped on Arlington street.

WINCHESTER INSTITUTE—SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Tuesday, April 6—High School Auditorium

Public health Day for Winchester, the second Winchester Institute sponsored by the Winchester District Nursing Association, will bring to Winchester audiences a group of distinguished speakers, recognized as authorities in the field of medicine and public health.

Mrs. Paul S. Phenix, chairman of the Education Committee of the W. D. N. A., will preside at the morning session. Mrs. Ethel R. Savage, R.N., Winchester school nurse, has been asked to introduce Miss Helen Peck, who will speak on "Trends in School Nursing." Miss Peck will be followed by Miss Dorothea Nicoll, a pioneer nutritionist, who by lectures, classes, demonstrations, and exhibits has given practical teaching of positive nutrition.

Mrs. Ben R. Schneider, president of the W. D. N. A., will introduce the afternoon speakers. "Communicable Diseases," Dr. Gaylord Anderson's subject, must be of interest to everyone, for one or another of the long list of diseases invades every home. Dr. Anderson graduated from Dartmouth in '22, from the Harvard Medical School in '28, and entered the state service in 1929. In 1931 he became director of the Division of Communicable Diseases, the position he now holds. This division offers to boards of health and to physicans advice and assistance in the prevention, control, diagnosis and treatment of communicable diseases.

Dr. Joseph Garland is the second afternoon speaker. In addition to his large private practice he is associate physician of pediatrics at the Massachusetts General Hospital, chief pediatrician at the Florence Crittenton Home, and instructor of pediatrics at the Harvard Medical School. Dr. Garland also finds time to write. Besides editorials for the New England Journal of Medicine, he has written two books for the layman, "The Youngest of the Family" and "The Doctor's Saddlebags." The latter is the story of his grandfather, a country doctor in Vermont. Dr. Garland's talk on "The Health of the Pre-School Child" cannot fail to be of signal interest and value.

The evening session will open with the annual meeting of the W. D. N. A. Whether you are a member or not, you are cordially invited to attend and hear the reports of the year's work.

At 8.15 the Institute meetings will be resumed. Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell will preside and introduce Dr. Harold Chope, director of the recently coordinated health agencies in Newton. Dr. Chope received his A. B. and M. D. from Stanford University, came to Harvard for his master's degree, and held a Rockefeller Foundation Traveling Fellowship in Virginia and Maryland. Entering public health work, he was first in charge of communicable diseases control in St. Louis and then assistant director of the California State Health Department. In 1935 he came to Newton, where he is director of the Newton Health Department. Dr. Chope is also instructor in the Harvard School of Public Health. Students from this school go to Newton to train under Dr. Chope as part of their course, "Aims in Public Health" should present new and challenging ideas to Winchester.

Dr. Blaisdell will be the last speaker. One of Boston's leading specialists, he has given generously of his time and professional knowledge to serve his home town. His views of "Winchester's Public Health Program" will be a fitting close to the day's meetings.

Morning Session

11:00 Miss Dorothea Nicoll, Nutritionist, Mass. Dept. of Public Health. "Fitting Your Meals to Your Family."

GARDNER MUSEUM TRIP

Coup eight of the Ladies' Friendly of the Unitarian Church is anticipating a fine afternoon at the Gardner Museum April 15, at 2 o'clock. There will be a conducted tour of the museum at 2 o'clock, a concert at 2:45, and tea at 4 o'clock. Those who have been before asked to have it repeated and those who missed it will have a treat in store for them. For information call Mrs. Curtis Nash, Win. 0613-M. Anyone is welcome to join the party. The flowers in the courtyard ought to be at their loveliest, and with the other attractions added, make a very varied and enjoyable afternoon. We hope that a great many will take advantage of this opportunity.

INJURED AS CAR RAMMED TREE

Louise Hunt of 14 Hopkins road, Arlington, was painfully injured shortly after 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when the Ford tudor sedan she was driving south on Washington street got out of control and struck a tree on the westerly side of the road at the entrance to the rear driveway of the town hall.

The front of the car, registered to Amy D. Wallace of 7 Madison avenue was badly damaged. Miss Hunt was taken by Thomas K. McKee of 59 Wendall street to the Winchester Hospital where she was treated by Dr. Richard Clark for injuries to her right eye and a sprained right ankle. She was held at the hospital for observation.

WINCHESTER BADMINTON CLUB

The Winchester Badminton Club, at the end of its fifth season, shows all indications that Badminton will hold its place in Winchester as one of the most fascinating and popular winter indoor sports, there being little doubt in the minds of players and fans that the game is definitely not a fad but is "here to stay."

Primarily an English game, Badminton first became popular in this country in Canada where it has been played for some 15 years, and it is the enthusiastic support of these Canadian players and their frequent visits to the States for exhibition and tournament matches that undoubtedly has created the desire and ambition to produce top-notch players in the States. The disease has already a firm hold on New England and is steadily spreading over the country so that, given time and the proper encouragement, it is expected to be one of the nation's leading sports. Owing to its great opportunities for the development of real skill and speed as well as its advantages from a purely social standpoint, it should be a strong rival of tennis.

In this town, the game has come through its pioneer stages with flying colors under such enthusiastic leaders as W. S. Packer, W. L. Parsons, Miss Katherine Carlisle, Harrison S. Lyman, R. Gilman Wallace and Ralph Hale. The club owes a great deal of its success to those who gave so much time and effort in starting the game off on the right course.

With meetings on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and on Saturday afternoons in the high school gymnasium, there has been ample opportunity for all members, as well as their guests, to get down to work and play the game seriously, with the result that the club has turned out some really fine players. From this group, the club has picked its team, which, captained by its No. 1 player, "Larry" Palmer, has finished its season in third place in the first section, C Division of the Greater Boston Badminton League, Milton and Norwood-Franklin holding first and second places, respectively.

All matches have been in the form of men's doubles (eight-man team) and some successful combinations have been found in the following list of players: "Larry" Palmer, Gilman Wallace, "Phil" Malloy, Dana Sawyer, Dr. Eugene Pollard, "Ed" Bates, Gerald Hills, James Cleaves, "Ted" Godwin, Wm. Morse and Sue Ritchie.

It is possible and probable that next season the Winchester Badminton Club will be represented in the Greater Boston Badminton League by two teams instead of one and that there will be competition in the B or D Division, depending upon the support and progress of the members of the club.

DANCE AND RECITAL

The Curry School of Dancing announces its annual recital and dance to be held in the Arlington Town Hall, Saturday evening, April 10. This affair is well known to residents of Winchester as numerous Winchester children have taken part in former years.

This year is no exception for the Winchester and Arlington classes are joining forces making approximately 50 young people in the show. As you know these recitals are kept very simple and depend solely on the finish of the work to put the number across; elaborate costumes are not allowed. There will be balcony seats for those who wish to watch, while those who want some exercise may have a full evening dancing, as the recital, which is fairly short, goes on during intermissions. This year there are several surprises in store for those attending, one of which is a Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers number such as you have never seen before.

There is also a Swing Tap, a Skaters' Waltz, a Ghost Dance and a very clever Baseball Tap introducing the boys' class. All numbers with the exception of Swing Tap were conceived and created by Mr. Russell Curry. There will be a fine ten piece orchestra—Frank McGinley's, which Mr. Curry considers one of the smoothest bands in this section and if records of previous years mean anything, a grand time will be had by all.

STUDY GROUP OF THE COLLEGE CLUB

The Evening Study Group of the College Club met on Monday, March 29, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, 333 Highland avenue. The subject for consideration was Public Health with Mrs. Jameson Slocum as chairman.

Mrs. Slocum outlined the health conditions from a very early date to the present time, showing what advancements had been made to safeguard. Mrs. W. A. Kugler told of the bills before the Legislature dealing with public health, and urged thoughtful study of them.

Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell, chairman of health for the Town of Winchester, talked on "Present Day Trends in Public Health."

These talks served as an excellent opening to the Health Institute which is being held next week at the Winchester High School.

Mrs. Richard Wyman and Mrs. Wayne Davis were the hostesses of the evening.

"Business" is the topic for the next meeting.

APOLLO CLUB TO PRESENT CONCERT AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Apollo Club of Boston, Thompson Stone conductor, will be heard in a concert program Friday evening, April 23, under the auspices of the Music Committee of the First Congregational Church of this town.

The concert will be given at 8 p. m. in the Parish Hall of the church and will afford all music lovers a fine opportunity to hear one of the oldest and finest male choruses of the country.

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL OUTLOOK GLOOMY

Handicapped alike by inclement weather conditions for outdoor play and the School Department ban on the use of the gymnasium for indoor drill, the high school baseball candidates are not very far along the road to preparation for the coming interscholastic season.

Experienced candidates are not too plentiful this spring, only rugged "Rusty" Donaghey, hard hitting backstop, and "Bill" Smith, flossy fielding first sacker, being available to start the campaign. The loss of veterans like "Frankie" Provinzano, "Joe" Dineen and "Bill" Gray, infielders; and outfielders, "Albie" MacDonnell and "Sandy" MacKenzie leaves plenty of holes to fill, along with the pitching problem occasioned by the graduation of "Buster" Kendrick.

To add to the run, rangy "Libby" Gaudioso, slowball fork-side flinger, is over the new 19 year age limit and "Artie" Johnson, capable left hander, is also ineligible, leaving the pitching burden resting right on the shoulders of "Tom" Kenton, who looked mighty good in his one appearance against Woburn last year. "Slicker" Coss, veteran infielder, is another letter player who is ineligible this year.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Several hundred Winchester friends of Boy Scouting remained to be solicited for subscriptions to the annual financial campaign of the district today.

First formal report of the campaign was made by George W. Franklin, chairman of the campaign committee, at a meeting of the district leaders in Winchester Country Club last Wednesday night. District Chairman Franklin J. Lane, who is also serving as chairman of the special gifts committee, presided.

Part-time restrictions on the solicitations of the volunteer workers, together with a leisurely approach of prospects rather than the "high pressure" system is responsible for the extension of the campaign, said Mr. Franklin. There was no doubt of ultimate success, he added, because every one of the men and women who have not been solicited is listed as a former subscriber and known to be supporters of the Scout movement.

Plans for the opening of Camps Fellsland and Ellis, the vacation resorts of Winchester Scouts and Cubs in Amesbury, were enlivened by a showing of moving pictures taken at the camp last summer by Scout Executive Edward W. Nelson. Applications for camp councillors and assistants at the camp which opens early in July and now be made at Scout headquarters on South Border road, Mr. Nelson announced. Annual spring inspection of the camp will be made next Sunday by the camp committee.

Deadline for enrollment of Winchester Boy Scouts for the national jamboree in Washington, beginning June 26, is rapidly approaching, Mr. Nelson warned the district leaders.

PAINTER SUCCESSFUL IN LOCAL "SIT-DOWN" STRIKE

Winchester's first "sit-down" strike resulted in a complete victory for the striker, an out-of-town painter who visited a local householder on Tuesday for the purpose of collecting a bill which he felt was payable at that time.

The householder, a lady, listened to his story and agreed that the bill should be paid, adding that she would make payment forthwith if the painter would drive with her in her machine to the bank where she would procure the money necessary.

The painter agreed and the pair rode to the bank where the money was secured, but a difference of opinion arose as to the amount due the painter. The lady felt that the painter's bill was exactly five dollars too high and the painter felt just as strongly that his asking price was equitable and just to all concerned. After both had fully aired their views they were still five dollars apart, and the painter announced a virtual sit-down strike when he refused to get out of the machine until the fiver was forthcoming.

The lady refused to negotiate further and drove to the Police Station where Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy was appealed to. Always gallant, the sergeant requested the painter to get out of the machine, but the latter, taking a page from the book of the boys out at Flint, stuck to his guns and informed Sergeant Cassidy that the matter was of a civil nature and not within his jurisdiction.

The sergeant rather thought there was something he could do about it and suggested that all three consult the law made and provided, advice perhaps a bit old fashioned and smacking of the horse-and-buggy, but still sound enough to have its appeal.

At least the painter was willing to "take a look," and both he and the lady householder left the machine. The lady, however, had an ace up her sleeve and as the painter and the sergeant entered the station, she slipped back into her car and drove off with a hearty chuckle. So far, so good.

Made of stern stuff, the painter lost his interest in the law immediately and followed his late patronness, taking a course across lots that brought him to her family dwelling betimes. The lady was at home and the family car stood before the door. "Ah" said the painter!

He entered the car, and once again the sit-down strike was on, but this time for good measure the striker added pressure on the horn button. Didn't the boys out at Flint bust windows? Well, why should they have all the fun?

In the end the horn turned the trick. The lady capitalist capitulated and paid in full! Has a precedent been created, or has it!

"FRIENDS IN NEED"

To the Editor of the Star:

May I, through the medium of the Winchester Star, call attention to the type of men we have on the Police force.

On Saturday evening I was asked by the Childrens' Hospital to find someone who would donate blood for a little Winchester girl on the danger list. I called the Police Station and in 10 minutes was on the way with Sergeant Harrold and Officer Reardon and the rest of the force standing by in relays if necessary. While we were in the hospital, Lieutenant O'Connell worked on the Winchester end trying to locate No. 1 blood donors. I shall never forget the kindness and readiness with which these men met the emergency.

This is an incident which should be brought to the attention of every school child to demonstrate the "cops" are really friends in need, and I hope every adult who is prone to casting slurs on policemen in general and our force in particular, will realize that had it been their child who needed the transfusion, they would have been the first to call on the officers they treat with such disdain.

If the members of the American Legion wish to perform a very helpful act, they will go to the Winchester Hospital, have a blood-test taken and their blood recorded so that in an emergency it will not be necessary to go outside our own town to save the life of one of our own children.

My sincere thanks to Chief Rogers and his men who on Easter Eve stood by.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. K. B. Toye

"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH"

On April 10 in the high school auditorium, Clare Tree Major's Children's Theatre of New York will present the final play of the series, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." The series of productions, brought to Winchester by the Fortnightly in an endeavor to provide "good theatre" for both children and adults, has proved to be an educational treat. "Little Women" and "Sleeping Beauty" have already delighted large audiences here; and "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" will round out a splendid program.

The play has been shown in motion pictures, had a long run on Broadway, and been popular on the radio. The characters are as wholesome and lovable as the story is charming. Mrs. Major's production has been staged with the greatest care to follow both the mood and episode of the book. The cast is an excellent one with experience in adult as well as children's plays.

Those who saw the first two productions will vouch for the merit and excellence of the performances. And the final play "Mrs. Wiggs" is one that neither children nor adults should miss.

OLDSTER VISITED NEWSTER

Among visitors yesterday at the newly opened law office of Judge Curtis Nash in the National Bank Building was Dr. J. Churchill Hindes, neighboring dentist, who called as the center's longest established professional man to extend greetings to its latest arrival. Judge Nash has of course practised law in and around Winchester since his college days, but it was not until yesterday that he opened a local office.

Doctor Hindes, on the other hand, has practised in Winchester for exactly one day longer than 32 years, his anniversary having fallen on Thursday, April 1, the date of the official opening of Judge Nash's office. The veteran dentist took over the practice of Dr. Francis Harding April 1, 1905, and his first patient was the late Harold Whitney, son of the late Arthur Whitney, former Selectman and for many years, Water Commissioner. As the doctor looks about the center now he sees few business or professional men still active who were conducting their establishments when he hung out his professional shingle 32 years ago.

ITALIAN MUSICALE

The last in the series of Morning Musicales presented by the Music Committee of the Fortnightly was held Wednesday morning, March 31, in the spacious home of Mrs. Reginald Bradlee on Ledgewood road. The bright spring sunlight filling the rooms found a response in the cheerful melodies of Italian music which composed the colorful program.

The chairman, Mrs. Sophia H. Gardner, gave an excellent survey, clear and comprehensive, of the development of Italian music, mentioning its chief characteristics and the different schools. Following this the Fortnighty Glee Club, directed by Mary Ranton Witham, sang two Medieaval church numbers by Palestrina, "Adoramus Te Christe" and "O Bone Jesu." A particularly pleasing impression was made by Madame Marie Di Pesa, soprano, of Boston who illustrated the work of the early masters by singing from the 16th and 17th century songs of Falconieri, Cavalli and Durante. These were first explained by Mrs. Witham who accompanied her. Two Sonatas, Pastorale and Capriccio, by Scarlatti-Tansig were brilliantly executed with extraordinary delicacy and facility of technique by Miss Catherine Carver. Mrs. Witham next described three modern works which Madame Di Pesa rendered skillfully and artistically,—an Aria from the opera "Debora e Jacle" by Pizzetti, a work of Castelnuovo-Tedesco, and a lovely bell song of the Borga Country. Compositions by Boccherini, Grazioli, and Pergolesi for violin were nicely played by Jane Hanson, Marion Wright, contralto, of the Glee Club, then sang Tosti's appealing "Mattinata" and Di Capua's "O Sole Mio."

For her final group Madame Di Pesa appeared in a most attractive costume, a copy of that worn by Lucia in "I Promessi Sposi" by Manzoni, and with a festive gaiety sang four folk-songs—a Bridal Song (which resembled "London Bridge is Falling Down") from the valley of Aosta, a Pastorale from Tuscany, Traccar from Sardinia, and Tarantella (arranged by Sadero) accompanying herself with tambourine. In charming manner she gave a delightful interpretation of her native music and deserved the hearty applause that closed her performance.

Accompaniments for the other numbers on the program were most ably played by Lucy Wilcox, accompanist of the Glee Club. Coffee was served and all dispersed feeling refreshed by these tuneful airs from Italy, the inspiration for many later songs, given us by such capable and generous artists.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS NOTES

Coach Wendell D. Mansfield and Assistant Coach Edward Bartlett have their football hopefuls out for spring practice which accomplished so much last year. Almost all of the spring practice period is devoted to fundamentals with especial emphasis laid upon the all important blocking. Co-captain "Pete" Sibley is being kept on the sidelines with a broken jaw, the result of a fall in the gymnasium, but will be ready for the fall campaign.

The baseball candidates are spending their spare time praying for warmer weather. R. V. Hayward of the high school faculty, former Wesleyan ball tosser, is handling the nine until spring football practice is over. "Ray" has been head baseball coach in his own right and does an excellent job as "stand-in" for Coach Mansfield.

Coach Thomas Maynard, towering ex-Dartmouth high jumper, will soon issue a call for track candidates, and meets have been arranged with Belmont, Watertown, Arlington and Exeter seconds. The local track and field men will also participate in the Newton State meet, Middlesex Inter-School Inter-Class meet and the Harvard Interschoastics.

Many high school enthusiasts are included among those who are receiving instruction in tennis three mornings a week in the gymnasium from Park Commissioner William S. Packer and Miss Helen Boehm of Malden, one of the widely known Boehm twins who used to be the nemises of Winchester High girl tennis players some years ago. The youngsters practise at high school Wednesday and Friday mornings from 7 to 8 a. m., and on Saturdays from 8 a. m. to 12 o'clock.

Miss Rosamond Young, instructor of Physical Education and coach of girls, has arranged a class in horsemanship for high school girls at a nearby riding school. Considerable interest has been shown and 20 girls have already signed up for the lessons, with more expected to join the class.

"Spice," Not Tree Name

"Spice" is not a tree name. It is a classification name used to describe one or more of a group of aromatic substances. Just as the word "vegetable" and "grain" are names of classifications, describing one or a number of things in a special class.

Cause of Tides

The tide ebbs and flows twice in each one minute due to the attraction of sun and moon (the tide-raising force of the latter being three times that of the former) acting unequally on the waters in different parts of the earth, thus disturbing their equilibrium.

"Unreality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, April 4.

The Golden Text is: "Surely God will not hear vanity, neither will the Almighty regard it" (Job 35:13).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity; . . . then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father" (Matthew 13:41, 43).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The inharmonious and self-destructive never touch the harmonious and self-existent. These opposite qualities are the tares and wheat, which never really mingle, though to mortal sight they grow side by side, until the harvest then. Science separates the wheat from the tares, through the realization of God as ever present and of man as reflecting the divine likeness" (p. 300).

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

Six members were absent from the meeting of April 1.

Not for many weeks previously has Luther Puffer attended one of the home club meetings, though in the meantime we have heard from him as a visitor with nearby clubs. Let us hope that business cares will allow his "at-homes" to be more frequent in the future.

Parker Holbrook has been seen about town on various recent occasions. It is probable that he will renew his attendance at our meetings very shortly.

In consulting, recently, the older records of this club the scribe uncovered the information that five 100 per cent meetings were registered in March, 1928. And then came the depression.

President "Charlie's" unexpected resignation inevitably suggests that it is in order to bring new members to the club. The classification committee has been giving attention to this matter and a bit of activity on the part of individual members should result in maintaining our membership at its proper numerical level. It will be highly appropriate if we can announce at our tenth anniversary celebration that this achievement is in sight.

Again through the courtesy of Edmund Sanderson we have been enabled to hear, during the after-dinner period, an address of more than ordinary significance. The speaker was Dr. Nelson, representing the Department of Health of this Commonwealth. His topic was "Social Hygiene and It's Control." This is a subject concerning which there is a vast amount of misapprehension. Dr. Nelson, in readily understandable language, points the way to reduce certain pathological menaces to the vanishing point. We hope that his message will obtain the wide circulation which it deserves.

In all probability our next meeting on April 8, will be the last at which President "Charlie" makes regular appearance before leaving town to assume his new duties. We believe that every one of our members who is physically able to do so will be present to give him a parting word of cheer. "Charlie" has worked long and faithfully for Rotary and for this club. We shall not withhold our appreciation for his services. Remember April 8.

Percentage of attendance, March 25—93.75 per cent.

Average attendance for March, 1937—92.19 per cent.

Carl's own contribution to the program was a pianologue, "What Happened to McCarthy," done in the best Moore manner, and his introductions added to the effectiveness of his fellow artists.

Especially well done was his introduction of the youthful McNamara brothers, "Billy" and "Palsie," his running fire of comments keeping the youngsters relaxed and very much at ease.

"Billy" and "Palsie," aged eight and six years, respectively, were pretty much the hit of the show, their singing and dancing being exceptionally finished for such young performers. Both were turned out in white linen belted jackets, black bow ties and trousers, and were attractive kiddies who quickly won their way into the hearts of the audience. "Billy's" song was "Pennies from Heaven" and "Palsie's," "Plenty of Money and You." Their cakewalk was very well done.

The Lovejoy Sisters, two sprightly young ladies, appeared three times upon the bill, dancing, singing and clowning, each time in different costumes. In their final appearance one of the girls gave an excellent impersonation of Edna May Oliver while her sister appeared as "Beau Brummell."

Those who like cowboy songs and guitars enjoyed George and Juanita, a boy and blonde girlie, who sang, yodelled and strummed two big guitars in a finished manner. A favorite radio team, there were doubtless many in the hall who welcomed the opportunity to see the owners of the voices they had so often heard over the Yankee Network.

No dancer to show here in some time gave greater pleasure than "Bobby" Davis, diminutive colored boy, who proved a master of rhythm and such dancing styles as tap, clog, eccentric and accrobatic. His expressive countenance added to his stepping and despite a second appearance on the bill the audience hardly got enough of his educated feet.

Rounding out the bill was Jack Herbert & Co., a chubby comedian and statuesque brunette, the latter making an excellent foil for the antics of her partner. The globular Herbert convulsed the audience with a laughing monologue in street attire and added to the mirth upon his second appearance, clad in kilties and wearing an enormous Scotch "tam." The exploding of a battered cornet as he started a solo selection and two handstands, one with and without an anchoring hand for the "kilties" were features of the bill's funniest act.

The orchestra played for most of the acts, adding to their effectiveness, and Van D. Sheldon, representative of the Yankee Network was on hand to personally supervise the show, which ran smoothly, with no waits between the acts.

Following the clearing of the hall by Janitor "Ed" Callahan, dancing was enjoyed until 1 o'clock Tuesday morning, Mr. Rhode and his band proving both generous and versatile with their music. Randall catered.

Chief William H. Rogers served as floor marshall for the dancing with Lieut. Edward W. O'Connell and Sergts. Thomas F. Cassidy, Charles J. Harrold and Joseph Derro as assistants. Patrolman James P. Donahey was floor director, Patrolman John J. Dolan, chief aid, and the aids were Patrolmen John J. Hogan, John J. Regan, Henry P. Dempsey, James E. Farrell, Clarence P. Dunbury, Archie T. O'Connell, William P. Cassidy, James F. Noonan, John J. Murray, Winthrop A. Palmer, D. Irving Reardon, Joseph J. Quigley and John H. Boyle.

Officers of the Police Association include Sergt. Joseph Derro, president; Patrolman Archie T. O'Connell, vice president; Patrolman John J. Dolan, secretary; Patrolman D. Irving Reardon, treasurer; and Patrolman James P. Donaghey, Sergt. Charles J. Harold and Lieut. Edward W. O'Connell, trustees. Patrolman Donaghey and Patrolman Dolan acted as chairman and treasurer respectively of the committee in charge of arrangements for the ball.

While the regular members of the Police Department were enjoying themselves at the hall the town was being patrolled by special officers assisted by two members of the State Constabulary from the Reading Barracks.

Officer Edmund Rondina was in charge of Headquarters with Officers William Callahan and Patrick Toland, in the square. Officer Frank Zaffina was at the town hall, with Officer John Kline on the west side, Officer Michael J. Foley, at Symmes Corner, and Officer Robert Elliott, on the plains. State Trooper Bourleau was in Patrol 51 with Officer James Halwartz and State Trooper Thomas was in 52 with Officer William Richardson.

MISS COIT STUDYING FLYING FIELDS

Elisabeth Coit, architect, of New York, and formerly of Winchester is this week completing her survey of the architecture of flying fields of the Atlantic Coast States which she began in the Christmas vacation. Then she studied the fields from New York to Key West, going and returning by different routes. The present trip will similarly cover the fields from New York to the Canadian border.

She uses a Talor Cub, one of the smallest planes made, and a type very little used up to the present time in cross country flying.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR EXHIBIT

An interesting exhibit of posters made of clippings from the Christian Science Monitor was held the week of March 22 in the Locatelli Building. The exhibit was given to introduce to the public the educational value of this daily International newspaper.

Attention was called to a new section for Boston and New England which has been recently added to the paper.

A window display of 18 of the colorful Wednesday magazine sections of the Monitor attracted much attention.

In another window a poster illustrated the gathering of news from every country in the world by the more than 800 correspondents of the Monitor, and gave the daily circulation as over 143,000.

The posters in the room and the full pages of Monitor shown proved this was a paper which could be brought into the home and safely placed into the hands of the children as well as the adults, no sensational or criminal articles appearing in it.

The Mapparium, a globe room in the Christian Science Publishing Society in Boston, was shown in a water color poster and attention was called to the fact that many large groups of school children visited this room daily with their teachers to get a perfect prospectus of the positions of all the earth's countries.

The exhibit attracted many visitors who expressed their appreciation for the information given them and the opportunity to subscribe to the special Coronation Issue of April 22.

PARISH PLAYERS TO PRESENT "DULCY" APRIL 16

"Dulcy," a farce in three acts by George Kaufman and Marc Connelly, will be presented at "The Little Theatre Beneath a Spire," First Congregational Church, Friday, April 16, at 8 p. m.

This farce is a classic of the American stage. The late Professor Baker, of Harvard, founder of the famous "47 Workshop" at Radcliffe College, called "Dulcy" "the perfect farce."

It is a gay, effervescent comedy of young married life. "Dulcy" is one of those women who wants to be her husband's "little helper," and keeps the audience in uproarious laughter with her naivete during the many complicated situations she causes in the course of one day.

WINCHESTER REPRESENTED IN BOSTON BOWLING TOURNEY

Winchester was well represented in the big Bowling Tournament, conducted this week at the Huntington Alleys in Boston by the Boston American.

Pike, Doherty and Osborne rolled in the singles matches and Miss Bernice Drisko of the Edison office competed in mixed doubles.

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING

By Alfred A. Fraser, Wellesley

Seed new lawns. Weeds pull easily in the spring. Fill holes with new soil and seed, roll lightly and water. Use ony grass seed having a high percentage of Bent, Kentucky Blue, Poa Trivialis or Chewings Fescue for a permanent lawn. Feed with fertilizer having a high nitrogen content—as 8-6-2.

Cut dead wood from roses, and top dress with bone meal or sheep manure.

Early spring is a good time to plant evergreens as they have a chance to get established before warm weather.

Strawberries should be uncovered for the season and fed with bone meal.

Flower and vegetable seeds with tested germination percentages on the packages are available at good hardware stores. Few flower seeds germinate over 90 per cent under best conditions—some only 55 per cent. Treating the seed or soil with fungicides will reduce "damping off loss," especially in wet places.

The chemical status of your soil affects what it produces. Have it tested—many hardware stores gladly do it.

Plan on using a few novelties in your flower garden. Petunias, Black Prince, Celestial Rose, Unwin hybrid Dahlias, Zinnia Fantasy and Scabiosa flowered—are only a few. The early improved Heavenly Blue morning glories are good—flower best in a poor soil.

An arbor, a sundial—are just two bits of garden furniture that add a lot to and make your garden more interesting.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"Green Light," comes to the Granada Theatre in Malden today for a run of seven days. With Errol Flynn, Anita Louise, Margaret Lindsay, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Walter Abel and Henry O'Neill as the stars the screen version of the widely read novel retains the stirring heroism, sacrifice and love which captivated readers in book form. Errol Flynn is cast as a young surgeon who sacrifices his professional career to cover the mistake of an older doctor. In shouldering the blame he incurs the hatred of Anita Louise whose mother's death was caused by the fatal mistake. To justify his life, and to prove to Miss Louise, whom he loves, that he is trying to make up for the tragic mistake she believes he has made, he goes to an obscure laboratory in the Rocky Mountains and risks his life trying to discover a vaccine that will prevent the dreaded spotted fever. "Green Light" has been produced with unusual great care and lavishness and ranks high on the list of the season's best pictures.

"Ready, Willing and Able," with Ruby Keeler, Lee Dixon, Ross Alexander, Allan Jenkins, Louise Fazenda, Winifred Shaw, Addison Richards and Carole Hughes as the stars, is the second attraction on the bill opening today. Lee Dixon and Ross Alexander are cast as song writers who want to stage a Broadway show. Seeking an English star in order to get backing they pick up Ruby Keeler by mistake. She has the same name as the star they are seeking and decides to go through with it for a lark. Then the real star, Winifred Shaw, appears and through Miss Keeler's efforts she joins the show which turns out to be a hit.

Mr. John Davy, well known auxiliary clerk at the Winchester Post Office for the past seven years, was appointed a regular clerk at the office Thursday, April 1.

Dr. J. Churchill Hindes spent last week-end visiting friends in Vergennes, Vt.

Bonnell Motors on north Main street, local dealers in Ford and Lincoln Zephyr cars, are showing some particularly interesting models at their show rooms this week. In addition to the regular sedan and two-door Zephyr models is one of the coupes, the first to be shown in Winchester. Included with several interesting Ford models is a sport touring car finished in tan leather. Buyers interested in these cars should visit the Bonnell company.

Among those registered at the Hotel New Weston, New York, this week were Miss Constance Clark and Miss Helen A. Hall of Summit avenue.

The retirement of Patrick Murphy, 70, of South Boston from the liquidating division of the customs service at the close of business Wednesday is of interest because of his former Winchester connection. Murphy, who entered the United States Army in 1886 enlisted from this town and is a brother of Edward Murphy, whom many will remember as a former gate tender in the center. He was honorably discharged with the rank of first sergeant in 1912, re-enlisting at the time of the World War and serving through its duration. He entered the customs service in 1920.

The alarm from Box 56 at 12.06 yesterday was for a grass fire on Cambridge street near Purrington's farm.

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk by Roy William Horn of 16 Bridge street and Mae Elizabeth Tainter of 8 Tufts street, Medford.

Messrs. Harris M. Richmond, Gurdon S. Mead and George B. Hayward have been appointed to represent the Middlesex Bar Association at the funeral of Mr. Edward C. Mason, prominent attorney, this afternoon at his late residence, 8 Grove street.

It would surely go hard with anyone whom the police ordered to walk the traffic line on upper Main street in an effort to prove his sobriety and ability to navigate safely. The line evidently was painted north and south along the road by two parties and the converging ends which are supposed to meet near Clark street fail to come together by several feet. It would be "just too bad" for anyone slightly "jangled" to try to walk that path which may be narrow, but which is surely far from straight.

One day service on developing and printing your films. Star Office.

Many will welcome the announcement that the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church is to hold their annual May breakfast this year in the church hall. Mrs. A. P. Welburn is in charge of arrangements and further more specific announcements will be forthcoming.

Under the provision of House Bill 1621, amending the statutes relating to bonds of certain town officers and to the appointment of temporary treasurers and certain other temporary officers in towns, town clerks shall be required to give bond within ten days of their election for the faithful performance of their duties in such sum as the Selectmen shall approve, failure to do so giving the Selectmen the right to declare the office vacant and to fill it in the manner prescribed by section 14 of chapter 41 of the General Laws.

House Bill 1621 also provides that every town treasurer shall give bond annually for the faithful performance of his duties in a form approved by the Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation, in such sum (not less than the amount fixed by the Commissioner) which the Selectmen (or Mayor or Aldermen) shall fix, and that if such bond is not posted within ten days after the treasurer's election, the Selectmen (Mayor or Aldermen) may declare the office vacant and may fill it according to the provisions of section 40 or 61A. The treasurer shall receive all monies of the town and pay all bills of the town or its authorized agents. No other person shall pay any bill of any department. The treasurer shall have the authority given an auditor by section 51 of the General Laws, and shall annually render a true account of all his receipts and disbursements with a report of his official acts.

The appointed temporary officer must file a bond within five days after his appointment or his apointment may be recinded and the Selectmen may appoint another.

House Bill 1621 amends section 13 of Chapter 60 of the General Laws to permit the Selectmen (or Mayor or Aldermen) to declare the office of collector of taxes vacant, and fill the vacancy as prescribed in section 40 or 61A of Chapter 41, in the event the elected collector does not give bond for the faithful performance of his duties before the commitment to him of any taxes of any year in a form approved by the Commissioner of Taxations and in such sum (not less than the amount approved by the Commissioner) as the Selectmen (or Mayor or Aldermen) shall fix. A copy of each such bond must be delivered to the Commissioner.

FISHERMAN'S SUNDAY APRIL 11

We are fortunate in having Dr. Chidley say "Yes," in no uncertain terms, to our request for another Fisherman's Sunday, and to invite us again to assist him in his morning service this coming Sunday. And we are especially pleased that he has selected the date for this get-together on the day set apart for the dedication of the memorial window which the children of Charles A. Lane are presenting to the Church.

"Charlie" was a most enthusiastic fisherman and a good, all around sportsman. It was greatly through his efforts that this unique service was started many years ago. In its inception only those who had enjoyed the pleasure of being a member of his annual fishing parties took part; but it was not long before "Charlie" made it a reunion for everybody interested in the great outdoor life, and especially for fishermen in general.

To those who have not received personal notices of this service, we wish to say it is only because their names have not been handed in to be included on the roll of good sports and lovers of outdoor life. Everybody is welcome. Join us next Sunday in the observance of this service. Come, whether you fish or not. Early replies indicate a large tournout.

Dr. Chidley always gives us a most inspiring talk and fills us with such enthusiasm for the coming open season that we can hardly wait for Sunday afternoon to get out the tackle and see that everything is in order.

Let us renew our old acquaintances and make new ones. This is the time and the place.

We shall soon be getting reports that "the ice is out," and it will be hard to hold some of us in check. Start the 1937 season in the right way, not only by meeting your old friends at the service and assisting "Charlie's" family in this fine tribute to his memory which is cherished by us all, but to encourage Dr. Chidley to keep up the good work and let him see by our presence that we appreciate his interest in us all.

Special seats will be reserved in the church so that we can all sit together. If you have not already signified your intention of being present, a telephone call to one of the undersigned will insure a seat being reserved for you, and will help us to complete arrangements satisfactory to all.

WINCHESTER ARCHITECT CHOSEN

Jerome Baily Foster, Winchester architect, has been selected as consulting architect for the big 165 acre development which is to be undertaken in Marblehead in the near future.

The development is to be known as "Marblehead Cliffs" and is to be located on the site of an old Indian village, ownership of which has changed hands but three times in the last 300 years. Nearly a mile of shore land fronting on Salem Harbor is included and there is an abundance of pine, birch and oak trees to add to the beauty of the site.

In commenting upon the appointment of Mr. Foster as consulting architect a Boston daily states that he has earned a unique position in the field of small house architecture. All the houses built in the new Marblehead development must receive his approval, to ensure a type of architecture throughout that will be harmonious.

WINCHESTER'S TAX RATE $28

Raise of 40c From Last Year's Figures

Chairman Harry T. Winn of the Board of Assessors on Wednesday morning announced that the town's tax rate for the current year will be $28 even, an increase of 40c over last year's rate of $27.60.

HOUSE BILL 1409 PERMITS ELECTION BY PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION

House Bill 1409, which has had two readings and may come up for its third the first of next week, provides that if ten per cent of the voters so petition, a city or town may decide by referendum whether they want to elect at large by proportional representation ("P. R."), one or more multi-membered bodies, the sizes of which are specified in the petition, or in the election of a single official by preferential voting ("P. V.")

With more than one candidate to be elected, in electing by "P. R." the voter marks his ballot for the number to be elected, in his own order of preference, using 1-2-3-4-5, etc., to denote this preference. The necessary quota to elect a candidate is placed at the minimum number of ballots considering the total cast and the number to be elected. Under a "P. V." count the single official to be elected must have a majority of the ballots.

Proponents of the system argue that under "P. R." and "P. V." voting ballots are not wasted and proper consideration is given minorities. Under the system now in vogue with three candidates running for one office it is possible to elect a candidate which an actual majority of voters do not want. Voting impetus will be lent by the fact that if one's first choice is defeated, his second choice will be counted, etc., and if one's first choice has enough votes to be elected without his vote, his vote will be counted for his second choice and so on.

The counting of votes is of course more complicated than under the present system and is to be done at a central point, in the presence of all candidates, press and public. Attention is called to the fact that House Bill 1409 is PERMISSIVE legislation. If passed, its provisions need not be adopted by cities and towns unless they so desire.

Grosvenor, who retires this year from the Fortnightly Presidency, was honored guest at a tea given by the Executive Board, on Tuesday, April 6, at the home of Mrs. Gordon Mann on Euclid avenue. MRS. EMMA B. CAMPBELL

The death of Mrs. Emma B. Campbell, which occurred early Wednesday morning at the Hotel Gralyn, Boston, came as the result of a long illness.

Mrs. Campbell was born in 1852, a native of Walden, N. Y. Her parents were Hester Wood and Cyrus Elmore Bowne. She had illustrious connections, being the sister of Samuel W. Bowne who, 50 years ago invented the formula for the afterward famous Scott & Bowne Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It was this brother, Samuel Bowne, who later also endowed the chemistry building of Syracuse University, and also made possible much of the building program of the Drew Theological Seminary in New York. Mrs. Campbell's grandfather, George Washington Wood, had the historical honor of having had at his christening, the presence of United States President, George Washington, for whom he was named. named.

Mrs. Campbell had many friends in Winchester. Up to the last few months, she had lived for the best part of 15 years in the home of her son, Maurice B. Tompkins. on Cabot street.

Mrs. Campbell truly represented womanhood at its best. She had a delightful personality, a brilliant mind, a fine sense of humor, together with qualities of heart and soul. She endeared herself to all.

Surviving Mrs. Campbell, in addition to her only son, Maurice B. Tompkins, are four grandchildren. They are Maurice, Jr., Russell, Samuel Bowne Tompkins, and Mrs. Virginia-Tompkins Walker; also one grandson, Samuel Walker.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon in the Short and Williamson Funeral Chapel, Boston, Dr. Howard Chidley of this town, officiating. Burial will be in Beacon, N. Y.

At the close of her life it could truly be said, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

TROUBLES OF A REPOSSESSOR

All he actually sustained was a stab in the arm with an ice-pick, but in addition a repossessor for a Boston furniture house got enough thrills during his visit to a local home Wednesday afternoon to more than repay him for the time and expense of his trip to Winchester.

According to the Police the repossessor went to a home on the Plains to replevin furniture for his firm. He made, according to his own admission, a peaceful entrance, but the goodwill was beat a hasty retreat when the lady of the house learned the business of her visitor.

Seizing a breadknife, the housewife went into action and when the repossessor succeeded in wresting the knife from her hand, she grabbed up an ice pick, with which she had somewhat better success, inflicting a wound in the agent's arm.

Meanwhile some one with a cooler head than either of the principals involved sent in a call for the Police and both Motorcycle Officer Winthrop Palmer and Patrolman John Murray were sent to the scene in a hurry.

They found upon their arrival that the housewife had left her dwelling. She was picked up at a nearby store and escorted to Headquarters where Officer Palmer rendered first aid service to her one-time guest.

What the next step in proceedings will be, the Police do not know. A complaint charging the housewife with assault was denied at the District Court.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Walker have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice Elizabeth Walker, to Mr. Robert Sterling George, son of Prof. and Mrs. Sidney G. George of Ithica, N. Y. Miss Walker is a senior at Cornell University in the College of Arts and Science, and is a member of Alpha Phi Sorority. Mr. George is studying at Cornell University in the College of Civil Engineering, and is a member of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity and the Rod and Bob Society.

America's foremost lecturer and raconteur, Alexander Woolcott, will be heard from Chicago over radio station WEEI Thursday evening at 7:30 in a special broadcast in behalf of "The Seeing Eye," it was announced by Charles E. Cotting, chairman of the Boston Committee of that organization. This group sponsored the meeting at Symphony Hall some weeks ago at which Mr. Woolcott spoke but his remarks at that time were not broadcast.

The Boston Committee's campaign for subscriptions to the work of "The Seeing Eye"—training blind persons in the use of guide-dogs—has resulted in contributions totaling $10,643 according to a report from John E. Toulmin, vice president of the First National Bank, who is serving as treasurer.

Noting a recent material improvement in the rate of contributions, Mr. Cotting expressed the hope that those interested in supporting the work of "The Seeing Eye" would not wait for individual solicitation, but would forward their checks directly to the treasurer.

INJURED AS CAR RAMMED BRIDGE

Two Billerica men were painfully injured at 1:30 last Saturday morning when the car in which they were riding west on Cross street struck the upright in the middle of the underpass at the Highlands railroad station.

The driver of the car, Joseph A. Piper of Park street, Billerica, told the police he became confused as he approached the bridge. The machine was badly damaged about the front and and was towed to the Super-Service garage.

Piper sustained cuts about the face and left hand and complained of injuries to his knees. His companion, George Hennessey of Boston road, Billerica, complained of injuries to his left leg and spine. Both men were treated by Dr. A. L. Maietta, being taken to his office by Fred McCormack of 21 Winchester place. The police notified the railroad of the damage done the bridge, and a repair crew was sent to make repairs.

Four scenes in which Robin Hood met Will Scarlet, secured the Curtal Friar for his band, and effected the marriage of Allan-a-Dale to his true love, proved to be interesting to the school audience.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

On a specified afternoon the sewing chairman of the Guild exhibits a sample layette similar to those sent to worthy cases throughout the year. Mrs. Jonathan Felt, the sewing chairman for this year has had beautiful work handed in during the winter and will show some of these pieces at the next meeting which will be Tuesday, April 13 at Lyceum Hall. Without the splendid co-operation of the one responsible for the sewing the main purpose of this group would be lost. Mrs. Felt and the members has worked untiringly and the results are worthy of her efforts.

Many of the members have also been doing creative work during their leisure hours and there are many paintings, quilts, garments, hand knit and collections worthy of being exhibited. These will also be on display and all members are asked to bring the work done by themselves or members of their families on this day. Those in charge of the afternoon have requested that all exhibits be at Lyceum Hall as early as possible.

This is guest day and each member may bring a guest to the meeting. Tea will be served.

Gardner Museum

All those who have not made reservations for the trip through the Gardner Museum are urged to do so. Transportation will be furnished all those desiring it and the machines will leave from the Church street side of Winchester Common at 1 o'clock. As previously announced there will be a guide to take the group through the Museum, a musical in the tapestry room and a tea served in the Dutch room.

The pourers at the lecture will be: Mrs. Allen Bausang, Mrs. J. Edward Downs, Mrs. Michael Hintlian and Mrs. Franklin Kimball.

The servers: Mrs. Warren Arnold, Mrs. Daniel Buckley, Mrs. Angelo W. Ghirardini, Mrs. Trygve Miller, Mrs. Louis M. Smith and Mrs. John A. Westcott.

WINCHESTER MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

Each year in our high school, there are Seniors of great promise, who lack financial means to continue their education. The Winchester Mothers' Association has, during the past four years, raised and awarded scholarships to outstanding boys and girls carefully chosen from this group.

The number of scholarships awarded depends upon the funds the Scholarship Committee is able to raise. In 1936 three scholarships, each of $150 were awarded. They helped a boy to go to Dartmouth, one to Tufts and a girl to Lowell Teacher's College. Former winners are doing excellent work at Bowdoin, Smith, Radcliffe, Yale, Wesleyan and Northeastern Law School.

Our experience has been that, if we can help these students through their freshman year, they can get College Scholarship to continue their courses.

The success and development of the winners of these scholarships is a matter of satisfaction and pride to all those who have contributed to this investment in the Youth of Winchester. Will you help us to continue this investment? Contributions will be most welcome. Checks may be sent to Mrs. Lester H. Armstrong, treasurer, 6 Mystic avenue, Winchester.

BETHANY NOTES

Despite the downpour of rain Tuesday, the Bethany luncheon was well attended and the consensus seemed to be: "I'm glad I came" as unexpected guests were in attendance—Dr. and Mrs. Arthur N. Ball of Northampton, (formerly of Alben street) and were the "kiddies" glad Myron accompanied his parents! Although Dr. Ball accepted the position of Superintendent at the State Hospital at Northampton about two years ago, eventually moving there with his family, they still have a warm spot in the hearts of the "Highlanders."

The committee who so ably planned the delightful luncheon consisted of: Mrs. George Porter, Mrs. W. F. Gurney, Mrs. John Morrow, Mrs. W. H. Stevenson, Mrs. John Robinson and Mrs. Wm. Bowles, Mrs. H. N. Josephson "pinch-hitting" for Mrs. Bowles—"and how!"

At the regular meeting which followed the luncheon, Mrs. L. J. Higgins, the president was able to "carry on"—her little sons having survived Mumps and Measles. We were all glad to have her back—perhaps we should say: "especially Mrs. Donald Richburg"—she being obliged to officiate during the absence of Mrs. Higgins.

Among the moneymaking projects discussed was a "Spry Demonstration," the proceeds to be used for a rubber covering for the cement floor in the kitchen where the committees take many steps preparing for dinners and luncheons — so as Spry "steps up" the cooking, the cooks step down on a comfortable rubber floor. Subsequently a committee was chosen to arrange a date for it —Mrs. Fogg averring—"we should have a Spry demonstration to keep the ladies spry."

Mrs. W. F. Gurney was appointed to arrange a date for another unique method they have on hand—or should we say "on foot" since it is to take the form of a tour to raise money.

The meeting adjourned after a very busy afternoon.

It looks as if the assembly hall at the Second Congregational Church woud be a busy place for some time. A picture show is to be given Friday evening, April 16—some very beautiful scenes to be shown, some in natural coloring.

Friday evening, April 9, the Cornerstone Class is to serve an oyster supper.

Friday, April 23, the Bethany Society is to hold their spring sale, afternoon and evening, with a supper in the evening.

WINTON CLUB

The April meeting of the Winton Cub was held Monday at the home of Mrs. Erastus Badger on Prospect street. There was much business to come before the club in the way of nominations and appointments to various committees. One important and arduous post, that of Chairman of the Hospital Linen Fund, held most capably by Mrs. Allen R. Cunningham for the past four ears, will be taken over by Mrs. T. Price Wilson. Mrs. Paul B. Elliott is to have charge of the annual luncheon to be held in May.

Another important appointment is that of Mrs. P. Stewart Newton as Chairman of the 1938 Cabaret. Mrs. Newton and her committee, Mrs. Loring Gleason, Mrs. Clinton Mason and Mrs. Kenneth Moffatt, are already making tentative plans and the Cabaret will probably be held the first week-end in February.

Specialty, Specialty

The words speciality, specialty should not be confounded; speciality is the state or quality of being special; specialty is an employment to which one is specially devoted, an article in which one specially deals, or the like.

BE KIND

Just two little words, but they mean so much!
A nod and a smile, a friendly touch,
A pleasant word of hope and cheer
Freeing some heart from doubt and fear:
A greeting card, a rose or two,
Making another's sky more blue,
Making another's sky more blue,
Giving a dog a loving pat,
Giving shelter and food to a homeless cat.
Joy and Peace we ourselves shall find,
By obeying those two little words,—Be Kind.

20TH BIRTHDAY OF GIRL SCOUTS IN WINCHESTER

The Girl Scouts of Winchester are planning a birthday celebration on Friday, April 16, to be held at the High School Auditorium at 7 o'clock. The Scouts and the members of the Council extend a cordial invitation to anyone who would be interested to attend.

The cast represents every troop. The orchestra is from Captain Symmes' troop, while the incidental music is under the direction of Mrs. Irving Jennings. Mrs. Robert Clark is the coach. Mrs. Fulton Brown and Mrs. Edwin Rooney have charge of the costumes. The ushers are from the troops of Captain Wilson and Captain Newman.

First class awards will be given by Commissioner Davis.

Miss Eugenia Parker, who was one of the first captains, and who has been in constant contact with Scouts ever since, will make the five year awards.

This rally is to celebrate not only the 20th anniversary of Scouts in Winchester, but also the 25th anniversary of Girl Scouts in America.

On May 18, 1917, the first council was formed with Mrs. Addison R. Pike, the first commissioner. Four troops were soon organized, and the work has expanded and continued with unflagging enthusiasm. Today there are 239 Girl Scouts, and 69 Brownies, the younger girls. They stand ready to help in emergencies, and to work for civic and community enterprises.

Troop Notes

On Friday evening, April 2, Troop 9, guided by Captain Parsons, gave a dance at the Church of the Epiphany, their regular meeting place. Music was furnished by Partridge's Orchestra. The chaperons were Mesdames Newton, Allen and Carrier. Prizes were won by Maxine Lybeck, Walter Howland, Cynthia Newton, Palmer Worthen, Natalie (Bunny) McLeod and Proctor Parker.

Troop 2, Captain Symmes — Four girls passed signalling and telegraphers: Helen Swanson, Barbara Hughes, Sally Sharon, Mildred Rogers.

Five high school girls accompanied by Captain Farnsworth and Captain Symmes went to the Ice Carnival last Saturday and sold Scout cookies: Dorothy Maraspin, Eleanor Greene, Louise Wild, Marion Neiley, Dorothy Klyce.

Troop 7, Captain Gunby—All girls are selling Scout cookies this week to raise money to send one of their members to camp. Also rehearsing a play to be given to their mothers before rally.

Pack 2, Mrs. Dodds—Final meeting. Awards were given perfect attendance: Virginia Walker, Margaret Jackson, Ann Harris, Jane Sharon, Sally Maraspin, Evelyn Kaknes.

Golden Bars—Ann Harris, Jennie Lou Elliott.

Golden Hands—Margaret Jackson, Virginia Walker, Suzanne Wolff, Muriel Watkins, Priscilla Hurd, Elizabeth Rutherford.

On Tuesday evening, April 6, at the Wyman School, Mrs. A. Sydney DeWolfe Herreshoff, regional skipper for Mariner Program, explained the formation and work of the Mariner Ship to council members and a group of older Girl Scouts.

This program is for girls between the ages of 14 and 18 and previous participation in Scouting is not a necessary requirement.

If enough girls show an interest in this program it will be considered for another year by the Winchester Council.

WINCHESTER REALTOR TELLS WHY YOU SHOULD OWN YOUR OWN HOME

Helen I. Fessenden, Winchester realtor whose office is on Common street and who has proved very successful in the local real estate field, contributed last week's article to the "Own Your Home" series sponsored by the Boston Transcript.

Addressed to the family man, her argument centers about the advantages that will come to his wife and children with a permanent home and the feeling of security such permanence provides. Listing the purely financial advantages of home ownership she touches upon the wear and tear to which household furnishing are subjected in frequent movings and the positive loss resulting from discarding certain furnishings which do not fit in the current home. Economically she believes there is no time like the present for purchasing a home. Prices are sure to be materially higher in her opinion.

The entire article is written from rather a different angle than the usual arguments for home ownership and has been favorably commented upon, not only by the editors for whom it was written but by many who have read it.

JUNIOR FORTNIGHTLY

On the 22nd of March, our last meeting, Mr. Ernest Dudley Chase spoke. He presented his recent film of "A Trip Through New England." The pictures were beautiful and many were recognized by the audience. It was senior night, and we were honored in having them with us. Mrs. Helen Sibley was solo violinist.

A group of three girls were selected for the nominating committee with Mercedes Speedie as chairman. So you see, we are beginning to think of the coming year.

Next Monday on April 12, Mrs. Florence G. Chisholm will give a talk on, "It's Time to Eat." She will give an interesting demonstration and ideas for serving light refreshments. As we are all interested in this subject, I think it will be most interesting.

MILLIONAIRES ENTER INTER-CITY LEAGUE

The Winchester Millionaires, who last year made a fine record in the independent baseball ranks, have entered the newly formed Inter-City Baseball League, the first meeting of which was held last Sunday at the home of "Bill" Dempsey in Malden.

Manager Paul Quigley represented the Millionaires at the meeting and tells the Star that the new league is to comprise an eight club circuit with teams recruited largely from players recently out of high and preparatory school. In addition to Winchester the roster includes the Devlin Club of Medford, Malden Twi, Revere Braves, Everett Olympics, Melrose Ramblers, Reading A. A. and the Merritt Club of Chelsea. Not more than half an hour will be necessary for the longest trip in the league and it is expected that a natural rivalry will develop.

The new league will get under way the week of May 10 and all ready Manager Quigley is looking ahead to his lineup which will be about the same as that which represented the Millionaires a year ago.

"Buster" Kendrick, "Artie" Johnson and big "Al" Barnard will do the hurling with "Rusty" Donaghey behind the bat, though the latter will have to wait the closing of the high school season before he will be available. "Slicker" Coss will play first, "Joe" Dineen, short and "Roddie" MacDonnell, third, with "Frankie" Provinzano expected to fill the keystone bag position as soon as he arrives home from Wilbraham Academy. "Albie" MacDonnell, "Red" Noble and "Sandy" MacKenzie are slated for the regular outfield berths, with "Tom" Donaghey, "Fat" MacDonnell and Manager Quigley ready for reserve duty.

The Millionaires are making their final drive for money for uniforms and will hold a whist on Tuesday evening, April 13, at 8 o'clock in Knights of Columbus Hall.

GAUDIOSO AND HAKANSON HIGH SCHOOL BASKET-BALL CAPTAINS

Rangy Libonio Gaudioso, whose work at center was the big feature of this year's Winchester High School basketball team, has been elected as the permanent captain of the quintet, a well earned reward for his excellent play throughout the season.

At the same time, Richard Hakanson, one of the most consistent members of this year's team, playing both guard and forward, was elected captain for the season of 1937-38.

TELEPHONE NUMBER 0029

Fire Chief David H. DeCourcy has asked the Star once again to request parents and others interested not to phone the Fire Station to learn whether or not school is to be in session. Tuesday morning 80 calls were received at the Central Station during the morning, 45 less than the last time the Star made mention of this practice, but still altogether too many to be received on telephones which should be kept as free as possible for messages which may need immediate attention. Many parents use the emergency fire line, refusing to tell the operator for what purpose, so that in the case of fire or accident many vitally important minutes might elapse before a connection could be made. This is the angle of the situation which concerns Chief DeCourcy and his men. They are not of course eager to answer upward of 100 telephone calls which do not concern them or their department, but apart from the unnecessary work involved and the strain on their patience, they do not want their telephones tied up so that some one in dire need of their services cannot reach them with as little delay as possible.

AND THERE YOU ARE

The federal government, in a surprise legal action believed unprecedented in this jurisdiction, yesterday requested dismissal of the suit of George P. Davis of Waltham challenging the constitutionality of the unemployment compensation tax provision of the social security act.

Arthur L. Murray, special assisant to the U. S. attorney in charge of the government's defence in the case, asked dismissal on the ground that the tax, having been paid, renders "the question involved in this suit, by reason of said payment, now moot."

The above is taken from yesterday's paper. It apparently is very plain. If the employer does not pay this tax he is subject to heavy fine and imprisonment. Having paid it, he has no business to object to it for the reason of having paid it. Social security is the bunk. I hire eight; you hire seven. I pay the tax; you pay none. Social security for whom?

ICE IS OUT OF MYSTIC

During the winter of 1936-37 Mystic Lake was not frozen anywhere near its entirety at any time. Some ice formed in the west cove and along the shore of the big lake, and on one occasion the upper lake was completely frozen, although not safe for ice sports. No record of a similar occurance has been found by the Star, although in 1932 the lake was not completely frozen over. The following table is made from records taken by the late Stephen S. Langley and gives the dates on which the ice went out of the lake:

BASEBALL PROTEST MEETING IN MELROSE

The efforts of the school authorities in Wakefield and Melrose to substitute for interscholastic baseball intra-mural ball at Wakefield and soft ball at Melrose have aroused considerable opposition, not only among the schoolboys themselves, but particularly among the alumni of both schools who are interested in the game.

In Wakefield the alumni offered to raise money to continue interscholastic ball and their protests have finally prevailed upon the school authorities to restore baseball as a varsity sport, at least on a modest scale.

At Monday evening's meeting of the Melrose City Council a large number of citizens appeared to protest the substitution of an intra-schools soft ball league for participation by Melrose High in interscholastic baseball. While the City Council cannot take specific action in the matter it did agree to recommend to the school authorities that baseball be restored to its former standing in Melrose.

Just what effect such a recommendation may have is problematical, but the school committees of both Wakefield and Melrose have undoubtedly learned that general interest in baseball cannot be entirely measured by attendance, or by gate receipts. As a matter of fact the Mystic Valley school authorities, including Wakefield and Melrose, were not especially interested in either of these factors when they instituted "player control" to "give the game back to the schoolboys."

Apparently the schoolboys themselves took the Mystic League headmasters seriously when they gave them back the game and as a consequence have been surprised and not a little put out to think that weak attendance has prompted the authorities to take away varsity baseball and substitute soft ball and intramural ball which is practically glorified "scrub." Somehow the boys don't seem to want the program outlined and one is led to believe that there are not a few folks in Wakefield and Melrose who share their views.

Whatever is done now, the Mystic Valley League, of which both Melrose and Wakefield were members, has suspended operations for the current year. The Principal of Wakefield High is quoted as stating that the circuit will be funioning again a year hence. Whether or not the league resumes operations, there are many who hope that every effort will be made to maintain a healthy interest in interscholastic baseball in the Mystic Valley.

OLD TOOLS AND LUMBER WEEK

To the Editor of the Star:

The young members of the Boy Scout troop sponsored by Winchester Post, American Legion, are anything, if not up-to-date. Hence their proclamation of an Old Tools and Lumber Week in Winchester, beginning next Monday. Inspiring their addition to the multitude of "Weeks" is a lamentable shortage of hand tools and material for the continuation of the practical handicraft work in which the troop specializes under the direction of Scoutmaster Fred M. Cameron.

It's an odd boy who does not take up a tool, destructively as well as constructively. For that matter it's an odd man who won't stop to look at a display of tools in one of the town's hardware store windows. And, we of the Legion get a heap of satisfaction out of the eager, intelligent way in which our young proteges respond to the woodcraft training course conducted in their troop headquarters.

The Post has contributed liberally to the setup of their workshop, an undertaking in which Comrade Franklin J. Lane has played a major part as a troop committeeman. Which brings me back to Old Tools and Lumber Week.

Cluttering cellars and garages of this town are hundreds of discarded tools and odd bits of lumber . . . hammers, chisels, saws, lathes and all of the wide variety of woodworking implements. There they have been for months and years, useless to their owners. But our young Scouts can and will make use of them if readers of the Winchester Star will only spare a few moments to telephone, or write to Scoutmaster Cameron, 135 Washington street, Win. 2213. A Boy Scout will gladly call and the donors may be assured of the Legion's gratitude as well as theirs.

WINCHESTER INSTITUTE

For those who braved the rain of Tuesday morning the reward was abundant in the interesting and stimulating material which the speakers at the morning session of the School of Public Health offered.

Miss Helen Peck, chief consultant in Public Health Nursing of the State Department, sketched briefly the history of medical work in the schools which began in Boston in 1894 with medical inspection by a physician. The original function of the school nurse was to prevent the spread of contagion—later it included physical examination to correct defects. Today we are told the school nurse should be concerned chiefly with spreading the knowledge of what constitutes good health to parents and teachers and to children, training them to know the essentials of good health.

For the work of the school nurse to be effective it must be co-ordinated with the local community program for health and it must receive the intelligent support of the parents. Miss Peck emphasized the value of keeping in touch with the school nurse in regard to your own child's welfare, the importance of a health committee of the P. T. A. and Mothers' Associations to work with the school nurse and the assistance which such a committee could give in carrying out the program of the school nurse.

The second speaker on the morning program was Miss Dorothea Nicoll, nutritionist of the State Department of Health. If anyone went to that meeting bored with the eternal task of feeding the family I am sure Miss Nicoll gave new zest and courage for the task. She presented her material so graphically and in such spirited fashion that her listeners felt they could cope with the most jaded appetite or satisfy economically the most voracious one. To be given teen age reasons why it is important to eat wisely is a help many mothers will often appreciate as well as the material to help in planning future meals which was supplied to everyone.

Afternoon Session

No public health program would be complete without a discussion of the control of communicable diseases, for we cannot have prevention of sickness unless the methods of prevention are understood. This subject was ably presented by Dr. Barrett Gilman, assistant director, Massachusetts State Board of Health, who substituted for Dr. Gaylord Anderson, who was unable to be present on account of a legislative hearing.

Methods of immunization, partial and complete, were described, as well as the results to be expected.

Dr. Joseph Garland, the second speaker of the afternoon, talked about the health of the pre-school child. He described three main cycles of growth in young people, the body mechanics, and the four points of emphasis in their health environment; protection of physical growth, insurance of normal nutrition, avoidance of communicable diseases, and habit training, and the inter-relation of these areas.

The evening session of the Winchester Institute School of Public Health was held at the High School Auditorium on April 6, following the annual meeting of the Winchester District Nursing Association.

The first speaker of the evening was Dr. Harold Chope, director of the Newton Health Department and instructor at the Harvard School of Public Health. He defined Public Health as "the science and art of preventing disease, prolonging life and promoting physical and mental efficiency through organized community effort." He pointed out that there are three aims of the public health movement; first, that of securing a good health environment for the community by providing a pure water supply and adequate inspection of dairies and by working towards satisfactory pure food laws and reasonable sanitation in housing regulations; second, that of disease prevention through immunology and the isolation and quarantine of communicable diseases; and third, health education, which consists in the promulgation of facts to prevent disease. There is a big time lap between the scientific discovery of the mastery of a disease and the application of the facts involved by the public. There is active need for a vigorous program of health education. Not only do children and adult laymen need to profit by health publicity in school, newspapers and radio, but public health officials should receive the specialized training in this subject which is offered by medical schools like Harvard and John Hopkins. Advertising, group education in class rooms or health institutes and individual contacts between public health officers and individuals are all desirable educational techniques—but often fail to reach those individuals most in need of health information.

The function of the Health Department is to create a demand for the private physician to satisfy. It should for instance, seek to create a demand in the community for immunization for diphtheria. The private physician should be the one to undertake the actual work of immunization, not the public health officials.

The Public Health Department must provide those services for the prevention of disease which the individual cannot provide for himself. Only so can the individual achieve Dr. Chope's ideal of health—"a condition of abounding physical, mental and emotional vigor which makes possible the leading of an effective, satisfying, and socially useful life."

Dr. Chope's talk was followed by a discussion of Winchester's Public Health Program given by Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell. He showed how vital a factor in our lives are the services of a Public Health Department which includes in its activities such duties as the supervision of milk supplies and water supplies, the control of conditions under which meat and fish may be displayed and sold, the licensing of barber shops, and the control of contagious diseases. Dr. Blaisdell explained the low rate of contagious diseases in Winchester by the strict observance of laws governing contagious diseases and by the unusually fine co-operation of the Winchester doctors with the Board of Health. Dental clinics, prenatal clinics, tuberculosis clinics and baby clinics are important factors, also, in keeping a high standard of health for Winchester.

Fish continues to be an excellent value. Eggs are a little higher, while butter prices have eased somewhat.

Increasing supplies and lower prices are anticipated for strawberries. Orange prices are rising, while grapefruit continues to be very reasonable.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, April 11. The Golden Text is: "The Lord hath redeemed Jacob, and ransomed him from the hand of him that was stronger than he" (Jeremiah 31:11).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power and of love, and of a sound mind. . . . Who hath saved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to his own purpose and grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus before the world began" (II Timothy 1:7, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The evidence of the physical senses often reverses the real Science of being, and so creates a reign of discord, assigning seeming power to sin, sickness, and death; but the great facts of Life, rightly understood, defeat this triad of errors, contradict their false witnesses, and reveal the kingdom of heaven, the actual reign of harmony on earth" (p. 122).

The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society will be held at the home of Mrs. William Nutting, Garfield avenue, Thursday afternoon at 2:30.

STEWARDSHIP PROGRAM AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The first meeting of the Stewardship program which is being conducted this month was held at the First Baptist Church Wednesday evening, April 7.

Supper was served at 6.30 p. m. to a large number of church members and friends. Music was furnished by a trio of young people, consisting of Althea Perkins, cellist; Helen Swanson, violinist; and Clifford Macdonald, pianist. Mr. Avard Walker led the group in the singing of old familiar songs. Rev. R. Mitchell Rushton, minister of the church, presided. Mrs. John J. Winchester represented the Missionary Committee of the church and asked the co-operation of all in this great work.

Mr. Nathan R. Chapin, chairman of the finance committee, gave a comprehensive statement concerning the financial accomplishments of the year. He emphasized the fact that the financial status of the church is most encouraging and that the mortgage on the building is being steadily reduced.

Dr. Harold Major, one of Boston's foremost preachers and after dinner speakers delivered a most challenging and inspiring address on, "The Stewardship of Life." Dr. Major centered his message around the fact that the only permanent investment in life was a person's contribution to God's work.

The next Stewardship meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 14. It will be organization night, when every organization will be represented. Mrs. Warren Butler of Cliftondale, outstanding in the field of Stewardship will be the speaker of the evening.

Yesterday afternoon shortly after 12:30 a girl was accosted on Highland avenue by a motorist, who first asked the way to Lebanon street and then tried to get the child to enter the car with him. The little girl ran to a home on Appalachian road, from which the Police were notified. The number of the car was secured, but upon investigation proved to have been incorrectly taken.

Mrs. Charles J. Johnson of Wilson street left this morning with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alden A. Goldsmith of Reading, for Bristol, Pa., where she will visit for a week. Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith (Jennie Johnson) will go on to Washington.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

While going through the center yesterday forenoon a Sterling 5-ton truck loaded with sand lost its left rear wheel on the bridge over the river near the Parkway when its driver Frank J. Rooney of 12 Spring court, Woburn, swung the truck sharply to avoid striking the car of unknown woman who was backing out of a parking place at the Locatelli Building. The wheel crashed into and damaged another parked car, a Buick sedan, owned by Arthur Black of 26 Everett avenue. No one was injured. The truck, which is owned by the F. A. M. Sand & Gravel Co. of Woburn, was finally removed during the afternoon.

Mr. Harold F. Ambrose, who is director of publicity for the Postoffice Department in Washington, spent a few days this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ambrose of Vine street. He was in Boston as guest speaker at the dinner given in honor of the newly appointed Postmaster of Boston, Peter F. Tague, Monday evening at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

'Tis true as the gospel itself that some men join the most popular church in town with the thought that it will benefit their business or profession.

Even in a conservative community like Winchester "the best of men have their enemies."

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING

By Alfred A. Fraser, Wellesley

Finish any dormant spraying of trees or shrubs.

Rake your lawn with a stiff rake to remove litter and dead grass—this is better than burning. Seed and fertilize now using a high nitrogen fertilizer.

Sow seeds in cold frames now.

Have your garden soil tested—it may mean success or failure.

Burn all rose prunings.

Sow sweet pea seeds in well prepared ground. Also garden peas, especially smooth seeded varieties. Feed the latter with a fertilizer having plenty of phosphoric acid and potash—but without nitrogen.

Plan your flower garden now. You can get most seeds from your hardware dealer.

Fern and wild flower beds should have last year's rotted foliage left as a mulch.

Gladioli make colorful combinations with perennials or annuals. Bulbs are fairly inexpensive, too.

Early vegetables like beets, lettuce, radish, onions and parsley can be planted now. Put in the driest part of the garden.

Tent caterpillar nests should be burned or painted with creosote as soon as they appear.

Clean debris from delphinium, hollyhocks and peonies and spray with Bordeaux mixture as soon as they are leafed out.

Pre-treating of seeds with fungicides will protect the young seedling from disease—will help it grow.

This aims to be a critical review, not one filled exclusively with indiscriminate plans of praise, often characteristic of a local review of a local performance. But it is difficult not to be most laudatory about the Group Theatre's presentation of "Michael and Mary" last Saturday night. The audience of sustaining members that comfortably filled the high school auditorium thoroughly enjoyed the performance and audibly showed their appreciation. When every person in an audience remains for the 11.40 p. m. ending of a romantic drama, you may know that not only the author but the players themselves have something worthy of the public's time and attention.

The history of the Winchester Group Theatre is an interesting one. Four years ago an enthusiastic group of "little theatre" devotees believed that a theatrical enterprise, one that would draw from the best local talent in church and club groups, would prosper and make its own unique contribution to community life. The first year was off to a good start with "The Swan," a satirical comedy of elegant settings and court costumes and with "Aren't We All?," a modern English comedy of manners. For the second year the Group threw their major efforts into a stunning production of "Poor Richard", done in authentic costumes of the 18th century. But their attempt to present a gangster comedy for the second play proved an anti-climax, to say the least. In this the third year of the Organization, "Accent on Youth," a sophisticated American comedy, gave the audience a taste of a different sort of play. And last Saturday "Michael and Mary," A. A. Milne's romantic drama, brought the season to a real climax, auguring well for future Group Theatre productions.

The play itself was a truly formidable undertaking. The four acts required four different sets, the construction and handling of which furnished a real challenge to any dramatic organization to say nothing of the Group's working in the cramped exits and behind-scene areas of the high school stage. The cast was a sizeable one, 15 in number, and the costumes and properties in the various scenes ranged from 1905 to the present day. To any one familiar with the problems of handling a large cast, period furniture and four sets, the 15 minute intermissions seemed miraculously short. To judge by the workers listed on the program, the Group Theatre is developing a veritable theatre workshop, with 40 or 50 people assisting with "Michael and Mary."

The sets, designed by George Hayden and built by Group Theatre members, are worthy of special comment. An alcove in the British Museum was first shown then an attic room, next a comfortable flat, and finally a sumptuous drawing room, each suited to the hero Michael's rise to fame. To George Hayden, Harry Goodwin, George Budd and their coworkers go our congratulations!

The story—well, you are probably familiar with it. Michael, an aspiring young author, played by Frank Owen, by chance meets down-and-out Mary Weston (Elizabeth Jacobs) in the British Museum. Touched by her genuine distress (her husband had walked out on her leaving her penniless), Michael gives her half his small capital. In the second act he has sold his first book and he and Mary, now deeply in love, decide to live "dangerously" for each other by ignoring husband No. 1 and getting married. In Act 3, 15 years later, husband No. 1 makes his embarassing return with blackmailing intent. When Michael orders him out, a scuffle and an ensuing heart attack leave Michael in the position of a man likely to be accused of murder. For the sake of their son David, now a boy away at school, Michael and Mary decide again to live "dangerously" for each other and for him. Michael's courageous and ingenious enactment of the story for the police—a clever bit of fiction—was one of the outstanding episodes in the entire play. And Mr. Owen was sincerely applauded for his able handling of the dialogue between Michael and an imaginary "stranger." David's confidences with his father, his own hasty marriage to Romo, the by-play of police, inspectors and sergeants and of a secretary rounds out the play to a delightful conclusion when Michael and Mary again declare their devotion.

Frank Owen as Michael did a masterly job. He is an actor who is the product of Winchester dramatics. He showed deep understanding of Michael's character and made the man admirable from the moment he found an opportunity to help and comfort forsaken Mary Weston. Every minute in his characterization of Michael we felt that Mr. Owen was Michael for he completely maintained the mastery of the role.

Mary in turn became a wistful, appealing figure in Elizabeth Jacob's hands. Mary's gradual unfolding from a shy, hurt girl into a self-respecting, assured and loving wife and mother, Miss Jacobs achieved with real effectiveness.

To the role of Violet Cunliffe, Norris Chevalier brought a fresh, youthful interpretation. She was quite charming in a softly feminine costume of 30 years ago. Winchester audiences can always be assured of a fine, sane performance on Clifford Cunningham's part. He played the Rev. Simon Rowe with great dignity and feeling. The comedy role of Mrs. Tullivant, a London boarding house keeper, was played with spirit and a generally consistent Cockney accent by Margery Burr.

Frederick Cole did convincingly the difficult and ungrateful part of stage villain Harry Price. No audience could ask for a better portrayal of a seemingly kind "uncle" who soon revealed himself as a weakling blackmailer and a deserter husband.

In his brief appearance as the doctor, William Speers did well, his make-up surely outstanding among many admirable ones. William Spaulding became the role of the inspector, his clear, firm enunciation always an asset.

No finer portrayal of David could be asked for than Van Cunningham's. He made the boy so young and earnest, so loyal and true to his parents, his wife and his ideals. He was at his best as be bantered with Miss Welby, a serious, devoted soul and Michael's secretary—a delicious bit cleverly acted by Carolyn Gilpatric. Janet Burns rounded out the list of principals as the sincere and youthful Romo, David's bride. Miss Burns' voice, rich and well trained, was a pleasure to hear.

We said that this aspired to be a critical review. Any production by amateurs may develop amateurish accidents. In "Michael and Mary" the failure of some one to untie the curtains before trying to open them for the second act, the lowering of the house lights before the actors were ready for the fourth act, the failure of the "black-out" in the last act to achieve total darkness because some one had turned on a balcony light—all were "Torchbearer-ish" touches that emphasized the difficulties amateurs may have in co-ordinating every factor that spells perfection.

We should have been glad if our Mary had at times shown more fire—more hysteria and distress in the first act, more fear of the cadaver in the third—but she could not have had more loving resonance in her voice in her adoration of Michael had she been a professional. A clearer enunciation would have helped Michael put across his lines better, but we would not have sacrificed his superb naturalness and ease and his versatility in showing in succession the vivacity of youth and the dignity of successful middle age. Sergeant Cuff let us down by faltering with his lines in the last act, but most of the minor parts were handled with a finish seldom achieved in so large a cast.

As for the play itself, Mr. Milne had a theme almost universal in character. It mattered little where the scenes were laid, the actors and their problems would be just as effective in an American setting as in an English. The play was too long by many lines and like many a sermon could have stopped at any of several points.

Mr. Arthur Holman of the faculty of the Leland Powers School of the Theatre coached the play, and there was every evidence that the cast profited vastly by his direction and care of the endless details of such a production.

One not acquainted with the problems of enlisting the time and coordinating the efforts of so many workers—men and women whose days are so full—cannot appreciate fully the task of Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Whitman, the general chairmen of the production. To them must deservedly go the credit of presenting one of the most successful of the six Group Theatre plays.

25 YEAR OLD FILM TO BE SHOWN AT THE UNIVERSITY

Originally released in 1912, "Queen Elizabeth," the first feature length motion picture ever made, will be presented at the University Theatre in Harvard Square as a Review Day attraction on Wednesday, April 14. Much interest is being shown in this unusual booking as it provides an excellent opportunity to note the progress made by the movie industry in the last 25 years. Just as this film was "tops" at the time of its first presentation, so is "The Gay Divorcee," also booked for next Wednesday, the ultimate in present day screen entertainment.

Acknowledged as the grandest actress of her day, Sarah Bernhardt plays the title role in "Queen Elizabeth." The supporting cast is headed by Lou Tellegen, another well-known name of yesteryear. As for the picture—it can best be described in the language of the advertisements appearing at the time of its release. Press agents called it "an immortal epic of human frailty and futility so artistically tinted and toned as to veritable and meritably be called a half mile of Rembrandt." Critics stated that "the germ of genius and the throb and sob of humanity thrilled throughout the film the photographic perfection of the production made it a series of moving paintings."

University patrons will have the privilege of viewing this notable film exactly as it was originally shown 25 years ago.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Winchester Boy Scouts will be standing at attention for inspection by a new district commissioner next week—Clayton A. Colcord of 23 Oneida road.

Mr. Colcord succeeds Francis McCall, who has resigned after two years of service because of Scout conflict with his business interests. The new commissioner has been for years an ardent supporter of the Boy Scout movements and takes up his duties with Scouting very definitely on the upgrade in the town.

The local Boy Scout financial campaign was waiting today for replies from several hundred prospects who had been solicited for subscriptions by mail because of inability of the volunteer workers to reach them in person. Not until Campaign Chairman George W. Franklin completes his checkup of the mailing list and the workers have completed their own assignments will the drive be declared officially closed.

District Chairman Franklin J. Lane of Winchester extended his deep, personal gratitude to the volunteer solicitors during the recent district meeting at Winchester Country Club. In this feeling he was joined heartily by Fellsland Council President Robert H. Sibley of Winchester. Medford District had gotten off to a good start last week in its financial campaign, it was announced. Stoneham's drive is virtually at a conclusion, while Woburn and Burlington were getting set to open their campaigns.

First week-end trip of the spring to Camp Lane in Burlington will be started tonight by Stag Patrol of the American Legion troop. Best of the troop patrols in general Scouting advancement, attendance and appearance, during March was the Stag and the camping trip which will end Sunday morning in time to return for church services is their award.

The practical handicraft work of the troop, which is featured by Scoutmaster Fred W. Cameron, was placed upon a much firmer basis last week by the installation of three work benches in a room of its headquarters.

From their headquarters in the First Congregational Church last Saturday, Troop 1 went on a hike to Camp Lane, passing an enjoyable day in roaming the woods and camping tests.

Tomorrow Scoutmaster Raymond Bohannon will take a group of Troop 7 boys from headquarters at the First Baptist church for a hike to an unannounced destination in the woods around Winchester. Tests will be held in outdoors cooking and knife and hatchet work.

Last Monday's meeting of the troop introduced an innovation in First Aid examinations. Candidates formed as a baseball team. Correct answers counted as hits on which they took a base, wrong answers were scored as strikeouts. Bandaging instruction followed.

Boys of all the troops will appear before the Board of Review next Monday night for advancement examinations.

Only a few reservations remain open for the June Jamboree in Washington, it was reported at the meeting of Executive Committee of Fellsland Council last night in Medford. Winchester leaders were asked to urge local Scouters to hasten their reservations for the New England Regional Meeting in Hotel Bradford, Boston, on April 15.

WASHINGTON AND HIGHLAND MOTHERS

Our next activity is Dad's night on April 12 at the Washington School. The program will commence at 8 o'clock, guest speaker will be Mr. Carl B. Wetherell, executive secretary of the Y. M. C. U., music will be furnished by some of our parents. Parents are invited to visit the classrooms of their children where they will be greeted by a mother hostess. We hope to see every dad and mother from both schools and feel sure you will enjoy Mr. Wetherell immensely, he is a most entertaining speaker.

You will be interested to hear our dance was a great success both financially and socially. There were no "wall flowers" and the children would probably have been amazed to see their parents cavorting with such zest in the Paul Jones.

Keep in mind the school bridge on May 4 and sign up your tables now. Last year the bridge was a huge success and we feel confident such success will be duplicated this year.

It is too bad more of our mothers did not attend the Winchester Institute held on April 6. The sessions were most interesting and instructive and should have received the support of all mothers. Who should be more interested in Public Health than a mother? If we know what the State and local Public Health Departments are trying to accomplish we will be more ready to cooperate and surely every mother wishes to protect her child from communicable diseases.

Don't forget the date, April 12, Dad's night.

G. Toye, P. D.

LIONS CLUB

Last Monday's meeting was very well attended and places the club in second place for attendance in our district. The few missing members certainly lost the opportunity of hearing Mr. Finley of the Hudson Bay Company give a most interesting talk and movies of the Far North.

The Hudson Bay Company is the oldest business institution on the American continent and enjoys a reputation second to none. It owns and operates 10 large department stores in Canada, 250 fur trading posts and two million acres of farm and pasture land. The company makes use of 86 steam and motor vessels, 600 dogs and 1200 canoes, etc.

The picture and lecture by Mr. Finley centered around the annual trip of their supply boat to Hudson Bay and the Arctic region. Leaving Montreal about the middle of July and returning in October to Halifax before the ice is solid brought out many interesting scenes and incidents. The boat makes 11,000 miles during the trip and calls at 21 posts some of which are within 800 miles of the North Pole. Although they have 17 tractors in use the dog sled is still most reliable. All their furs traded in are taken to London and average over six million pelts per year. They have 68,000 employees and the life of a native was explained in detail.

After hearing the story about the world renowned Hudson Bay blankets our president, Bob, has decided to stop making his "famous" blanket.

Lions! Don't miss our meetings or you will miss the many good things we have to offer in addition to our own local activities.

The "Bull's Eye"

The center of a target is called "bull's eye" because in the days of the real archers the targets on which they practiced were made from the hides of bulls. The mark in the center of the target at which the archers aimed was painted black. This having the appearance of an eye it naturally became known as the bull's eye.

DR. JOHN R. WALLACE
District Deputy Grand High Priest of Royal Arch Masons

OFFICIAL VISITATION OF RT. EX. JOHN R. WALLACE TO WINCHESTER ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER

Winchester Chapter of Royal Arch Masons will be honored by an official visitation by Right Excellent John R. Wallace on Thursday evening, April 22.

The Grand Chapter of Massachusetts has honored Winchester Chapter by the appointment of Dr. Wallace as District Deputy Grand High Priest. Dr. Wallace has always been prominent in Masonic circles in Winchester. On his grave repose a couple of empty tobacco tins. Emily Dickson buried in 1813 has on her grave one empty and one broken whiskey bottle which have been there for some time. Empty beer cans are everywhere, old shoes, cast-off clothing and junk have been tossed in and left where they fell while the collection contains a bed comforter and a parking sign, with a limit of 30 minutes.

This Salem street cemetery is the Revolutionary cemetery of the city dating back to 1690 and contains the bodies of numerous soldiers from New Hampshire killed at Bunker Hill, Governor John Brooks who lived at Symmes Corner, John LeBosquet a French Hugenot who also settled there in the 1600's building a house which many older residents remember. It is said that some of the Symmes family gravestones near the Salem street gate have vanished from the graves. The records of burials in this cemetery were destroyed by fire five years ago but the Historical Society has asked the trustees of the Medford cemeteries to take steps to have the graves recorded and has asked the Mayor to recommend an appropriation for doing this work.

A supper will be served at 6.30 p. m. to which all Royal Arch Masons are cordially invited. Kindly telephone Harris M. Parker, High Priest at Win. 0977 for supper reservations.

All Chapter Masons in Winchester are urged to attend this meeting. It is the last official visitation of the season and a large attendance is desired. Let us show our appreciation of the honor accorded to "Doc" and give him a real home coming.

WINCHESTER OPENS DIAMOND SEASON WITH LEXINGTON

Winchester High School opens its 1937 baseball campaign today when Coach Mansfield takes his inexperienced charges to Lexington for a Middlesex League game with Lexington High, which already has an interscholastic game with Wellesley under its belt.

Bad weather and lack of practice facilities in the gymnasium has handicapped the local boys this spring and with only two letter men available, the outlook for a winning season are not too rosy. Something of a line can be secured on the boys this afternoon, and Coach Mansfield may have to revise his opinion of some of his candidates after seeing them in action.

"Rusty" Donaghey, veteran backstop, will handle the catching assignment and Winchester has little to worry about in this department. "Bill" Smith, slick fielding first sacker, is the other letter man available, and either he or "Bucky" Harris will play the initial sack. The remainder of the infield will be Kennen at second, Rallo at third and Farley at short. Murdoch in left and Bairstow in center are the outfield posts settled with either "Carlie" Johnson or "Junie" Donaghey likely to play right.

"Tom" Kenton, Johnson or "Norm" Thomans, a newcomer, will get the pitching nod.

MRS. CATHERINE FALLON

Mrs. Catherine Fallon, wife of Thomas J. Fallon, died early Thursday morning, April 15, at her home, 11 Forest circle, after a lingering illness. She was 72 years old.

Mrs. Fallon was the daughter of Patrick and Johanna O'Connor. She was a native of County Kerry, Ireland, but came as a child to this country and for the past 62 years had been a resident of Winchester, being widely known and universally esteemed by older residents of the town. She was a member of the Ladies' Sodality of St. Mary's Church and on Thanksgiving Day, 1934, observed her golden wedding anniversary.

She leaves her husband, four daughters, Mrs. Edmund A. Goggin, Mrs. Christian W. Thompson, Mrs. Theresa Fallon, all of Winchester, and Mrs. William A. Baranuck of Clinton; two sons, Joseph E. Fallon and Thomas J. Fallon, Jr., both of this town; a sister, Mrs. William J. Fallon of Stoneham; a brother, Jeremiah O'Connor, living in County Kerry, Ireland; and three grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the late residence, with solemn requiem high mass at 10 o'clock in St. Mary's Church. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

DEAN—GUILD

Mrs. Jackson Guild of Winchester and Mr. Robert F. Guild of Newton announce the marriage of their daughter, Frances Gretchen Guild to Paul Dudley Dean, Jr., of Brookline. The ceremony took place Sunday, April 11, at the Church of Epiphany.

MRS. WILMOT WHITMAN

Mrs. Wilmot Whitman, mother of Mr. Warren C. Whitman of 30 Prospect street, passed away suddenly Monday evening in Abington. Services will be held at the family home, 62 West Chapel street, Abington this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

OLD WINCHESTER RESIDENTS BURIED IN MEDFORD

Winchester residents should be interested in the complaint of the Medford Historical Society about deplorable conditions in the colonial cemeteries in that city. The southern end of Winchester was for many years a part of Medford until this town was founded and the older families used the Salem street, Medford, burying grounds until about 1850. Such families as Symmes, Vinton, Brooks, Wyman and Tufts have numerous graves in this cemetery dating back to the 1700's previous to which this part of the town belonged to Charlestown where the early settlers were buried.

The Medford Historical Society charges that gravestones and markers have been knocked over by vandals and neglected until they are now grown over with grass. Others have been misplaced on the lots, and in some cases no effort has apparently been made to relocate them and they lay among a heap of broken stones and debris. In the supporting wall, can be seen several gravestones built into the wall when it was repaired and one of these reads John Symmes, who was a captain in the Revolutionary War and took a Medford Company to Saratoga although he lived in what is now Winchester. On his grave repose a couple of empty tobacco tins. Emily Dickson buried in 1813 has on her grave one empty and one broken whiskey bottle which have been there for some time. Empty beer cans are everywhere, old shoes, cast-off clothing and junk have been tossed in and left where they fell while the collection contains a bed comforter and a parking sign, with a limit of 30 minutes.

"WELKOM" TO TULIP TIME IN WINCHESTER!

In the Netherlands at the tulip festivals the opening ceremony is the scrubbing of the streets. The townsfolk turn out to make the pavements spotless—men in puff breeches (pofbroeken) and the women in tight bodices and full skirts and all in wooden shoes (klompen). And so—perhaps more figuratively than literally, but just as enthusiastically and thoroly, preparations are being made for the "Straat Kermis," En Ka's Dutch Street Fair, May the 8th.

Come to the Fair (you know, back of the Town Hall) where a bit of Holland — windmills, tulpis, Dutch youths and maidens—even the dike! will welcome you to a day and evening of jollity and joy.

Marionettes! Kay Snow's Marionettes! Local girls who have won fame beyond Winchester with their clever and amusing puppets. Three performances—2:30-3:15-4—15c for children—25c for adults.

"The Three Little Pigs"
"Hansel and Gretel"
"Rumpelstilskin"

Fayed Shah—the Crystal Gazer! the mysterious gentleman in turban and robes who will look into the future and tell you what it holds for you!

Supper! the most delightful, delectable, delovely, delicious supper any mouth-watering gourmet could desire — Chicken salad, Delmonico potatoes, rolls, coffee and oh boy! apple pie! No need to sing for your supper, this year, Tommy Tucker!

Street Dancing! Ken Reeve's 10-piece orchestra—Ken Reeves there in person! Six prize dances! Dancing from 8 p. m. to 12 p. m. 10c a dance. The perfect ending to a perfect day.

FIRE AT VINSON HOME

The home of former State Senator and Mrs. Thomas M. Vinson on High street was threatened by fire early Monday morning, the occupants being driven from the dwelling which was formerly known as the old Adams estate and which is one of the oldest houses in town, reported to have been built about 1812.

Mr. Vinson was awakened by the smell of smoke and going downstairs about 1 o'clock discovered a fire in a fireplace had set fire to the living room on the west side of the old original dwelling. He notified the Fire Department at 1:07 by telephone and Box 143 was put on at Headquarters, sending all the local apparatus to the scene, with Engine 2 and Ladder 2 of Arlington which answers that box on the mutual assistance hookup.

Upon arrival the men found that the fire had gotten a good start in the living room and had entered the partitions around the fireplace, eating its way up into the flooring of some unoccupied chambers above.

The damage was confined to two rooms, aside from the smoke, which was heavy and because of the old fashioned construction of the house hard to get rid of. The brick ends of the dwelling, however, prevented the actual fire from spreading more rapidly and the firemen succeeded in checking it with a loss estimated at about $500.

None of the many skating trophies won by Miss Maribel Vinson, American Ladies' Skating Champion, was endangered by the fire, according to the firemen, and the loss of household effects was also reported as comparatively slight.

HARLEY DENSMORE FISHER

Harley Densmore Fisher, for nearly 40 years an employee of the Boston & Maine Railroad, died Wednesday night, April 14, at his home, 29 Mystic avenue, after a short illness.

Mr. Fisher was the son of Francis B., and Martha (Densmore) Fisher, and was born 65 years ago in Lyndonville, Vt. As a young man he lived for a time in Bedford, later living in East Lexington before coming to make his home in Winchester 24 years ago.

Nearly 40 years ago he entered the employ of the Boston & Maine Railroad, and during most of his service had been a clerk in the railroad mail room. He was a member of Waterfield Lodge, I. O. O. F., of this town.

Mr. Fisher was twice married. His first wife, the former Grace Upton, died in 1906. On Oct. 31, 1913, he married Gertrude Carter who survives, with two sisters, Mrs. Mary Jane Ingalls of Brooklyn, N. Y. and Mrs. Myrtie Young of Lowell.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, April 17, at the late residence, with Rev. R. Mitchell Rushton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Interment will be in Munroe Cemetery, Lexington.

PARK BOARD HOLDS INVITATION TOURNEY

The Park Board's annual invitation tennis tournament for Winchester High School pupils will commence next week Wednesday, April 21, on the Palmer street courts and will include boys' and girls' singles and mixed doubles. Girls' play will start at 8.30 Wednesday morning, with the boys starting at 2 in the afternoon. As usual the results of the tournament will be used as a means of ranking the high school players for positions on the school teams to start the season.

The spring vacation tennis tournament is always an interesting event and this year there are plenty of entries with anything likely to happen.

Among the girls the top seeded are Dorothy Brunn, Frances Keyes and Priscilla Tapley, for Lois Ladd, because of illness is temporarily out of tennis. Others among the promising girls entered are Jean Roberts, Jane Norton, Peggy Greene, Nathalie White, Jeanne Drake, Ardella Tapley, Eleanor Greene, Sally Sharon and Barbara Hughes.

TAKING BRICKS BY TRUCK LOAD

Last Saturday forenoon shortly after 10 o'clock Patrolman John J. Dolan was sent to the yard of the Winchester Rock & Brick Co. at the north end of the town in response to a complaint that bricks were being stolen there.

Upon arrival he found the manager and a 19 year old Lynn boy, Carmen Chiaradonna, whom the former had found taking bricks from a dump at the rear of the company's plant.

The youth stated that he was working for Thomas Dinecco of 8 Normandy road, Lynn, who had already taken one load of bricks in a truck and was returning for another. When Dinecco returned with a Lynn truckman he admitted taking about 600 bricks which had been condemned and which, according to the manager of the plant, had no value.

The bricks, however, were marked with the company name and the manager did not want to run the risk of having them used on a possible construction job under the circumstances. Officer Dolan ordered the Lynn man to keep away from the Rock & Brick plant in the future.

Albert Horn of Bridge street, were married Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Church of the Epiphany by the rector, Rev. Dwight W. Hadley.

Miss Tainter was given in marriage by her father and had for her honor attendant Miss Mildred T. Scrannage of Medford. Miss Jean Alden, Miss Priscilla Alden, Miss Selma Weiss, all of Medford, and Mrs. Dorothy Cullen of Winchester were bridesmaids.

Mr. Horne had for his best man his brother, J. Albert Horn, Jr., and another brother, Ralph T. Horn headed the corps of ushers, who included Lewis H. Tainter of Temple, N. H.; James Canning and Kenneth Cullen, both of Winchester.

The bride wore a princess style gown of white mousseline de soie with a long lace veil and beaded coronet. Her flowers were white roses and lilies of the valley. The honor maid wore a gown of blue chiffon with a matching hat of chiffon and tulle, and carried roses with spring flowers.

The bridesmaids were gowned alike in pink chiffon with matching hats of chiffon and tulle, and carried pink roses and babies' breath.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church parish house, at which the parents of both the bride and bridegroom assisted in receiving. Upon their return from a honeymoon spent in New York City and Washington, Mr. Horn and his bride are to make their home in Winchester.

The bride is a graduate of Medford High School, class of 1929. Mr. Horn, a graduate of Winchester High School, is associated as brokerage clerk with the Boston firm of Moors & Cabot.

WINCHESTER AUXILIARY S. P. C. A.

Sunday, April 11 ushered in the 23rd annual observance of "Be Kind to Animals Week." The Friday preceding, the Winchester Auxiliary held its first food market at the center. The Wayside sales held previously had been at the home of the president, but it was felt that the interest throughout the town warranted a more central location.

From 10 in the morning until late afternoon, friends wandered through our market, stopping at the gift table, lingering in the necktie corner, pausing to chat with a friend over the coffee cup, and then turning to the food and candy table to satisfy the inner man.

The windows filled with plants found ready purchasers. The atmosphere throughout the day was one of cordial friendliness. New members from all sections of our town were secured showing plainly the breadth of our work.

Our members folded during the day a bolt of 100 yards of gauze into dressings for our Angell Animal Hospital, showing one of our principal activities.

Thanks are extended to friends for their help: to Mrs. G. Russell Mann, our efficient chairman; and to Mr. Locatelli for the use of his store.

Did you hear Uncle Ezra in his broadcast on Monday evening, "Be Kind to Animals Week" is being observed from coast to coast and then added "Give your pets an extra pat." Thank you Uncle Ezra, a good thought for the day.

SHUT-IN SOCIETY LECTURE

An illustrated lecture for the benefit of the Massachusetts branch of the Shut-In Society is to be given on Tuesday evening, April 27 in the auditorium of the Hotel Pioneer, 140 Clarendon street, Boston. "Turquoise Trails to New Mexico" is the subject of the lecture by Mr. Alton Hall Blackington, well known photographer and lecturer. Beautiful colored slides will be shown, depicting travels, over covered wagon trails, through the land of sage brush, colorful canyons, and moonlit prairies. Many Indian types, cliff dwellers, and Penetentes are among the subjects captured by the Blackington camera. Among points of interest reproduced in color are the famous Carlsbad Caverns. There will be something of interest to everyone in this program of unusual stories and unique pictures.

The object of the organization, which is to benefit from this presentation, is "To give cheer and comfort to chronic invalids who are members of the Society." The work of the Society is carried on, for the most part, by volunteers, who write letters, make calls, and help in many other ways.

Tickets may be secured from Miss Anstace E. Jenkinson, 23 Auburn street, Brookline. Telephone: Aspinwall 9706.

C. EARLE SYLVESTER WELL KNOWN HERE

C. Earle Sylvester, past Commander of Stoneham Post, A. L., died suddenly Sunday night, April 10, at his home in Stoneham, was widely known in Winchester, especially among music lovers, through his long association with local musical groups.

Mr. Sylvester, who was 44 and a native of Stoneham, sang for many years under J. Albert Wilson at the Church of the Epiphany when its choir of men and boys was consided one of the best of its kind in New England. He was a member of the choir's superb bass section, and later sang for some time at the First Congregational Church. He was one of the leading basses and a member of the board of directors of the Winchester Choral Society. At the time of his death he was a member of the choir and quartet of the First Congregational Church in Stoneham, and had sung as usual at the morning service on Sunday, being stricken with a heart attack while fixing his fire for the night.

Mr. Sylvester was a talented stage performer and sang principal comedy roles in the presentation of "The Fire Prince" and "Pirates of Penzance," staged by the Epiphany Choir shortly after the war. He was a graduate of Woburn High School, class of 1911, and was active in Columbian Lodge of Odd Fellows in Stoneham and in Evergreen Rebekah Lodge of that town.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Bertha G. Sylvester, a daughter; Miss Jessie Sylvester, and his mother, Mrs. L. W. Sylvester, all of Stoneham. Military funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon. Favorite hymns were sung by Kenneth McLeod, accompanied by J. Albert Wilson, both having been musical associates of the deceased for many years.

SPRING LUNCHEON

Church of the Epiphany

A busy year of the Church Service League of the Parish of the Epiphany is moving to its close in a series of pleasant events. The first of these is the spring luncheon bridge, which will take place at 1 o'clock, Tuesday, April 20, in the Parish House.

The League has declared this Tuesday a holiday from the usual work of that day, and has set it apart for play only, with competent committees to be Masters of the Revels.

Whether April on that particular date will shower or shine or capriciously do both, spring glow and color are promised for indoors by the chairman of the committee on decorations, Mrs. Thomas Freeburn.

More color will come in also by means of table prizes. These will show the hues of gay blossoms, but they will be of more durable stuff than "the flowers that bloom in the spring" and the guest at each table who wins them will find them still blooming for her in gray November. At the head of the committee on prizes is Mrs. William J. Tuttle.

The general chairman for the luncheon is Mrs. Torr Harmer with Mrs. Warren Jenney as co-chairman. Working with them are Mrs. Arthur Farrell, Mrs. Ralph Garner, Mrs. E. W. Ginn, Mrs. Frederick Hamerstrom, Mrs. Waldo Hart, Mrs. Donald Heath, Mrs. Herbert Kelley, Mrs. William Martens, Mrs. Paul Roberts, Mrs. J. Warren Shoemaker, Mrs. Alfred Sweet, Mrs. Clifford Towner and Mrs. Charles Werly. The menu which they have chosen to prepare and serve will have the thoughtful individuality which a hostess in her own home provides for her guests.

The sale of tickets and the arrangement of tables is in charge of Mrs. Dunbar Carpenter. It is expected that the parish hall will be filled to comfortable capacity.

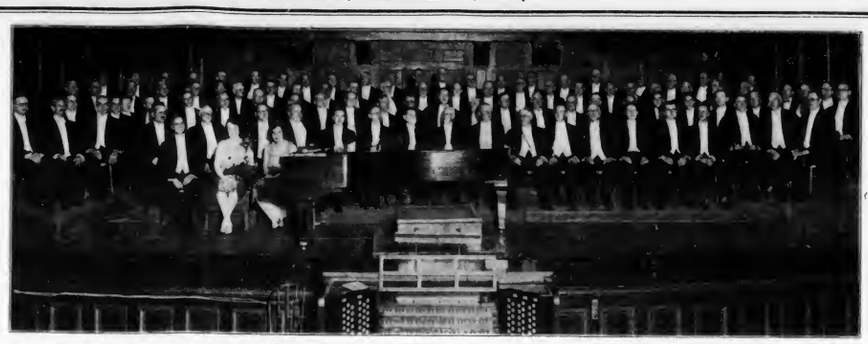

Young women of the parish will serve as waitresses, under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Booth. The sale of home-made candy is being arranged by Mrs. W. Mack Angas.

The general committee has added one last provision for the comfort of the bridge players. No one need forget that there is one more little trump still out and lurking to destroy her careful strategy; no one's thoughts need begin to wander a little anxiously to the question of menu for her own family dinner as her doughty opponents make the game a long and hard-fought field. The committee plays bridge and they know that painful mind, divided between making a grand slam and running along the pantry shelves to see what will quickly and triumphantly feed the family a half hour later. So the committee has added a special feature, a table of home-cooked food which will be on sale. This will be in charge of the Evening Branch of the Service League, Mrs. John Hanlon, chairman.

Mrs. Henry Sawyer, the head of the Service League, will be the hostess at the luncheon.

APOLLO CLUB OF BOSTON—FAMOUS MALE CHORUS HERE APRIL 23

The Apollo Club of Boston appearing in concert April 23 at 8 p. m. in the Parish Hall of the First Congregational Church is a male chorus of approximately 80 carefully trained, beautifully balanced voices. Among its membership are many of Boston's leading concert singers. The club was organized in 1871 and for 65 years has been an important factor in the musical life of Boston and New England. In that time it has had but three conductors, Messrs. B. J. Lang, Emil Mollenhauer, and Dr. Thompson Stone. Under this able leadership it has given over 300 concerts. Dr. Stone, its present conductor, is a nationally known figure in the world of music.

This concert, open to all, will afford music lovers of Winchester a wonderful opportunity to hear one of the finest male choruses in the country.

As the tickets are going rapidly it is urged that those who have not already purchased their tickets do so at once. The charge is only 50c per ticket and can be purchased at Parker & Lane's, P. H. Randall's, Hevey's Drug Store, F. H. Barnes or from Mrs. Mildred T. Spaulding, Mr. Clifford Cunningham, Dr. Milne Blanchard and Carl W. Wood.

New lot of billfolds 50c and $1 Star Office.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

This week-end, or, April 19, we "shove-off" on our 36th season. We are pleased to announce that "Dick" and "Peg" LaCroix are right on deck again. All of this week they have been polishin' the brass work, swabbin' decks and makin' things shipshape. We look forward to another banner year. "Bill" Locke and Ralph Carvill have made good use of their time this "open winter" and have done much mason and carpenter work which will be a pleasant surprise to the members as they look over the club.

The Snipe builders (9 in all) down at "Don" Simond's plant in Medford are making progress, and they assure us that by May 30, our harbor will be just swarming with sail boats. Wee see a sailing year in the offing.

The schoolboy fours will race again this spring on Mystic Lakes. We sincerely hope that Winchester will have a truly representative crew on the water soon. June, most likely, will be the time for this encounter and Winchester has just as fair a chance as any to win. A joint regatta with Medford Boat Club to which all the Eastern Division Clubs will be invited should form a background for the schoolboys.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

Tonight at 7 o'clock the Girl Scouts of Winchester are holding their annual rally. This year is of particular interest because it marks the 20th anniversary of Scouting in Winchester and 25th National anniversary. The celebration will take place in the high school auditorium, and will include, besides the usual Scout business, music and a pageant.

Camp and Cabin

The Camp and Cabin Committee of the Council will hold its first joint meeting with the representatives from the troops on Thursday, April 22 at the Cabin. After the meeting at 11, the girls will be the guests of the committee at an al fresco luncheon. Plans for the Day Camp this summer will be discussed as well as various ways of using the cabin through the months of May and June. The representatives who have been elected from the different troops are as follows:

HIGH SCHOOL PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLASSES IN INTERESTING DEMONSTRATION

The Physical Education classes of the Winchester High School presented an interesting and instructive demonstration of their regular routines in the school gymnasium last Friday evening. Despite the stormy weather there was a good sized audience of parents who found the work of the youngsters sufficiently entertaining to remain throughout the evening.

No attempt was made by the instructors, Wendell D. Mansfield and Rosamond Young, to stage an exhibition, choosing the most adept of their pupils to put on "acts" which would have been more finished and spectacular, but which hardly could have afforded the true cross section of what the Physical Education Department is trying to do for and to give the every day pupil in the ranks of the school.

Neither Miss Young nor Mr. Mansfield participated in the demonstration. The entire program was presented by the pupils, the various demonstrations being announced and led by the youngsters themselves. Betsy Jones acted as announcer for the girls' demonstrations and Herbert Wood for those of the boys.

The girls' numbers included Danish calesthenics by a freshman group, led by Louise Barr, marching and two folk dances, Danish and Irish. Their game demonstration was field hockey, led by Barbara Hickey, captain of last fall's eleven; and in the free sports group Miss Hickey, Dorothy Bruno, Martha Kimball and Louise Wild demonstrated badminton.

Gerald Ficociello led a group of boys in calesthenics and general developing exercises, and the boys' free sports demonstrations were volley ball and ping pong, the latter played by Kenneth Leghorn, David Howard, Lucius Smith and Merton Ober.

Demonstrations of varsity sports were given by the football squad, led by James Harris, last fall's captain; by the baseball squad, under Robert Donaghey; and the basketball team, led by Captain Libonio Gaudioso. Carl Johnson refereed an exciting basketball game which ended in a tie and which might well have gone on just a bit longer. The football demonstration undoubtedly opened somewhat the eyes of those parents who think that the gridiron game is just a glorified gang fight.

An unusual demonstration was that given by members of the ski club, which, believe it or not, has a membership in Winchester High of some 120. Few, except those who have had experience, realized the difficulty of the rudimentary evolutions attempted by the group, on skis, led by the Ski Club president, Kenneth Leghorn, who was introduced by the Girls' Ski Club chairman, Barbara Ekern. The ski group were all in costume, some of which would be worth describing if space permitted.

A very pleasing tap skit was danced by Marion Samuels, Ida Cucolo, Barbara Hayden, Ann Rivinius, Margaret Hall, Shirley Reynolds, Betty Dickson and Helen Farnsworth, dressed in "Mickey Mouse" costumes, complete with tails and enormous white gloves. Dorothy Buckley was the pianist for this group, and the pianist for the folk dancing was Anita Tucci.

Closing the exhibition, a group of boys gave a demonstration of apparatus work, specialty numbers including a front somersault without hands, by Richard Dana, a front somersault over box by Charles Carr, high bar exhibition by Kenneth Gurney, including back uprise, kip and sole circle; exhibition on the parallel rings by William Croughwell, whose exhibition was excellent despite the fact that he was handicapped by a very sore hand; and an exhibition on the parallel bars by Clement Thompson.

A feature of the apparatus work was the springboard high jumping contest, in which the winners were Richard O'Donahue for the taller boys and Charles Carr for the midgets. Both boys jumped the same height, and the red-headed Carr was warmly applauded as he equaled the leap of his much taller adversary. Herbert Wood closed the program with the wish that the parents had enjoyed the demonstration as much as the young people had in putting it on for them.

Can't get around it.. "It's Buick again!"

EVERY flock has to have its leader — and you'll find plenty of proof on the road this summer that Buick's the pace-maker of this year's crop of cars.

So if you'd rather feed dust than eat it, you'll take the wise step now, and make sure that when summer comes you're up front in the driver's seat of a Buick.

There's no getting around the power a Buick can pour into the job of getting you there quick and quiet and easy—its valve-in-head straight-eight engine gives you the soaring flight of an eagle when you want to cover ground.

It's got a steady, fretless, road-leveling gait that makes travel effortless as light chasing shadow, whether you're just loafing along or shooting for a record distance for the day.

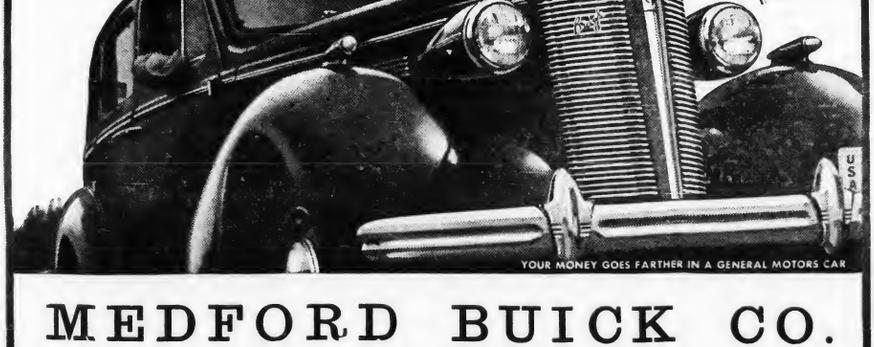

In this marvel car you ride in seats like easy chairs. You finger controls that seem to sense your next wish in advance. You've got brakes to halt its thunderbolt action and bring it gently down to rest with the smooth lightness of misting rain.

You've got a car that's a young man's fancy, light-footed, eager, adventurous — a car that's any man's pride so honest is it in the solid worth of every nut, strut, bolt and thread.

Why handicap yourself this summer when so plainly it's Buick again for value? You'll find this great straight eight easy to buy as the average run of sixes—and if you get your order in now you'll be leading the parade in a bellwether Buick when summer gets here.

LOWEST BUICK PRICES EVER! At today's prices, a big Buick valve-in-head straight eight costs little more than the average six outside the lowest price field! Compare delivered prices and learn how little more buys a bellwether Buick. GENERAL MOTORS TERMS TO SUIT YOUR LIKING

How times have changed! We see that they had a big forest fire on the Cape one afternoon this week. WPA workers called upon to assist in fighting the fire to save threatened property, quit at 5 p. m. Not much like the days of five or six years ago, when all autos in the fire district were stopped and their male occupants ordered out to assist the firefighters!

WE'RE ON OUR WAY

Just to get another pain in the neck, and to satisfy our curiosity as to what a little one-horse business like the Star is doing to help the country along in its exploration of the happy valley and more abundant life, we listed our tax checks paid the State and Federal governments thus far this year. They totaled up to the measly sum of $466.16. This is what it has cost us to do business in this great and glorious country for the first three months of 1937. In order to untangle ourselves from the myriad of columns, letters and instructions, we contributed about $45.00 for expert advise and assistance. In order to protect our workmen we have, since Jan. 1, paid $93.00 in compensation insurance. What we will pay by the end of the year, provided we are still above ground and able to totter along, God alone knows, but if anyone thinks it is a pleasant occupation to conduct a business such as we run they don't know half of it. The appeals and exhortations to come to the aid of our great and noble country, which clutter every mail and till our waste basket, are admittedly heart-rending as well as educational, but they utterly fail to move us. If, as we constantly hear reiterated by our Washington rulers, we are now well on our way towards this abundant life and its happy valley, we wonder who will be left to trundle the wheel-barrow when our shriveled carcass is carried along the golden pavement.

WINCHESTER GARDEN CLUB

The Winchester Garden Club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Kelley of Mystic Valley Parkway. The hostess served a luncheon dessert.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. John Wills, Mrs. Herbert T. West and Mrs. Fred Russell presented flower arrangements.

The arrangements were planned to show the possibilities of artistic arrangements with material obtainable from the garden and field at this season.

Mrs. West presented a beautiful mantle arrangement of forced shrubs in blue Mexican glass and an arrangement of peach blossoms in old Chinese pottery.

Mrs. Wills exhibited miniature arrangements of rock garden flowers in quaint little old Venician silver urns.

Mrs. Russell presented a most unusual attractive exhibit of skunk cabbage arranged in amber glass. The unshapely roots were covered with moss and the harmonious blend of the red purple of the opening blossom and the pale yellow green of the stems and the velvety moss brought exclamations of approval and delight.

It is most interesting to see how the most commonplace flowers and even weeds can be used to lend beauty to any home. No one should be without some attractive arrangement of vegetation in his home for Nature provides the material without the asking, and one only needs eyes to see and hands to pick them and arrange what grows around him.

Mrs. Reginald Robinson presented Miss Hattie Snow of the Snowflake Gardens, who spoke on. "What's New in the Garden."

JUNIOR HIGH MOTHERS' AFTERNOON

On Wednesday afternoon, April 7, the Parent-Teacher Association sponsored the third in the series of afternoon teas for mothers of pupils in the Junior High School. Mrs. Henry E. Moffette and Mrs. Henry E. Reeves were in charge of arrangements for the association and Miss Ruth Nivens, Domestic Science teacher directed the young ladies in her Junior High School class, who acted as hostesses. The afternoon proved to be the most successful yet attempted.

These teas have been arranged so that each mother might have an opportunity to meet the teachers of her child. Plans are now being made for the fourth and last tea this year, the date of which will be announced later.

FISHERMAN'S SUNDAY LARGELY ATTENDED

Window, Memorial to Charles A. Lane Unveiled

A congregation in excess of 900 persons attended the Fisherman's service at the First Congregational Church last Sunday morning, the occasion having a double significance for the 125 fishermen present in that it also witnessed the unveiling of a memorial window to Charles A. "Charlie" Lane, enthusiastic fisherman and founder of Fisherman's Sunday.

Seats for 90 fishermen were reserved at the front of the auditorium, but they proved insufficient and some 35 additional sportsmen were seated elsewhere in the church. There were many fishermen from out-of-town and some from outside New England. The honor of coming from the most distant point to attend the service went to Mr. M. C. Allen, an official of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who came on from New York City to be present. Mr. Jules Crandall, head of the Ashway Line Company, largest manufacturers of high grade fish lines in the country, came up from Providence, and Mr. Harold Severance, close friend of the late Mr. Lane, drove down from Brown's Camp at Kezar Lake in Maine, bringing with him one of "Charlie's" old guides, Mr. Leo Welles.

The pastor of the church, Rev. Howard J. Chidley, D.D., announced that the service was not a memorial to "Charlie" Lane, because such a service had already been held. He did, however, in the course of his sermon pay tribute to the founder of Fisherman's Sunday as a true lover of nature who never ceased his efforts to get others to share his pleasure in the out-of-doors. Dr. Chidley found it especially appropriate to observe Fisherman's Sunday, after a lapse of a year, upon the occasion of the unveiling of the Lane Memorial Window.

His sermon, on the subject, "Wilderness Ways," was a typical fisherman's talk, intimate, full of the tang of the out-of-doors and brimming with the joy of fishing camp and the benefits derived from the camaraderie of the campfire. Himself an ardent fisherman, Dr. Chidley well knows how to appeal to and hold the interest of his fellow sportsmen and his latest address was well in keeping with his outstanding efforts in years past.

Music for the service was sung by the Chancel Choir of the church, under the direction of J. Albert Wilson, who played during the offertory the organ chimes given to the church by Mr. Lane as a family memorial.

The choir sang "Who So Dwelleth Under the Defense of the Most High" by Martin, assisted by the children's choir, and without the children, "Christ Hath a Garden."

The window, given in Mr. Lane's memory by his daughter, Miss Constance Lane and his sons, Roland P. Lane and former Selectman Franklin J. Lane, was unveiled by Mr. Roland Lane's son, Charles L. Lane. Located on the north side aisle of the auditorium it is beautifully executed in blue, green and yellow glass to harmonize with the other windows of the church. It was designed and executed by Reynolds, Francis & Rohnstock of Boston, after suggestions of Dr. Chidley, and has as its title "Discipleship."

The top inset is of the three interwoven fishes which is a symbol of the ancient church, typifying the Trinity of Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

The upper panel represents Christ standing in a boat preaching to people on the shore, and below this large panel is the intertwined cross and anchor which is the symbol of Christianity.

In the lower panel Christ is depicted on the shore, calling to the fishermen who are in a boat offshore drawing their nets. This panel illustrates the new testament words of Jesus, "Follow Me and I Will Make You Fishers of Men."

In the border of the window is a representation of a man fishing, and opposite, the biblical whale which is the ancient church's symbol of immortality. Also are represented a creel, a rod and line, a net, a compass and one of "Charlie" Lane's flies, "The Yellow Montreal."

There is beauty, great dignity and imagination in the window and also delightful little touches of humor, such as fishes' heads, clever little human heads, some bearded and some of the gargoyle type, all artistically worked into the embellishment of the central theme. At the bottom are the words, "In Memory of Bessie L. Lane, 1862-1908; Annie S. Lane, 1867-1932; Charles A. Lane 1863-1932."

Arrangements for the Fisherman's Service were in charge of a committee, comprising Vincent Farnsworth, State Senator Harris S. Richardson and Charles A. Gleason. These three assisted the regular church ushers in seating the congregation, taking especial care of their brother fishermen.

LIONS CLUB

Fred is full of surprises! At this meeting he served a fine turkey dinner and it was said that he was coaxing the "kitty"—which did prove successful.

President "Bob" hustled through the business and after showing pictures of his sheep (where the blankets grow) he introduced our guest speaker, Wm. Ramsdell, Representative from this district to the Legislature.

Mr. Ramsdell gave a very fine concise story of General Court procedure. He described the various legislative bodies and their committees also the start and finish of a bill in all detail. It certainly was interesting and instructive. We feel quite sure he is going places and shall always have the rights of his constituents at heart.

John Coakley was missing but we can picture him resting comfortably among the palms or something in Havana.

The meeting of the 19th will be dispensed with as it happens to be a holiday.

MRS. MARGARET GILLIS JAKEMAN

Mrs. Margaret Gillis Jakeman, widow of William A. Jakeman, who had been making her home in Winchester with her daughter, Mrs. Roland Roberts, at 6 Seneca road, died Sunday morning in the Baker Memorial Hospital, Boston, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Jakeman was the daughter of Ronald and Flora (MacLeod) Gillis. She was born 57 years ago in Charlottetown, P. E. I., and before coming to make her home with her daughter in Winchester, had been for many years a resident of Chelsea. Her pleasing manner and willingness to serve endeared her to a wide circle of friends to whom her untimely passing brought genuine regret.

Surviving, besides Mrs. Roberts, is another daughter, Mrs. Francis J. Hughes, of this town; also two sisters, Mrs. Charles Stevens of Arlington and Mrs. Jane Armour of Boston, and a granddaughter, Judith Roberts.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the late residence with Rev. George A. Butters, pastor of the Crawford Memorial M. E. Church, officiating. The profusion of beautiful flowers bore eloquent testimony to the esteem in which Mrs. Jakeman was held by those who knew her. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

BETTER HOMES GARDEN CLUB

The April meeting of the Better Homes Garden Club was held Wednesday evening, April 14, in the Art room of the Public Library, the president Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside, presiding. It was decided to leave in the library for the present the book on Wild Flowers by Homer D. House which was awarded the club for its entry of flowering blueberry in the competition arranged by the Federated Garden Clubs of Massachusetts. Wild flower enthusiasts will enjoy this book. The many colored plates are particularly well done.

Prof. Arnold M. Davies of Massachusetts Agricultural College lectured on New England Gardens and demonstrated his talk with colored slides of typical beauty spots to be found throughout New England. He showed the architecture, trees and garden arrangements which are indigenous to this section of the country, urging his hearers to deepen their appreciation for them, to replant as the area arose and thus carry on the heritage of beauty for future generations to enjoy.

Professor Davies is a fluent speaker and he knows all angles of horticulture so thoroughly that his lectures are of real value.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

Four absentees are recorded for the meeting of April 15.

Irving Symmes reported at the current meeting. Irving was on the receiving end of a series of cordial welcomes on his return from the Southland with a full complement of vitamins.

Also "Bill" Priest was present, bringing along a generous number of guests. It is rumored that "Bill" was up before dawn in order to make sure that certain of his guests could be present. Congratulations, "Bill."

Announcements covering the spring conference at Framingham on May 6 have been mailed to all members. To date responses have not been exactly enthusiastic and we are quite uncertain as to our representation at this important gathering. It should be borne in mind that our next District Governor will be elected at this conference. This alone should stimulate exceptional interest in the deliberation of a body charged with those administrative affairs which so powerfully affect the standing of our district in Rotary. In particular, Rotarians who have never attended these sessions will derive benefit from doing so. There is no charge for registering. Get in touch with the club secretary at once.

Preparations for our 10th anniversary celebration are developing apace. Tickets for this event have been put on sale and local Rotarians are prepared to supply the same. Club members are making every effort to entertain their friends, both Rotarian and non-Rotarian, and to win approval for past, present and future activities. It is the mission of the club to adequately represent the Rotarian idea of service in the future as it has striven to do in the past, so that the community shall be the gainer because the club has tried. We hope to merit the continued favor of our hosts of friends.

Through the courtesy of Allan Wilde and Harry Winn, Club members and guests enjoyed several reels of motion picture films depicting the joys of angling in remote Canadian lakes and streams. These photographs must be classed among the finest of their kind that have been exhibited in this vicinity, and have amply demonstrated their effectiveness in commanding the complete attention of all who have been privileged to see them. Thanks, Allan and Harry.

Edmund Sanderson has procured many of the best entertainment features enjoyed by this club in the past few months. For next week he has planned a presentation which will compare favorably with anything he has previously submitted. You will not choose to be absent on April 22.

Vice President Warren Hersey has called a meeting of the Board of Directors to assemble at noon sharp on April 22, just before the regular club meeting. Please be prompt.

Training Camels

Camels are so gregarious that, if not trained when young, they seldom can be made to start on a journey unless accompanied by at least one other camel. In fact, says Collier's Weekly, many of these animals, when facing such a trip, will not move, even if beaten for hours by their irate drivers.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, April 18.

The Golden Text is: "John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me. . . . For thou desirest not sacrifice; else would I give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering. The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise" (Psalms 51:10, 16, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Every pang of repentance and suffering, every effort for reform, every good thought and deed, will help us to understand Jesus' atonement for sin and aid its efficacy; but if the sinner continues to pray and repent, sin and be sorry, he has little part in the atonement, in the at-one-ment with God,—for he lacks the practical repentance, which reforms the heart and enables man to do the will of wisdom" (p. 19).

'AND THE VILLAIN STILL PURSUED HER . .'

With glib tongue and smooth city ways, that mustachioed base deceiver, Richard Murgatroyd, doer of dastardly deeds pursues our fair Nell, an honest home loving girl from the hills, sneers, 'She will be in my power.' Injure one hair of Nell Stanley's head and I will pursue you and hound you to your death, retorts Jack Dalton beneath whose flannel shirt there beats an honest heart.

I fear neither man nor devil, save only one, mocks Richard Murgatroyd. Our city slicker striking a blow at defenseless womanhood, forces our Nellie to become an outcast from home and hearth. 'Will no one save me?' 'Rags are royal rainments when won for virtues sake!' And the erring damsel returns to fill the vacant chair, to learn of 'The Dead Sisters' Secret.' But the villain still pursued her!

Be sure and be in on the denouement at the grand finale of that heart gripping melleredrama, 'GOLD IN THE HILLS' or 'THE DEAD SISTER'S SECRET' to be presented by the Winchester Unitarian Players at Metcalf Hall on the evenings of April 30 and May 1. Hissing and booing reservations may be made by phoning either Mrs. Wayne Davis at Win. 1237-M or Mrs. Theodore Godwin at Win. 1580.

THE BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY NEWS

The Loyalty Contest which was held by the society since early January ended last Sunday with the winners being the Blue Team captained by Pauline Lindsay. Close competition made this contest very interesting and brought the members of the society into a much finer co-operative spirit. In a few weeks the Reds, the losing side, captained by William Burke will be hosts to the winning team at a supper and social.

The members of the society are busy at the present time making preparations for the three one-act plays which will be presented by the society at the church on Friday evening, April 23. Rehearsals under the direction of the coach, Clifford Macdonald, are being held at every available time in order that the finest might be presented. The names of the three plays with their casts are as follows: "Prose Preferred"—Carl Pynn, Doris Perry, Stina Johanson, Eloise Kielhorn, Dorothy Woodford, Paul Butterworth, Graham Whynot; "The Doctor Comes From Moscow"—Clifford Macdonald, Jean Winchester, David Burnham, Jack Finger, Priscilla Howard; "Squaring It With a Boss"—Jack E. Burke, Neva Speedy, Ralph Swanson, William Burke, Florence Pynn, Althea Perkins. The general chairman is Richard Swanson, with Pauline Lindsay, property chairman. Tickets are in the hands of all the young people. The proceeds from the evening are to go towards the society's pledge to the church building fund.

The next society social will be held at the home of Miss Eloise Kielhorn, 33 Grove street on Saturday evening, April 24. The Recreation Committee is also making plans for the second splash party which will be held at the Somerville Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening, May 15.

The society has accepted the invitation to attend the special Youth Service being held at the First Baptist Church, Medford on next Sunday. The members will leave the local church at 6.30. The speaker at this meeting is Mr. Charles Wells, the noted cartoonist and lecturer and world traveler. An opportunity will also be given to inspect the new church building which has recently been opened.

Several of the local young people are to attend the Middlesex County C. E. Union's 48th Annual Convention to be held in Wakefield on the holiday, April 19. Delegates from the society include Miss Florence Pynn, Miss Jean Winchester, Jack Burke, Richard Swanson and Abbott W. Whitmarsh, director of Young People's Work. Several others are expected to make this trip also.

The Executive Committee held its final meeting of the year on last Sunday and for one of its tasks appointed the following Nomination Committee: Althea Perkins, chairman; Richard Swanson and Pauline Lindsay, which will make its report on the last meeting of the month.

On next Wednesday the young people are to have charge of the third meeting of the stewardship campaign when they will present the missionary playlet, "Pin-Holes." Members of the cast include Miss Gladys Woodford, Miss Florence Pynn, Clifford Macdonald, William Burke and Mr. Whitmarsh.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The former Frank W. Winn estate on Euclid avenue has been sold by its purchaser, Fred A. Richer, to Ralph K. LaRose, who buys for occupancy. The house was formerly one of the largest in Winchester but had been extensively remodeled and reduced in size by Mr. Richer who bought the property for investment.

Miss Mabel Tompkins of Glengarry was one of the guests at the dinner held at the Hotel Somerset last Saturday evening preceding the Wheaton Alumnae dancing party.

President, members and friends of the Winchester District Nursing Association:

I present the following report of our work for the current year:

3746 calls made on 849 patients.
2221 full pay calls were made on 555 patients.
572 part pay calls were made on 116 patients.
953 free calls were made on 178 patients.
58 emergency calls were answered and first aid given.

Six minor operations were performed in the home by the doctor assisted by the nurse who makes the preparations and stays with the patient as long as necessary.

Six-five doctors used the services of the nurse, of these 45 were out of town physicians.

Ninety-five pre-natal calls were made on 20 prospective mothers. We gave nursing care to 31 maternity patients. Of these 16 were delivered at home, the remainder were patients who were delivered in hospitals and either mother or baby needed further care on their return home.

Patients who are ill and under a doctors care and have industrial insurance policies on which the premium is paid weekly in either the Metropolitan or John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Companies, are entitled to nursing care without charge. Both companies are very liberal as to the number of nursing visits allowed to a patient with an acute illness. We had a case a short time ago where the patient was allowed 46 nursing calls. The Winchester District Nursing Association is the official local organization through which these companies secure the services of the nurse.

764 visits were made for the Metropolitan Insurance Company.
388 visits were made for the John Hancock Insurance Company.

Statements are sent each month to both companies and the Association is reimbursed for the nurses services.

We gave away 12 complete layettes. As far as possible we try to have the prospective mothers get as many articles as possible themselves and we supply the rest. Six mothers were given help this way.

There was a splendid contribution of 126 articles of new clothing from the Needlework Guild of America. Baby clothes were received from the societies of the Baptist, Unitarian, Congregational and Episcopal Churches. Donations from friends of the Association along with these gifts enabled us to make up very nice layettes.

No report would be complete without some mention of our chronic patients, some of whom we have given nursing care for years. We have no patients to whom the visit of the nurse means so much and she usually brings much needed cheer as well as nursing care to the patients. We have on our list 15 chronic patients receiving one to six visits weekly. The largest number of calls made on a single patient was 201 and all of these calls were free.

The articles from our loan closet have been in constant use and we are most fortunate in having our supply replenished by generous donations from various individuals. Rubber rings, crutches, ice caps and many other articles have been loaned which have brought comfort and help to many.

Our personnel remains the same—one full time and two half time nurses. Mrs. Helen Spencer Murphy came to us April 1, 1936. Mrs. Murphy is a graduate of Winchester Hospital and also of the Public Health Course at Simmons College. Mrs. Murphy fills the place made vacant by Miss Hilda Hope who resigned to take a course in Public Health.

We wish to thank the doctors, the management, faculty and office force of the Winchester Hospital, members of the Association for their co-operation and willingness to help make our work a success.

Respectfully submitted,
Alice M. Gormley

EPIPHANY YOUNG PEOPLE MARK ART AND CHURCH PILGRIMAGE

On the afternoon of April 11 about 40 young people of the Church of the Epiphany went as a group to Boston and Cambridge. At Boston they visited the bit of Italy which Mrs. Jack Gardner built on the Fenway to express her own delight in that land, and which she left for the public to enjoy as the Gardner Museum. There they enjoyed many of the art treasures which she had gathered from various ages and countries.

In Cambridge they renewed acquaintance with Father Banner, who had been their speaker last November. He guided them through the chapel and monastery that have just been completed on the banks of the Charles for the Cowley Fathers, of the Order of St. John the Evangelist. The visit appealed to various interests and tastes. The chapel was designed by the foremost American in church architecture, and it offered to the eye the delight in line and in the texture of stone as well as the subtler meanings of Christian symbolism. The monastery, built to house a kind of life that is to most people of our time is remote, somewhat feared and much misunderstood, caught youth in one of its deep and hidden questionings,—what is life really for, and what is it about? The world into which youth of the present has been born is full of confused and negative voices of people who give life up as a pretty drab business which one must just carry through with fortitude, of people who trust in this or that "ism" to create a good and satisfying life for men. So thoughtful young people find it very interesting to stand on the banks of a river that flows at their very doors, in their own every-day time, and listen to a man who happily tells of a life that he and others find satisfying and fruitful.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Fortnightly was held on Monday, April 12, in Waterfield Hall. Polls were open from 12 m. to 3 p. m. for the election of officers and committee chairmen for the coming year. At 12.30 p. m., a delicious luncheon was served by Mr. Hicks, caterer; arrangements for which had been made by Mrs. Mary Cass and Mrs. Jane Robinson. The abundance of lovely, colorful spring flowers made the atmosphere most gay and festive. During the luncheon, Mrs. Winifred B. Nicholas, representing the club members, in a clever and timely verse of her own composition, presented Mrs. Anna Grosvenor, the retiring president, a gift, expressing the love and appreciation of those she has served so well and faithfully for the past two years. After thanking the club for this lovely remembrance, Mrs. Grosvenor presented two guests of honor, Mrs. Gladys R. Wilson, Eighth District Director, who delighted the members by one of her charming, informal speeches and Mrs. Natalie Chandler, president of the Junior Fortnightly.

The business meeting began promptly at 2:30 p. m. and was followed by a superb musical program, presented by Katharine Baxter, talented young pianist of Milton. Helen Raymond Abbott Beals held her audience entranced with her humorous words of wisdom on, "These Nervous Ladies." Yet during all the laughter one felt what truths she was bringing home and how wise it would be to follow her suggestions.

At the close of the program, Miss Mary L. Hodge, chairman of the Nominating Committee, read the results of the election, and the following ballot was declared elected for the coming club year:

WINCHESTER COLLEGE CLUB

Russia, or the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, proved such a complex subject for the College Club Morning Study Group, that two mornings, April 2 and April 9, were given to it. Illustrated maps and charts added much to our visionary concept of the subject. Mrs. Fred Abbe spent the first period giving to the class an idea of the size, the geography, the industry and the people of the country. Its size may be slightly understood, when one realizes that a person living in Cleveland, Ohio, is nearer Moscow, than a resident of Moscow is to the furthermost boundary. In the far north, reindeer browse upon the mosses of the frozen tundra; in the south, the airplanes soar above camel caravans making their way across the desert with cargoes of cotton. Mrs. Abbe gave a vivid picture of the people; the different races; the intelligentsia, the peasants, their strength, their courage and patience.

The second period was conducted by Mrs. Leo Blaisdell who showed intense study and knowledge of her subject, History, Government and Economics of both Old and New Russia. In the short time allotted to her for her vast subject, she succeeded well in giving her audience a summary of the high points in the history of Old Russia from the faint 9th century beginnings to the revolution of 1917. The important steps leading to the present government were presented clearly. A very fine chart, drawn by Miss Martha Blaisdell, gave an unusually comprehensive outline of the new constitution of the U. S. S. R. and its eight arms of government. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Warren Whitman gave a short, bright review of Mrs. Delafield's "I Visit the Soviets."

The last meeting of this group is being held this Friday, at the home of Mrs. Blaisdell, in the form of a Russian tea, with Mrs. Sarokin, speaker.

SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE ENDED

Blacks Beat Reds, 7—6 in Closing Game

With a closely contested game, in which the Blacks beat the Reds, 7—6 last Saturday morning on Manchester Field, Winchester High School concluded its second spring football practice session. Three weeks, one inside and two outdoors, have been devoted by Coach Wendell D. Mansfield to schooling in football fundamentals with particular stress on blocking, and the veteran local mentor expressed himself as much pleased with the progress made by his charges. Especially gratifying has been the work of several new candidates, from whom much is expected next fall.

Several boys, whose ability is known, have been for one reason or another, unable to participate in the spring session this year. "Frannie" Murray, speedy halfback, has been working, along with Peter Galuffo, promising freshman back and De-Teso, game little freshman center, who took Lentine's place in the Woburn game last fall. "Clem" Bairstow, end, has been nursing an injured ankle, sustained in jumping from a wall, and co-Captain "Pete" Sibley, has been out of things with a broken jaw, suffered in a fall in the gymnasium. With these youngsters added to the squad next fall, the locals should not be too badly off for experienced material.

Apparently the line is where the trouble is likely to occur, the loss of all three first string ends, "Libby" Gaudioso, "Bernie" Stygles and "Joe" Phelan; guards, "Pecker" Capone and "Jim" Moran; and "Herbie" Wood, tacke, leave some large gaps on the frontier, while only "Bucky" Harris and "Rusty" Donaghey will be missing behind the line, with plenty of candidates to fill their shoes.

It is too bad that Stygles and Donaghey won't be around another year, for both played their first high school football as seniors and both showed much promise in their single campaign.

Last Saturday's closing game was hotly contested from the opening to the closing whistle. Perhaps the outstanding single feature was the bruising tackle of "Gerry" Ficociello by Mason Barksdale, reminiscent of the time some years ago when Barksdale's older brother, "Dick" brought down the huge Crovo of Arlington as the latter drove down the field toward what looked like an easy touchdown. Another interesting feature was the work of two former linemen, Paul Lentine and "Laddie" Millican in the backfield.

The Reds, captained by Ficociello, scored in the first quarter on a sustained drive down the field with "Ficy" doing most of the carrying. A nice pass from Ficociello to Welburn aided in the advance, and finally from a first down on the one yard stripe, "Ficcy" smashed over on a spinner play. With Millican holding, Ficociello's try for goal from placement was wide.

The teams battled on even terms until the final quarter when again the Reds surged goalward, a sustained march finally ending with the ball incomplete in the end zone.

Only a minute and 25 seconds remained and the Black cause looked hopeless, but Capt. "Jack" Finger's boys went to work, and a long pass from "Charlie" Reeves to right end O'Donahue took the ball to the Red ten yard line. On first down Reeves streaked his way around end for the touchdown, and a moment later Barksdale bucked over for the extra and winning point.

Following is the summary:

BLACKS					REDS
Thomans, le					re, Perry
Molinaro, lt					rt, Abbott
Wilson, lg					rg, Evangelista
Horie, c					c, Conlon
Finger, rg					lg, Linnell
Gardner, rt					lt, Delorey

Blacks	0	0	0	7	7
Reds	6	0	0	0	6

Touchdowns—Reeves, Ficociello. Point for goal after touchdown—Barksdale (rush). Referee, Harris. Umpire Felt. Linesman—Capone. Time—eight minute quarters.

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING

By Alfred A. Fraser, Wellesley

For shady places use a grass seed mixture containing a high percentage of New Zealand Chewings Fescue and Poa Trivialis (rough stalked meadow grass). Kentucky Blue grass will not do well in the shade.

Stone chips scattered around the crowns of rock garden plants will prevent their washing out.

Clear away leaves from rhododendrons and laurel, and use peat moss instead.

Bordeaux paste diluted with raw linseed oil will protect scarred fruit and ornamental tree wood from disease.

Unwin dwarf hybrid dahlias will flower this year from seed.

Put lime around clematis and lilacs, cultivating it into the soil. Keep grass away from lilacs for better flowers.

Almost all lily bulbs can be planted now. Put on a handful of sand so water will drain away from the bulb base.

Pinch back a few perennial phlox shoots to get a succession of flowers.

Asparagus grows best in sandy loam. Plant the crowns about five inches below ground, allowing two feet in rows and four feet between rows.

Rocks in rock garden ought to be 2-3 below ground.

When the garden is dry enough sow hardy annual seeds such as Shirley and California poppies, pinks, annual larkspur, candytuft and annual chrysanthemums. Good dealers carry high quality seeds. Many firms now put a tested germination percentage on the packets.

Gladioli for early bloom can be started in frames now.

Eversharp pencils, long or short lead. Star Office.

NOONAN SCHOOL NEWS

On April 1, Miss Doherty's third grade conducted a spring flower show. All the children of the school visited their classroom to see an attractive dispay of tulips, hyacinths, narcissi, jonquils, and daffodils interspersed with forsythia and pussy willows. Some of the flowers had been cultivated in the classroom by the children who exhibited them and explained the cultivation process. One lovely specimen, however, was missing having been sent by the child to a former teacher, now deceased, when she was in the hospital.

Grades 4, 5, and 6 assembled recently for a music appreciation lesson conducted in correlation with social study. The story of the wanderings and experiences of Peer Gynt, as portrayed in the Peer Gynt Suite by the Norwegian composer, Edward Grieg, was told to the children. The following numbers from the suite were enjoyed:

In the Hall of the Mountain King
Solveig's Song
Ase's Death
Anitra's Dance

DARTMOUTH WOMEN'S CLUB

The annual business meeting and luncheon of the Dartmouth Women's Club will be held on Wednesday, April 21 at the Hotel Vendome.

The business session will be at 11 o'clock and the luncheon will follow at 1 o'clock.

The speaker of the afternoon will be Mr. Robert Strong of Dartmouth College. Mrs. Alice Gilbert, accompanied by her son Jack Gilbert, will be the soloist.

LEGION NOTES

Mr. G. Harold Noyes of the United States Weather Bureau, who has been senior meteorologist at the Boston Bureau since October 1933, and in the Weather Bureau service since 1898, was the guest speaker last evening at the regular monthly meeting of Winchester Post, American Legion, held at the Post Headquarters on Washington street. Comdr. Otis E. Alley presided at the business session, and refreshments were served by the stewards after the address, which was of unusual interest.

Paid up membership in the Post now totals 156, or 44 more than a year ago. Conrad S. Larson, chairman of the membership committee, has set as a goal a membership which will give the Post four delegates to the convention and a prominent place in the parade line of march, positions being awarded according to paid-up memberships.

The report of the Post finance officer indicates that the Post is in generally good shape financially, the reserve fund having been increased from $2300 to $2600.

The Post is already making plans for the observance of Memorial Day, and Commander Alley has announced that the annual community Memorial Church Service will be held on Sunday, May 30, in the First Congregational Church.

The House Committee has been busy for some time cataloguing the library of war books donated to the Post by Edgar F. Rassat, a local Legionnaire. The volumes constitute one of the most complete war libraries to be found in any Legion house.

The house billiard tournament is just about completed and an announcement of the winner and runner-up should be made in the near future.

Any who are interested in enrolling in the Citizens' Military Training Camp to be held from July 8 to Aug. 6, may obtain application blanks by addressing the Post Adjutant, Richard W. MacAdams.

A. Allen Kimball has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of Post welfare officer, caused by the resignation of W. Allan Wilde. Mr. Wilde has found the press of his duties as chairman of Selectmen too great to permit him to meet the obligations of his Legion office.

The Legion's "Doherty for Commander Committee," working in the interest of the campaign of Woburn's Daniel J. Doherty for National Commander, attended Monday evening's meeting of the Middlesex County Council at Concord. The committee includes Conrad Larson, P. T. Foley and Frank P. Zaffina.

Already the Legion is looking ahead to the National Convention in New York during the summer and has selected its headquarters in that city, being one of a very few Legion Posts so to do.

The Legion Auxiliary held its first April meeting at the Post Headquarters April 5. After the meeting the members present worked on the new curtains for the Headquarters which are promised for Memorial Day.

The Auxiliary held a bridge and whist Monday, April 12, at the home of Mrs. Mary Gilbody with proceeds being devoted to the fund to help pay expenses of the State Convention to be held in June at the New Ocean House in Swampscott.

WYMAN SCHOOL FASHION SHOW SUCCESSFUL

The annual fashion show, held under the auspices of the Wyman School Mothers' Association Wednesday afternoon in the school assembly hall, proved once more a most enjoyable and successful social event.

Mrs. Clarence P. Whorf introduced the speaker, who was Mrs. Linten of the R. H. Stearns Co. of Boston, which firm furnished the clothing shown. Models for children's togs were Jane White, Janet Goldthwait, Joan Wild, Betty Pride and Helen Farnsworth. Adult clothes were modeled by Mrs. Robert Abbott, Mrs. Paul Elliott, Mrs. Alan Cunninghan, Mrs. Prescott Wild, Mrs. William H. Cole, Mrs. Clarence G. McDavitt, Jr., Mrs. Charles S. Eaton, Mrs. E. George Pierce, Jr., Mrs. Charles H. Woolley, Mrs. John Joy and Mrs. William H. McGill.

Mrs. Thomas M. Righter, Jr., acted as general chairman of the show, assisted by Mrs. Stephen B. Neiley Tickets were in charge of Mrs. Harold B. Richmond; refreshments, in charge of Mrs. E. Ober Pride. Decorations were done by Mrs. Hollister K. Olmsted.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

Home

Men who have been tossed upon the billows of fortune, wandering far, and worn with cares, has no place in his mind's eye that is brighter than any other on earth, a place where he feels that he is welcome, where he may rest his weary feet, and lay his aching head, and say, "It is mine! Here do I best love to be! Hither does my spirit turn with its deepest yearnings."

"In all my wanderings round this world of care,
In all my griefs—and God has given me my share—
I still had hopes, my latest hours to crown,
Amid these humble bowers to lay me down;
To husband out life's taper at the close,
And keep the flame from wasting by repose;
Around my fire an evening group to draw,
And tell of all I felt and all I saw;
And as a hare whom hounds and horns pursue
Pants to the place from whence at first he flew,
I still had hopes, my long vexations past,
Here to return—and die at home at last."

And is not this attachment rooted among the deepest affections of human nature? We bless God that it is so. Home is hallowed by our best joys and relationships. Yea, even by our trials and our tears. Home has full knowledge of our struggles, and this is one thing that holds home dear to us. Home has been associated with our prayers, it has witnessed our young aspirations, or our aged griefs. Have not our hours of depeudence and sickness imparted to it a tender interest? Has not the event of birth, or death, linked it mysteriously with the invisible world? What spot on earth, then, contains so many ties for us? And about what place cluster so many memories?

There is not a man or woman in or out of Winchester who, when his or her time comes, hopes it will be in one's home, however, humble that house may be. There, over the floors worn by our footsteps, let friends draw nigh with softened tread! There, upon familiar countenances let our dim eyes look their last! There, where we have rejoiced and sorrowed, let our breath depart! Or if to us home has become desolate because all that was dear and familiar is taken away, how sacred is it for what it has been!

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

According to one Winchester fellow, nowadays, when a girl says limbs, it is a safe bet that she is talking about trees or that she is hopelessly and incurably old-fashioned. The Observer questions that. Winchester girls never talk about them, they let them speak for themselves.

Winchester fellow says:
I am glad that both the sun and moon
Are hanging up so high,
So no pretentious hand can reach
And pluck them from the sky.

Winchester fellow and his wife had a little trouble the other day, made it up without any talk of divorce, which is best.

What has become of the old fashioned Winchester girl who looked forward to picking daisies in our Winchester pastures?

How many old timers here in Winchester remember the good old days when we thought we were having a perfect day if we started the afternoon with a croquet game and ended up with a buggy ride?

An advertising man says that candy does not produce fat and many Winchester folks are only too ready to agree with him.

Winchester gentleman recently returned from Florida remarks: "Vigorous exercise may prolong life, but I never saw a turtle doing his daily dozen.

Quite likely that women less than 100 miles from Winchester who with one dexterous kick knocked out a couple of cops is not worrying in the least about the slow progress of sex equality.

However, no grown Winchesterite capable of reasoning would tote a leaky torch—and most of the torches we've seen leak—even in honor of a fellow citizen seeking office, at least, this is the candid opinion of a Winchester chap who ran for public office and lost out.

THE LECTURER

Professor Knowall came to town and gave a lecture on The planting of the 'taters and the growing of the corn.

He went ahead and told us how the milking should be done
And said we needn't scare the cows or try to make them run.

He swung and banged his dainty hands to bring his ideas out
And used a lot of college words we never heard about.

And ended up by telling how to gather in the hay
Then asked if there was anyone who had a word to say.

Sam Fifield stirred and looked about then slowly he arose
And said, "I'd like to say a word fore meetin's brought to close.

"I sort of take it from your talk that all we need to do
Is scratch about the soil a bit and plant a seed of two.

"Then sit back in our easy chairs and watch it as it grows
And count the profits that we'll make from all the different rows.

"You've even got the gumption, friend, to try and tell us how
To feed and raise our cattle when I doubt you've seen a cow.

"I've done successful farming now for more than forty years
So I don't think I need to know you city folks ideas.

"I find to get the best of life
you've got to work and plod
And that alone ain't good enough unless you work with God.

"When your ideas can better that and prove a finer way
Come back and I will listen then to what you have to say."

ELECTROLUX SPONSORS "MARCH OF TIME" PROGRAM

Feminine Interest in World News Cited

Recognizing that women of today talk of world events when they get together over the back fence, or across the bridge table, Servel, Inc., manufacturers of Servel Electrolux Gas Refrigerators, are sponsoring the "March of Time" program which began April 15. They regard it as a program equally interesting to women and to men, according to Mrs. Hazel A. Cheever, Home Service Director of the Arlington Gas Light Company who has just received an announcement made by George S. Jones, Jr., vice president and general sales manager of Servel, Inc.

Quoting from the statement made by Mr. Jones, Mrs. Cheever said, "'The day is gone forever when a housewife knew little of what went on outside her own community. Modern women demand to know the significance behind world events in the same way that they demand the best in modern equipment for their homes. That is why an organization manufacturing refrigerators has chosen a program presenting world news in such a dramatic, realistic, and vital manner.'

"The 'March of Time' program, broadcast every Thursday evening from 10:30 to 11 p. m. (E.S.T.) over the Columbia Broadcasting System, dramatizes news of the day with startling realism. Voices of headliners in the world's news are simulated by actors, and sound effects and stirring music add to the effectiveness of the scenes that are re-enacted.

"Each program requires the services of more than 20 actors; 19 musicians; eight production, service, and sound-effects experts; and 11 editorial and research workers. This number is frequently increased according to the demands of the scripts. Five microphones are used in making the broadcast. One is for close-ups; another for 'mobs'; the third, fourth, and fifth for sound, music, and 'auditorium' effects.

"Because news-events are re-enacted within a short time of their occurrence, rehearsals are exceedingly strenuous; and scripts are prepared, cut, and revised up to the last second before the program goes on the air. In a handful of minutes, enunciations and pronunciations must be checked, and lines must be made to fit moments allowed on the air.

"Many of the actors have been regular members of the cast since it first came to the air. Portraying headline characters—whether they be Mussolini, Bruno Hauptmann, the Duke of Windsor, or some other much talked-of personage—is an every-day occurrence to the actors in this novel air theatre.

"Since the news-dramatization program originated in March, 1931, 'March of Time' has been named one of the three best dramatic programs each year in the annual polls conducted among radio editors of the United States and Canada by the New York World Telegram.

"During the sponsorship of the program by Servel, Inc., the dramatizations will continue to be prepared by the editors of 'Time,' the newsmagazine, as they have been since the program was originated more than six years ago. Several additional stations of the Columbia network will trans-mit the broadcast each Thursday while the program is under its new sponsorship."

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

Winchester motorist says that the biggest pest in Winchester is the driver who blocks traffic by his selfish "edging in."

Winchester folk who travel on the road to Better Health do so in the belief that practice should follow knowledge as closely as possible.

And don't judge a man by his failure in life, for many a man fails because he is too honest to succeed.

READING THEATRE

Bobby Breen's second starring film, "Rainbow on the River" coming Sunday to the Reading Theatre is a musical story depicting the aftermath of the Civil War in the war-torn South as it is reflected in the life of a golden-voiced orphan who is being reared by a colored mammy, the faithful servitor of the deceased parents.

Forced to make a decision between keeping the boy or permitting him to join a new-found relative in the North, the negro mammy sacrifices her love rather than stand in the way of the child's future.

Throughout the unfolding of the story the amazing lyric tenor of Bobby Breen is heard in remarkable renditions of such diversified selections as "Old Folks at Home," "Ave Maria," "Holy, Holy, Holy," the hymn from "Stradella," "The Flower Song," "Waitin' for the Sun," "The Camptown Races," "Ring, Ring, de Banjo" and the theme number, "Rainbow on the River."

In the role of a French mannequin who rises to the heights of fashion dictator for the world, Kay Francis, is starred in "Stolen Holiday," First National production which will be one of the feature attractions at the Reading Theatre Sunday.

The program for today and tomorrow includes Humphrey Bogart in, "The Black Legion" and Sylvia Sidney in, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

MYSTIC THEATRE, MALDEN ATTRACTIONS

In "Sea Devils," RKO Radio has gone into a new field for its setting—the exciting work of the United States Coast Guard—and has evolved one of the most dramatic and thrilling films of the season. Victor McLaglen, Preston Foster and Ida Lupino share the stellar honors in this colorful tale of courage at sea and romance ashore. "Sea Devils" will be the headline attraction for a week starting Friday at the Mystic Theatre, Malden, with "Laughing at Trouble" as a companion feature.

A woman newspaper editor, fair and forty-ish, whose joy in life is to help others out of their troubles while she laughs away her own, is the zestful and hilarious central character in "Laughing at Trouble." Brilliantly cast in this swift-paced story are Jane Darwell, Sara Haden, Lois Wilson, Margaret Hamilton, Pert Kelton and John Carradine. There's breath-taking suspense, uproarious laughs and appealing love in this heart-warming tale of small town life, its triumphs and turmoil, sorrows and gayeties.

"Winchester Voter" suggests that one thing that would add much to the political lustre of fair Winchester would be a general torchlight parade in connection with the many political candidacies, each candidate being devoted a section in the parade of local political celebrities and new aspirants for political celebrity.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

"Love Is News," with the new screen sensation, Tyrone Power, Loretta Young and Don Ameche as the stars, will head the double bill opening at the Strand Theatre in Malden Saturday. "Love Is News" is one of the most popular of the new pictures with Loretta Young cast as an heiress who is heckled and pestered by sensation-seeking newspapers. Loretta's revenge works itself up to a bewildering and amusing climax. Outromancing his brilliant role in "Lloyds of London," Tyrone Power plays a thrilling foil opposite lovely Loretta Young, who brings a new grace in a role that is engagingly different, with Don Ameche, radio star of "The First Nighter," doing outstanding work as the editor.

"Fugitive in the Sky," with Jean Muir and Warren Hull as the featured players, is the second attraction opening at the Strand on Friday. "Fugitive in the Sky," is a baffling murder mystery which occurs at night in a speeding plane. The pilots are ordered to go to a small town where the crooks can escape but a terrific dust storm forces the plane down. There follows a series of exciting episodes which ends with Jean Muir and Warren Hull in a clinch.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"On the Avenue," with Irving Berlin's greatest song hits, Dick Powell, Madeleine Carroll, Alice Faye, Ritz Brothers, George Barbier, Stepin Fetchit, Alan Mowbray, Walter Catlett, Douglas Fowley and other well known players opens at the Granada Theatre in Malden today, Friday, April 16. "On the Avenue" gets off to a hilarious start when Medeleine Carroll, as a wealthy debutante, George Barbier, as her father and Alan Mowbray, an explorer enter a theatre just as Dick Powell, Alice Faye and the Ritz Brothers are going into farcial burlesque of the home life of "the richest girl in the world." The six Irving Berlin song hits are "On the Avenue," "This Year's Kisses," "You're Laughing at Me," "Slumming on Park Avenue," "I've My Love to Keep Me Warm" and "The Girl on the Police Gazette."

"Murder Goes to College," with Roscoe Karns and Lynne Overman teamed as a comedy pair for the first time, is the second attraction opening today. Overman is cast as a detective who solves the mystery, and Karns is the crackpot reporter who is supposed to help but more often hinders him. Marsha Hunt, Astrid Allwyn, Larry Crabbe and Henry Stephens are also in the cast.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Bananas are a good fruit to use freely at this season when winter fruits are disappearing and spring fruits just beginning. Oranges, grapefruit, strawberries, pineapple and rhubarb are other choices.

Butter is again reasonable and eggs are slightly cheaper. Fish is abundant and prices are attractive. Forequarter cuts of beef and veal, pork and poultry continue the best buys. Fowl is a specially good value this week.

In general vegetables are more plentiful and cheaper. Lettuce is again a good value.

Here are three dinner menus planned at three different cost levels.

Low Cost Dinner

Meat Loaf Scalloped Potatoes
Sweet-Sour Beets
Bread and Butter
Orange Gelatin with Bananas
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Liver with Canadian Bacon
Mashed Potatoes Buttered Onions

Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner

HEART TO HEART TALKS

Bearing Our Burdens

Persons who are in trouble will do well to remember that truly there is compensation in the Cross of our Saviour. Foxe tells of Bainham, an English martyr, whose dying words were, "In this fire I feel no more pain than if I were on a bed of down, but it is to me as a bed of roses."

There may be movements in our lives when the Almighty withholds comforts in tribulation, but mostly in the fortitude under trial there is a heavenly sweetness, and in the pathway thereof an unutterable sense of security. He who once was the great Sufferer so orders events that we who follow Him find we lose bear the Cross than that it bears us.

It is not in average human nature to carry the cross; but when we take it up with all diligence we find it light, because strength from Christ is given to us.

Let us prove worthy of God's love by overcoming; let us not make God ashamed of us as He must be ashamed of so many alleged Christians in and out of Winchester.

Jeremy Taylor says:

"So much as moments are exceeded by eternity, and the sighing of a man by the joys of an angel, and a few frowns by the infinite and eternal hallelujahs, so much are the sorrows of the godly to be undervalued in respect of what is deposited for them in the treasures of eternity. Their sorrows can die, but so cannot their joys. And if the blessed martyrs and confessors were asked concerning their past sufferings and their present rest, and the joys of their certain expectation, you should hear them glory in nothing but in the mercies of God and in the cross of the Lord Jesus. Every loss is the purchase of a Kingdom, every chain a ray of light, and every affront in the cause of God an eternal honor, and every day of sorrow is a thousand years of comfort multiplied with a never-ceasing numeration."

"ON THE AVENUE" AT THE UNIVERSITY

Swinging merrily along to the tune of the best songs ever written by the greatest writer of songs in the world "On the Avenue," opening Sunday at the University Theatre, represents Irving Berlin at his melodious best. With Dick Powell and Madeleine Carroll making a new and romantic twosome of musical comedy, this musical presents a real-life romance of New York, in a show that's as big as the town. Alice Faye, the Ritz Brothers and George Barbier add both melody and mirth to the production. Madeleine Carroll, noted hitherto for straight dramatic roles, makes a charming sweetheart for Dick Powell.

The capture of a desperate criminal on an airplane flying by night in a terrific dust storm is one of many exciting happenings in the companion feature, "Fugitive in the Sky," with Jean Muir and Warren Hull in the leading roles. Woven into the plot is a pleasant romance between the airplane hostess and a newspaper reporter.

On Wednesday, Review Day, the program includes "The Gilded Lily" co-starring Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray and "Broken Blossoms," starring Dolly Haas, a picture that in the silent-film era brought world-wide fame to its gifted director, D. W. Griffith.

Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray, the romantic team of "Hands Across the Table," and "A Princess Comes Across," are together again in "Swing High, Swing Low," a romance with music which opens on Thursday. The cast includes glamorous Dorothy Lamour. She plays the role of "the other woman," with whom MacMurray falls in love. Miss Lamour, who was famous as a radio singer before her entry into pictures, also sings and dances in "Swing High, Swing Low." Charles Butterworth, Jean Dixon, Harvey Stephens and other well-known feature players complete the cast.

Packed with powerful, dramatic situations and crammed with fast moving action and suspense "Career Woman," the co-feature, the story of a lonely backwoods girl's fight for freedom, Claire Trevor, Michael Whalen, Isabel Jewell, Eric Linden and Gene Lockhart head the cast.

Auto Magic Picture Gun. Complete Outfit including 5 film rolls $1.50 at the Star Office.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

It is not too early to urge a personal resolution on the part of every Star reader that, regardless of what course others may take, he or she will not during the coming summer be one of the heedless throng that usually litters up every picnic site in the country with old papers, castoff boxes, empty bottles, orange and banana peelings and other melancholy remnants of the wayside feast. Why must so many ordinarily good folks, living in a country where cleanliness is esteemed, act so like swine about this picnic rubbish matter?

Winchester fellow wonders what becomes of some of the things you throw out to the chickens. If it is a piece of meat too long and too big to be swallowed right away by the chicken that grabs it the chicken will grab it anyway and start running. Then all the other chickens start racing after him all over the place. When the first chicken is plumb run down he drops the bait and another chicken grabs it and the race starts all over again. The Spectator has never seen the finish of one of these chicken relay races. Maybe the first chicken revives in time to take the victuals away from the last one that gets a chance at it.

Every Winchesterite will heartily agree with that man who remarks that in the last 50 years improvements seem to have been made in everything except the weather.

The average Winchesterite gets his idea of such infinitesimal objects as atoms and electrons by noting the increase in the cost of living.

Pupil of Eye Not Black

The round opening in the center of the eye (called the pupil) is really not black at all, as it appears, but is absolutely without color, asserts a writer in Pearson's London Weekly. The reason it looks black is that you look through it into the dark chamber of the eye. It is just like looking into a dark room through an open door—the doorway is not black; neither is the pupil of the eye. The eye is like a camera, and the pupil like the shutter that opens into the camera. A round muscle, the iris, surrounds the pupil and opens and closes it to regulate the amount of light entering the eye.

No Child Life

According to a collector of toys, dolls are the most difficult things to find in India, since at such an early age they become child brides and have so many household duties that they have no time to play as normal children do.

WINCHESTER MAN BALLET SOLOIST

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Thornburg of Lawrence street left Thursday for New York where Mr. Thornburg will appear as soloist on Sunday with the Russian-American Ballet at the Heckscher Theatre.

Mr. Thornburg is dancing the role of "Pantalon" in the Schumann Ballet, "Le Carnaval," and is doing two solos in "North," a new Television Ballet conceived by Boris Novikoff.

Later this season the Russian-American Ballet will appear at the Coronation Festival in Montreal, and then in Boston.

For the summer months both Mr. and Mrs. Thornburg will conduct a Summer School of the Dance in Provincetown, where the rehearsals for the Boston Civic Ballet season will be conducted. This new Ballet will feature both modern and classic ballets, and it is hoped that the many students of the dance will find a new field for their creative forces, as all of the choreography will be done by students under the direction of Mr. Thornburg.

Mr. Thornburg was for several years connected with the Denishawn School in New York and Boston. He later became head of the Dancing Department at the Arizona College of Music. At the present time, he is a member of the Russian-American Ballet and the Hans Wiener Dancers.

MRS. GRACE BELLE BLANK

Mrs. Grace Belle Blank, widow of Benjamin F. Blank and for more than 60 years a resident of Winchester, died Tuesday morning, April 20, at her home, 209 Mystic Valley Parkway, after a brief illness. She had been troubled with a heart affliction for two months, but had been in her usual health and outdoors on the day before her death, her sudden passing coming as a severe shock to her family and friends.

Mrs. Blank, the daughter of Nelson and Eliza (Lockhart) Manning, was in her 69th year. She was a native of Ottawa, Minn., but came as a very young child to Winchester and grew up in the town, attending its public schools and enjoying a wide circle of friends among older residents of the community. She was a member of the Woman's Fortnightly Club and of the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Blank was married in Winchester in 1888. Her husband died during December of 1924, and she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. W. Haven Sherburne of Woburn, Mrs. Willard Hudson and Miss Gretchen Blank, both of this town.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon at the late residence with Rev. R. Mitchell Rushton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Interment was in the Blank family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

MAY FESTIVAL SURE TO PLEASE

All those who enjoy the attractive picture presented by dancing children should not fail to attend the big May Festival which is being held on Saturday afternoon, May 1, in the Town Hall under the auspices of Group 7 of the Ladies' Friendly Society of the Unitarian Church.

Children from 4 to 14 are participating, under the skilled guidance of Mrs. John T. Phelps, local teacher of dancing, with Mrs. Lena F. Corthell at the piano and Andrew Visocci, accordianist, for added festivity.

Among the groups who will dance are Water Babies, Balloon and Garland Dancers, Hoop Girls and May Pole Dancers, with a Boys' Drill and Tableaux as extra features. General dancing is to follow the children's performance, and advance interest indicates that many are planning to witness this unusual spectacle.

Advertisements concerning tickets may be found elsewhere in this issue, and those who plan to attend should procure them as soon as possible.

Only members of the immediate families were present Saturday afternoon, April 17, when Miss Kathryn B. Marchant, daughter of Mrs. Ann Marchant of Gloucester and Warren B. MAY TIME IS TULIP TIME AND THAT MEANS STREET FAIR

The oracles have been consented, the almanacs have been studied and all signs and omens point to May 8 as being a most auspicious day as to weather — sunny skies and warm, balmy gentle breezes. All roads lead to the Dutch Street Fair where windmills turn briskly and tulips nod their bright heads.

Come to the Dutch Oven for food, home-made delicacies which defy description. Stop at the Dutch Treat for palate-tickling sandwiches. Pause at the Dutch Kitchen for an apron or a smock to make your own job of cooking at home a joyful one. Here, too you will want to buy the most ingenious invention of knitting bag and apron combined—and shorts for those hot days which are coming.

The Dutch Candy House will be roasting and salting nuts all day. They have the jolliest lolly pop windmills to keep the infants peaceful all day.

Linger at the Cheese Box—where city mouse greets country mouse and both feast upon the choicest of cheeses—Cheddar cheese from the Blackmore Vale Country—Farmhouse Double Gloucesters—Lancashire Sage—Blue Cheshires—Gorgon Zolas. Did you hear the story about the Fourth Baronet at his club who got his head stuck in a large Stilton cheese? When a couple of Marquis and a waiter rushed up to free him, his muffled voice was heard saying, "Leave me here, I like it." Do you know the legend of how the original Stilton cheeses were made? Marigold flowers were used to give color and hourly turnings of the cheese were an essential factor.

A fat, jolly Dutchman with fragrant smoke curling from his pipe will be the smokes booth, and here your favorite brand of cigarettes will be charmingly dispensed.

Relax and sip a refreshing cup of tea on the Island—amid tulips and be waited upon by comely Dutch maidens.

Here's something novel—Grabs for Grown-ups! At last you can satisfy that childish passion for surprises. Step up to the postoffice, deposit 25c and get a masculine or feminine grab beyond your wildest hopes.

And then you know there's Mother's Day—(Sunday, May 9) and such presents as there are for her at the Gift and Beach Booth. Pull up along side the gay sea-going craft and choose from a fascinating array which include all sorts of nautical gadgets and indispensable things for the Summer home. Here's some of them: anchor paper weights, cork luncheon sets, life preserver coasters, wooden bowls, whaleboat ash trays. For the beach comber you'll find halters, visors, beach bags and the trickiest neck scarfs of turkish toweling doing double duty: to prevent sunburn and to furnish a snug pocket for soap, compact or cigarettes.

Street Fair Headquarters in Locatelli's corner store are open every week day from 9:30-11:30 and from 2:30-4:30.

One last word to the townsfolk: Do not forget that all this labor of love is for two of the most worthwhile institutions in our town—the Winchester Hospital and the Home for Aged People.

SCHOLARSHIP TAG DAY

Friday, April 30, will be the annual Tag Day of Winchester Mothers' Association Scholarship Fund. At each railroad station and central street corner, there will be a member of the Association, wearing the yellow insignia of her duties and holding a yellow box to relieve passers of all available cash. In the past, the people of Winchester have saluted these yellow boxes with a generosity that has been repaid by the fine records of the boys and girls it has helped to enter college.

The scholarship awards of the Mothers' Association are the climax of its work. From Kindergarten to High School, the mothers follow the course of our young pupils, co-operating with the teachers and effecting an understanding harmony of home and school life that is most unusual. When, at High School graduation, the Association announces the Scholarship winners, it symbolizes its support and interest, not only in the winners, but in all the youth of Winchester as it carries the tradition of our schools into college.

Tag Day will give opportunity for every citizen of the town to share in this investment in education and open the way to college for students chosen to represent the ideals of the Mothers' Association in the field of higher education.

Friday, April 30, carry Cash for the Yellow Boxes.

Mr. Townsend will sing a group of unusual sea chanties, assisted by the club.

Some time over the holiday weekend access was gained to the Lincoln School and the teachers' desks in several of the rooms ransacked, apparently in a search for money as nothing seemed missing so far as a hasty checkup could determine.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

Six members were absent from the meeting of April 22.

There was a full attendance at a meeting of the Board of Directors just previous to the above meeting. Much business was dispatched in a brief session and we learn that this club will join with the Lions Club of Winchester and the Winchester Chamber of Commerce at the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening, May 13. Prepare to enjoy yourself.

The prospectus for the May issue of "The Rotarian" is at hand. Readers will not be disappointed by the May "Rotarian." Witness this gem from the pen of Sir George Paish, who contributes the article entitled, "The Way to Peace."

"The experience of modern times proves beyond the shadow of doubt that nations which seek to be the servants and not the masters of the world are those which attain great well-being. Service, not conquest, is the way to Peace."

The following service, to be known as the "Apprenticeship Plan" has been adopted by the Rotary Club of Boston. A worthy boy is selected and placed in the organization of a member for whose business he seems to be adapted. It is expected that the relationship established between the member and the young man will develop the best features of the old "apprenticeship" system. We shall follow with interest the working of this very commendable service.

At the eleventh hour we were notified that the speaker scheduled to appear at today's meeting would be unable to be present. Wherefore we were extremely grateful that the Rev. Dr. Howard J. Chidley consented to favor us with an address at this time; doubly grateful because he helped us out of a difficult situation and furthermore because it is always a treat to listen to Dr. Chidley. At this time time he chose to consider the dangers inherent in the comparative disregard by the rising generation of those old-fashioned virtues which may be characterized as thrift, industry and honesty or integrity. His prescription for overcoming this fault is the exhibition in us humans of the equally old-fashioned qualities which he termed gumption, grit and grace. Hardly a single word of this address was lost on Dr. Chidley's hearers. It was a common-sense argument, delivered in a forcible and understandable manner, in short, an effort such as elicits a maximum of appreciation from our members and an effort such as we have learned to expect from our good neighbor.

In place of our regular meeting next week we shall present the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the organization of this club, an event which has long been in preparation. Past District Governor Robert W. Hill of Salem will head a list of high grade speakers and District Governor "Bert" Emard and Mrs. Emard will grace the occasion with their presence. This will be an exceptional event in the history of our club and club members are striving to make it pleasantly memorable. By all means come and bring your friends. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m. at the Calumet Club house. The date is Thursday, April 29.

Percentage of attendance, April 15—90.32 per cent.

'GOLD IN THE HILLS'

The second play of the 1936-37 season by the Winchester Unitarian Players is 'Gold in the Hills,' or, 'The Dead Sisters Secret,' a new 19th Century Melodrama in three acts by J. Frank Davis. It will be presented on Friday evening, April 30 and Saturday evening, May 1, in Metcalf Hall at 8:15, with a large cast of 30. 'Gold in the Hills' is a 'take-off' on the melodrama of the last century, with its heroic hero, its helpless heroine and its villainous villain.

Act 1 depicts the happy family in the old homestead, with Jack Dalton in love with Nell Stanley, the farmer's daughter. But alas, the serpent comes into this Garden of Eden, in the person of Richard Murgatroyd. Act 2 is laid in Big Mike's Beer Garden and Dance Hall on the Bowery. Here Nell is almost in the villain's clutches, but Jack Dalton to the rescue! Act 3 returns the action to the old homestead on Christmas Eve, where a lamp is burning to light the wanderer home, who arrives in time to reveal 'The Dead Sister's Secret'!

The production is under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Phillip B. Sawyer and is being coached by Mrs. Doris Bramsome Whitehouse. Last minute ticket reservations may be made by phoning Mrs. Wayne Davis at Win. 1237-M or Mrs. Theodore Godwin at Win. 1580.

"ED" WINN AGAIN A LEADER

The results of the 1937 Indoor Pistol League matches of the U. S. R. A. as published in the April U. S. R. A. Bulletin show Edward S. Winn of the local post office again in the lead.

In competition with 1079 other shooters from all over the United States and part of Canada, he scored eight 50's, 50 being a perfect score. The next highest number of 50's was four. In addition he scored 16 49's with his nearest competitor scoring nine 49's.

He also had the highest individual average for the season 239.7 which was 4.9 points higher than anyone else.

The Arlington team of which "Ed" is a member came in fifth in the Senior League. This is an excellent showing as this is their first year in the Senior League. Last year they came in first in the Novice League.

MAY DAY BREAKFAST

"You must wake and call me early," young Winchester will be saying at bed-time, April 30. But times have changed since the maiden of Tennyson's poem imperiously demanded that her mother call her in the gray dawn so that she could get into her queen o' the May robes. Young Winchester will be addressing its commands to its alarm clocks. And the rainment it will lay out for the early morning affair will be attractive utility garments. For it is not to be May queen or attendant knights and ladies that the young people of the Epiphany Fireside Group will be rising early, but to be cooks, head waiters, amid just plain waiters.

At 7:30 in the Parish House of the Church of the Epiphany, the young people wil begin serving their May-Day breakfast. They have pledged their honor, and their reputation for efficiency, that they will be ready on the dot, and that no one will miss an early train for Boston by tardy or slow service. Two special tables are being set apart for guests who want to make certain trains, and guests are invited to ask for these tables and the prompt service if they are fitting an early schedule of engagements.

John Gleason, who will be in charge of the door of the dining room, and Robert Savage, who will be headwaiter, will sort out those who must hurry away from those who have time to linger.

These members of the Fireside Group will serve as waitresses:

Gale Angas	Martha Little
Florence Barron	Virginia Martens
Dorothy Bruno	Anne Marsters
Lee Clark	Elizabeth Sawyer
Barbara Kelley	Katherine Snow
Martha Kimball

In the pastel hues of the serving maids' dresses, and in the decorations of the hal, the atmosphere of May-time will be kept.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

On next Tuesday, April 27, a delightful program has been planned for the meeting. Two members: Mrs. John J. Costello and Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini will show pictures of trips enjoyed b ythem during the winter. Mrs. Costello's pictures will be from California and Mrs. Ghirardini's, from Florida.

The dramatic sketch prepared for this meeting will be postponed until the annual meeting.

Communion Sunday

All members are urged to attend the 8 o'clock Mass at St. Mary's Church on Sunday, May 2 and receive Communion in a body.

Please make reservations for breakfast with Mrs. James Carr, Win. 0813-M.

Day of Recollection

The day of recollection for members will be held at the Cenacle on May 4. The Rev. Chas. McInnes will give the sermons and conduct the devotions.

A most delightful trip was enjoyed by over 80 members of the Guild at their annual visit to the Gardner Museum. The musical program was most outstanding. The artists were Monsieur Hughes Cuenod and Madame Gisele Peyron, Swiss tenor and soprano appearing on a brief tour in this country with Mademoiselle Nadia Boulanger.

At the tea Mrs. Thomas Feeney, Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini, Mrs. O. J. Logue and Mrs. John B. Donahue poured and Mrs. Charles A. Farrar, Mrs. M. J. Meagher and Miss Mary Dewire served.

BOOKER—MURRAY

A marriage having both Winchester and Woburn interest was solemnized by Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach in St. Mary's Rectory Saturday afternoon, April 17 at 5:30 o'clock when Miss Margaret Helen Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Murray of Salem street, became the bride of William Neil Booker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Booker of Bedford road, Woburn.

Miss Murray's only attendant was her sister, Miss Dorothy Murray and Willard R. Booker of Woburn was his brother's best man. The bride wore a princess style gown of white satin with a tulle veil, held in place by a coronet of seed pearls, and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and valley lillies. Her honor maid was gowned in light blue with hat and slippers to match and her bouquet was of talisman roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held in Lyceum Hall, the bride's mother and the mother of the bridegroom assisting in receiving. Upon their return from a wedding trip to New York, Mr. Booker and his bride are to make their home in Woburn at 16 Clinton street.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's High School and is a member of St. Mary's Alumnae. Mr. Booker, a graduate of Woburn High High School, is employed by a chemical manufacturing company in No. Woburn.

A SURVEY OF ATTIC UNEMPLOYMENT

This coming week will find households of Epiphany Parish taking a census of household articles and garments that are not now actively employed, and moving them out to active service by means of the Spring Rummage Sale, Thursday, April 29, 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.

This is in charge of the Evening Branch of the Church Service League who will spend their fortnightly meeting, Wednesday evening, April 28, in arranging and pricing their wares.

The parish is urged to have all the articles at the Parish House by Wednesday, April 28. If transportation for articles is desired, the donors may call Mrs. John Sharon, Win. 2320, or Mrs. John Hanlon, Win. 1645-M.

From the experience of several years the Evening Branch knows that their semi-annual rummage sales have served a useful purpose, in putting garments, furniture, or dishes that are useless or little used in one household into a place where they will be useful.

REBEKAH NOTES

Victoria Rebekah Lodge, 178 and Waterfield Lodge, I. O. O. F. will hold a joint celebration of the anniversary of Odd Fellowship at the Association Building, Vine street on Monday evening, April 26.

A turkey supper will be served at 6.30. The public is cordially invited to attend.

On May 4, a bridge and whist will be held at the home of Mrs. Carl Morse, 17 Lloyd street. Refreshments will be served.

On May 10, a bridge and whist will be held at the Association Hall.

1937 Ford V-8

● If you think that "all low-price cars cost about the same" — forget it! They don't.

Ford makes a car — a 60-horsepower economy Ford V-8 — that sells from 30 to 60 dollars under the prices asked for any other car of comparable size. The lowest Ford prices in years!

Check delivered prices in your town and see for yourself.

● Of course, first cost doesn't prove "low cost" — you must consider operating cost also.

The "60" has definitely established itself as the most economical car in Ford history. Ford cars have been famous for economy for 34 years, so that means something!

Owners who have driven it thousands of miles report that the Ford "60" averages between 22 and 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

You can prove those figures — on the open road — in a car provided by the nearest Ford dealer.

● When you've finished your personal check-up, ask yourself:

"Do I want to save money the day I buy my car and every mile I drive it?"

"Do I want a safe, roomy, comfortable car of advanced design — created from the finest materials to the highest precision standards?"

There's only one answer, of course — the 1937 Ford V-8.

Ford V-8 Prices Begin at $529 at Dearborn Factory. Transportation charges, State and Federal taxes extra

This price is for the 60-horsepower Coupe equipped with front and rear bumpers, spare tire, horn, windshield wiper, sun visor, glove compartment, and ash tray.

$25 A MONTH, after usual down-payment, buys any Ford V-8 Car, from any Ford dealer, anywhere in the U. S.—through Authorized Ford Finance Plans of Universal Credit Co.

WINCHESTER WON FROM LEXINGTON

Took Ten Inning Middlesex League Game, 9—8

Winchester High School opened its 1937 baseball season last Friday afternoon, winning a Middlesex League encounter from Lexington High on the latter's diamond, 9—8, after 10 hectic innings.

It was cold for baseball and the pitchers were naturally wild. The local boxmen, with the exception of "Carlie" Johnson, had plenty of difficulty finding the plate, but otherwise were not so bad, but two safe blows being garnered off their offerings. Lexington, with two previous games under its belt, surely looked no better either afield or at bat than the locals playing their first engagement.

Winchester belted out 13 hits, and but for the wildness of McNeilly and Kenton might have won handily in regulation innings. Big "Sam" threw a very fast one past the Minuteboys but was shy of control, walking and hitting batters until he loaded the sacks in the third and Brown cleared them with a triple, subsequently scoring himself.

Kenton who followed McNeilly was also wild and a couple of poorly played bunts with the bases full, followed by O'Connor's safety, gave Lexington three tallies and a two run lead starting the eighth frame.

Winchester tied the score in the eighth, on solid hitting by Farley, Kenton and Smith, and with the score all even little fork-hander "Carlie" Johnson went to the hill for Winchester. "Carlie" proved the most effective of the six pitchers who worked the game, holding Lexington hitless in the two innings he pitched and fanning two of the three men to face him in the tenth. "Johnnie" Farley tossed out the final batter.

Coach Mansfield's boys put over the winning marker in the tenth on hits by Kenny and Farley, Donaghey's infield out and Ralph Murphy's curving grounder that skidded through the feet of first baseman Grindle, permitting Kenney to score.

"Rusty" Donaghey had the distinction of tripling in the first run of the season in the opening inning.

SPRING LUNCHEON LARGELY ATTENDED AT EPIPHANY

Spring sunshine was outside the windows and spring blossoms and blossoming boughs inside made the Parish Hall of the Church of the Epiphany bright for the luncheon bridge Tuesday, April 20. Soft green covered the many tables, and on these the colorful bouquets made of cocktail napkins, the table guest-prizes, rose like crocuses on an April lawn. The use of the prizes for table color was devised and executed by Mrs. W. J. Turtle. The decorations of the Parish House were in charge of Mrs. Thomas Freeburn.

Mrs. Frank Booth was chairman of the committee that served the guests. She was assisted by Mrs. Alfred Sweet, Miss Barbara Goodwin and Mrs. Prescott Taylor. Their staff consisted of high school girls, fortunately available this week because of the vacation:

Elizabeth Nichols	June Aitcheson
Anne Marsters	Jane Monroe
Jane Kimball	Sally Sharon
Virginia Martens	Bernice Taber
Nancy Wyman	Gale Angas
Martha Kimball	Mary Angas
Dorothy Bruno	Cornelia Mitchell
Barbara Hickey	Mary Alice Mason
Annette Maxted	Frances Jane Hayden
Virginia Taylor

Spring colors appeared also in the frocks of the younger girls, who sold candy and in the little baskets in which their sweets were offered. Under the direction of Mrs. W. Mack Angas, these were the candy sellers:

Barbara Booth	Louise Kelley
Frances Angas	Jean Angas
Constance Murphy	Virginia Stannard
Jean Bradlee

Though most of the 150 present at the luncheon chose bridge as the amusement for their afternoon, two hostesses availed themselves of the promised nook for conversation, and took their guests down to the Library, where they took out their knitting and their sewing, and re-discovered what a good time women used to have when they just "brought their work and spent the afternoon" talking.

The luncheon was the last of the various undertakings which have this year been carried successfully through by the Ways and Means Committee, Mrs. Torr Harmer, chairman and Mrs. Warren Jenny, co-chairman.

They're kicking up in Lewiston, Me., because some strike leaders have been arrested for "riotous assault." A number of non-striking workers have been beaten up, but thus far no employers have been arrested. The Maine CIO counsel has immediately protested. There don't seem to be no justice.

Visible evidence of the new trend in banking is to be seen now at the Winchester Trust Company, which has just installed the Check Master plan as an addition to its already existing facilities for checking accounts.

The new department is more than "just another" extension of banking service. It is significant and is the subject of this comment because it makes the most important and essential of banking services—the use of a checking account—available to all.

In its Checkmaster Department, the Winchester Trust now accepts checking accounts without requiring any minimum balance at any time. As a matter of fact, a depositor can open a checking account there with a cash deposit as low as $1. Naturally, more money has to be deposited from time to time to cover such checks as the customer issues. The point is that the depositor who cannot or does not wish to maintain a fixed minimum balance in his account can now pay 5c for each check he issues and 5c for each item he deposits. There is no "carrying charge" levied against his account for failure to "keep up" the traditional balance because no set balance is needed.

Everyone knows the convenience of a checking account. The simple, straightforward plan of charging 5c per item makes its possible for practically every wage earner or salaried man or woman to enjoy one more of life's comforts hereto confined more or less to the well-to-do.

So it goes. The electric light, the automobile, radio, automatic refrigeration—one by one the luxuries of a few years ago become the commonplace conveniences of today. We are happy to see that the day is already at hand when the checking account steps out of the luxury class.

We understand that there is a constantly growing number of those "no minimum balance" departments in banks large and small throughout the United States and that the public response is tremendous.

That was to be expected. A checking account is a necessity in most families and the democratic basis on which it is available under the Check-Master Plan must be universally appealing.

HARTWICK PROPERTY SOLD

Information has been just received that the new Hartwick residence property located in Rangely park, 9, has been sold. Robert Hartwick, architect and owner, occupied it but one year, leaving Winchester last December for Detroit.

The property is one of the outstandly choice specialty properties in the town. It has an authentic Colonial exterior with ultra-modern interior planning. It is an 11-room house with a 3-car attached garage. There are also three baths and two lavatories. The house was designed to give individual freedom of expression of living to all the members of a family, and to that end are various floor levels. The first floor has in addition to a beautiful living room, a kitchen, dining room, maid's dinette, powder room and lavatory. There is a separate wing which contains a sitting room, two chambers, and a bath, also an extra room. There is a master's suite and guests' accommodations on another floor level. There is also a panelled hobby room on the third floor with fireplace. Accommodations for two maids are on the second floor.

One outstanding feature of the property is a large basement recreation room with fieldstone fireplace, located on the downward slope of the house. There is a small conservatory leading off from this room. It also opens charmingly through a small covered courtyard onto an unusually large sunken garden. The garden contains within itself, a rock garden over which water cascades into a pool below. The property has scientific air conditioning in every room, is insulated and oil heated. The lot contains over 20,000 ft. of land and has some exceptionally fine old trees. It is located on the site of the former Week's mansion. The buyer is Catharine P. White (Mrs. Erskine White). The broker in the sale was Helen I. Fessenden.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

Few people in and out of Winchester really enjoy a game unless they know the contestants well enough to hate one side.

You can forgive loved ones everything except their need of being forgiven.

When the stock market goes down, what beside the investor's feelings are hurt?

People really get acquainted about three months after the officiating clergyman makes it too late.

IN THE INTEREST OF ACCURACY

To the Editor of the Star:

My attention has been called to a statement in the report of a recent play by the Group Theatre, which says: "Four years ago an enthusiastic group of 'little theatre' devotees believed that a theatrical enterprise, one that would draw from the best talent in church and club groups, would prosper and make its unique contribution to community life."

This statement surprises me greatly, inasmuch as one of the organizers of the Group Theatre called on me for my approval of their plan when the movement was being organized, and assured me that this group would not draw talent from other already-organized groups in town. He represented to me that there was so much theatrical talent in Winchester that the already-organized groups could not give it an opportunity to have part in plays, and that there was a demand for a new organization to give people this opportunity to act. Evidently this supposedly superfluous talent was non-existent, or was too modest to make itself known.

One is driven, therefore, to the conclusion that the Group Theatre was unable to interest sufficient new talent to produce its plays, and that their invasion of the already-existing dramatic groups to find talent was an after-thought, and not part of their original plan, as stated above. The only other alternative is the awkward conviction that the orginal plans of the Group Theatre were misrepresented to me. This I cannot believe.

It seems to the undersigned, therefore, that in the interest of accuracy your readers should know the facts as they were represented to me when the Group Theatre was formed four years ago.

Yours truly,
Howard J. Chidley

FLORENCE CRITTENTON LEAGUE

The annual meeting of the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League of Compassion was held Thursday afternoon, April 15, at the home of Mrs. Reginald Bradlee, Ledgewood road.

The meeting was opened at 2.30 o'clock by the president, Mrs. Bowen Tufts and after a prayer by Rev. George Hale Reed, the regular business of the day was presented. The annual report was read by the secretary, Mrs. John A. Maddocks. This most interesting report showed the work the various committees have accomplished during the past year and at the conclusion of the reading of this report the following officers were elected for the coming year.

President Mrs. William Cusack.
1st Vice President Mrs. Harold B. Richmond.
2nd Vice President Mrs. E. Ober Pride.
Recording Secretary Mrs. Percy Bugbee.
Corresponding Secretary Mrs. George H. Eaton.
Treasurer Miss Florence R. Scales.
Director for 3 Years Mrs. Harris G. Leroy.

Mrs. Tufts presented the gavel to the newly elected president, who made a few remarks outlining her hopes for the work the circle might accomplish during the coming year. The circle then presented the retiring president with a beautiful bouquet in appreciation of her efforts during the two years she has served the circle as its executive officer.

Special guests for the day were Miss Helen Fowler, superintendent of the Maternity Home in Brighton, Mrs. Mary P. Chute, superintendent of Welcome House in Jamaica Plain and Mr. Clarence Preston, executive secretary of the League. Mr. Preston spoke a word of greeting and Miss Fowler and Mrs. Chute gave most interesting details of the work which is being done by the League in each of the branches which they represent.

Marion Cutcliff, reader, entertained with a group of readings and was greatly appreciated and much enjoyed by everyone.

Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt of the Harvard Avenue Congregational Church in Brookline was speaker of the afternoon. His talk was most inspiring.

At the close of the meeting tea was served by Mrs. John W. Johnson and her committee. Mrs. Edward C. Grant and Mrs. Ernest Dudley Chase poured.

MRS. NELLIE B. CANNON

Mrs. Nellie B. Cannon, widow of James Cannon and former well known resident of this town, died suddenly of heart disease Sunday, April 18, at her home in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Cannon was the daughter of John C. and Mary (Donahue) Sullivan. As a child she came to Winchester, attending the public schools and was married in this town June 26, 1888.

For some time after her marriage she made her home in Winchester, living later in the West and South before settling in Washington ten years ago. Her husband, a former railroad man, died in 1931.

She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Fers, Miss May Cannon and Miss Elsie Cannon, all of Washington; a son, Frederick Cannon of Washington, and two grandchildren; also a sister, Mrs. Mary E. Sullivan, and a brother, Robert H. Sullivan, both of Winchester.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning with requiem high mass celebrated in Sacred Heart Church, Washington, by Rev. Father Wempe. Interment was in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Washington.

INTERESTING RECIPES

Apple Candy

Pare, core and cut into one-half inch slices medium sized apples. When the apples are sliced drop a few at a time into syrup made of two cups of Domino Granulated sugar and one-half cup water. Simmer until clear. Drain on a plate. Dry a few hours then roll in Domino granulated sugar. Let stand over night, then roll in granulated sugar. Repeat this process until they will not absorb any more sugar, then pack in boxes lined with oiled paper.

Apple Pudding

8 tart apples, peeled cored and sliced
1 cup Domino Granulated Sugar
1 cup Domino Old Fashioned Brown Sugar
1 cup Cake Flour
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ cup shortening

Select firm ripe apples, medium size, place in deep pudding pan or baking dish and sprinkle 1 cup Domino Granulated sugar over apples, dusting with the cinnamon. Mix flour, shortening and Domino Old Fashioned Brown sugar, pinch of salt, to a crumbly mixture, and spread over top of apples. Cover dish and bake in moderate oven about one hour. Uncover and let brown before serving with hard sauce. This may be included in an even dinner.

Grapefruit Muffins

½ cup Domino Granulated Sugar
¼ cup shortening
2 tsps. baking powder
1 cup grapefruit segments
½ cup Domino Granulated Sugar
1 cup milk
3 cups flour
1 tsps. salt
½ tsp. baking soda
2 eggs, beaten

Add ¾ cup Domino Granulated sugar to fresh grapefruit segments, and let stand. Cream shortening until light and fluffy; add one half cup Domino Granulated Sugar, little at a time, blending after each addition. Add beaten eggs; sift flour, measure, sift again three times with baking powder and salt. Add milk and dry ingredients alternately to sugar mixture, beating well after each addition. Add baking soda to grapefruit segments; combine with muffin batter. Pour into well-greased muffin tins and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 30 minutes.

"MARCH OF TIME" AT THE UNIVERSITY

Again keeping pace with the headlines of the day, the new March of Time which comes to the University Theatre on Sunday, presents in a thorough and engrossing manner a well-balanced program of wide audience appeal with "The Supreme Court," "Amateur Sleuths" and "Britain's Food Defenses."

With a cast of the nine Justices and other leading figures on the scene of battle in Washington, "The Supreme Court," would be well worth seeing merely as a review of personalities in the news. It is, however, much more than that.

It reports the current crisis between the White House and the Court—the sixth in U. S. history—with President Roosevelt arguing his own side of the case, while Montana's Senator Burton K. Wheeler speaks in defense of the judiciary. The film makes no predictions on the outcome of the President's proposal, but those who see it will come away with a far deeper appreciation of the factors involved.

Accompanying subjects are "Britain's Food Defenses," depicting how the British Army's recruiting drive revealed that half the population of England is suffering from malnutrition; and "Amateur Sleuths," an instructive picturization of the public's increasing interest in crime detection.

WARNER BROS. STRAND THEATRE, WOBURN

"Sea Devils," a stirring story of the mighty deep and featuring Victor McLaglen, Ida Lupino and Preston Foster, opens Sunday at the Warner Bros. Strand Theatre in Woburn for a two days engagement. On the same program will be the hilarious comedy team Victor Moore and Helen Broderick in "We're on the Jury."

Tuesday and Wednesday brings "John Meade's Woman" with Edward Arnold, Gail Patrick and Francine Larramore and also a side-splitting comedy, "Clarence" starring Roscoe Karns, Eleanore Whitney and Charlotte Wynters. The usual ladies' free gift matinee will be held on Tuesday.

"On the Avenue" that tuneful, rhythmatic hit with the Irving Berlin songs that everyone is singing comes Thursday for three days, with Dick Powell, Madeleine Carroll, Alice Faye, the Ritz Bros., and many others. This film has been proclaimed one of the hits of the season and a treat is in store for all who see it.

MORNING STUDY GROUP

Winchester College Club

The program of the Morning Study Group of the College Club came to a fitting climax with a Russian tea, Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Leo Blaisdell, Wolcott terrace. Mrs. Gunby in Mexican costume, Mrs. Lyman Smith in Indian, Mrs. Willing in Swedish and Mrs. Blaisdell in Russian greeted the guests.

The speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Pitirim Sorokin of Cliff street, whose husband now at Harvard, was formerly secretary to Kerensky. Mrs. Sorokin is a graduate of the University of Petrograd, has studied in Prague, Columbia, and has her doctorate from the University of Minnesota. At present she is doing research work at Harvard in Botany. Her charm, her sincerity and genial manner in relating her personal experiences in Russia at the time of the outbreak of Communism completely captivated her audience. Her stories leading up to their own exile from the fatherland were like pages torn from a living book. She also succeeded in conveying to the group the truth that at heart the people of the world are all one family. Her views on Communism were very enlightening.

At the conclusion of the talk, the guests were invited to the dining room where a Russian tea was served. Several tall brass candelabra and a beautiful samovar, together with roses and white candles made a perfect setting. Real Russian Easter bread and Easter cake, festively decorated, were delicious.

The purpose of this year's course has been to get a better understanding of four other countries and their peoples. We owe much to Mrs. Sorokin for her interpretation of Russia to us, and to Mrs. Blaisdell on this occasion for her true American hospitality in a Russian setting.

Miss Mosher of the International Institute of Boston was on honored guest.

"Probation after Death" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, April 25.

The Golden Text is: "I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them" (Revelation 14.13).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "My soul, wait thou only upon God; for my expectation is from him. . . . In God is my salvation and my glory: the rock of my strength, and my refuge, is in God. . . . Also unto thee O Lord, belongeth mercy: for thou renderest to every man according to his work" (Psalms 62:5, 7, 12).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Every day makes its demands upon us for higher proofs rather than professions of Christian power. These proofs consist solely in the destruction of sin, sickness, and death by the power of Spirit, as Jesus destroyed them. This is an element of progress, and progress is the law of God, whose law demands of us only what we can certainly fulfill" (p. 233).

GRANADA THEATRE

Three of the screen's top-flight stars, Joan Crawford, Robert Montgomery and William Powell, play the leads the "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," which opens a seven day run at the Granada Theatre in Malden on Friday. The story, ultra modern as a stage play, has been advanced to the current minute in dialogue and atmosphere so that it is more than ever smart and sophisticated. "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" presents the amusing adventures of a gorgeous American widow, played by Joan Crawford, who is accepted by London society. Robert Montgomery, a dashing scion of a noble family promptly falls in love with her, and also an elderly Lord, Frank Morgan, who puts his case in writing, sparing none of his associates in the circle in his criticisms of all. A priceless rope of pearls vanish and Robert Montgomery traces it to Mrs. Cheyney's room. He offers her an alternative to facing the police but she herself rings for the servants. For her courage Montgomery loves her more than ever. In the subsequent explanations it is found that Mrs. Cheyney's butler, a most charming fellow, played by William Powell, was the real thief. Mrs. Cheyney then destroys the old lord's letters and as she consents to become Lady Dilling it is naturally the "Last of Mrs. Cheyney." With its star-studded cast, its brilliant production and engrossing story, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" is recommended as first class entertainment.

"Dangerous Number," with Ann Sothern, Robert Young, Reginald Owen, Cora Witherspoon and Dean Jagger as the featured players, will be the second feature on the bill starting Friday. Based on a magazine story by Leona Dalrymple, "Dangerous Number" tells of a silk manufacturer who marries an actress. He does not like her theatrical friends and she thinks his associates are a lot of stuffed shirts. They take a honeymoon trip across the United States which proves to be one continual battle. There is also some confusion about a previous marriage of the bride but this is straightened out. The newlyweds do not make up their differences until the bridegroom drags the bride into the river while she is wearing a new silk gown which he gave her. It is an experimental bit of dress goods which is soluble in water. This experience ends their quarrel for all time and winds up a film packed with laughter and fun.

STRAND THEATRE

"Nancy Steele Is Missing," with Victor McLaglen, Walter Connolly, June Lang and Peter Lorre as the stars, will open a four day run at the Strand Theatre in Malden today. "Nancy Steele Is Missing" is powerful drama with McLaglen giving another performance worthy of Academy consideration. The film opens with the World War and comes up to the present time. Victor McLaglen is a pacifist who kidnaps munition maker Walter Connolly's child. He puts the child with a family telling them she is his own. Then McLaglen gets involved with the police and sentenced to a year in prison. Framed by fellow prisoners as the instigator of an attempted prison break, McLaglen is sentenced for life. A shrewd cell-mate, Peter Lorre, suspects the huge prisoner is concealing a valuable secret, and when, 20 years later McLaglen is released for good behavior, Lorre trails him constantly. In a tense dramatic climax McLaglen attempts to restore the grown up Nancy Steel to her father, while Lorre stops at nothing to get the penitent criminal out of the way so he can substitute a fradulent claimant of his own. The manner in which McLaglen redeems himself for the crime committed 20 years before provides a conclusion of tremendous emotional power.

"Wings of the Morning," with the new and alluring screen sensation, Annabella, co-starred with Henry Fonda, brought to the screen in natural, perfected Technicolor, so life-like and beautiful it tops anything in the way of color the screen has seen, will be the second attraction on the bill starting Friday. The spectacular changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace, home of English kings; the most sensational Derby ever run, with jockey Steve Donoghue riding his most thrilling race; John McCormack, beloved Irish tenor, singing the songs that made him famous, are a few of the things that make "Wings of the Morning" a film at once beautiful and breath-taking.

"Night Waitress" starring Margot Grahame and Gordon Jones, will head the bill for next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The plot is charged with excitement and concerns a missing shipment of gold consigned to the San Francisco mint. "Crack Up" with Brian Donlevy, Helen Wood and Peter Lorre will be the second attraction starting Tuesday.

PARISH PLAYERS IN "DULCY"

Scored Hit in Final Show of 11th Season

The Parish Players of the First Congregational Church pleased a large and most appreciative audience last Friday evening with a first rate performance of "Dulcy," a three act comedy by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, to close their 11th season in "The Little Theatre Beneath a Spire." Sidney Ball directed the show, the action of which took place wholly in the living room of the suburban home of "Dulcy" and her husband during the late afternoon, evening and morning of the next day. The cast included:

Dulcina, (Dulcy) Hersilia W. Elmer
Gordon Smith, (her husband) Eugene M. Pollard
William Parker, (her brother) Edward A. Bartlett
C. Roger Forbes Nathan Thumim
Mrs. Forbes Lenore T. Gamage
Angela Forbes Geraldine Taylor
Schuyler Van Dyck Harlow Russell
Tom Sterrett, (advertising engineer) Oscar W. Crowers
Vincent Leach, (scenarist) John Ely Burchard
Blair Patterson Samuel J. Elder
Henry John D. Stevens

In every respect "Dulcy" was on the high level Little Theatre productions have maintained through the years. The play was well chosen for general appreciation and the production groups provided it with an excellent setting, properties being carefully chosen and the lighting very satisfactory. There was little difficulty with lines and no trouble with business to mar the smoothness of the performance.

The familiar story of "Dulcy" is that of a helpful wife, who is not satisfied with being "little Miss Fixit," for the entire universe, but must also take especial charge of her husband's business destinies, despite repeated promises to mind her own business. In an attempt to soften a large jewelry manufacturer (Forbes) with whom her husband has hopes of forming an alliance and whom he has invited to his home for the express purpose of discussing a possible partnership, she invites to meet him a little known musically inclined capitalist, having a socially prominent name, and a motion picture scenarist; then ribs up a deal for a rival partnership with the supposed capitalist, who turns out to be a mental case, and assists the scenarist to elope with the jewelry magnate's daughter.

There are other complications, such as the loss of daughter's pearls coincident with the disappearance of the butler, an ex-convict, being reclaimed by "Dulcy," and an affaire in which the pseudo-capitalist and the manufacturer's young wife are principals.

The rescue of daughter by "Dulcy's" brother, the return of the butler from a visit to the probation officee with the pearls which he has taken for safe keeping and the final cementing of the original business partnership between the jewelry magnate and "Dulcy's" husband, actually brought about through her well meaning bungling closed happily one of the most entertaining shows in Little Theatre history.

Mrs. Elmer in the title role carried the show beautifully, giving added evidence of the ability which has placed her in the fore-front of Winchester amateurs. She was a very human "Dulcy," wholly consistent and completely dedicated to doing for others what they would much better have done for themselves. Without undue extravagance she made the most of the many opportunities her part afforded, assuming the varying moods and tempos of the scatter-brain wife with ease and complete success.

Mrs. Gamage was an entirely satisfactory Mrs. Forbes, but somehow conveyed the impression of playing a part well enough to be sure, but for which she had little enthusiasm. She was at her best in the brief scene with Schuyler, but on the whole seemed not too happily cast. Miss Taylor was an engaging, if not exceptional Angela, being good to look at and speaking her lines well. The fact that she assumed the part after illness had removed two predecessors from the cast makes her performance the more commendable, and she was very successful in maintaining her poise in the extravagant love scene with Vincent.

Dr. Pollard as the harassed husband was excellent, bringing to the role of Gordon Smith all the deftness of touch and dry humor that have made him such a favorite with local audiences. As the loving spouse he was not so convincing and, at times his voice was a bit low for those in the rear of the hall. Mr. Bartlett's "Willie" was a juvenile of the he-man type, a refreshing bit of straight-forward acting that lost nothing in appeal because of its naturalness. An infectious grin was not the least of several pleasing mannerisms which assisted in establishing this "Little Theatre" newcomer in favor with the audience.

Sharing comedy honors with Mrs. Elmer was Mr. Thumim whose portrayal of the jewelry magnate who would not "ride golf and play horseback" was outstanding. A purist, perhaps, might have preferred a lighter touch at times, but the audience was convulsed at his clever combining of facial expression, voice and gesticulation to express, first impatience, then boredom, followed by irritation, righteous indignation and finally unalloyed joy. His cigar smoking and nervous mannerisms during the recitation of the scenario were individual and much enjoyed.

Mr. Russell's Schuyler Van Dyck must rank with the Little Theater's best bits of character acting. Very subtly he got over to his audience the fact that there was something wrong with him, his slightly fixed stare and furtive manner being cleverly contrasted with bombastic masterfulness that the audience was not slow to appreciate. Mr. Burchard, too, scored heavily with his portrayal of the aesthetic scenarist, remaining wholly in character from his first affectatious kissing of his hostess's hand to his final fatuous smile as he admitted he hadn't thought much about the details of his marriage. His handling of the difficult scenario reading was a finished bit of work of a type with which few amateurs could have so successfully coped.

Mr. Crowers, though not so fortunately cast as some times, was a brisk, wholly efficient advertising enthusiast, snapping out his "good morning, Chief" in the most approved manner and quoting his alphabet with all the aplomb of a "new dealer." Mr. Elder did well with the minor part of Blair Patterson, and Mr. Stevens was successful in adding a sinister touch to Henry, the Butler, suggesting the latter's institutional background; though he, like Mrs. Gamage, seemed none to happy in his role. His pocketing of the pearls was well done.

Samuel M. Graves was production chairman and the scenery was done by Ellouise T. Graves, Richard C. Ashenden, Jr., Evelyn Russell, and Deborah Gilbert. Robert Higgins was in charge of lighting; Dorothy M. Wills and May Thompson Hill were responsible for properties. Mrs. Walter W. Winship and Mrs. Harold Bates were coffee hostesses and Mrs. A. Kirby Snell in charge of candy. Joseph W. Butler was head usher.

LONIGRO—CARDONE

The marriage of Miss Virginia Cardone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Cardone of Bennington street, East Boston, to Peter Lonigro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Lonigro of Swanton street, took place at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, April 18, in the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, East Boston, with Rev. Father Vergine officiating. The bridal party approached the altar over a white carpet and the marriage was solemnized in an attractive setting of palms. The wedding music was played by the church organist.

Miss Cardone was attended by Miss Mary DiMatteo of Boston, and little Anna Cardone of East Boston was ring bearer. Carmen DiMinico of Winchester acted as best man for Mr. Lonigro and the ushers were Anthony Cardone, John Cardone, both of East Boston; Kelly Bencale of Chelsea and Angelo Reatano of Medford.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white satin with a conventional bridal veil and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss DiMatteo wore a gown of blue lace with matching hat and carried tea roses. The little ring bearer wore a frock of blue crepe de chine, trimmed with pink.

After the ceremony a reception was held in Moose Hall, East Boston, from 5:30 until 11 o'clock. Upon their return from a wedding trip to Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Lonigro will make their home in Winchester at 106 Swanton street.

HIGH SCHOOL TO OPEN ON NEW FIELD WITH CONCORD

Concord High School, defending Middlesex League titlist, comes to Winchester next Wednesday afternoon for a league engagement with Winchester High. The occasion will be of more than a little interest because of the fact that it will mark the first use of the town's new enclosed athletic field on Black Ball.

A crew of men have been busy getting the field into readiness for the game and Park Commissioner George T. Davidson promises that everything will be in good shape for the opener. Work on the erection of the old circus stands which were formerly on Manchester Field was begun on Wednesday.

The Original Melissa

The original Melissa was a fabled nymph who is said to have given to man the art of keeping bees. From her Greek name, says Literary Digest, came the Latinized word melisse, meaning "a sweetener," as honey used for sweetening things.

AT THE OPERA

Opera came to town last night;
'Twas to be a pretty sight
It was held down in town hall
And was tended by us all.

Ev'ry one for miles aroun'
Drove their horse or car to town.
I put on my Sunday's best
And went in with all the rest.

Music started soft and clear—
'Twas like angels at yer ear
Took yer thoughts and cares away
From the worries of the day.

Sorta drenched yer with a love
That must come from up above.
But about that time it seems Something had to spoil these dreams.

Soprano raised her voice so fer
That it got away from her
Then to make the matters worse
Tenor, he, forgot his verse.

Hemmed and hawed and stalled about
'Til they had to take him out.
Well, that kinda let yer down—
Set yer back on solid groun'.

Then the orchestra would play
But each went a different way
Traitto had the leading part
But by now she'd lost her art.

Then the bass began to roll
And I knew he'd lost control.
Manager came out to say
They had traveled quite a way.

And he said there was no doubt
That they were all tired out
"But next time you'll get in free
If you'll leave your names with me."

Well sir, now I want to say
There were no names passed his way
And I've formed the strong idea
Operas won't again play here.

JUNIOR FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

On Monday, April 12, we had a very interesting meeting in "Homemaking." Miss Florence G. Chisholm was unable to be with us, but she sent a very able assistant in her place. She gave a demonstration and ideas for serving light refreshments. We all sampled her cooking and it was delicious.

On the 26th of April we will have our last meeting before the annual one. Mrs. White of Luziers Inc., who was with us at our first meeting, will come again and talk on "Make-Up Blending for the Skin." She will give a demonstration using three girls as models: one blond, one brunette, and one titian. She will also give a few hints on the care of the hair. Those who attended the first meeting know how interesting she is, so be sure to come this time and bring your friends.

NEW HAVEN MARRIAGE OF INTEREST

Josephine Woods Bride of Huntington English

A marriage having much Winchester interest took place in the chapel of St. Paul's Church in New Haven, Conn., on Saturday afternoon, April 24 at 4 o'clock, when Miss Josephine Woods, daughter of Mrs. George Adams Woods and the late Mr. Woods of Livingston street, New Haven, formerly of this town, became the bride of Huntington English, son of Mrs. John C. English, also of New Haven.

The rector of St. Paul's, Rev. Arthur F. McKenny, performed the ceremony, and Miss Woods was given in marriage by her brother, George Bryant Woods of New York City. Her honor maid was Miss Nancy English of New Haven and the other attendants were Miss Barbara McKay Woods of New York City and Miss Martha Helen Chandler of New Haven, nieces of the bride. John F. English acted as best man for his brother, and the corps of ushers included John H. Woods of New Haven, brother of the bride; G. Douglas Wiepert, Philip H. English and Paul B. Valle, all of New Haven.

After the ceremony a small reception for relatives and intimate friends was held at the New Haven Lawn Club. Among the out-of-town guests were several from Winchester, including Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. John Tarbell, Mrs. Walter P. Keyes, Mrs. W. H. W. Bicknell and Miss Dorothy Pendleton.

Upon their return from a wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. English will make their home in New Haven at 17 Livingston street. The bride has many friends in Winchester being a graduate of Winchester High School and a member of the En Ka sorority. She and her family were prominent socially during their long residence here. Their home was on Sheffield road.

POLICE INTERRUPTED TRIP

Monday afternoon shortly before 2:40 o'clock Patrolman John J. Dolan was informed that three young men and a girl, the latter with an over-night case, were seen on upper Main street, apparently hitch-hiking somewhere. Officer Dolan notified Headquarters and a radio call was sent out, Patrolman William E. Cassidy in the cruiser picking up the quartet.

Not satisfied with answers to his questions Officer Cassidy took the girl and her escorts to Headquarters where they were questioned by Chief William H. Rogers.

In reply to questions, the girl gave her age as 15 and stated that she lived in Barton, Vt. She stated that she knew the oldest of the three young men and that her mother had given her permission to accompany him to Fairhaven. The young man told the police he had gone to Barton on business and the girl's mother had asked him to take her back to Fairhaven with him. The other young men had accompanied him to Barton and back for the ride. All three gave their residence as Fairhaven. The car in which the quartet was riding had broken down in North Woburn and they had left it there, after removing the plates. The Woburn Police had questioned them and had permitted them to go.

Chief Rogers, after hearing the story, allowed the three young men to continue on their way. The girl he turned over to a representative of the State Department of Child Welfare.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The annual meeting of the Winchester League of Women Voters will be held at 2.30 on Tuesday afternoon, May 4 at the home of Mrs. George Brayley, 84 Cambridge street. Mrs. Ralph M. Sparks, president, will introduce the speaker of the afternoon, Dr. D. Brewer Eddy. Dr. Eddy, sometimes in the company of his well known brother, Sherwood Eddy, just returned from a seven months' tour through Europe, the Near East and the Orient, brings a vivid and timely picture of civilization in transition as seen through the keen eyes of a Christian Internationalist.

In addition to a fund of fresh information he has a well known talent for presenting his material in a vivid and colorful manner. His previous experiences as a world traveler have given him a background of history and geography upon which to paint this picture of a new world and to interpret intelligently its present trends.

All members of the League are cordially invited to attend this meeting. Tea will be served.

ROBERT A. BURNS of Rangely Road

Chairman of the Dartmouth Alumni Committee in charge of the Alumni Dinner May 14 at the Winchester Country Club

The Dartmouth College alumni of Winchester are planning a dinner and get-together at the Country Club Friday, May 14. Although more than 100 alumni of Dartmouth are residents in Winchester, including Robert J. Holmes of Lakeview road, president of the Boston Alumni Association, and Richard Parkhurst, past president of that body, the Winchester Dartmouth graduates have not held any activity of their own for many years. It is hoped by the committee that the May 14 dinner will inaugurate greater community interest among Winchester Dartmouth graduates.

Bill Cunningham, prominent Boston sports-writer and Dartmouth class of 1919, will be one of the star speakers at the Dartmouth dinner at the Country Club. A college official, as yet unchosen, will bring official greetings from Hanover, and there will be movies of college activities. One purrose of the dinner is the entertainment of prospective freshmen, many of them Winchester High seniors, who will be the invited guests of the alumni.

The alumni committee in charge of the dinner is: R. J. Burns, chairman; C. G. McDavitt, Jr., finance; D. W. Gardner, entertainment; John Kenerson, freshman guests; and R. H. Brinkerhoff, secretary. Alumni should send dinner reservations to C. G. McDavitt, Jr., Westland road. Any alumni desiring to invite their sons or other prospective freshmen should get in touch with John Kenerson of Chesterford road, Winchester.

PRE-NUPTIAL PARTY

One of the most important of the spring weddings in Winchester is that of Miss Helen Marden Wild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Wild of Everett avenue, and Mr. Robert Otis Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Edwin Jennings of Church street, which will take place next Wednesday evening at the Unitarian Church. Miss Wild has been the honored guest at many pre-bridal parties, one of the most delightful being that of Mr. and Mrs. Willis G. C. Kimball of "Kimball Arms" on Cambridge street, who entertained the engaged couple recently with a cocktail party and shower. Mrs. Fred Chapman of Penn road also gave Miss Wild a shower, preceded by a most delicious luncheon, last Saturday afternoon. Her guests included Mrs. Prescott Wild, Mrs. Arthur Corwin, Mrs. C. Edwin Jennings, Mrs. Russell Wiggin, Mrs. Willis G. C. Kimball, Mrs. Thomas Aldrich, Mrs. Irving E. Jennings, Mrs. Ellsworth G. Nichols, Miss Edna Wild, Miss Flora Haley and Miss Virginia Gilman of Arlington, Miss Constance Kedian of Belmont, Mrs. John McLean of Boston and Miss Marjorie Little.

MRS. C. HELEN DOWNER

Mrs. C. Helen Downer, who died Saturday, April 24, at her home in Northboro in her 89th year, was the grandmother of Mr. Cutler B. Downer of Sheffield road. Mrs. Downer was the widow of Cutler Downer, formerly of Somerville, and besides her grandson in this town, is survived by two granddaughters, Mrs. Browning E. Marean of New York City and Mrs. Howard P. Belknap of Newton Center. Three great-granddaughters live in Winchester, Mrs. Thomas M. Righter, Jr. of Fernway (Frances Downer), Mrs. Thomas W. Bowes of Niles lane (Rosamond Downer) and Miss Helen Downer. There are two great-grandchildren, Browning E. Marean, Jr. and Miss Helen Marean, in New York City and four great-great-grandchildren, Martha Righter, Jane Stuart Righter, Cutler Downer Bowes and Rodney Downer Bowes, all of this town. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the late residence on Munroe street in Northboro.

READING HERE TODAY

Winchester High plays its third game of the Middlesex League series this afternoon on the new athletic field with Reading High School.

Reading is not rated as too potent this spring, and the game ought to be a toss-up. Winchester has shown streaks of promise among the bad baseball that you are sure to get from boys who play the game only two or three months of the year.

Against Concord on Tuesday the locals looked none too smart, and two bits of slow thinking hurt like blazers in the visitor's big first. The three gift runs Concord got in that frame just meant the ball game as things turned out.

TYPHOID SCARE

Board of Health Taking Every Precaution

A typhoid epidemic broke out in Winchester this week, ten known cases and 12 suspects being located up to yesterday forenoon. As a result many residents are very apprehensive.

Our Board of Health went actively at work as soon as the epidemic appeared, and Dr. Richard W. Sheehy, chief of staff at the Winchester Hospital, called a staff meeting on Tuesday night, mapping out a united course of action among the doctors of the town.

The source of the epidemic has been traced to an outside wholesale bakery and is laid to cream puffs, eclairs and marshmallows. All of Winchester's cases are located in a definite area running north from Westley street at Washington street to Cross street, and westerly to the railroad tracks. Stores selling the product of this bakery have been closed. Other cases in the Merrimack Valley have been traced to this same bakery.

The Board of Health has added three additional nurses on duty, one as a family nurse and two in the schools. Residents need have no hesitancy about sending their children to school, for they are under constant observation and with the slightest indication of the disease cultures are immediately taken.

Winchester residents will be relieved to learn that our town water is OK in every respect. The treatment our water receives prohibits any chance of typhoid germs being in it, and a check made this week by the State Board of Health shows its condition to be excellent.

STATE WIDE FIGHT

Two leading figures in the statewide fight for lower taxes and for the end of wasteful spending have been secured by the Winchester Taxpayers' Association for its big meeting to be held in the high school auditorium on May 18. They are Norman MacDonald, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers and Thomas M. Joyce, former president of the Lowell Taxpayers' Association and Winchester people interested in the tax situation are expected to turn out in large numbers to hear their story.

Focal point of the attack by the Winchester Association is the tax of more than $100,000 annually paid by the town for expenditures of the State and County, at a cost of about $3 per thousand added to the local tax rate. The Winchester Association, in co-operation with other tax groups throughout the State, has been active in pressing for a reduction in this tax burden, which hits not only the real estate taxpayer but also every person who uses gasoline or oil, tobacco, or the many other commodities now carrying the so-called "hidden taxes."

While Winchester, due to excellent town government, has a moderate tax rate, State and County taxes take a heavy toll, and great interest is being shown locally in the work of keeping these within reason. President James Nowell of the local association has announced that the May 18 meeting will be open to the public, without ticket or further invitation, and a large meeting is anticipated due to the prominence of the two speakers.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

Sixty-five feet of the space at the Waterfield road side of the railroad station is to be marked off for taxicab stands. According to the new traffic regulations, "No person other than drivers of vehicles to which bus stands and hackney carriage stands have been assigned shall park any vehicle thereon while such stands are marked or signed as such and drivers of buses and hackney carriages shall not park or stand their vehicles in any place except such as has been so assigned therefor."

The Board held a public hearing on the petition of the Edison Company to construct and maintain underground conduits and manholes for its wires and cables on Main street, northerly from Park street to the Wedge Pond Bridge and granted the permit.

Specifications have been sent to all Winchester painters, with an invitation to bid on the painting of the town hall outside.

The Board will participate in the Legion Post's observance of Memorial Day on May 31 and has granted the use of the town hall in the afternoon for the purpose of serving refreshments, as has been the custom in past years.

REV. HILDA L. IVES TO PREACH AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH SUNDAY, 10.30 A. M.

Invasion of the Protestant pulpit by women preachers is still such a novelty that it is a refreshing change to hear a woman's voice in the pulpit. Next Sunday morning, at the First Congregational Church, Rev. Hilda L. Ives, who is president of the "New England Town and Country Church Commission," and a member of the "Inter-seminary Staff for Training for the Rural Ministry," teaching on the faculties of both Andover-Newton and Bangor Theological Seminaries, will give an address on "By-ways and Hedges."

ANNUAL DINNER AND LADIES' NIGHT

Jones, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, a fluent talker who is rapidly making a name for himself as a minister and speaker. Movies will be shown by the Hudson Bay Company, the largest fur trading company in the world, has been in business for over 200 years, has 250 fur trading posts, and uses over 600 dogs in the winter. These pictures have already been shown in Winchester and their interest and excellence caused us to secure them for this occasion.

Tickets are $1 each and may be obtained from Butterworth the jeweler, from the Star Office or from Hevey's drug store.

This is an open meeting and the public is cordially invited.

COMMITTEES FOR STREET FAIR ANNOUNCED

Many Working to Assure Success of Spring Event May 8

Preparations for the annual En Ka Street Fair, which will open Winchester's out-of-doors social season on May 8, are entering the final stage, with a large group working on the many committees charged with the multitudinous arrangements for this eagerly waited event. Proceeds are to benefit the Winchester Hospital and the Home for Aged People.

Heading the enthusiastic workers is the general committee, comprising Mrs. Charles Woolley, Mrs. John Kenerson, Mrs. Franklin Lane, Mrs. Harold Meyer and Mrs. Kenneth Moffatt.

Aprrons, which are such a gay part of the Dutch costume, and also very useful articles, will be on sale at the apron shelf with Mrs. Harold Dover as chairman. Since Holland is so closely associated with the sea, there will of course be a nautical gifts booth under the direction of Mrs. Samuel Cole, who will have as her assistants Mrs. Paul Goddu, Mrs. Willard Hudson, Mrs. Wilfred McKenzie, Mrs. Harry Locke, Mrs. Kenneth Grant, Mrs. Paul Budgell and Mrs. John Tarbell. The flower shop, which will resemble a gay Dutch flower mart, will have as its co-chairmen Mrs. Earle Spencer and Mrs. Harold Richmond. They will be assisted by Mrs. Raymond Thacher, Mrs. Harris Richardson, Mrs. P. Stewart Newton and Mrs. Willburt Kinsley.

Dutch cheeses, of course, will be featured at this street fair, and at the cheese box will be Mrs. T. Price Wilson, chairman; Mrs. Warren Goddu, Mrs. Frank Rounds, Mrs. Stuart Stearns, Mrs. Lowell Smith, Mrs. Richard Steinmetz, Mrs. Dean Blanchard and Mrs. Albert Grant.

At the attic or rummage booth Mrs. Arthur Rutter will be in charge, assisted by Mrs. Carl Bolter, Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. James Woolley, Mrs. Hollister Olmsted, Mrs. Lars Weil, Mrs. Kelly Anderson, Mrs. Theodore Cunningham. WINCHESTER DEDICATED NEW FIELD

Concord Won Opening Ball Game 8—6

Winchester opened its new athletic field on the Shore road in the usual manner Tuesday afternoon when the high school nine lost a Middlesex League game to Concord High, 8 to 6.

The infield of the new diamond was in fine shape for the game, and the outfield not too bad, though there still remains work to be done on the far stretches. The concensus of opinion seemed to be that when completed the new layout will be quite all right.

About 500 faithful fans shivered about the field until 3:45 when the opening exercises took place. Chairman George T. Davidson of the Park Commissioners toed the pitching rubber and tossed up several submarine pitches to Superintendent of Schools James J. Quinn, behind the bat, the latter contributing one rather good bare-hand stop. Co-Chairman W. Allan Wilde of the Board of Selectmen stood hopefully at bat during the pitching, but found none of the Davidson offerings to his liking, finally getting Mike McNeilly to throw one in the slot which he bounced out to second base.

Among the fans was the high school's beloved Principal Emeritus Edwin N. Lovering, enthusiastic sports follower who has long argued for the enclosed field which is now a reality. Motion pictures of the opening exercises were taken by Mr. Frank Howard.

Coach Mansfield chose to start big "Dick" McNeilly on the hill, despite his lack of experience, hoping that he might get by for a few innings, or until he could safely insert his present ace hurler, "Carlie" Johnson, who is hardly ready to go nine hard frames as yet. "Tom" Kenton, who had experience on the mound last year and has done more pitching than

APOLLO CLUB GAVE FINE CONCERT

The Apollo Club, Boston's famous male chorus, with Dr. Thompson Stone as conductor gave a concert last Friday evening in the parish hall of the First Congregational Church under the auspices of the church music committee. An appreciative audience of about 200 warmly applauded the following program: Speaks, "Morning"; Alcock, "Music When Soft Voices Die"; Wolfrum. "Serenade"; Foote, "Bedouin Song"; Chadwick, "Pack Clouds Away"; Gerieke, "O World, Thou Art so Fair a Sight"; Chudleigh-Candish, "The Jolly Roger"; Hadley, "The Musical Trust"; Terry, Three Chanties, "Rio Grande", Shenandoah" and "Hullabaloo" with Irving Townsend as chanty man; and Strauss, "The Beautiful Blue Danube." The tenor soloist, Eugene Conley, sang Handel, "Where E're You Walk"; "A Ballymore Ballad", arr. by Hughes; Kramer, "Swans"; and Ponchielli, "Cielo e Mare" from the opera, "Giocondo."

As one would expect, the Apollo Club's performance last Friday evening was that of competent, finely trained singers directed by a skilled conductor. Dr. Stone at all times had the club under perfect control and his singers demonstrated a marked flexibility and fine regard for nuance in responding to his demands. Nor should the fine diction and breath control of the men pass unnoticed, though these musical refinements were of course much less spectacular, if more difficult to achieve, than the instant and effortless change in volume from a delicate pianissimo to a rousing double forte. The 40 members of the club who came to Winchester were representative of the organization's excellence and their voices were well balanced.

The entire program was well chosen to provide variety and all the numbers were greatly enjoyed. Naturally such old favorites as the virile "Bedouin Song" and lilting "Blue Danube" were most enthusiastically received, though encores were also demanded after the club's crisp singing of the spritely "Jolly Roger" and the chanty, "Hullabaloo."

The latter selection was one of three, all most unusual and very popular. Dr. Stone explained briefly before they were sung that the modern chanties are developments of the old original sailor chanties which used to be sung by the sea dogs on the old square riggers; the simple old accented sailor tunes, used by the men to lighten their monotony and as a cadence for their gang chores aboard ship having been restored and arranged for chorus singing.

Mr. Townsend scored heavily as the chanty man in this group, using his bass voice skillfully to obtain the proper effects and adding no little to the pleasure of the audience.

Mr. Conley, the featured soloist, sang beautifully, displaying an even scale and perfect control of his voice in every register. The fine quality of his voice was heard to especial advantage in his sympathetic rendering of the Irish ballad, and he sang the operatic aria, "Heaven and Ocean" superbly, proving entirely adequate to the demands of the taxing score.

Though perhaps less generally appreciated, the club's singing of the difficult modulation in the number by Alcock and its generally artistic performance of the "Serenade" deserve special mention.

The playing of Reginald Boardman as accompanist is deserving high praise, both for its technical proficiency and for the unobtrusive manner in which it assisted and supported both the ensemble and soloists. Mr. Boardman's contribution to the excellence of the program should not be overlooked.

A pleasing feature of the concert having much local interest occurred when the president of the Apollo Club, Mr. Courtney Guild, introduced Mr. Joshua Phippen of this town as the club's accompanist in 1897. Mr. Phippen, widely known in musical circles as a pianist and composer, was present and warmly applauded as he acknowledged Mr. Guild's remarks.

The members and friends of the Society are looking forward to their second splash party to be held at the Somerville Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening, May 15. Preparations are now being made for the evening's program and tentative plans show a very fine evening is in store for all in attendance.

CONFERENCE AT SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Wednesday evening the officers, teachers and workers of Second Congregational Church met in conference with the pastor to discuss a report of his findings in a study of the parish and to discuss the program for the remainder of the season. The meeting was marked by a frank discussion of the responsibilities of the church and the opportunity for a consecrated and joyful service in the holy privilege of the Church of Christ. Such meetings to frankly face the problems of the parish and extend the ministry were planned as periodic Workers' Conferences. The aim of these meetings will be to bring to the workers more and more assurance that the Church of Christ and its gospel message must be the primary concern of those whose lives have been dedicated to service. Thus, the discouragements and frustrations may be overshadowed by the fellowship of those who would serve effectively the cause that makes for victorious living.

WAS NATIVE OF WINCHESTER

Police Headquarters was asked last Sunday to supply any information possible about a man believed to be Albert Shaw, who was killed Saturday night in an automobile accident in Ilcuston, Texas, and who was supposed to be a native of Winchester. A careful checkup of the records of the Town Clerk failed to disclose the birth of an Albert Shaw in this town, and old timers questioned by the police could recall no one by that name.

Later it was discovered that there had been a mistake in the name given the police, the name being Arthur N. Shaw. The records show such a man born in Winchester Sept. 1, 1867. No further data could be obtained and so far as can be learned there are no relatives of the deceased now living in town.

EXHIBITS DOLL AND DANCE MASKS

Mrs. Robert Burr of 50 Glen road is exhibiting this week a collection of portrait, doll and dance masks in the Workshops of the Boston Y. W. C. A. at 140 Clarendon street.

The exhibit includes a variety of mask techniques. There are two dance masks, one portraying sorrow, the other joy, which Mrs. Burr executed for Hans Wiener, the dancer. Three Balinese masks, striking in color and detail, are topped by the exotic headdresses of the Island. Perhaps the most outstanding piece of work is the series of three masks which portrays a woman at three stages of her life; the first, young and fresh-skinned; the second, middle-aged; and the third, ageing but with the dignity and lines of understanding which only a lifetime of experience can bring.

Mrs. Burr began her work in masks just two years ago. Because of her skilled work, she was invited them by Miss Ruth Perkins, Workshops director. The exhibit is open to the public.

Coach "Tom" Maynard and his Winchester High School track team opened their 1937 season with the strong Arlington High team at Arlington Tuesday afternoon, losing 55—26 to a team much more experienced and apparently further along than the local boys.

Winchester won only three first places, "Charlie" Reeves annexing both dashes and big "Bob" Gardner taking the shotput. Arlington made a clean sweep in the quarter and its hurdler, Partlow, was the meet's high scorer, winning the low sticks and both the high and broad jumps.

WHY THE LAUNDRY WAS LATE

Shortly after 2 o'clock Wednesday morning Patrolman Clarence Dunbury, while making his round of the center, discovered a heavily laden laundry truck, owned by an out-of-town laundry company, parked on Church street in front of the Parker & Lane Coal office with the key in the ignition switch, but no driver in sight.

After waiting a reasonable time for the driver to put in an appearance the truck was driven to the Super-Service Garage and Lieutenant O'Connell got in touch with the Waltham Police.

The Waltham authorities had no record of the machine being stolen and later in the morning a member of the laundry staff called with reference to the truck, which was in charge of a Dorchester man. The latter had dropped completely out of sight and the laundry route foreman finally called for the machine and its load of clothing.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

If one cannot travel there is much pleasure derived from hearing about trips others have enjoyed. Two members of the Guild shared their recent trips by showing movies at the meeting on Tuesday. Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini assisted by Mrs. Angelo Ghirardini and Mrs. John J. Costello assisted by her son Paul brought the beauties of Florida and California home in their movie reels. Many of the pictures were colored and both are to be congratulated upon their success in photography.

After a short business meeting tea was served by the following hostesses, Mrs. John Bradley, Mrs. Frank Gavagan, Mrs. Robert Quigley, Mrs. Wm. Connell, Mrs. Geo. LeDuc and Mrs. Geo. Elwell. Mrs. Jonathan Felt and Mrs. O. J. Logue poured.

Communion Sunday

The choir of St. Peter's Church, Lowell, will sing the Mass of St. John the Baptist at the 8 o'clock Mass on Sunday at St. Mary's Church. The choir arrangements were made through the music chairman of the Guild, Mrs. Edward MacDonald, who was organist in that parish for a number of years. Father Quirbach will be the celebrant of the Mass and all members are urged to attend and receive Holy Communion.

The breakfast will be held at the Calumet Club with Mr. Fred Scholl in charge. All arrangements and reservations are being made by Mrs. James Carr, Win. 0813-M.

Day of Recollection

An annual event in Guild activities is the Day of Recollection held at the Cenacle in Brighton every May. This year May 4 has been chosen as the date and as usual a large group from Winchester expect to attend.

Annual Meeting

May 11 will be the annual meeting and a large cast is rehearsing for the play, "How the Club was Formed" which will be presented on that afternoon. A small admission fee will be charged for guests.

All officers and chairmen are requested to send reports to the Secretary, Mrs. Richard O'Rourke promptly so she can include them in her annual report.

Lecture

Rev. Chas. McInnis who is such a favorite speaker will be presented in the fifth lecture. This will probably be an evening lecture and members will be notified as to the time and place.

EPIPHANY CHURCH SCHOOL CHOIR GOES TO TRINITY, BOSTON

Sunday afternoon, April 25, members of the Girls' Choir of the Epiphany Church School, took the Mitebox offering of the School to Trinity Church, Boston, where they took part in the service presenting it to the Diocese of Massachusetts. Similar services of presentation were held in the northern and the southern parts of the Diocese at the same hour.

The Trinity service began with a colorful processional, in which church school choirs of both boys and girls of all the churches in and near Boston took part. In their varied vestments the choirs, when seated, filled the nave of the great church. Many parents and teachers looked down from the galleries upon the attentive young throng and other visitors too were drawn by the beauty of the banners, the crosses, the rich colors of the vestments.

The Epiphany offering was largely the sum of the gifts parish children had made to the general missionary work of the church by individual earnings and self-denials. In the kindergarten and primary grades the individual gifts were suplemented by the proceeds of a parish-wide tea and food-sale.

Epiphany was represented by the following members of the church school choir: Marie Barron, Pauline Bourinot, Marjorie Geerts, Muriel Hann, Louise Kelley, Sally Lamson, Joan Moffette, Constance Murphy, June Murphy, Alice Neiley, Jean Stillman.

SECOND CHURCH TO HAVE ORGAN

At a special parish meeting last Monday evening the Second Congregational Church voted unanimously to purchase a pipe organ. A committee under the chairmanship of Mr. William Baker and consisting of Miss Laura B. Tolman, Mr. Robert J. Winton, Mr. G. H. Lochman, Mr. Arthur E. Kendrick, was authorized to collect money. The church being free of debt and offering a find building which will lend itself to impressive service of worship, the addition of an organ will prove a crowning beauty and means of usefulness. The contract will be let to the Law Organ Company of Beverly, which will construct an instrument to the specifications necessary to the architecture of the church.

The action by the Highand congregation marks an important forward step in the impressive history of that community church. It marks the beginning of a carefully planned program toward the extension of a ministry in the Highland community.

ANNUAL LUNCHEON OF THE EPIPHANY CHURCH SERVICE LEAGUE

With the annual luncheon at 1 o'clock Tuesday, May 4, the Service League of the Church of the Epiphany begins a series of pleasant last events of the year.

Mrs. Henry B. Sawyer will preside at the last Council meeting of the year, which will precede the luncheon, and at the annual business meeting, which will follow immediately after it. Officers for the League for 1937-38 and chairmen of standing committees will be elected in the business session. The annual meeting constitutes also a survey of the year's work of the League in the parish and for the general missionary activities of the church, as it is the occasion when committees present briefly the year's most interesting undertakings.

The luncheon will be in charge of Mrs. Prescott Taylor, who has been for two years in general charge of all the Tuesday luncheons, being the head of about two-score young married women of the parish who have made themselves responsible for the preparations and service of the food for the Tuesday workers. In addition to this practical service to the parish, the Tuesday Luncheon Group as it has come to be known, has proved an effective way of welding young newcomers into happy and active acquaintanceship and work.

With the annual luncheon the work-a-day aspects of the parish Tuesdays will end and the succeeding Tuesdays will be social events.

May 11 the Jordan Group will offer to the pleased Winchester clientele that it has built up by four previous successes its annual lobster luncheon. Of this Mrs. Malcolm Cook is this year the general chairman. The sale of tickets is in charge of Mrs. Archibald Jordan.

MR. AND MRS. HERMAN DUDLEY MURPHY TO EXHIBIT AT ART ASSOCIATION

The last tea and reception of the Winchester Art Association's current season will be held on Sunday next from 4 to 6 o'clock. The guests of honor will be Herman Dudley Murphy and his wife Nellie Littlehale Murphy whose joint exhibition of paintings will be open to the public on Monday.

Art lovers of Winchester an always eager to see any work which these two noted artists have done. In selecting the paintings for this particular exhibit both of them have endeavored to avoid showing any which might have been seen here at any time previous. Mr. Murphy's pictures will consist entirely of oil paintings some of which were done in Mexico and Porto Rico. Mrs. Murphy's work, will be principally water colors—some of flowers, others of Mexican scenes.

The Art Association expects a large attendance of members, not only to see the paintings but also to show their appreciation of the time and effort which both of the artists have given to make the Association a success.

OLDER YOUNG PEOPLE ORGANIZE

Last Friday evening the Older Young People of the Second Congregational Church met in an organizational effort. A very successful meeting was enjoyed by the large number attending. Plans and purposes were discussed and an election held with Mr. Paul McElhiney, president; Miss Dorothy Thompson, vice-president; Miss Ruth Morrow, secretary and Mr. Morley Robinson, treasurer. An enthusiastic program for the future monthly meetings and spring banquet give high hopes to this new organizational venture. The official group will take the group action to the church board for confirmation and seek recognition for this group as an integral part of the church organization and program. The members of this group have been attending the church services in such fine numbers as to make manifest their deep interest in the church purpose.

D. A. R.

Mrs. Charles S. Beaudry entertained the April meeting of the Committee of Safety Chapter D. A. R. at the home of Mrs. Frank E. Rowe on Monday of this week.

A change in the regular routine was the serving of a dessert at 1:30 by the hostess, Mrs. Beaudry and her assistants, Mrs. Purdy and Miss Howard.

The regular meeting opened at the usual time, our Regent, Mrs. George M. Bryne presiding.

Miss Ella M. Horne asked for a transfer to the Old State House Chapter in Malden.

Mrs. Bryne was our speaker and gave us a very instructive and interesting talk on Colonial times dating from 1620 to the present time. She had her subject so thoroughly in hand we were delighted with her descriptions and pictures and hope to hear more some time.

An editor's life is varied to say the least. This latest job of making Winchester cheese conscious is at least complicated. Doctor Rounds will bear us out; but to "Bill" Eaton it's all in the day's work.

Just to aggravate that pain in the neck we have spoken of, we listed in our morning's mail (just one) the following governmental communications: Federal Music Project, National Resources Committee, Resettlement Administration, Works Progress Administration, Historical Records Survey, Home Owners' Loan Corporation and the Navy Department. Who says the Government is not up on its toes? Oh yes,—we forgot that ever-present memo from the Collector of Internal Revenue. The tax bills are so regular one hardly gives them a thought.

What's all this racket about the Supreme Court anyway? Everyone knows it is just to make the court over the way our rulers desire; otherwise the matter would have never been brought up. Why bother over it? The courts seem to be about where the people want them. The Maine strikers get an adverse decision and immediately refuse to abide by it—having the proper support in the proper place. Imagine a group of manufacturers or business men defying an injunction! It seems to be beyond imagination—unless Mr. Rand knows something about it. This situation seems to be "just a mandate of the people"—and everyone knows who the people are today.

This Social Security is the bunk. Social Security for who? The employer and the employee each chip in 50—50 and it is "a great leveler" for social "justice." The employee immediately strikes and makes the employer pay, not only the whole social security tax, but something over for the pot. An employer of eight pays, but an employer of seven does not. A girl works a year and pays her tax. Then she marries and what does she get? A man works through the years, pays his tax, and dies; what does he get? The act is declared illegal by the court and the government warns all employers to pay and keep on paying—or else. The small employer struggles along and pays the tax. When the burden becomes too great he folds up. What does he get in the way of social security?

Government employees of course pay no taxes. Their's is a happy and contended life, and no wonder their ranks are increasing by the thousands yearly. But we wonder how large the taxes are on these Union dues. All money paid social clubs is taxed. The Unions seem to be dishing out millions—either in electing their favorite son to office or succoring some turbulent strike in a hitherto peaceful plant. Of course this money must be taxed, especially since those who pay it out so cheerfully are certainly reaping good dividends. It's a much better investment than any social club.

APPRECIATED BAPTIST PLAYS

To the Editor of the Star:

The group of plays given by the Young People's Society of the First Baptist Church of Winchester last Friday night, would bear repeating. It was so well rendered in every particular that if it was repeated, it would give those an opportunity to be there who were not able to go the first night. They would be well repaid for going because though given by amateurs, the performance was certainly not amateurish, but had a professional finish.

An orchestra of young men did good work during intermission.

WINCHESTER ROTARY CELEBRATES 10th ANNIVERSARY LAST EVENING

Five absentees were recorded at the meeting of April 29, two of whom have already made up attendance.

The Rotary Club of Reading is arranging a joint meeting to be held on June 7 and to include the Rotary Clubs of Malden, Melrose, Woburn, Stoneham, Wakefield and Winchester.

We are in receipt of the club letter of the Rotary Club of Milton which held its Charter Night on April 21. This latest club to be enrolled in the 31st District is a group of active and enthusiastic Rotarians who, we predict, will be a great asset to Rotary. They meet Wednesday noons at 27 Canton avenue, Milton. Give them a call.

Our current meeting took the form of a celebration of the 10th anniversary of the organization of the Rotary Club of Winchester. It was one of the largest meetings ever held by the local club. Rotarians representing 11 different clubs and their guests, to the number of 126, enjoyed one of the famous dinners served by Steward Fred Scholl. Included among these guests was a large delegation from the Lions Club of Winchester and the occasion was graced by the presence of Dr. G. Adelbert Emard, Governor of the 31st District, R. I. and Mrs. Emard. All past presidents of the Winchester Club were in attendance and the presiding officer was President Charlie Downer, who, earlier in the month, owing to his removal from town, had resigned from the club with the proviso that he should preside at this meeting. And at this point we will state that the first business of the evening was the presentation to President Charlie by immediate Past President Billie Beggs in behalf of the club, of a richly embossed past president's badge.

The three members of the club, George Davidson, William Priest and Thomas Quigley, who have maintained a record of 100 per cent at all regular club meetings were introduced and applauded.

District Governor Bert Emard was first on the list of speakers and responded with a short address of congratulation to the club for its successful completion of an important anniversary and predicting for it a long and useful future.

At this point the meeting was turned over to the direction of the club's first president, George T. Davidson who received an ovation as he assumed the chair. Past President George briefly recounted early experiences of the club and then called upon Past President Arthur H. Linscott of the Rotary Club of Woburn for an address. Local Rotarians recall that the Rotary Club of Woburn sponsored the organization of the Winchester Club and that Past President Arthur was organizing officer. His address at the Charter Night exercises of our club will not be forgotten by those of us who heard it. And at this time he spoke to us in the same easy, familiar, sometimes whimsical, but fundamentally serious manner which has brought to us the conviction that Arthur Linscott's presence is necessary to make the occasion complete when the Rotary Club of Winchester indulges in reminiscences.

The final speaker of the evening was Past District Governor Robert W. Hill of Salem, who likewise addressed the club 10 years ago at its Charter Night exercises. Past Governor Robert, who presides over the District Court at Salem, delivered a scholarly, earnest discourse concerning the conditions at present confronting the Federal judiciary, conditions which he rightfully considers far removed from partisan politics. This address must take its place as one of the most significant interpretations of governmental procedure which has been brought to the attention of our club. We profoundly appreciate Past Governor Robert's effort, which unquestionably brought welcome enlightenment to his audience.

Percentage of attendance April 22 —83.87 per cent.

WASHINGTON AND HIGHLAND MOTHERS

Don't forget the Scholarship bridge at the Washington School on May 4. It is essential that we make a big success of this bridge so that we may meet our quota for the scholarship. Dessert will be served at 1.30 p. m.

Dad's night met with great enthusiasm. Our speaker was Mr. Carl Wetherell of the Y. M. C. U. and his subject was "The Youth of Today." The hall was filled and everyone seemed very much pleased with Mr. Wetherell's remarks. Every classroom had a host and hostess and we enjoyed the songs by one of our own "Dads" Mr. Winfield Hanson.

Until Tuesday the 4th.

STATE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA CONCERT

The State Symphony Orchestra, Alexander Thiede conducting, made its third appearance in Winchester Tuesday evening in the high school auditorium, presenting the following program: Beethoven, Symphony No. 5 in C minor, Opus 67; Thomas, Overture to "Mignon"; and Sibelius, Finlandia, Opus 26. The guest artist, Hildegarde James, soprano, sang "Visi d'Arte" from the opera "Tosca" by Puccini and Michaela's air, "I Am Not Faint Hearted" from the opera, "Carmen" by Bizet.

Once again the orchestra gave an entirely satisfactory performance of music sufficiently well known to make unfavorable comparison very easy. Mr. Thiede and his musicians are approaching that mutual understanding which makes for excellence of interpretation and the result of their work together was apparent in finished and sympathetic playing of the beautiful Beethoven Symphony. Equally well done were the Mignon overture and the familiar "Finlandia" which was played with the necessary verve and fire.

Miss James displayed a well trained voice of pleasing quality and sang her two selections intelligently. An attractive personality added to the audience's pleasure in her performance, and she was enthusiastically applauded.

Mr. Thiede, too, was warmly welcomed and heartily applauded at the conclusion of the program. The audience was again pitifully small, though perhaps in the case of this particular concert the weather kept some from attending.

LIONS CLUB

The usual number of members were present at the regular luncheon and meeting last Monday noon. President Bob Emery had a lot of business, new and old to discuss along with his report of the convention in Portland, Me. Evidently, the various clubs are alive with enthusiasm and we should strive to be a part of it.

The club has received an invitation from the Winchester Rotary to be present at their anniversary this Thursday evening. Also an invitation from the Everett Club of Lions to their party next Tuesday evening. We hope the members turn out in good numbers.

We were glad to welcome back John Coakley from the Tropics. His trip to Havana and Nassau evidently was a good tonic if a good coat of tan is sufficient evidence.

The meeting next week will take place at the Calumet Club on Monday at 12.15.

KRISTJAN MAGNUSSON, ICELAND ARTIST, DIES

Kristjan H. Magnusson, 34, Icelandic artist who studied at the Massachusetts School of Art from 1921 to 1926 and who has since then held showings here and in Worcester, died last Friday at Reykjavik Iceland, according to word received by relatives here.

After studying here for five years under Otis Philbrick and John Sharman he was graduated from art school with high honors and returned to his native land. In 1927 he returned to this country to exhibit at the National Academy of Design in New York, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Art, the Copley Galleries in Boston and the Winchester Art Association.

After other exhibits in London and Stockholm in 1931, he returned here in 1933 at the request of the Worcester Art Museum for a showing in that city. At that time the Worcester museum acquired his "Iceland Farm," which now is hanging in the galleries there.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Klara Magnusson, a son, Magnus, and two brothers, Capt. Magnus G. Magnusson of Rangely, this town, and Capt. Thor Magnusson of Somerville.

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, May 2.

The Golden Text is: "Evil pursueth sinners: but to the righteous good shall be repayed" (Proverbs 13:21).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men! For he satisfieth the longing soul, and filleth the hungry soul with goodness" (Psalms 107:8, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Reform comes by understanding that there is no abiding pleasure in evil, and also by gaining an affection for good according to Science, which reveals the immortal fact that neither pleasure nor pain, appetite nor passion, can exist in or of matter, while divine Mind can and does destroy the false beliefs of pleasure, pain, or fear and all the sinful appetits of the human mind" (p. 327).

BETHANY NOTES

The "Spring Sale" of last Friday afternoon was very well patronized in spite of the fact that the "Showers" predicted by the weather man proved to be downpours of rain throughout the day.

Mrs. Katherine Saunders' food table, covered with all sorts of delicious looking cakes, pies, preserves, etc., was soon cleared. We have learned since that those sweets were easy to eat, as well as being "easy on the eyes."

Miss Abby Potter was assisted by Mrs. Annie Foster at the booth for fancy articles, and had wonderful success in disposing of their fine assortment. One of the dolls that attracted the attention of the kiddies was a unique affair which by a flip of the skirt and a twist of the wrist turned a Dinah doll into "little Eva." This doll was all dressed by hand—even the face being hand painted, and was soon sold.

Mrs. Minie Fogg did a "land office" business at a very well stocked apron booth. Mrs. Fogg was assisted by Mrs. Catherine Morrow, and since there were aprons for all—short, fat and tall—Mr. Warren Saunders was pressed into service as cashier.

The booths were all beautifully decorated; but possibly one would say the one most in demand was the grab table, in charge of Mrs. Christina Thompson, where the youngsters found "Grabless Grabs."

A bountiful supper was served in the evening, and the ladies were gratified to know that so many Highland folk would go "out in the rain and the hail and the snow" to make their supper a success, financially.

The supper committee consisted of Mrs. Susan Foster, Mrs. L. J. Higgins, Mrs. Ruby A. Kendrick, Mrs. Lillian W. Snyder, Mrs. Gladys E. Thompson, Mrs. Evelyn R. Perkins and Maybelle Swan McLean.

Mrs. Effie E. Farnham was in charge of tickets.

The oyster supper, given by the Cornerstone Class, was very well attended, and proved quite successful, financially. After the supper — the evening entertainment, the most prominent feature being a reading give by Mr. Bower,—"The Servant in the House" by C. R. Kennedy. Mr. Bower portrayed all the characters admirable. We were indebted to our pastor, Mr. Jones, for this rare treat.

Another delightful evening was spent enjoying the pictures shown by Mr. Stanley Cowperthwaite.—Mr. Clarence Eddy assisting in the descriptions. Miss Jean MacLellan, our director of music, was instrumental in providing this pleasant entertainment. Candy was sold during the intermissions by a bevy of young ladies, and we understand the music committee realized quite a satisfactory bit o' money.

JAMES F. JACKSON

(An Appreciation)

To the Editor of the Star:

The Boston papers have given an outline of the career and public services of our late distinguished townsman, James F. Jackson. Those sketches give little idea, however, of the high quality of his unusual public services and of the strength and beauty of his character. It was my privilege to appear frequently before him when he was chairman of the Railroad Commission and to be associated with him professionally after his retirement from that position.

As chairman of that Commission he upheld the high traditions of that body, the establishment of which was due to Charles Francis Adams and of which Mr. Adams had served as its first chairman. At the public hearings Mr. Jackson presided with dignity and absolute impartiality. Like all strong men in such a position he dominated the deliberations but such domination was due wholly to the recognition of his ability and of his independence and fairness. His most important services, however, were rendered in informal conferences with railroad officials who almost invariably adopted his suggestions without the necessity of formal orders. Railroad presidents might sometimes protest but in the end they yielded, not because of any fear as to what the Commission might do, but because of conviction that Mr. Jackson was right.

Mr. Jackson's firmness in upholding the dignity of the Commission is delightfully shown by his reception of Charles S. Mellen when he came to Boston as the president of the three major railroads of New England. Mr. Mellen wrote Mr. Jackson that he would be glad to confer with him and would be at his (Mellen's) office the next day at any hour he might name. Mr. Jackson replied that it would give him great pleasure to meet Mr. Mellen—at the office of the Commission in the State House at any hour he might name!

His action in resigning as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway was thoroughly characteristic. The railway was having labor troubles. The Governor criticised his handling of them and asked him to reverse his action. Mr. Jackson immediately sent in his resignation, stating that his course was right and he would not follow the Governor's suggestions. The Governor pleaded with him to withdraw his resignation but Mr. Jackson was adamant in refusing to do so.

After Mr Jackson's retirement from the Railroad Commission it was my privilege to be associated with him in important matters involving public relations with railroads. His fundamental idea was that if railroads would recognize their obligations to the public the public would treat them fairly, and his counsel did much to bring about those harmonious relations which exist today.

I recall most vividly an important case in which he was associated with me as senior counsel. It involved a very large sum of money and a most important ethical principle in corporate management. After suit was brought he told our client that he thought he could bring about a settlement without the necessity of trial. He went to New York to see the important man in the case, a very able, forceful and domineering person, outstanding among the financial men in New York. After two days he came back with an agreement for settlement for an amount which was as large as we could expect at the end of a successful trial.

With all his power and force he was a thoroughly lovable man. His relations with his family were ideal, and all members of it will cherish in happy memory his kindliness and tender and wise counsels.

He was a writer of singularly vigorous and lucid prose, and his written opinions were models of clearness and conciseness. He had also a gift for writing beautiful verses in which his spirituality shone out resplendent. I find among my papers this morning these verses of his:

"Though I may feel life's ebbing tide
Moving out to the unknown sea,
Calm at the mooring I may ride
Waiting the breeze that sets me free.

To sail alone?—with God on high,
With that faith that charts the course to steer,
With rainbow arch across the sky,
What need to question or to fear?"

VICTORY DINNER

The Stewardship program of the First Baptist Church came to a successful conclusion Wednesday evening, April 28. This program covered a period of four weeks. It was a carefully planned "School of Christian Education," embodying the principles of tithing, partnership with God, and a complete recognition of God's ownership of all that we are and have. During the entire period the Every Member Canvass was in progress, concluding with the Victory Dinner, April 28.

The victory dinner was in charge of the social committee of the church, Mrs. Charles A. Burnham, chairman.

Mr. Rushton, pastor of the church opened the service with a warm welcome to the enthusiastic audience. He then introduced Mr. Nathan R. Chapin, chairman of the Finance Committee, who gave a most encouraging report on the progress of the church during the year. He said, "We have made a very substantial debt reduction in the past 12 months. We have today 80 per cent of our members and friends pledged to support our church with their weekly contributions. We are going into the new year Saturday, May 1 with our bills paid and a fine balance on hand. The prospects for the year 1937-38 were never brighter in our history.

The dedication of the church honor roll was most impressive. David Burnham was in charge of the unveiling ceremony. Mr. Rushton offered the dedicatory prayer.

Dr. Samuel Macaulay Lindsay of Brookline was the speaker for this significant service. In the course of his remarks he said, "Along with the Christian people of Winchester and the State of Massachusetts, I congratulate the Baptist people of Winchester for their magnificent church edifice. They have erected here a building which is not only a memorial of their devotion to God, but an evidence of their far sighted vision. It is a prophesy of their faith in a growing community. They built not only for themselves but for succeeding generations. They have attempted great things for God and can now expect great things from God."

After his preliminary remarks, Dr. Lindsay spoke for 30 minutes on, "The Conquest of Fear." In his unique and challenging way he outlined for his audience the necessary procedure.

1. The Right Use of the Imagination.
2. The Right Attitude Toward Our Neighbors.
3. The Right Conception of God.
4. The Right Philosophy of Life.

UNIQUE PARTY GIVEN TO GROUP OF HIGH SCHOOL FRESHMEN

Donald Cass, Earl Goldsmith and Theodore Hultgren invited 46 members of their class to a "Splash Party" given at the Boston Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening, April 24.

Swimming in the popular "Y" pool was enjoyed, then dancing and delicious snacks to finish off the evening. This date happened to be the birthday of one of the girls, so the orchestra played "Happy birthday to You" while the group sang it to the young lady, then a large balloon attached to the "sky" suddenly burst, showering the youngsters with smaller balloons an dsnowballs. It is reported that some of the boys are retaining the snowballs just in case our next winter should be entirely devoid of snow.

The young people were returned to their homes at a late, too late, hour or should we say "too early" as that was the night when clocks gained an hour.

Assisting the mothers of the young hosts in serving the delicious "snacks" were Mrs. H. K. Pilkington and Mrs. Earl McK. Wood. Among those who enjoyed the party were:

The Star received a visit the first of the week from Emanuel J. "Bill" LaRue, hustling manager of the Winchester Post, American Legion Band. He stated that the band which is one of the best in the service ranks has several engagements lined up for the spring and summer season.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

Bad luck is reasonably sure to come to those Winchesterites who trust only in luck.

It won't be long now before young Winchester sings:

A little elf there is in me
And he's as breathless as can be.
He dances underneath the trees
And swims without his B. V. D.'s.

Desire is several laps ahead of possession.

Jokes on marriage are funny only to Winchesterites who are not married.

When you hear a chap in or out of Winchester say "I have a way with women" usually paves that way with a lot of the well-known bunk.

He who laughs last usually doesn't know what its all about.

Since it was discovered that "gentlemen prefer blondes" peroxide for some unaccountable reason has gone up in price.

"Wheresoe'er I turn my view,
All is strange, yet nothing new."

Winchester has a larger percentage of decent and full of faith people than any town of its size in America!

Speaking of a certain Winchester woman who recently figured in an automobile accident, another woman autoist remarked: "Well, you now and then hear of a train wreck or a ship wreck. And women don't drive those."

A Winchester old timer says it makes him hopping mad every time he sees a girl smoking a cigarette because it takes him back to the days of his youth when he got an awful licking for smoking cornsilk.

The ideal office woman lives right here in Winchester although she works in Boston. She is an ideal office woman for the reason that she can make the visitor feel important while preserving the illusion that the boss is in.

"Button, button; who's got the button?" was a kind of mystery game in the Winchester of some 40 years ago. But there weren't any laundries then.

Star reader wants to know how many calories there are in a quart. A worldly Winchester chap sends us this one!

Soon Winchesterites will do well to remember that early to bed and early to rise and one's sleep won't be disturbed by flies.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY—SETTING FOR BRITISH CORONATIONS

Westminster Abbey, London's historic church of kings and poets, pageantry and solemn ceremony has been closed to the public to prepare it for the coronation of George VI in May. The only part now open for services is the small chapel of St. Faith, at the southern end of the South Transept, which is usually reserved for private devotions.

As early as last summer craftsmen were renovating the organ, says a bulletin from the Washingeon, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society, and worshippers missed its impressive booming tones as they sang hymns to the thin notes of a piano. At that time, American sightseers, with whom the Abbey is among London's most popular sights, found canvas and scaffolding blocking their views of famous monuments. Royal effigies were being scrubbed and begrimed marble columns scoured and polished—but in anticipation of another coronation, that of Edward VIII.

Several Thousand Will Witness Colorful Ceremony

Tiers of wooden seats will be built this spring high among the lofty columns of the nave and transepts to permit the squeezing of several thousand more spectators into space normally seating about 2500. On the coronation day, when these galleries are filled to overflowing with ruling kings and queens in gorgeous robes peers and ambassadors in smart uniforms, and peeresses glittering with gems, they will blaze with brilliant colors like a flowerbed against the gloomy aisles of the somber building.

The climax of the impressive, centuries-old ceremony will be reached when church dignitaries place on George VI's head the historic St. Edward's crown.

Other great English churches may be larger, older, or more impressively situated, but Westminster Abbey is more revered than any, holding a unique position as the church in which English monarchs are crowned. Since the first coronation in the existing abbey, that of Edward I in 1274, all the English sovereigns have been invested with their sovereignty there.

In the chapel of St. Edward the Confessor stands the famous Coronation Chair. To unknowing eyes it is a plain battered oak throne with a curious large stone under the seat. To loyal Britons it glows with more glory than did the gilt and decorations which originally covered it. For ever since Edward I had it constructed in 1301, it has served as the seat of the British monarch during the solemn coronation ceremony. The ancient stone, brought from Scotland by Edward I, is the famous Stone of Scone, on which the Scottish kings had formerly been crowned.

The Coronation Chair which the Queen will use was made for Mary, wife of William III.

Royal Funerals and Weddings in Abbey

The spectator who knows his history may well be thinking of the past as he watches George VI presented with the Ring, Orb, and Scepter next May. In his minds eye he may see approaching from out of the shadows of centuries the long procession of British kings and queens who were crowned under the same roof. Among them he may pick out Richard III, entering the Abbey barefooted as a sign of humility; the boy king Edward VI, for whom the tedious ceremony was shortened; James II, from whose head the crown almost toppled; George IV, hot in his heavy robes and wiping has face with handkerchiefs; young ueen Victoria.

Not only coronations, but also royal weddings have filled Westminster Abbey with splendid pageantry. George VI, then Duke of York, was married there on April 26, 1923.

In contrast to such festive occasions are solemn times when the hushed Abbey is draped in black for the funerals of royalty, or of noted Britons. Until the middle of the 18th century, the Abbey was the favorite burial place of English monarchs, and contains many of their gilded or elaborately marble tombs. Even little Edward V, one of the princes murdered in the Tower, has his remains preserved here, thus achieving his rightful resting place, although he was cheated out of his coronation.

In a small room above Abbot Islip's Chapel stand a number of lifelike wax effigies of British royalty. Some of these are copies of leather, or wood, and canvas, effigies which were dressed in the dead monarch's clothes and displayed on their coffins. A few of the early wooden effigies are shown in the Abbey's Norman Undercroft.

Among the wax figures is that of the beautiful Frances, Duchess of Richmond, who was the model for Brittania on Britain's coinage. In the case with her effigy is perched a stuffed gray parrot, her pet for 40 years.

Westminster Abbey is so called because it originated as the church or a Benedictine abbey, or monastery. For centuries, abbots and monks thronged its cloisters, and its refectory and dormitory, within which now are incorporated in adjoining Westminster School. Beneath the building that was the monk's chapter house is an 11-century crypt whose stout pillars and round arches still show the Norman type of architecture employed in the church which preceded the present edifice. The latter was erected chiefly by Henry III.

For a brief time during the reformation, the Abbey was made a cathedral. Mass-books and stone altars were destroyed, monks were made canons, the abbot—a dean, and a bishop was appointed. Today there is a dean, but neither monks nor bishop.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Boy Scouting's great big hand of the year was given to James B. Weaver, 2nd of Troop 3 last week with the announcement that he had been recommended by the Winchester Board of Review for the highest rank in the organization—Eagle Scout.

Eagle Scout Weaver more than deserved the congratulations that were his at troop headquarters in First Congregational Church. Only 14 years old, Weaver has achieved the rating of Eagle in exactly two years of Scouting. Not often do Scouts win the top advancement in three years.

Weaver, who lives at 326 Main street, is a senior patrol leader of his troop and a den chief of Pack 3 of the Winchester Cubs. Counting heavily in the requirements of an Eagle Scout is such service as he gives to the organization as well as the Scouting accomplishments derived from it.

Advanced to the rank of Star Scout by the same Board of Review was Leslie Curtis of Troop 2. Young Curtis stepped up from first class Scout. His next step is to Life Scout and thence to the Eagle rating.

Announcement that Camp Fells-land, Amesbury, will open for summer vacations on July 4 started many a Winchester Scout on long range planning.

Rates for the camp were set at $10 for Scouts and $11 for Cubs, a very small increase over last year in view of this year's higher costs of food and material.

Passed in second class Scout requirements by the Board of Review were the following:

Troop 1—John Parlett, James Treacy, Leo Treacy, John Kenton, Norman Ruby.
Troop 2—Walter Taber.
Troop 7—Richard Abrahamson and Ralph Jury.

Merit badges were achieved in a variety of tests by the following Scouts:

Troop 1—Joseph Russo, woodworking and woodturning; Carmine Luomo, firemanship; and woodworking; Nicholas Zamanakos, metal work; wood work and basketry.
Troop 2—Arnold Smith, firemanship; William Ford, Jr., carpentry, woodworking, swimming.
Troop 3—James B. Weaver, 2d, camping, scholarship; Leslie Curtis, firemanship and first aid.
Troop 7—Carleton Bolivar, personal health, public health; Richard Swanson, public health; David Burnham, personal health.

Fifteen Scouts of Troop 3 were still discussing observations of their trip to East Boston airport under the direction of assistant Scoutmaster Reynolds. Nearly the whole afternoon was spent in the 101st Observation Squadron hangar by courtesy of Major Hodge.

The boys saw how a parachute is packed, looked over aerial photography equipment, inspected the indoor target range and watched the assembly of motors. The departure of a New York liner made a fitting climax for their outing.

Reservations for the national Jamboree in Washington from June 30 to July 9 were still open at Scout Headquarters on South Border road.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

Sentence Sermons

The outstanding need of every church in and out of Winchester is a deeply spiritual and therefore sacrificially devoted membership.

Jesus Christ did not drive primarily at social reform. He struck for reform of the individual.

Christian unity is, in the final analysis, an individual matter, and it does not consist in combinations of ecclesiastical bodies.

When we say that a man is heartless, or without a heart, we mean that he is unsympathetic or cruel. And today, as of old, right here in Winchester will be found many who profess God with their lips, but their hearts are far from Him.

Good thoughts do us no good, if they never get into the heart, and influence the life. For good, or for evil, it is "as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

When we cherish evil thoughts, and they form part of our life, then they contaminate the soul.

A lot of church folk need much enlightenment to show up the defilements in the heart, and many a hard knock to rouse the professing Christian to a more thorough housecleaning of the soul.

Emotions are not affections. An affection is a moving of the life-love of man to the fulfillment of his object. Affection means that there is someone to love. Affection is a going-out of love. Emotion is a state of feeling.

Religion is essentially of love of others and its light. Love endures, though it may not have an immediate way of expressing itself. But emotion tends to subside and turn to ask when the human situations recedes into the past. Emotion, rising from some outward ground, has permanent value as it serves and opens itself to love.

What we love and think and strive for, that we are, and in the growth and extension of these timeless powers of mind and heart shall we reap a destiny.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

All cuts of veal are a good value this week while other meats, with the exception of fresh pork shoulders and hams, are on the expensive list. Poultry is still moderate in price and fish should be very reasonable.

Butter, after its flurry up and down is back to its average level. Eggs at wholesale have been slightly cheaper but not enough to reduce retails.

Asparagus and lettuce are the most attractively priced green vegetables. Green beans are again high. Garden rhubarb is gradually replacing the hothouse variety. Other fruits and vegetables are about as they have been.

Here are three dinner menus planned to fit different needs and pocketbooks.

Low Cost Dinner
Veal Pot Pie with Vegetables and Biscuit Crust
Cole Slaw
Bread and Butter
Coffee Gelatin Soft Custard
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Braised Rump of Veal
New Potatoes Stewed Tomatoes
Lettuce Salad
Bread and Butter
Strawberry Cream Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Consomme
Kidney Roast of Veal Glazed Pears
Parsley Potatoes Asparagus
Lettuce and Watercress Salad
Rolls and Butter
Coffee Ice Cream Cake

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

Once upon a midnight dreary,
As I wandered weak and weary
From a party gay and cheery
At a house on Main Street:
Ah, my breath, it smelled quite beery
And my eyes were somewhat bleary;
I can tell you I was quite leary
Of Chief Rogers' cop upon the beat.

This world is full of antidotes and panaceas, I guess,
For Winchesterites who eat too rapidly and likewise to excess,
And nervous hypochoniracs with gastronimic ills
Use pepsin and nux vomica pills.
Yet why should any Winchesterite dope themselves who indiscretely sup,
When prunes are sweet and nourishing and tone our stomachs up!
And husbands are so affable, when underneath their vests
A flock of prunes in transit there so easily digests.
So, honking down life's thoroughfare, longevity attunes
To dietetic carefulness, to breakfast food and prunes.
Yet I have wondered frequently at some informal feast
Why prunes transmit impulsiveness, with apricots and yeast.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE PRESENT SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT

On last Friday evening the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist Church presented to a large audience three very successful one act plays in the social hall. The curtains had barely parted when the audience were assured of a very enjoyable evening. The three plays were well received and very fine comments were given on all sides.

The program opened with the short farce "Prose Preferred," the story of Mrs. Gloria Henning and her "Rhythm and Rhyme" Club and its effects and final outcome. Douglas Henning, her husband was played by Carl Pynn with Doris Perry as Gloria. Others in the cast were Stina Johanson as Florella, the dumb maid; Eloise Kielhorn and Pauline Lindsay as two other club women, and Paul Butterworth and Ralph Jury—two of Doug's friends who added their part to the downfall of "Rhythm and Rhyme."

The second offering of the evening was of a serious nature being the short drama, "The Doctor Comes from Moscow" a play woven around the death of Emperor Alexander III of Russia. Alexander was well played by Clifford P. Macdonald with the Empress Dagmar being played by Jean Winchester. David Burnham played the role of Doctor Zakarin, (the Doctor from Moscow), Jack Finger played Captain Zarnoff, the captain of the royal guard, and Priscilla Howard took the part of Constanza, the mother of Zarnoff. The portrayals of the various roles in this play showed the presence of real talent.

Concluding the evening's program was the comedy "Squaring it with the Boss." This story of a young husband, played by Jack E. Burke, and his wife, Beth, played by Neva Speedy who have their evening interrupted by the news that their two aunts and Jimmy's boss are coming to visit them, provided many laughs and brought the evening to a fitting close. The two aunts, Hortense and Clarissa were played by Florence Pynn and Althea Perkins, respectively. The role of Mr. Dunnee, the boss, was taken by Abbott Whitmarsh. Ralph Swanson, in reality the neighbor's child, but to aid matters in their trouble becoming Jimmy and Beth's child was very well taken and very humorous.

During the intermission music was provided by William Partridge and his orchestra, whose music was well received and applauded.

The three plays were coached by Clifford Macdonald and great credit is due him for the fine work which was done. The co-operative spirit of all concerned was shown in the success of the evening. Following the last curtain the cast gathered on the stage and Miss Florence Pynn, on behalf of the cast presented Clifford Macdonald with a fine leather wallet with their fullest appreciation for all he had done. Credits should also be given Miss Pauline Lindsay, chairman of the property committee, Eddie Penney and his stage hands, Richard Swanson, and all who had a part in making the evening a success. The usherettes for the evening were the Misses Marjorie Chapin, Doris Josephson, Ann Downer, Betty Elliott. Credit is also due to them for their fine work.

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING

By Alfred A. Fraser, Wellesley

Pea brush can be put in place now—also bean poles.

Supplies of Bordeaux mixture, arsenate of lead and some nicotine preparation should be laid in now.

Young vegetable plants should be thinned out if they come up too quickly.

Dahlias can be set out—be sure they are well planted.

Perennial border voids should be filled in now and a dressing of bone meal given.

Trees recently transplanted must be steadily watered.

Evergreen may be trimmed now to prevent overgrowth. Particularly so with cypresses, hemlocks, junipers and arborvitae.

Winter killing of vines can be overcome by planting early Heavenly Blue morning glories and other fast growing vines.

If your flower garden abuts a well established hedge, it would be well to dig down two feet, cut off the hedge roots and place a piece of old sheet iron to prevent them robbing the flowers of nutrition.

Gladioli bulbs not treated for thrip may be set in a solution of one ounce of corrosive sublimate and 7½ gallons of water.

See that bird houses are in place.

The success of new gardens depends on thorough soil preparation and fertilization. Have your soil tested for deficiencies in plant foods.

Good flower and vegetable seeds are available at your hardware dealer's now. He will gladly advise you.

Get a continuous crop of peas, beets, carrots, spinach by sowing a new batch of seed as soon as the previous batch comes up.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

God meant man to be happy. To that end He arched the heavens above him and spread out the smiling earth before him and charged the air with sunshine and ozone and gave to the robin his song and tinted the eye of the violet. As you go out into the opening on a morning when the thrill of the springtime makes every nerve quiver with delight, you pour out your appreciation in the language of Longfellow to say.

"O gift of God, O perfect day
Wherein no man shall work, but play,
Wherein it is enough for me
Not to be doing, but to be."

Human relations, too, are so ordered by God as to be the source of measureless joy. Despite all the friction and misunderstanding that arise between man and man, an immense amount of pleasure and profit is derived from association without fellows. As Harold Allen Bridgman has so truly written: "Life would be insipid indeed if we did not have the cheer and tonic of our family, school and business companionships. The solitary man is likely to be a gloomy man."

We hear much about pleasures and our right to enjoy the world's pleasures. We are entitled to these as long as they are innocent and wholesome. The sensible man and woman who truly loves God will exercise real wisdom in the choice of them, and self-control in the use of them, but no one has a better right to a "good time" than He. This world belongs to God, and He has fitted it up with many things to minister to our physical and esthetic senses. We can have access to any or all of them so long as indulgence does not compromise our Christian principles or dull our spiritual vision. Unfortunately, too many Christians forget all about God when they set out to have a "good time."

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

Child health week is our annual reminder that if children are to grow into healthy adults they must be cared for now. Proper food is perhaps the greatest factor in maintaining child health and this means that their diet should be built around bread or cereals and milk generously supplemented with fruits and vegetables.

The present high cost of meats will not result in harm to children since only small amounts are needed by them.

Butter and eggs are somewhat lower. Lettuce is cheap, asparagus and peas are lower, cabbage and spinach relatively cheap. Potatoes are also noticeably less expensive.

Here are three menus suitable for the whole family including those of school age and up.

Low Cost Dinner
Pan-broiled Chopped Beef
Baked Potatoes Buttered Spinach
Bread and Butter
Raisin Bread Pudding
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Pot Roast of Beef
New Potatoes Asparagus
Bread and Butter
Floating Island
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Cream of Asparagus Soup
Broiled Chicken Parsley Potatoes

This is a show sure to suit all.

Tuesday and Wednesday brings the wonderful voice of Grace Moore in "When You're in Love" with Cary Grant and also the hilarious comedy "Murder Goes to College" with Roscoe Karns and Marsha Hunt. Due to the long program there will be one complete show on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings starting at 7.30.

MYSTIC THEATRE MALDEN ATTRACTIONS

Starting Friday, April 30 and running for one week only the Mystic Theatre, will present an exceptionally entertaining and interesting double feature program composed of two of the current hits of the screen. One is a gripping, fast-moving romantic drama and the other a light musical comedy. A beautiful love interest in the person of Elizabeth Allan levels the hardships, danger and picture which harass Clifton Waldbrook in the hero role of "The Soldier and the Lady."

Dark-eyed Jessie Matthews, the dancing divinity of "It's Love Again" and "Evergreen," provides one of the major screen thrills of the year in her new song and dance picture, "Head Over Heels in Love," the second half of the program opening Friday at the Mystic Theatre, Malden. The piquant actress gets under way as the temperamental prima donna of the Paris cafes. It's a sparkling story of sparkling people, and is swiftly-paced as the contagious tunes and merriment.

"QUALITY STREET" AT THE UNIVERSITY

In vivid relief against the quaint charm of suburban English background in the early 19th century, Katharine Hepburn and Franchot Tone co-star in the screen version of Sir James Barrie's romantic "Quality Street," coming Sunday to the University Theatre. This drama, first introduced to theatre audiences in 1901 by Maude Adams, is the story of an English girl whose romantic flame smoulders for ten years while the dashing young doctor she loves fights for his country in the prolonged Napoleonic wars. A notable cast was assembled by producer, Pandro S. Berman, including Fay Bainter, Eric Blore, Cora Witherspoon, Estelle Winwood, Florence Lake, Helena Grant, Bonita Granville, William Bakewell, Joan Fontaine.

"When's Your Birthday," the companion feature, has Joe E. Brown cast as a student of astrology who forgets to read his own horoscope until it is too late. It is an hilarious, merry mixture of love and laughs, a picture to tickle the humor of every member of the family.

On Wednesday, Review Day, the program includes "Forsaking All Others" featuring Joan Crawford, Clark Gable and Robert Montgomery and "The Bride Comes Home" co-starring Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray.

"The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," opening Thursday brings together for the first time the three stars who, singly, have recently contributed to the screen three outstanding pictures. Joan Crawford direct from "The Gorgeous Hussy;" William Powell, from "After the Thin Man;" Robert Montgomery, whose "Piccadilly Jim" still remains one of the high spots of 1936 screen entertainment. To this triple-star cast the producer also has added an outstanding supporting cast that includes Frank Morgan, Jessie Ralph, Nigel Bruce, Colleen Clare, Benita Hume, Ralph Forbes, Aileen Pringle and Melville Cooper.

"A Doctor's Diary," the companion feature is an intimate portrayal of the inside workings of a large metropolitan hospital. The conflict which confronts a young doctor, duty to the woman he loves verus his devotion to the highest tenets of the code of medical ethics, forms the plot of this dramatic film. "A Doctor's Diary" has George Bancroft, Helen Burgess and John Trent in leading roles.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

"Under Cover of Night," a novel mystery story with Edmund Lowe, Florence Rice, Sara Haden and Nat Pendleton as the featured players, is the main attraction on the double bill opening at the Strand Theatre in Malden today. "Under Cover of Night" presents something unique in mysteries and Edmund Lowe creates a new sort of detective. Lowe is cast as a college graduate who returns to his alma mater in time to face the baffling mystery of repeated murder among the faculty members. The romance of the story is the love between Miss Rice and Dean Jagger who are involved in the college murders and who are eventually brought together by the persistent detective.

"We're in the Legion Now," photographed in the new Hirlicolor process, with Reginald Denny, Esther Ralston, Vince Barnett and Elanor Hunt as the stars, will be the second attraction on the bill starting today. Reginald Denny and Vince Barnett are cast as American gangsters who go to France and join the Legion to escape their boss who is after them with a machine gun. In the end their antics make them heroes in spite of their chagrin that their reward is to remain in the Legion, which only means more trouble for both.

Katherine Hepburn and Franchot Tone in "Quality Street," adapted from Sir James Barrie's famous play, will head the program for next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. It marks Miss Hepburn's best role since "Little Woman," and is packed with delicious, whimsical humor.

"Mysterious Crossing" with a cast of favorites including James Dunn, Jean Rogers, Andy Devine, Hobart Cavanaugh, John Eldredge, Herbert Ralwinson and J. Farrell MacDonald, will be the second attraction on the bill starting Tuesday.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"Swing High, Swing Low," a dramatic romance with music, starring Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray, will head the double bill opening at the Granada Theatre in Malden today. "Swing High, Swing Low" is a picture with many pleasant surprises for movie-goers. It presents Miss Lambard as a night club entertainer in Panama who falls in love with Fred MacMurray, a happy-go-lucky adventurer. Through her insistence he attends to business and she develops him from a mediocre trumpeter to an international sensation. There are three musical numbers in "Swing High, Swing Low," which are in the big hit class. These are "Panamania," sung and danced by Miss Lamour, and "I Hear a Call to Arms" and "Then It Isn't Love" sung by Miss Lombard to the trumpet accompaniment by MacMurray.

"When's Your Birthday," with Joe E. Brown, Marian Marsh, Fred Keating and Edgar Kennedy as the stars, is the second attraction on the bill starting today. This hilariously funny picture has the completely novel background of astrology, a subject ideally suited to comedy treatment.

UNAPPROVED

Over a year ago a very up-to-date school at Sandwich asked to have the Federal Art Project send an artist to do mural decorations in the cafeteria. They had selected a fine architect to build their school, the same who built our George Washington School. Their orchestra has won the highest awards of New England. Carlene Murphy Samoiloff of Winchester was selected to do the murals. Since the completion of it last August Mrs. Samoiloff has completed a school near Greenfield and is at work on the Bourne High School cafeteria, for which the Bourne School Department voted to pay $100 to cover the expense of materials, provided Mrs. Samoiloff could be appointed to do the work, so delighted were they with the Sandwich school.

Last summer Mrs. Samoiloff desired to make a contribution to the Winchester schools and offered to decorate the kindergarten of the Mystic School, with no charge to the school or town. She planned a color scheme for all the rooms and decorated the walls of the kindergarten before school opened.

A panel; a detail from a Norwegian Christmas procession, with silver leaf background was delivered to the Mystic School two and one-half months ago. There it has remained, seemingly as a white elephant, unhung, unaccepted, and apparently unwanted. It seems again an example of the thing given gratis and done by "one of the family" as it were—being lost in the shuffle.

Mrs. Samoiloff has planned a panel to fit the arch above the fireplace, also in the kindergarten. A temporary panel had been placed there as a loan to the school—until she could afford time to do the permanent one. She was asked to remove this temporary one—which has been done.

When the necessary steps can be taken to approve or disapprove the Christmas Procession Mrs. Samoiloff will be very glad.

In the meantime, the panel has returned to the studio.

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING

By Alfred A. Fraser of Wellesly

Week of May 1st

Nearly all flower seeds can be sown as soon as the ground becomes warm.

Cold soil frequently causes the seed to rot. A good rule—sow seed when maple leaves start coming out of the bud stage. Your local dealer carries good seed—will gladly help you. Many packages now have the tested germination percentage on them and are treated to minimize the destructive "damping off" disease.

Cultivate your perennial beds and replace voids. Also fertilize with a balanced fertilizer as 5—8—7.

When sowing seeds plant heavy and thin out the weaklings.

Your local hardware store can have your soil tested—so you can learn what your soil likes.

Put dahlia stakes in when you plant the tubers to eliminate later root injury.

Prune California privet hedge even and lightly spade in fertilizer.

For flowering crops use a fertilizer like 5—8—7. It's good for lawns, but ones with an analysis of 8—6—2 or 6½—3½—2 (cottonseed meal) are better for lawns as they encourage leaf growth as a result of the greater percentage of nitrogen.

Hardy vegetables like lettuce, onions, potatoes and beets can be sown now.

Keep pansies watered and faded flowers picked off.

Several kinds of lily bulbs can be planted now and will flower only a little later than those planted last fall.

Annual seeds like larkspur, alyssum, poppies may be sown between your tulips and daffodil flowers.

Cut off some of the old forsythia growth when they have finished flowering if you want better blossoms next year.

Lilacs like bone meal as a fertilizer, cultivate some in the ground.

A good mixture of Paris Green, bran and molasses in a mash and scattered over the ground kills out worms.

GIRL SCOUTS NEWS

Girls from every troop in town are invited to come to the Cabin on May 6, after school, to play games and have a good time. They will bring their own supper to cook over the open fire, or sandwiches if they prefer them. Miss Bigwood, who is going to be Day Camp Director at the Medford Day Camp this summer, will be at our Cabin every Thursday in May from 3.30 to 7 o'clock. Cars will be at the Washington School at 3.30 to take girls over to the Cabin, and at the Cabin at 7 to take home those who live at a distance.

Will the Girls Scouts take their discarded uniforms to Mrs. Earl Doub, 93 Highland avenue.

The girls of Troop 8 working for hostess badges gave a tea for their mothers April 27. Troop 8 held its final meeting for this season Wednesday at Miss Bernice Taber's home. Jean Clement was awarded first class. Badges were awarded for athlete, hostess and woodcraft.

Annual Rally

On Friday, April 16, at the High School Auditorium the Girl Scouts finished up their winter program with a rally which took the form of a birthday party. The evening's entertainment opened with some music by an orchestra made up of Scouts of Troop 2.

Mrs. William Davis, the Commissioner of the Girl Scouts, gave a short historical resume of local and national Scouting, as this spring is the 25th birthday of national, and the 20th anniversary of Winchester Scouting.

To celebrate this event a little pageant was given with Scouts from each troop taking part. A huge birthday cake was brought on the stage and each one of its 20 electric candles was lighted with a suitable Scout maxim. The last candle was lighted by Winchester's smallest Brownie.

Miss Eugenia Parker, who organized the town's first troop, and Mrs. William Davis, were then presented with knives to cut the cake and discover what it held for Winchester Scouts. Alas! the cake was made of wood but out of it came 15 first class badges and 30 silver five-year stripes for Winchester Scouts.

The birthday cake was wooden, but as each Scout left the auditorium she was presented with a little white frosted cake with its Scout emblem on top.

WINCHESTER DEDICATED NEW FIELD

either McNeilly or Johnson, was filling in at shortstop for "Johnny" Farley who was on the sick list.

Ordinarily good support would have gotten McNeilly by the opening inning. Grant, the first Concord batter, hit an easy grounder to Rallo, which "Ducky" let roll between his legs and Kenton on a nice bit of backing up couldn't play to first quite in time. Symes laid down a bunt which Smith played nicely, but Kenney was very slow covering first and the runner was safe. Two hits that should have been easy out: Macone, a lefty, doubled to left field, scoring Grant, and counted behind Symes on Mara's one shot to right. Magurn hit to left, but McNeilly fanned Forcier. R. Macone rolled to Smith, who tried to force Magurn at second, but was away too late from his deep position. With the bases filled McNeilly fanned Johanson and made Wilkie roll out to Smith.

The visitors added two in the second. Grant fanned, but Symes drew a pass and stole, advancing to third on Macone's infield single. Macone went right down and both boys scored on Mara's safety. Magurn hit safely and Johnson replaced McNeilly, tossing out Forcier and fanning R. Macone.

Hits by Donaghey and Ralph Murphy, coupled with R. Mara's error and a balk gave Winchester two in the second, and in the third a walk to Kenney followed by Donaghey's double to left center added another.

Concord scored in the fourth when Symes was safe on Kenton's error, advancing on Macone's single and stole both third and home.

"Bill" Smith singled to start the locals' fourth, stole and scored when Rallo's roller got away from Johanson. Winchester tied the score in the fifth, puttin over a couple on Kenton's single, Donaghey's infield out, Murphy's triple and a fielder's choice.

Concord scored its winning tallies in the seventh on Mara's hit, a pass to Magurn, an outfield error and a single by Forcier. The game was called in the eighth because of rain. The summary:

Spring football practice was in full swing at Cornell and Coach Mansfield was much impressed with the potentialities of the big Red for next season. He found the college campus one of the most beautiful he had ever visited.

JOHN ZAFFINA

John Zaffina, a resident of Winchester for nearly 25 years, died Sunday night, May 2, at his home, 14 Hill street in his 74th year.

Mr. Zaffina was a native of Sambins in the southern part of Italy, where before coming to this country he served for some years as a health inspector. He came to America 30 years ago and settled in Chicago, living for seven years in that city before coming to Winchester in 1914. He was employed as a candy maker by Lovell & Covell in Boston until his retirement from active business a few years ago.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Johanna Zaffina, a son, Constable Frank P. Zaffina and a brother, Joseph Zaffina, all of Winchester; also two sisters, Mrs. Camilla Tropea of San Francisco, Calif., and Mrs. Frank Folino of Chicago, Ill., and five grandchildren.

"CHERRY" KEAY

Ralph H. "Cherry" Keay, one of the old members of the Medford Boat Club and well known to a large number of Winchester friends and canoeists, died at the Winchester Hospital Tuesday night of pneumonia. He was taken to the hospital last week, and at that time his life was despaired of. By the first of the week it was reported that he had apparently passed the crisis, but he failed to rally sufficiently to continue the convalescence. He resided with his wife and family and his sister, Miss Ida Keay on Allston street, West Medford. where he leaves a host of friends.

INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Miss Dorothy MacDonald, 16, of 16 Chisholm road was painfully injured late Wednesday afternoon when the Ford sedan in which she was riding figured in a triple crash at the intersection of Highland avenue and Forest street.

According to the police Miss MacDonald was riding with her sister, Miss Lillian MacDonald, in a machine headed north on Highland avenue and being driven by Miss Elizabeth M. Glendon of 4 Ware road. Her car was following a Plymouth coupe, driven by Maxwell McCreery of 4 Curtis street, who according to Miss Glendon, pulled toward the middle of the road to make a left turn into the southerly entrance to Forest street.

In attempting to avoid his machine Miss Glendon went to the left, but the Ford and Plymouth collided, the Ford continuing and also colliding with a Chevrolet truck, driven by Daniel F. Buckley of 39 Cleveland street, Medford, who had backed into the south entrance and stopped preparatory to going south on Highland avenue.

All three machines were damaged, the Ford so badly it had to be towed away by the Super-Service Garage. Miss MacDonald was thrown against the windshield of the Ford with force enough to break the glass. She was taken to the Winchester Hospital by a passing motorist and treated for an abrasion to her forehead and right eye and a leg injury.

FIREMEN BUSY

The Fire Department put in two busy days in the heat of Monday and Tuesday. At 11:07 Monday morning there was a grass fire on Main street opposite the Mystic School, and at 11:22 that morning, another grass and brush fire on Cambridge street burning toward the residence of Dr. Howard J. Chidley on Fernway. Box 574 was pulled for this fire by Motorcycle Officer Winthrop Palmer who noticed the flames approaching the Chidley garage.

At 3:10 Monday afternoon there was a brush fire near the skating house on the Country Club grounds, and 25 minutes later Engine 4 went to Woburn on alarm from Woburn Box 344 for a brush fire near the Woburn Country Club.

Tuesday's first run was at 3:15 in the afternoon for a brush fire on the old golf links in the rear of Sylvester avenue. At 4:08 Engine 3 went to Woburn to "cover in" at the Central Station, and at 4:40 the apparatus was called to put out a woods fire off High street extension in the rear of the residence of Mr. Herbert Cox.

CHURCH SERVICE LEAGUE OF PARISH OF EPIPHANY

At the annual luncheon meeting, Tuesday, May 4, the Church Service League of the Parish of the Epiphany, held an interesting review of the work in various fields that had been done in the year 1936-37, October to May. In view of the very successful year, the League congratulated itself that Mrs. Henry B. Sawyer would be continuing as the head of the League next year, and that all but four of the officers and chairmen of committees will also continue to serve for a second year.

The following new chairmen were elected:

TYPHOID CONDITIONS SATISFACTORY

Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell of the Winchester Board of Public Health reported that up to yesterday morning there were 18 known cases of typhoid in town, and that conditions were generally very satisfactory, only three new eases having developed during the past week.

Dr. Blaisdell stressed the fact that the condition of the Aberjona River is not to blame for the epidemic nor is any local food or milk supply.

During the week past the State Board of Health has isolated among the employees of a Lowell bakery which dispenses food locally, a man who is a typhoid carrier and also found the infection in dried eggs imported from China which the bakery used in cooking, enough moisture being present in the eggs to keep the bacteria alive.

So far no cases have developed as a secondary infection from those who originally contracted the disease. One nurse is being kept in the typhoid district and two nurses in the schools are keeping a close watch on children from that district. Children of families in which there is typhoid are being kept out of school until after they have had three inoculations of typhoid vaccine.

WINCHESTER BALLPLAYER SURPRISED WITH GIFT

"Albie" MacDonnell, apple cheeked outfielder who left Wednesday to join the Boston Bees farm team at Beaver Falls, Pa., was pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening when a group of his team-mates on the Winchester Millionaires appeared at his home on Garfield avenue to offer their best wishes for his success in the minors and to present him with a black leather traveling case.

Manager Paul Quigley of the Millionaires made the presentation on behalf of the club, and "Albie," though very much surprised, was able to express his appreciation.

MacDonnell was regular left fielder on the high school nine, last season, being considered one of the best outfielders in the Middlesex League. He played a similar position with the Millionaires and last year was picked from the local team to play with the Cottage Crest Club in the Suburban Twilight League. He throws right, hits left and is a good all around performer, though rather small for a professional outfielder.

STATEMENT BY DISTRICT ATTORNEY WARREN L. BISHOP

Following a conference recently between Justice John E. Swift and District Attorney Warren L. Bishop, it was revealed that the Middlesex County Criminal Court has once again a clean docket.

When District Attorney Bishop was running for re-election two years ago his campaign slogan was "Keep Middlesex Safe." Apparently, he has kept this pledge, as there is practically no crime of importance in existence in Middlesex County.

Mr. Bishop has been busy for years tracking down and prosecuting criminals of all kinds. Today, because of the crime depression in Middlesex County, it is difficult to keep the court and jury busy. This means a tremendous saving to the taxpayers of Middlesex County. This situation is a phenomenon when one considers that Middlesex County is the largest county in point of area and popuation in the entire United States.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

The Board has approved the appointment of the following as substitute call men in the fire department for a probationary period of 6 months: Herbert S. Mullen, 50 Water street; John S. Pearson, 9 Nelson street; Martin F. Flaherty, 167 Cross street.

Windover Robinson, 375 Cambridge street, has been appointed special police officer for duty at the Public Library to assist Mr. Eason.

Public hearings will be held in the Selectmen's office on May 17 at 8 and 8:15 respectively on the petitions of John Donnelly & Sons for a sign board on Cross street at the railroad station and on lot at 994 Main street. All persons interested may appear and be heard.

OUR RIVER AT ITS BEST

According to all old residents our Aberjona River has never approached its present state of affluence. It is truly a sight to behold. Were it not for the big flock of gulls, recently arrived on upper Mystic Lake, it is thought that evacuation of the town would be in order. These gulls are doing yeoman work, and if they can survive the strain, may be the means of averting the catastrophe. Notwithstanding the sewers built for their special purpose, this open sewer now flowing through the town takes first place in size and quality. It seems to be truly serving the Aberjona Valley in the style to which Winchester has been accustomed.

TO ATTEND RED CROSS CONVENTION

Mrs. George Dutting, chairman of the Winchester Chapter, Mrs. Ruth E. Hilton, Miss Mary Harhan, principal of the William G. Noonan School, and Steven Powers, junior delegate, are representing Winchester at the National Convention of the Red Cross which opens on Monday in Washington, D. C. The party is leaving Winchester Saturday morning by auto and will drive to New York, going on from that city to the Capitol.

JENNINGS—WILD

The marriage of Miss Helen Marden Wild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Franklin Wild of Everett avenue, and Mr. Robert Otis Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Edwin Jennings of Church street took place Wednesday, May 5 at the Unitarian Church. Rev. George Hale Reed performed the 6 o'clock ceremony, and the church was decorated with white snapdragons and fern with candlelight at the altar.

Miss Wild, who was given in marriage by her father, was a beautiful bride in a long-sleeved white taffeta gown, square at the neck, with a pleated ruffle around the hem which formed the long train. Her tulle veil, of fingertip length was fastened to a coronet of Venetian rose-point lace, and she carried a bouquet of sweet peas, lilies-of-the-valley and white orchids.

Miss Edna T. Wild, her sister's maid of honor, wore a demure puff-sleeved frock of yellow marquisette over taffeta, with a wreath of flowers in her hair, and carried an old fashioned bouquet. The bridesmaids were gowned in a similar fashion of periwinkle blue and also carried old fashioned bouquets. These were Miss Louise Wild, Miss Eleanor Bingham of West Newton, Miss Helen Hodges, Miss Nancy West of Haworth, N. J., Miss Madeleine Little and Mrs. N. Lawrence Herrick of Woodmere, L. I.

Mr. C. Winslow Jennings of West Orange, N. J. served as his brother's best man, and Mr. Irving E. Jennings headed the ushers' list, which included Mr. O. Kelley Anderson, Mr. Charles C. Pyne of Rumford, R. I., Mr. William E. Clark of Portland, Mr. Benjamin F. Wild and Mr. Robert P. Wild.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and the bride and groom were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Wild, the latter most charming in a printed white chiffon gown with a cape of orchid velvet and a corsage of pink roses and lilies of the valley. The groom's mother, who, with Mr. Jennings, was also in the receiving line, wore a most becoming gown of grey chiffon, with a corsage of roses, lilies of the valley and delphinium.

Mrs. Jennings is a graduate of Smith College, 1934, and Mr. Jennings was graduated from the University of New Hampshire in 1929, and from the Harvard Business School in 1931. There were many pre-nuptial affairs given in honor of the bridal couple. One was that of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clark of Portland, who entertained last Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clark on Everett avenue. Mr. and Mrs. O. Kelley Anderson of Lakeview road entertained for them again on Sunday afternoon, and Miss Eleanor Bingham gave a buffet supper and "pantry shelf" shower on Monday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bingham in West Newton. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Aldrich entertained the bridal party at a delightful dinner on Tuesday at their home on Swan road.

Mr. and Mrs. Jennings are on a wedding trip to Jamaica, B. W. I. and after July 1 will be at home at 50 Emerson road, Winchester.

Winchester folk were treated to one of the finest presentations of amateur theatricals yet seen in this vicinity last Friday and Saturday nights, when the Unitarian Players staged that well known and highly popular Frank Davis melodrama, "Gold in the Hills, or The Dead Sister's Secret."

It is going to be hard to speak without exaggeration of that soul-stirring drama, for we cannot remember ever having enjoyed so much an amateur production. And if the waves of applause and the foot-stamping, hissing and booing on both evenings are a fair indication of enthusiasm, it seems that all Winchester agrees with us that "The Players" have achieved something unusually fine in their presentation of this melodrama.

Excellent Direction

"The Players" were most fortunate in securing the expert direction of one of New England's most charming personalities, Doris Bramson Whitehouse. Mrs. Whitehouse has had many years' professional experience and it was this experience which was so aptly reflected throughout the entire performance. May we see more of her craftsmanship in Winchester.

An Exceptional Cast

Anne and Lyndon Burnham shared honors for highly finished performances. Mrs. Burnham's interpretation of the chaste Nell Stanley was clear-cut and sincere. Nell's beauty was exceeded only by her Virtue (purposely capitalized), and Mrs. Burnham in maiden pink was virtue personified. But the fact that she could smoke an evil cigarette so adeptly upon the first attempt suggested to at least one in the audience that Nell had been secretly practicing the gentle art of nicotine behind her father's barn.

Mr. Burnham was all one could hope for in the blackest of villains.

LOCATED DRIVER OF AUTO INVOLVED IN ACCIDENT

Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy of the Police Department, after some little investigation in Cambridge located the owner of the Ford sedan, the driver of which it is alleged left the scene of an accident in Winchester last Sunday evening after his machine had damaged a Plymouth sedan, owned by David A. Hartnett of 54 Austin street, Cambridge, and injured Hartnett's wife to the extent that medical attention was required.

Sergt. Cassidy at 11.45 the owner of the Ford, Thomas D. Travers of 27 Myrtle avenue, Cambridge, came to headquarters with a man who gave his name as Lewis L. Wamboldt, 35, of 32 Magnolia street, Cambridge. The latter said he had borrowed the Ford sedan from Travers and had been in collision with Hartnett's machine, but claimed that he had stopped and had given his name to Hartnett. He told the police that he had been to Nashua and was on his way home when the accident occurred. None of several passengers in his car, including his three children, was injured.

Wamboldt and Travers agreed to see Hartnett. Whether or not a complaint is sought will depend upon the latter.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

Seven members were absent from the meeting of May 6.

Ralph Bonnell and Harry Winton are representing the club today at the District Spring Conference in Framingham.

Contributions to the Scholarship Fund, adopted by the club in connection with its 10th anniversary, have been coming in rather slowly. Kindly get in touch with Dwight Cabot at your earliest convenience, as this matter must be brought to a conclusion very shortly.

Officers to serve the club for the year July 1, 1937 to June 30, 1938 were elected at this meeting. Warren A. Hersey will act as club president with Ralph H. Bonnell as vice president; Frank H. Knight and G. Dwight Cabot were re-elected as secretary and treasurer, respectively; Harry E. Damon, Jr., Thomas Quigley, Jr. and W. Allan Wilde will serve on the Board of Directors.

The club is in receipt of a most interesting letter from Harold Trolle, Governor of the 78th District, Rotary International, inviting those of our members who are in Europe this summer to visit the Kingdom of Sweden, which is co-extensive with the 78th District.

The Rotary Club of Milford, the latest recruit to the ranks of the 31st District, announces that its Charter Night is scheduled for the evening of Tuesday, May 18. We extend heartiest greetings and a most cordial welcome to Milford Rotarians with congratulations on the broader opportunities for service now open to these men, opportunities which we believe they will improve to the utmost.

We are indebted to District Governor Bert Emard for the booklets entitled "Rotary Club Attendance Rules" which were distributed to club members at the current meeting. Absentee Rotarians will find these booklets invaluable guides when in doubt as to their eligibility for attendance credits.

Through the courtesy of our James J. Quinn members were enabled to listen, today, to a concert rendered by the Girls' Club of the Winchester Junior High School under the able direction of their instructress, Miss Pray. These young people have attained a high degree of proficiency in ensemble and part singing and are a distinct credit to the school which they represent. Soloists Walter Howland and Franklin Cheney sang most accentably and we believe that a successful career as vocalists lies before them should they choose to continue their studies.

Please bear in mind that this club

EPIPHANY YOUNG PEOPLE

Make Good on Contract with Early-Bird Fathers

Credit should go first of all to the cooks. Their names must have inspired confidence. For only a few minutes after the hour at which they had promised to begin serving the May Day breakfast at the parish hall, Saturday, May 1, 10 of their clients were there and ready for service. Now some well-established and time-honored family jokes about sleepy-head daughters will manifestly have to be given up.

These are the staff of early risers whom the zero hour found standing at attention in the kitchen under their commanding officer, Mrs. Dana Cotton: Mary Angas, Florence Barron, Margaret Heath, Priscilla Howard, Nancy Newton, Sally Sharon. It is understood that various alarm clocks in Epiphany Parish will also be cited for distinguished service in this early morning engagement.

The sale of tickets for the breakfast was efficiently managed by this committee: Priscilla Howard, Fred Cameron, Martha Kimball, David Riley, John Gleason, Nancy Wyman, Bernice Taber, Florence Barron, Muriel Hann, June Aitchison.

THE CHELSEA FIRE

In the City of Chelsea there is practically but one place where the scars of the fire which occurred 29 years still show. That place is directly across from the Chelsea railroad station at the corner of a city park, where the trees still show scars from the fire. It was at this point that the Winchester fire engine, "Mary Ann," took its stand with a Malden engine and turned the fire from spreading into another section of the city. Older residents of Winchester who attended this great fire well remember this scene of flames and smoke pouring from the stack of the famous old fire engine which served our town for some 40 years. It is said that the old engine was sold when all apparatus was motorized to a town in New Jersey and it was destroyed by fire when the town fire house was burned to the ground. Incidentally the last house near the Winchester engine which caught fire in the Chelsea fire had the top or third floor burned away and they simply put a flat roof on the remaining two stories. This house is exactly the same today even to the color of the paint.

WEEK-END MOTOR MISHAPS

The first of several motor accidents which took place over the week-end was reported to the police shortly after 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, when Warren A. Fleming of 77 Hanscom avenue, Reading, told the authorities that as he was driving a Chevrolet sedan north on Highland avenue the machine was in collision at the intersection of Mt. Pleasant street with a bicycle ridden by Caroline England, 8, of 1 Ledgewood road. Fleming said the bicycle was also headed north and turned sharply to the left to enter Mt. Pleasant street, striking his rear mudguard. He took the little girl home and was told that she was not injured.

Saturday evening at 7:35 a Chevrolet sedan, driven by Dominic Lucigo of 7 Florence street, while making a left turn from a parking place in front of the First National store on Washington street near Swanton street, was in collision with a Buick sedan, driven by John C. Casler of 104 Forest street. Both cars were damaged but no one was injured.

Sunday evening at 9:30 David A. Hartnett of 54 Austin street, Cambridge, reported to the police that as he was driving his Plymouth sedan south on Cambridge street near Pond street his machine was struck by a Ford sedan which was passing him and was obliged to swerve suddenly to the right to avoid a collision with an approaching bus. The left front of the Plymouth was damaged and Mrs. Hartnett, who was riding with her husband, complained of injuries to her back and a severe shaking up. Hartnett said the driver of the Ford came back and spoke to him, but did not give either his name or address before re-entering his car and driving away.

Hartnett gave the police what he thought was the number of the Ford, but the authorities after investigating were of the opinion that he did not secure the right number. The driver of the Ford told Hartnett that everything in his car was "all right."

WEEK-END FIRES

Saturday morning's two-alarm fire at 11:57 o'clock turned out to be a truck, owned by John Morrell Co. of 22 Bridge street, Cambridge, and driven by Anthony P. McCarthy of 10 Clark street, Somerville. The latter stopped the machine opposite the residence of Mr. Partin Swanson at 47 Cambridge street because of engine trouble, the car finally going on fire. Both Box 573 and 574 were pulled for the fire, bringing both Arlington and Woburn to the scene.

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Central Station was notified by the Metropolitan Police that a fire was in progress in the Fells near Molly's Spring. Upon arrival the firemen found that people having an outing in the woods had started a fire, the smoke having been spotted by the guard in the lookout tower. There was no damage done.

At 3:29 Sunday afternoon Box 321 came in for a brush fire in the rear of the residence of Selectman Richard W. MacAdams on Forest street. At 3:30 there was a brush fire on cemetery land in the rear of Middlesex street.

ARTISTS GUESTS AT PRE-VIEW TEA

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dudley Murphy of Lexington were honor guests last Sunday afternoon at a tea held in connection with the preview of their paintings at the Library Art Gallery under the auspices of the Winchester Art Association. Mrs. Carlisle Burton was in charge of the tea, which out of deference to the spring season turned out to be delicious punch, poured by Mrs. Anthony Kelley, who was assisted by Miss Barbara Fernald. Several old Winchester friends of the Murphys were present and there were many reminiscences and anecdotes to enliven the occasion.

The group of paintings exhibited is to remain at the gallery through the month, and those who delight in warm colors and the charm of Latin America should not fail to see them. Especially lovers of flowers will enjoy the group, for many of Nelly Littlehale Murphy's water colors are of flowers, done in the precise style, natural colors and artistic arrangement for which she is widely known. Among the many fine studies are "Scotch Rose and Iris," done with a delicate tracery; "Single Peony" in an interesting vase with a touch of vivid red for contrast; "Poppies," and an attractive bowl of mixed flowers, done in whites and oranges with a bit of blue, and the particularly artistic "Orchid" in a luminous pottery vase beside which is sitting a small china cat.

Besides her flowers Mrs. Murphy shows, among others, a very colorful "Mexican Patio," in which vivid greens, purples, magentas and browns are skillfully blended, "In the Borda Garden," also very colorful, an interesting view of the "Pyramid of the Sun" and a morning study of "Popo," done in purples and blues with the peak of the volcano showing above the haze that veils its base. Also of interest are several exquisite little studies of "Taxco," showing stucco houses and narrow winding streets, both in the town and open country, and the "Empress Carlotta's Bath," with its bit of archway, pool and interesting terraces.

Mr. Murphy's pictures are all done in oils, and with but one exception, of large size. His "Mexican Garden" is one to which the eyes return again and again, to enjoy the crisply executed detail of iron grill work, the fine depth, the light and shade and the suggestion of cloistered coolness. "Street Scene in Taxco" is an excellent example of perspective, the long shadows thrown by the buildings and the white of the stucco being cleverly lightened by the flaming orange skirt of a little girl who is one of a group of natives shown.

Two interesting views of the much painted Point Lobos are shown, the larger of the two, done from an unusual angle, being very luminous in bronzy greens and gold, with a realistic shimmer on the water, shading to a deep aqua at the base of the cliff.

Very sharp and cleanly cut is the picture, "Catano," showing a picturesque grouping of squatty houses with colored roofs, stretching out against a background of palm trees and mirrored in the calm water of the foreground. This Canvas has an interesting sky treatment, in which pinks and grays are skillfully used.

Quite colorful is "Taxco," showing purple cathedral towers seen above the orange tiled roofs of stucco houses, with a cool stucco wall, iron balcony and bit of roof timber showing in the right foreground and the hazy mountains in the distance. "Trade Wind Clouds" is an interesting study of sky and sea with a greenish blue the predominating color and an aqua comber rolling against the deep blue of the distant water with a tiny sail on the skyline.

After a few words of cordial greeting the affairs of the morning were turned over to Mrs. M. J. Meagher who proved to be a most clever toastmistress. Responses were given by Father Quirbach and various members of the board. A very delightful musical program in a lighter strain was given by the different members of the choir.

Mrs. James Carr, chairman of the morning and her committee and Mrs. Edw. MacDonald, music chairman are to be congratulated upon the successful day.

STONEHAM 24—WINCHESTER 21

No my friends, the Star sports' department hasn't got mixed up and dug up a football game to write about. The above is the final score of Monday afternoon's Middlesex League Marathon baseball encounter which Winchester lost to Stoneham on the Pomeworth street grounds in that town.

It seems as though a 24—21 score ought to set some sort of a baseball record, particularly when 38 hits were tossed into the matinee. Stoneham outhit the locals 21—17, but its pitchers handed out 13 bases on balls so the Winchester boys must have had more men on bases.

Carlie Johnson fanned 12 men in a losing cause. Stoneham went out in front with a big seven run second, but Winchester tied the score in the fourth and led after their raps in the sixth, only to have Stoneham come back with three five run innings in succession to clinch the game.

"Rusty" Donaghey led Winchester with the stick, getting four out of five. Surette led the winners with five out of six. The summary:

MANERO AND McSPADEN WON WINCHESTER EXHIBITION GOLF MATCH

More than 300 golfing enthusiasts turned out last Saturday to see Tony Manero, national open champion from Salem, pair with Harold "Jug" McSpaden, Winchester's pro and Massachusetts Open Champion, to defeat Denny Shute of Brae Burn, National Professional Golfers Association titlist, and "Jim" Fogarty of Myopia Hunt, N. E. P. G. A. king, 3 and 1, in an exhibition four-ball match at the Winchester Country Club. Many motorists crowded the roads around the links for peeks at the competitors at vantage points. Proceeds from the match are to go with those from two succeeding exhibitions to help defray the expenses of Manero and Shute who are going abroad with the Ryder Cup team.

Playing in his own back yard so to speak, McSpaden turned in the low card of 74, pocketing thereby the special prize of $25. Manero had a 78, Shute, a 79; and Fogarty, having trouble on the greens, an 81. The winners' better ball was 70 and the losers, 72; the better ball of the foursome being 68. The course was not in the best of shape and despite the somewhat high scores for champions, the gallery saw some great shots and thoroughly enjoyed the exhibition.

The match was close enough, though actually McSpaden and Manero were never behind. McSpaden carded a par 4 to win the opening hole, Fogerty's 10 foot put evening the match at the fourth. From then until the 11th the holes were halved, but at the 11th McSpaden played sensationally from a trap to sink his ball in three and put his side 1 up. The Winchester pro turned in a par 4 to win the 15th and both McSpaden and Manero had par 4s to close the match at the 17th, 3 and 1.

In addition to McSpaden's individual prize, he and Manero pocketed three-fifths of the receipts. Manero and Fogarty divided birdie honors with three each, there being 10 altogether in the match.

The most spectacular hole was the 470 yard 8th where all four competitors sank their first puts for birdies, the distances being Fogarty 25 ft.; Shute, 15 ft.; and Manero and McSpaden, four and three feet respectively.

"Bill" Speers of Winchester refereed the match and in the gallery was President E. B. Badger of the Massachusetts Golf Association and Mrs. Badger. "Joe" Barton of the home club was among the old timers present.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

"Joe" Dineen, last year's smooth working Winchester High School shortstop, is playing second base and batting cleanup for the Tufts freshman nine which seems to be winning rather regularly so far this spring.

There is some talk around town of reviving the Winchester Amateur Baseball League this summer. The first year this circuit functioned it provided some real sport for local fans and enjoyed a successful season. The second year it never did get going. Whether enough interest can be worked up to make it go this year remains to be seen.

"Gene" Cooper of this town finished second behind Capt. Henry Guerke of Tech in the mile run of the Tech-Bates dual meet at Tech Field last Saturday.

It is reported that "Albie" MacDonnell, Winchester High School's left fielder a year ago, has been signed to play with the Beaver Falls team, a farm for the Boston Bees. "Albie" and "Red" Noble, who starred for New Hampton Prep, after leaving high school, were among those who tried out at Braves Field for places in the Bees farm chain. It is understood that the Bees want to sign Noble for Beaver Falls, but as yet the local boy hasn't decided whether to accept.

George "Junie" Davidson paid a flying visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Davidson, over the past week-end, he being in Medford with the Bowdoin varsity nine for the annual Junior Day game between Tufts and Bowdoin. The boys from Brunswick, Me., were victorious, 4—0 and Davidson helped the winning cause by his all around play.

Albert O. "Al" Wilson, Jr. of this town rowed number 7 for Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the Institutes three cornered race with Harvard and Rutgers on the Charles last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bowe of Mystic Valley Parkway are back in town after a vacation in Florida.

READING HIGH OUTCLASSED WINCHESTER

Timely hitting coupled with eight errors by the locals gave Reading High a 12—1 victory over Winchester High in a Middlesex League baseball game at Winchester last Friday afternoon. Five bases on balls also helped the visitors to get several of their unearned runs on base. Reading outhit Winchester, 12—5. The summary:

Here's the DRUM-MAJOR of the motor car parade

IF you know a leader when you meet one, you'll see the moment you try this sparkling Buick why it's called the out-in-front car of the year.

You'll go for the way it goes for you—serene, steady, gallant as the figurehead on a buoyant ship—you're in for a thrill every time you put it into action.

You handle a wheel that turns as easy as the pages of a book. You press the treadle—and sink inches deep back in the soft cushions with the swoop of its take-off.

You click off miles by the score, the hundred—and no matter how far you range or what gait you travel, you can't get a whine out of that softly whispering engine!

The answer is you've got a car that was born to go places the way you want to go—smoother, safer, steadier than any car you've known.

Power in this flashing Buick is the power of eight straight valve-in-head cylinders. Its gait is the level gait of a car built close to earth with enough bulk to hold it there.

Its maneuverability is the quick mobility of a charger.

Yet the crowning touch of its creators was none of these but the figures they succeeded in writing on its price tag. The hard-to-realize fact is that this great straight eight can be bought for less than some of today's sixes!

There's just one way to get the true picture of Buick's standout value, and that's to drive it yourself. See us soon and get your order in, and you'll enjoy a summer like you've dreamed of!

MAY FESTIVAL REVIVED

Colorful Party at Town Hall Last Saturday

A May Festival, reviving the old parties of by-gone years, was held on last Saturday afternoon in the Town Hall under the auspices of Group 7 of the Ladies' Friendly Society of the Unitarian Church.

The hall was artistically decorated with cleverly simulated apple blossoms and hoops covered with spring flowers to form large wreaths.

As the curtains parted "Morning," portrayed by Eleanor Randall, appeared upon the stage, to welcome Claire Smalley, dainty solo dancer, who offered "To a Wild Rose." Her number was followed by the advent of the Water Babies who, clad in dainty little white dresses, gathered on the floor of the hall with spades and pails, looking for sand.

The babies' little dance made an effective introduction for the appearance of the May Queens, Barbara Burbank and Nancy Tilson, gowned in white, one wearing pink, and the other a blue wreath. Preceded by John Holsworth and Alven Litchfield, garbed in white and carrying their crowns on tiny pillows, the May Queens went up onto the stage, their attendants, Frances Black, Judith Flanders, Marjory Bugbee and Sally Jackson, strewing rose petals in their path.

The ceremony of crowning the queens took place upon the stage, and was followed by the appearance of the Balloon Man (Mr. Arthur Kelley) in the rear of the hall, just as the balloon dancers came upon the floor.

Rushing to the Balloon Man, each dancer secured two balloons and the group then proceeded with their dance, their white dresses making an effective background for the colorful balloons.

Next came the garland dancers, dressed in attractive pastel colored organdie to match the colors of the long garlands they carried. Their interesting dance was followed by the appearance of the gay hoop girls, clad in overalls of brown, green, red and blue, and carrying large hoops.

Their spritely dancing made an excellent contrast for the stately may pole dance, which followed. This number, perhaps the feature of the festival, was danced by an older group of girls, gowned in long white frocks and wearing sashes to match the shades of the ribbons they held.

Skillfully they circled the maypole, dancing very cleverly and in a most finished manner until the pole was wound very nearly to the bottom.

As an artistic little interlude between the may pole dance and the boys' flag drill Phyllis Kelley offered the stately dance of the Silver Swan.

The spirited flag drill was excellently done by a group of boys, clad in white caps, shirts and trousers, who went through their various manouvers precisely. As they concluded they massed themselves in front of the stage, behind the curtain of which each preceding group had disappeared at the conclusion of their number.

As the boys faced the audience the curtain was drawn showing the entire cast upon the platform. To the accompaniment of vigorously waved flags by the boys the entire group sang "The Star Spangled Banner" as a most effective closing for the festival.

The entire program went off without the semblance of a hitch, the skillful dancing of the children and their general deportment reflecting much credit upon their instructor, Mrs. John T. Phelps, who has been coaching the groups since the first of March. Mrs. Lena F. Corthell assisted greatly with piano accompaniments for the various numbers, and the floor assistants were John Maynard and Robert Goddu. David Holmes and David Connors were in charge of placing the maypole for the dances.

Mrs. Bouldin Burbank and Mrs. Dermot Townley-Tilson were matrons for the May Queen group, and introductory remarks were made by Mrs. J. S. Wilson who was co-chairman of the festival with Mrs. F. C. Alexander. Miss M. Alice Mason was treasurer.

Two of the featured performers, Yvonne Clennon, who was to have portrayed "Spring," and Jean Rooney, solo dancer, were unable to appear because of illness.

General dancing, to the music of Mr. Andrew Visocchi's ornate accordian, followed the program, with an attractive group of girls dressed in spring colored gowns selling candy.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

The first of the new snipe-class sailers built at Don Simond's plant was launched last Sunday. It is the "Weefit" and is owned, and was built by none other than "Don" Simonds himself. There was a good wind and all of the boats which are now in the water (half a dozen) enjoyed a sail. Even Ned Bean with his hiking-seated deck sailer ventured out.

"Gus" Pistorino and "Ned" Bean are working on the details for a crew dance on Saturday, May 22. The backing of all club members for this opening social function is earnestly sought.

Medford and Winchester Boat Clubs jointly and together are putting on a regatta June 5 and 6. All races will be held on the big lake with the finishes at Medford. This will be a regular American Canoe Association meet to which all New England Canoe Clubs are invited. Twenty or more races will be run off in the two days. It is planned to have the school boys' four race somewhere on the program. The feature event will be the war canoe, which is a mile race with a turn at the half way mark.

Auxiliary Notes

The last meeting of the season will be held on Thursday, May 13 at 2:30 p. m. at the home of the president, Mrs. R. S. Taylor, 137 Mt. Vernon street. We are fortunate in securing as our guest speaker, Dr. Lawrence Blakely of the Angell Animal Hospital. Dr. Blakely spoke most acceptably at the Home Day program of the Fortnightly a few weeks ago. We welcome Dr. Blakely for what he is and what he is doing, also as he is a nephew of Dr. C. L. Blakely of Lexington whom many in Winchester know so well.

MILLIONAIRES OPEN MONDAY

The Winchester Millionaires baseball team, in spandy new uniforms, will take the field Monday evening at Melrose, playing the opening game of the Inter-City League series with the Melrose Red Sox on the high school stadium diamond, commencing at 6.15.

Manager Paul Quigley expects to send southpaw "Artie" Johnson after this all important opener and will pinch big "Al" Barnard against Medford Tuesday evening, saving "Buster" Kendrick for the home opener with Reading on the new athletic field Wednesday evening, May 12 at 6:15.

Harry Collins will be behind the bat and the infield will be composed of "Slicker" Coss, first, "Maynie" MacDonnell, second; "Roddie" MacDonnell, third; and "Tom" Donaghey shortstop. Manager Quigley will play left field himself with "Sandy" MacKenzie in right and Fred the "Red" Noble in center.

Naturally the team will be far from full strength. "Rusty" Donaghey, hard hitting backstop, is playing with the high school. "Frankie" Provinzano, second base, is with Wilbraham Academy and "Joe" Dineen, shortstop, with Tufts Freshmen. "Lefty" Stewart is another good player who will not be available until the New Hampshire State season is over.

A SPECIAL SPRING DISH IN A SPRING SETTING

Tuesday, May 11, at 1 o'clock will occur the third annual lobster luncheon, arranged by the Jordan Group, at the parish house of the Church of the Epiphany. Again the famous spring dish will be in the hands of experts skilled in the best New England tradition as to how lobster is most delicious and the luncheon will undoubtedly duplicate the success of preceding years.

A new general chairman is in charge, Mrs. Malcolm Cook. As a recognition of the efficient chairman who first organized the group and was for four years its head the group has chosen to call itself permanently "The Jordan Group." Assisting Mrs. Cook are the following committees:

Tables and Decorations—Mrs. Fred Archer, Mrs. Gerald Curtis.
Tickets—Mrs. Archibald Jordan.
Bridge—Mrs. James Riley.
Fashion Show—Mrs. Fred Cameron, Mrs. Ove Mortensen.

If May will be punctual in keeping her engagement with the committee on decorations, the guests will eat their lobster in a setting as characteristic of spring and New England as is the main dish of the luncheon.

A new feature of the event will be the fashion show, which will follow immediately after the luncheon. At this Mrs. Fred Cameron will be the announcer and Mrs. Charles Werly at the piano will supply the music to which the models will appear. The raiment shown will display the styles for all ages and the parish will supply many of the models who will demonstrate the attractiveness of this year's garments for tiny tots, teens, debs, and fashionable forties. Among those serving as models will be Miss Janice Mortensen, Miss Grace Vestervelt, and Mrs. Charles Wansker.

After the fashion show the guests at the luncheon will play bridge.

SOME CHEESE

Leaving out the Aberjona River, there will be a fine display of imported cheese on sale this Saturday at the Dutch Street Fair. With one exception, practically all of the popular imported cheeses will be available as follows:

Roquefort portion
Limburger
Swiss
Camembert whole or portion
Small Edams
N. Y State Snappy
Gouda large and baby
Becher
Chantelle
Cheddar in Port
Cheshire in Sauterne
Edam in Brandy
Stilton in Port
Cheddar portion
Creme Royal
Port du Salut
Formula
LaRay Brei portion
Edams—large
Bellfleur
Dutchess assorted
Pont L'Evque

In addition to the above list, many specialties will be offered for sale, including a variety of spreads, each the especial favorite of the Winchester lady supplying it. Of particular interest will be a giant 300 pound cheese which will be cut and sold. This mild, nutty, New York State cheese is reported to be unequalled in flavor. A big 125 pound Swiss cheese will be another interesting feature. While it has been impossible to handle some special cheeses outdoors, the En Ka Cheese Committee feels that it will offer the town one of the best assortments ever shown here.

ANNUAL MEETING OL LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The annual meeting of the Winchester League of Women Voters was held on Tuesday, May 4, at the home of Mrs. George G. Brayley, 84 Cambridge street. The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization which has for its purpose the thorough and unbiased study of State and Federal government issues, and is attracting many Winchester women who are interested in keeping well informed on the complex problems of today.

Mrs. Ralph M. Sparks, retiring president presided at the business meeting, in the course of which the reports of the secretary pro-tem, Mrs. John W. Downs, the Finance chairman, Mrs. Phillip Johnson, the treasurer, Mrs. John Knowles were given and Mrs. Wm. A. Kugler gave an enlightening survey of the special commission to investigate public health laws and policies under house bill 1200.

Reports of the various chairmen, Mrs. Paul Phenix for education; Mrs. Theo. Munroe for economic welfare; Mrs. Walter Bond for international relations; Mrs. Walter Winship for Civil Service and Mrs. Howard J. Chidley for government and its operation in the court system were given. Mrs. Bowen Tufts, as chairman of the Nominating Committee reported the following nominees as officers for the coming year, who were unanimously elected:

President—Mrs. Clifton S. Hall.
1st Vice President—Miss Dorothy Pendleton
2nd Vice President—Mrs. Joseph W. Worthen
Secretary—Mrs. Marshall R. Pihl
Treasurer—Mrs. John Knowles
Finance Chairman—Mrs. Phillip Johnson
Publicity Chairman—Mrs. Fisher

The following and their alternates were chosen as delegates to the convention of the Massachusetts State League of Women Voters being held at the Hotel Sheraton, Boston, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 11 and 12.

Delegates—Mrs. Joseph Worthen, Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell, Mrs. Clifton S. Hall.
Alternate Delegates—Mrs. John W. Downs, Miss Dorothy Pendleton, Mrs. Fisher.

It was also voted that the Winchester League of Women Voters support a forum program under the leadership of Miss Dorothy Pendleton in connection with the Community Center recently organized in Winchester.

The guest speaker was Dr. D. Brewer Eddy, who as a traveler and student of Foreign Countries gave the League a philosophical interpretation of the modern trends of civilization in Russia, China and Japan. Dr. Eddy, in interpreting the Russia of today emphasized the necessity of holding in solution the many divergent views current in Russia, such as the substitution of Christianity for Atheism, the individual sacrifice for the government, and the crime of making profit out of man, lofty idealism being substituted for Atheism.

Dr. Eddy gave great praise to the Generalisimo and his wife, Madame Chiang of China, a Wellesley graduate, for their great and untiring leadership in fostering Christianity, the desire for raising the level of the people's living conditions, development of local self consciousness with government co-operation, and a consequent overturn of old traditions to a recognition and education of women and girls which make for human character in China.

In speaking of Japan, Dr. Eddy recognized its trend toward a nationalistic liberal attitude as opposed to militaristic autocracy.

WINTON CLUB

Mrs. Paul B. Elliott of Warren street made the arrangements for the annual luncheon of the Winton Club, held Monday at the Winchester Country Club, which preceded the final business meeting of the year. Spring flowers decorated the tables and each member was presented with a lovely gardenia. A large attendance enjoyed a delicious luncheon and showed great interest in the ballot for the coming year.

Mrs. Howard A. Morrison, capable and popular president, was elected to fill that office for another year, with Mrs. Gordon Parker as vice-president. Mrs. Robert J. Holmes goes on as secretary, while the arduous post of treasurer will be taken by Mrs. James C. McCormick. New members-at-large are Mrs. Clinton S. Mason and Mrs. Stephen B. Neilley. Mrs. James O. Murray, under whose expert guidance the Work Committee has accomplished a vast amount of hospital sewing this past year, consented to serve again in that position. Mrs. T. Price Wilson takes up the duties of the chairman of the hospital linen. Other nominations and appointments include:

Work Committee—Mrs. Erastus B. Badger, Mrs. Walter H. Birnie, Mrs. Frederick B. Craven, Mrs. Warren F. Goldu, Mrs. M. Walker Jones, Mrs. Harris S. Richardson, Mrs. Harry N. Squires, Jr.
Membership Committee for 2 Years—Mrs. James F. Dasheill, Jr., Mrs. Paul B. Elliott, Mrs. William H. McGill, Mrs. Kenneth P. Pond, Mrs. Chester A. Porter, Mrs. T. Price Wilson.
Chairman of Membership Committee—Mrs. John B. Kenerson.
Chairman of Cabaret Committee—Mrs. P. Stewart Newton.
Custodian of Properties—Mrs. Edwin R. Rooney.

Following the business meeting, the club adjourned to the main hall, where short entertainment, "The Cabaret Committee Meets" was presented. This was written and arranged by Mrs. Edwin R. Rooney and Mrs. Robert S. Clark and was a clever and amusing skit showing, "Mrs. Joiner," the cabaret chairman, trying to plan a cabaret with a most unco-operative committee, beset by interruptions of wrangling children, telephone calls, salesmen and a stupid maid. The cast, who played their parts delightfully, included Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Rooney, Mrs. Loring Gleason Mrs. Harold Farnsworth, Mrs. Lawrence Martin, Mrs. Stephen Neiley and Mrs. Irving Jennings.

WASHINGTON AND HIGHLAND MOTHERS

Our annual bridge was a great success both socially and financially and will enable us to meet our quota for the scholarship. Many thanks to those who attended and to those who bought tickets but were unable to be present.

The prizes were won by les Mesdames McTigue, Clifford, Clarke, Dalton, Wansker, Chefalo and Lynch. The color scheme of yellow blended with the delicious lemon tarts! If your scribe may be allowed to make a personal comment, she believes much credit is due your president, Mrs. Barnes, for making this party the success it was inasmuch as almost every house in our district had a case of Measles, Mumps or something else and our queen of ticket sellers, Mrs. Thompson, being more or less hors de combat.

Our annual meeting is on May 18 when we hope to see all our mothers. It is rumored we will have our school orchestra furnishing music. We have a pardonable pride in this group and believe a large attendance would be a great encouragement.

Until the 18th.

G. Toye, P. D.

Will all Wyman School mothers reserve this date and make every possible effort to be present. We want a large audience to greet Miss Cochrane.

In reply to those inquisitive persons who have questioned our recent "cheese" paragraph, we hasten to state that it had no connection whatever with the Aberjona River. In the first place comparisons are "odorous," and secondly there IS no comparison. The river speaks and smells for itself. This cheese we are tooting is GOOD cheese.

The town authorities are quite concerned with the damage being done newly planted young trees which have been set out to beautify our streets. Boys have been hacking the trees with knives and in some instances have caused serious harm. Parents and teachers might well offer the youngsters a bit of advice in this matter. Trees are one of the community's finest assets and should receive the best protection possible from all of us

There have been complaints from time to time about the use by children of the town's tennis courts on Saturday afternoons and Sundays when adults, who have no other time to play are obliged to wait around and take their turn on the courts with the youngsters who can play on any afternoon and Saturday morning. Off hand we should say there is something to the argument that those who work should have preference on the courts during the week-ends but the controversy is one which may well need consideration. The Star is informed that the Park Commissioners are looking into the matter, and will take whatever action is necessary to ensure everyone having the greatest chance possible to play tennis. That is what the town's courts are for.

Of course we like to be accurate. As a matter of fact we did have our doubts last week about that 50-50 proposition on this social security bunk, but it seemed reasonable in view of what we have thus far learned, experienced and heard concerning our "batch." But we were wrong! Our apologies are due our readers and those noble minds which conceived this bunk. We could not conceive how any employer could get out on an even basis—and we find he doesn't. He pays one and one-eighth per cent—thus far. Later he will pay two and three per cent. The employee pays his one per cent. At least that is what we understand from our latest "batch." We sought legal advice in unraveling the "batch" and nearly got thrown out. These lawyers have to conserve their minds. They say there is a limit to everything. They can do so much and no more. The only difficulty is—you can trust lawyers these days and you don't have such-a-much faith in most anything else. So—if you're keeping tabs on our contributions for the privilege of doing business in the good old USA of 1937, add on $23.43, bringing the total (of State and Federal gratuities only) to $469.59 at this time. We have, of course, an ever present tax bill, but this is still waiting our attention; we guess it won't be over $90. Talk about the poor guy who had to pay alimony all his life! And we've never by any means been wedded to our present administration either.

DEE-CLARATION

Wee the "Benny Boys" do solemnly declare that despite all supplications we ain't not gonna swim up the Aberjona this year on the occasion of the En Ka Fair owing to, on account of, due to and, because youse fellers defaultid on our fur lined Benny's last year.

Jus Fink! Totilly on account of beenz of you, The Winchester Star, this grate municipality is to be deprived of this feature. We're jus hopin the peepull takes due an' justified recourse agin ya.

Signed:
The Grate Solemn Invincible
Potentate Beeny No. 1

P. S.

——and furthermore——we fink we kin git a appropriation frum the gov't's WPA for 'em anyhow. The Star 'll be mad an' I'll be glad!

Signed:
The Grate Solemn Invincible
Potentate Benny No. 2

Ed. Note:—We found the above tucked under the sanctum door yesterday morning. It refers of course to our opinion, publicly expressed after last year's fair, that two hardy souls who swam about in the malodorous waters of the Mill Pond during the evening performance with the temperature approaching the freezing mark, won the fur lined benny. We still incline to that view; strongly, as a matter of fact. Unfortunately, however, we were not charged with the awarding of the benny, nor were we even consulted. We don't even known who got it. Our number two choice was the girl in slipon and abbreviated shorts on the midway during the crisp morning. Maybe she got the fur line benny. We don't know. We guaranteed nothing and feel that the tenor of the above communication is perhaps a bit strident. When you get right down to it we will be quite pleased to have our paternalistic government through the W. P. A., P. W. A., A. A. A., C. I. O., whatever particular alphabetic group happens to be functioning at the appropriate moment, give the boys both a fur lined benny. Twon't make us mad a-tall! So there!

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is only by acknowledging the supremacy of Spirit, which annuls the claims of matter, that mortals can lay off mortality and find the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes man forever in the divine likeness, inseparable from his creator" (p. 491).

UNITARIAN PLAYERS EXCEL IN PRESENTATION OF THRILLING MELODRAMA OF GAY '90S

His wicked mustache and "city ways," his dishonorable designs upon the fair Nell, the leering smile and stealthy tread—oh, he was a villain to the core! And villagers quite lost their heads in hissing and booing his black intentions.

Sherman Russell gave a delightful performance as the farmer lad with a heart of gold and the wallop he handed "that slick city man" was no love pat. Mr. Russell indeed had the house with him.

Edna Wild as the pure Nell's sister, was appealingly feminine and sang the dear old songs to her father with heart-breaking emotion.

Charles R. Carter gave a well-balanced performance as the honest old father, and if his irate utterance of "You're no longer daughter of mine" lacked conviction (after all who could really be sincere about sending so delightful a Nell out in the cold, cold world) his bewilderment throughout more than made up for it.

Lizzie Jones, the old retainer, and one of the most important roles in the play, for it was this contrast that made you feel that every thing would come out just so, was capably interpreted by no other than delightful Estella A. Cooper.

Every appearance of Sam Slade, who eventually unmasked as the detective brought down the house, and Sam Slade as every villager should know by this time was a much bewhiskered Lewis Wadsworth. His silent gliding across the stage, the insecurity of his derby, and the surreptitious glances from his cautious eyes made his performance a work of art.

Youthful Veteran

Bruce Lees, as little Tommy, seemed to enjoy strolling casually about the stage, and had the poise and confidence of a veteran. His portrayal of the child asleep in the chair was one of the most amusing and decided high spots of the play. His suppressed grin was a gem.

George Cumings as the constable managed to nab the wrong man at the right time in a truly constable style and in keeping with the excellence of the cast did his bit in professional style.

The Bar Room

To the best of our knowledge, one of the first fully equipped bars in Winchester made its appearance via "Gold in the Hills." Of course this was a reproduction but one was rather struck by the sincerity displayed by the various characters in their imbibing of the demon rum—just good acting folks, just good acting.

A round of applause goes to Francis Felt as the most impressive bar tender we have ever seen. He was even more convincing than a real bar tender.

This review would not be complete without mention of the marvelous direction in this particular scene and knowing the hazards of "mob direction" we again take off our hat to Doris Bramson Whitehouse as a genius.

The dancing and kicking by Margaret Hall as Rose Robinson, a Bowery entertainer, left nothing to the imagination of the younger audience as to just how it was done back in the 90's and to the older ones a fond, or otherwise, recollection of days of yore.

A melodrama without the refrains of "The Sidewalks of New York" would be lacking something, but when it is used as the accompaniment to a really delightful soft shoe dance "a la gay 90's"—well that's great—but when that soft shoe dance is done by Janet Burbank, Miss Personality herself, well—that's just tops.

We became very conscious of the fact that Winchester can boast of beautiful girls, even though bedecked in bustles and raiment of another day. Constance Hale and Stella Rogers certainly enhanced the beautiful costumes. To Robert Jackson, Fred Cole, and that "barber shop" quartet go orchids for really giving the audience entertainment which is seldom surpassed on the professional stage. We believe however they underrated their own ability as entertainers for it was slightly noticeable that they soon had exhausted their supply of encores.

Amy L. Goddard is to be commended for her splendid bit of character acting as Old Kate. Mrs. Goddard made of the despicable old woman an amusing and after a time ridiculous character.

Mary Spaulding, Eastman Weaver and Dawn Kelley as the fashionable Vanderlops, visiting the Bowery for the first time made a nice contrast to the other characters. As the father and mother Mr. Weaver and Miss Spaulding, were properly shocked at the "goings-on," while Miss Kelley plainly revelled in the fun and frolic, delightfully responding to the attentions of the singers and dancers.

Settings Perfect

The first and last act settings were complete, reproducing the old homestead with "God Bless Our Happy Home," over the door, a horse-hair settee and a lamp like the one grandmother used to light, the old fashioned "what-not or high boy" and pictures which must have been in some of Winchester's attics for years. The wind was an unforgetably vicious wind and Kenneth Hall was the horse's hoofs and sleigh bells. Special mention is due for the splendid printing done on the programs and posters. We understand the program is an exact reproduction of one of "Wallack's" (old New York Theatre) of 1875.

Thank you Unitarian Players for giving Winchester a most enjoyable taste of long forgotten melodrama! And may we be one of the first to champion your movement for bigger and better amateur presentations. All residents of Winchester should know of the splendid work so ably done in that thriller of thrillers, "Gold in the Hills."

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN

President James Nowell of the Winchester Taxpayers' Association announced that wide-spread interest is being shown in the meeting of the Association planned for May 18 in the high school auditorium. Norman MacDonald, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Associations and Thomas M. Joyce, former president of the association in Lowell have been secured as the principal speakers.

Mr. MacDonald has appeared before many legislative committees during the past two years, and his efforts are credited with saving millions of dollars of tax money from being squandered. Among the bills which he has opposed successfully were those granting an extra $400,000 on the so-called "gift contract" on the Quabbin Dam, more than $135,000 in "extras" on the Concord Turnpike, a $69,000 item on the Jamaicaway overpass, the million dollar damage claims on the Swift and Ware River projects and the awarding of $400,000 of unnecessary work orders by the Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission. According to officials of the taxpayers' associations, the costs of all of these projects were saved for taxpayers by the efforts of Mr. MacDonald and his associates.

President Nowell of the Winchester Association has announced that a broadening of the membership base of the local association is being planned in order to interest as many citizens as possible in this non-partisan effort at reducing the tax burden.

The May 18 meeting is open to local citizens without ticket or invitation and a large turnout is anticipated.

DARTMOUTH AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

A decided interest has been shown by Dartmouth alumni living in Winchester in their coming get-together and dinner at the Winchester Country Club on Friday, May 14.

This is the first meeting of this kind to be held for some time and there are now over 100 Dartmouth men living in Winchester.

The subject to be given by Bill Cunningham, ace sports writer for the Boston Post, will be of interest to all alumni. Bill is close to the athletic situation in Hanover. He will discuss the present and future of Dartmouth athletics.

Jack Hubbell, class of '21, chairman of the Alumni Council Committee, will discuss admissions and entrance requirements, which will be of particular interest to the prospective Dartmouth men who are invited to this meeting.

Two moving picture reels will be shown. One is entitled, "Life at Dartmouth," and the other "Winter Sports and Ski Activities at Dartmouth."

Any boy who is interested in going to Dartmouth should get in touch with Jack Kenerson.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Breakfast is a meal whose importance is not sufficiently realized in many homes. As a feature of Child Health Week and regular child care the importance of an adequate breakfast cannot be over-emphasized. Breakfast can and should be varied according to the season. With the orange and grapefruit season gradually waning, berries, melons, fresh pineapple and stewed rhubarb become alternate breakfast fruits.

Smoked meats, ducklings and forequarter cuts of beef, veal, pork and lamb offer best meat values this week. Fish is plentiful and reasonable. Eggs are cheaper and butter prices moderate.

Asparagus, carrots, peas and spinach are the chief vegetable values of the week.

Here are three menus of varying cost for Sunday dinner.

Low Cost Dinner
Boiled Smoked Butt New Potatoes
New Cabbage
Bread and Butter Tapioca Cream
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Strawberry Shortcake

THERE'S POSITIVE PROOF BEHIND STUDEBAKER'S DARING CHALLENGE!

THE 1937 DICTATOR IS America's finest 6-cylinder car!

ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH

STUDEBAKER has no criticism to make of any other 6-cylinder car. Studebaker simply makes the unqualified assertion that no other six built in America, regardless of price, compares with the 1937 Dictator in money's worth!

That Studebaker challenge includes sixes that cost more than the Dictator as well as sixes that cost the same or less!

Put no money down on any six until you see and drive the Dictator . . . world's first six to offer the triple safety of a steel-reinforced-by-steel body, automatic hill holder and hydraulic brakes . . . world's first six offering the dual economy insurance of the gas-saving automatic overdrive plus the Fram oil cleaner . . . world's only six with non-slam doors that close lightly, tightly and silently!

All 9 other sixes are invited to contest against this great Studebaker!

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"Waikiki Wedding" with a cast that includes Bing Crosby, Bob Burns, Martha Raye, Shirley Ross, George Barbier and Lief Erickson, will be the main attraction on the bill opening at the Granada Theatre in Malden today. "Waikiki Wedding" is the story of a smart publicity man who outsmarts himself. As the representtive of a pinapple cannery, he organizes a contest of pineapple recipes, the winner of which is to receive a vacation in glamorous Waikiki. Miss Ross wins the contest, comes to Waikiki, becomes bored with the place and decides to return home, ruining the publicity campaign. There is a native ceremony in the picture which is one of the finest things ever captured by the camera. There is also native music and a number of popular tunes from the pens of Robin and Rainger. The hit songs are "Blue Hawaii," "Sweet Is the Word for You," "In a Little Hula Heaven," and "Okolehao."

Fun and thrills for the whole family is promised in "Penrod and Sam," which is the second attraction on the bill started today. There is plenty of real drama and no end of hearty laughs. They are regular small-town boys, heads of a "gang" about which they are very mysterious. As a matter of fact they are the "Junior G-Men of America" and right wrongs and capture some desperate bank robbers in real G-Men manner. Frank Craven and Spring Byington play "Penrod's" parents.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

"Seventh Heaven," with Simone Simon and James Stewart as the stars, will head the double bill opening at the Strand Theatre in Malden today. "Seventh Heaven" is without question the tenderest romance to reach the screen. Simone Simon is said to give a truly marvelous portrayal of the little street waif, Diane. James Stewart plays the part of Chico who spends his days working in the huge subterranean Paris sewer. Chico saves Diane from being beaten to death by the owner of the notorious "Hole in the Sock" cafe, who has reared her from childhood. Few scenes in motion pictures are more moving than that in which Chico returns to Diane, bringing a surprising conclusion to the tenderest love story of our time.

"Her Husband's Secretary," with Beverly Roberts, Warren Hull and Jean Muir as the featured players, will be the second attraction on the bill starting today. Miss Muir is cast as secretary to Addison Richards, whose wife is very jealous. Miss Muir, however, falls for a structural worker. They plan to get married but on the day set, Warren Hull is called to the bedside of his father who lies leaving his enormous business interests to his son. A forest fire lems them in and the conduct of the two women when the man is hurt solves the problem for the husband.

READING THEATRE

The latest type of revolving stage, differing from many movie sets in that it is entirely practical for the legitimate stage, makes its appearance in the Irving Berlin musical, "On the Avenue," starring Dick Powell and Madeleine Carroll, opening Sunday at the Reading Theatre.

In a number Irving Berlin wrote for Dick Powell and Alice Faye, titled "The Girl on the Police Gazette," a young man of 40 years ago goes through seven sets in search of "The Girl on the Police Gazette."

As the picture keeps its musical numbers within a normal theatre proscenium, the backstage part was equipped with a semicircle of tracks. Seven specially built flat cars, rolling silently over these, help to achieve a swift change of scene without a curtain being drawn.

On the same bill will be "Murder Goes to College" with Roscoe Karns and Marsha Hunt. The double feature bill for today and tomorrow includes Victor McLaglen and Preston Foster in "Sea Devils" and "Smart Blonde" with Glenda Farrell and Barton McLane. Six beautiful lapel watches will be given away to "The Kiddies" Saturday afternoon.

BERT WILKIN'S PLAN FAILS

Zeb Fletcher says, "It could be worse!"
To every thing you say,
No matter though it be the truth
He's bound to have his way.

Bert Wilkins figured out a plan
And said he felt quite sure
That when he put his scheme to work
'Twould prove to be Zeb's cure.

When he met Zeb he said, "I dreamt
Your team went off the road
And when I went to help you out
I found you 'neath the load"

"Well, Bert," Zeb said, "That may be so
But then it could be worse
You might have found me so far gone
You'd have to call the hearse."

"Now Zeb, that's where the rub comes in
'Cause when I reached your side
I found I was a spell to late
For you had up and died!"

"If that should really happen, Bert,
'Twould be an awful curse,
But after all I won't complain
'Cause it could be much worse."

"I know, but Zeb, I dreamt when you
Had crossed the great divide
The angels weren't awaiting there
To greet you on their side."

"I've always been religious, Bert,
And read the Bible's verse
And I can't see your dream that way
But still it could be worse."

"Why Zeb, what ever could be worse Than sinking down below?"
"Well, Bert, no duht it would be worse
If it were really so."

WAKEFIELD THEATRE TIME SCHEDULES

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

"Nancy Steele Is Missing" comes to the University Theatre starting Sunday. Victor McLaglen is cast as a waiter in an exclusive club, who, after kidnapping a financeer's baby in 1916, passes 20 years in jail for other crimes. When pardoned, his attempts to restore the lost child to her father leads to a tense dramatic climax.

"Wings of the Morning" the companion feature, introduces a new and exciting screen personality in Annabella, starred with Henry Fonda and Leslie Banks in the film, which presents the world-famous tenor, John McCormack.

On Wednesday, Review Day, the program includes "The Scarlet Pimpernel" co-starring Leslie Howard and Merle Oberon and "One Way Passage" featuring William Powell and Kay Francis.

Bing Crosby, Bob Burns and Martha Raye are together again in "Waikiki Wedding," a gay comedy of love and music under tropic skies which opens Thursday. Beautiful Shirley Ross carries the feminine romantic lead of the new comedy. The cast also includes George Barbier, Leif Erikson, Miri Rei, the Tahitan dancer who was the sensation of the Ziegfeld Follies recently; Knulei and Nalani De Clerq, native dancing team and over 200 native dancers, musicians and other performers. The barbaric "drum dance," once practiced by the Polynesians before making a human sacrifice, is performed by Miss Rei in "Waikiki Wedding." It is the first time the famous dance has been recorded by the motion picture camera.

Bette Davis, who won last year's Academy award as the screen's greatest actress, makes her 1937 bid for renewed honors in a gripping story taken from headlines that have flashed across the front pages of America's newspapers for many months. This picture, declared by Miss Davis to give her one of the most powerful roles she has ever portrayed, is "Marked Woman," the companion feature. Bette Davis is supported by such outstanding players as Humphrey Bogart, Eduardo Ciannelli, Isabel Jewell, Rosalind Marquis, Lola Lane, Jane Bryan and Mayo Methot.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

The wise Winchesterite will greet old Father Time with gentleness. It is perfectly all right to take the old fellow by the forelock, but be careful not to snatch him baldheaded.

According to a Winchester philosopher a fellow's obituary notice comes rather late in the game of life to land him a job.

That woman some thousand miles from Winchester who slept for 11 weeks and is now awake and normal should feel thoroughly rested.

In ancient Egypt brides stipulated how the family finances should be handled, we are told. Women haven't changed in the ages since.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

"I Have a Life in Christ to Live"

The way of life is plain. What we need to do is to shift our mental gears and cease choosing to keep our heads in the fog. There is an abundance of sunshine. Humarn life has plenty of self-evident propositions. As our guide we have the words of Eternal Life and to read and follow them are sufficient to keep one always in the morning light.

We live in an era of confusion. For this reason the needle of every good Christian's life must point without tremor or vacilations to God. There is certitude. Let speculations take care of themselves, but let the Almighty take care of our souls.

The idea we wish to elucidate here is stated in the oft-quoted, but not too often quoted, poem of Shairp:

I have a life with Christ to live;
But ere I live it must I wait
Till learning can clear answer give
Of this or that book's date?

I have a life in Christ to live,
I have a death in Christ to die;
And must I wait till science give
All doubts a full reply?

Nay, rather, while the sea of doubt
Is raging wildly round about
Questioning of life and death and sin,
Let me but creep within
Thy fold, O Christ, and at thy feet
Take but the lowest seat,
And hear thine awful voice repeat
In scntlest accents, heavenly sweet,
"Come unto me and rest;
Believe me, and be blest."

Eugene Bertram Willard

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL REPORT AND NEW DIRECTORS FOR 1937-1938

The Annual Meeing of the Winchester Hospital was held Tuesday, April 27, at the residence of Mrs. A. S. MacDonald, 4 Ravenscroft road, Winchester.

The following officers and directors were elected:

President's Report for Year 1936-1937

To Members of the Winchester Hospital:

An examination of the Treasurer's Report will show that the Hospital is still in a sound financial condition. We recommend this report to our members for study, as it contains much interesting and valuable information too detailed for analysis in the report of the Executive Committee.

Hospitals should have competent and efficient business management, but unlike private enterprise, the aim is not for profit. In the last analysis our object should be to give our patients the best possible care at a cost as low as is consistent with first class treatment.

In order to accomplish desired results, consideration of the welfare of our staff of employees is second only to the care of our patients. Co-operation of everyone is of utmost importance. Contented and happy nurses contribute much to the well-being of the sick. The Executive Committee extends its thanks to the entire staff for its continued interest and loyalty.

In 1933 drastic cuts in salaries of all employees were made. At that time this action was imperative. Our whole staff accepted these unwelcome reductions willingly but with the assurance that as conditions improved, they would not be asked to bear the whole burden themselves. Since that time gradual increases have been made and the results obtained seem to justify our judgmnt.

From 1933 to 1937, our yearly patient days have shown a slow, but steady, increase from 12,417 to 15,667. The past year, with one exception, showed the highest census the Hospital has ever known.

The Executive Committee, while optomistic, does not wish to convey the impression that we can afford to relinquish any of our efforts or activities, as it is only by the untiring interest of many organizations and individuals, who annually make substantial contributions, that our financial report makes a creditable appearance. Without this help, the income from Trustees' Funds would fall far short of the amount necessary for efficient operation.

During the past year, the Hospital has received two generous gifts of ten thousand dollars each for the express purpose of reducing the mortgage, which at present is $20,000. These gifts are the equivalent of a perpetual annual donation amounting to the interest rates on the sum involved. The gifts have been acknowledged by the Executive Committee and the donors assured of our deep appreciation of their generosity.

We again thank the Winton Club, the Pop Concert Committee, the En Ka Society, and the Fortnightly Club for their continued interest and financial assistance.

We wish also to acknowledge a gift from the Italian Colony of Winchester towards the establishment of a medical library.

Various other public spirited citizens have made gifts which have been of invaluable help.

It is with a feeling of profound sorrow that we record the passing of Dr. Clarence E. Ordway, our vice-president and chief of staff. Dr. Ordway had been intimately associated with the Winchester Hospital since its early days. His sound judgment bridged the gap over many difficulties. He had the happy faculty of looking on the bright side and his counsel was an inspiration and source of confidence to our whole organization.

Respectfully submitted,
THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE,
A. K. Comins, President

April 27, 1937

Annual Report of the Staff for Year 1936-1937

To the President and Members of the Winchester Hospital:

Nine Staff meetings have been held during the past year with an average total attendance of thirteen. The average attendance of the members of the Active Staff has been nine.

In November, 1936, by vote of the Staff, the regular meeting was changed from the second Monday to the second Tuesday of each month.

Eight applications for the privilege of treating patients at the Hospital have been received during the year. Five were unanimously approved, two applications were denied and one laid on the table until the applicant joins the Massachusetts Medical Society.

During the year papers have been presented at the Staff meetings by Dr. Aitken, Dr. Hodgson and Dr. Clark. Two clinico-pathological conferences have been held.

A Committee appointed by the Staff is reviewing the Hospital records with the intention of simplifying and preventing duplicaton of records.

It is perhaps advisable to call to the attention of the Staff that by vote of the Staff in March 1937 the past history and present illness shall be dictated by the attending physician.

The suggestion is also made that in the near future revision of the By-laws should be contemplated and that the matter of the appointment or election of an Executive Committee should be considered.

In June 1936 the Staff had the final privilege of being presided over by the late Chairman, Dr. Ordway. Few individual except those intimately associated with the activities of the Hospital appreciate the profound loss occasioned by his death. Chairman of the Staff since its organization on May 21, 1925 and always concerned in the maintenance of the highest possible standards in the Hospital we again pay tribute to his memory.

In January 1937, Dr. Ernest Dalton Richmond, long associated with the Hospital as a member of the Courtesy Staff, died.

On February 7, 1937 a member of the Consulting Staff, Dr. Philip Hammond passed away.

The future of the Winchester Hospital depends upon the maintenance by the members of the staff, present and future, and the spirit of loyalty which has been dominant in the past.

At the annual meeting of the staff the following officers for the year 1937-38 were elected: Chairman, Dr. Richard W. Sheehy; Vice Chairman, Dr. Sanford H. Moses; Secretary, Dr. Roger M. Burgoyne; Representative to Executive Committee, Dr. Richard J. Clark.

Respectfully submitted,
ROGER M. BURGOYNE, M.D.,
Secretary of the Staff

MYSTIC THEATRE, MALDEN

A stirring drama of a woman's lust for vengeance and the fury of a mob whipped into frenzy by small-town bigotry brings Warren William, Karen Morley and Lewis Stone to the screen of the Mystic Theatre, Malden on Friday in "Outcast." This is the story of a physician who is hounded from city to city by Miss Morley who believes him guilty of murder. She catches up with him in a small midwestern town where he has taken refuge. There, through the intercession of Stone, she discovers the physician's innocence and falls in love with him but not before she has betrayed him to a mob. The role of physician is one of the "heaviest" William has ever played and he handles it with fine feeling and skill. Miss Morley puts a great deal of fire into the difficult role of the girl whose hate turns to love, and Stone, as usual, turns in a grand performance.

The climax in "The Mighty Treve," which is to be the second feature starting Friday at the Mystic, Malden, centers on the accusation against a dog, charging him with being a killer. This sequence has its parallel, in a similar actual happening featured in front page news stories a few months ago. In "The Mighty Treve," adapted from a story by Albert Payson Terhune, the dog, accused of sheep killing, is about to be executed when new evidence turns the animal into a hero, rather than a villain. Proof of his courage and devotion is also shown in the fact that he had earlier saved a man from being killed by a cougar. The human viewpoint of the story is enacted by Noah Beery, Jr., Barbara Read, Alma Kruger, Samuel S. Hunds and Hobart Cavanaugh.

AT THE EN KA STREET FAIR

EN KA FAIR A BIG SUCCESS

Saturday's Dutch Pageant a Colorful Occasion

The third annual En Ka Street Fair, long awaited with keen anticipation by young and old, took place last Saturday on the Town Hall grounds, which were transformed for the occasion into a Dutch setting. Holland's own bright tulips, bordered the walks leading to the gaily painted booths and shops, and the Dutch costumes of the vendors added a distinct atmosphere to the colorful spectacle. Thousands of people came, townsfolk and out-of-towners alike, and in spite of the absence of old Mr. Sun, the affair was a huge success, from the standpoints of fun and financial reward.

Mrs. Charles H. Woolley was the general chairman of the Fair, and her's was a task which called for all the ability, cleverness and charm which she is well known to possess. One of the most popular members of the En Ka Society, her capable leadership and winning personality was in large measure responsible for the success of the event.

One of her committee whose untiring efforts were a constant inspiration was Mrs. Franklin J. Lane, who had charge of all booths and properties. Mrs. Lane did an heroic task, her energy apparently endless, and the results of her splendid work were impressively evident everywhere. Assisting Mrs. Lane were Mrs. E. Ober Pride, Mrs. Louis Geerts, Mrs. Clyde Jones, Mrs. Allan Wilde, Mrs. William Thompson and Mrs. Kingman Cass.

Mrs. Kenneth Moffatt handled the publicity, which is so valuable to an event of this kind, and succeeded well. Mrs. Moffatt's experience in this field was to the great advantage of the Fair. She was aided by Mrs. Jamison Slocum and Mrs. Alfred Pierce.

Mrs. Harold F. Meyer, the Street Fair secretary, carried the burden of many preliminary arrangements, such as licenses, permits, insurance, etc., and her efficient work paved the way for smooth functioning of the many committees.

The task of the treasurer was done in a most systematic and effective way by Mrs. John B. Kenerson. Thousands of dollars were handled in expert manner and up-to-the-minute accounts of every department of the Fair were kept by Mrs. Kenerson. Mr. E. George Pierce, whose experience as cashier of previous fairs was eytremely valuable, acted again in this capacity. They were greatly aided in their long task by an electric coin sorting and counting machine.

Mrs. Malcolm Lees, the Street Fair architect, planned the color schemes, and did many of the original designs on the shop fronts. Only the framework of last year's booths was used, every one being re-designed in Dutch fashion. A few of those who carried out these ideas with paint and brush were Miss Florence Watters, Miss Clara Butterworth, Mrs. Hollister Olmsted, Mrs. Merton Ober and Miss Katharine Parrot.

Mrs. Arthur Rutter planned and cut the colorful Dutch costumes which every worker wore, of cunning wide Dutch caps, full blue skirts, white blouses and a variety of different scarves and aprons. The men assisting wore white trousers, sweaters, blue scarves and blue caps.

That the decidedly uncomfortable weather did not keep the throngs away, certainly speaks volumes for the goodwill and interest of the townsfolk toward the En Ka Society. In spite of frequent misty moments and a chilling wind, thousands of people came all through the day and evening. They patronized the shops, they played the games, they danced, and they enjoyed themselves. The successful fairs of 1935 and 1936 established the event as one of especial community importance, and the publicity and well-circulated "Street Fair News" created keen interest.

But there was something else, too, that drew the crowds there on a day

JOHN RUSSELL NOWELL

John R. Nowell of 32 Clark street, a native of Winchester and veteran of the World War, died Saturday, May 8, at noon in the Chelsea Naval Hospital, following a lingering illness for which he had been under treatment at the hospital during the past two years.

Mr. Nowell was the son of Frank M. and Margaret (Connora) Nowell. He was born in Winchester Aug. 16, 1889, was educated in the Winchester schools and as a young man was employed as a clerk in Holland's Fish Market, now out of business but formerly located at the corner of Main and Thompson streets.

At the time of the World War on June 6, 1917, he enlisted in the United States Navy and after training at Hingham and the Brooklyn Navy Yard, was assigned to the U. S. S. Nevada. He served six months over seas at Bantry Bay, Ireland, Firth of Forth in Scotland and at Brest, later serving for a year in southern waters on target practice in the West Indies and Barbados Islands.

Following his discharge he entered the employ of the Town's Highway Department, remaining there until ill health caused his retirement. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Helen E. (Doherty) Nowell; a daughter, Marjorie; and a son, John Nowell; also three sisters, Mrs. Annie Bennett, Mrs. Carl Fisher, both of Winchester, and Mrs. Henry Smith of Lynn; and three brothers, George R., William, foreman of the Water Department; and Fireman James LeRoy Nowell, all of this town.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the late residence with high mass of requiem celebrated in St. Mary's Church by Rev. Fr. Conrad J. Quirbach. Full military honors were accorded by an escort from Winchester Post, 97, American Legion, and a firing squad and bugler from Charlestown Navy Yard. Flags on the Common and town buildings were displayed at half staff. The church was filled with people from all walks in life. Representatives of both the Police and Fire Departments were present. Bearers were Fred S. Mitchell, Thomas J. McKee, James Rogers, Ralph Govanne, Verner Carson, all of Winchester, and Antonio Pedro of New Bedford, a war time "buddy" of the deceased. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Joseph E. McGoldrick.

OLD HOME DAY

The recent Street Fair is accomplishing another purpose besides the many it undertakes so willingly. It is becoming Winchester's "Old Home Day." The community spirit prevails, everyone is welcome, and all souls mingle together in friendliness and fun. This old custom of a day set apart for those away from home to gather together once more, is something that is being revived in various ways throughout the land. The Street Fair, with its variety of amusements and delicious eatables of every description, is filling our own community's need for that very thing.

Mrs. Howell Shepard (Connie Parks) of Ballardvale, was busy greeting acquaintances, as was Mrs. Robert Bowen (Marjorie Waldmyer) of Concord. Mrs. Walter O'Neil (Isabel Marchant) of Boston, was visiting about the grounds, and Mrs. Jerome Bishop, Jr. (Louise DeCamp) of Pasadena, Calif., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. William P. M. DeCamp, was also greeted enthusiastically by many friends.

Mrs. Kendall Way (Edith DeLoria) of Providence, was also there, and Mrs. Herbert Carlson (Dorothy Reynolds) of Quincy. Others we noted were Mrs. John Robertson (Olive Pendleton) of Lowell, Mrs. James Adriance (Nancy Clark) of Andover, Mrs. Ralph Herrick (Sally Cushing) also of Andover and Mrs. Philip Bartlett (Charlene Dean) of Cambridge.

Mrs. Thomas Green and Mrs. James Gould, former Chelsea residents, who for many years made their home in Winchester, stopped in to the Fair on their way to their present home in Wolfeboro, N. H.

Mrs. Lloyd Goddu of Southbridge and her three children were there, and another former resident, Mr. Raymond Pinkham, now superintendent of schools in Sturbridge.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

A new street light has been installed at the request of residents on Madison avenue west.

Contract for painting the outside of the town hall building has been let to Carl Larson of 4 Waterfield road.

In the matter of bowling alleys at 64 Swanton street on application of Rosari Marchesi, the Board voted to allow Mr. Marchesi to withdraw his application, this action being taken after considerable discussion and careful investigation of the matter.

Contract for the new traffic lights in Winchester Centre has been awarded to Crouse-Hinds Company for equipment and to William C. Cleary for the installation.

The Board's attention has been called to the several near-accidents at the intersection of the Parkway, Highland avenue and Mt. Vernon street and is not only making a study of the situation but has also requested the State Department of Public Works to investigate the conditions at this dangerous location and make recommendations to lessen the traffic hazard.

ALLAN E. BOONE

Allan E. Boone, 70, architect, of Winchester and Boston, and long-time resident of Winchester, died at his home at 15 Fenwick road on Friday, May 7, after a brief illness.

He was born in Winchester, at the old family home on Grove street, in 1866, the son of Allan F. Boone and Frances Chapman Boone, who settled in Winchester in the late 1850's. Mr. Boone was educated in the schools of this town and took a deep interest in the activities and development of Winchester throughout his life.

He is survived by his wife, Florence E. Boone, a son Philip and by his brother, Robert C. Boone.

Services were held on Sunday afternoon May 9 at the Ripley Chapel of the Congregational Church in Winchester. Interment was in Cypress Cemetery, Saybrook, Conn.

A WORTHY CAUSE

Fifty odd years ago a small group of residents of Winchester Highlands met on a Sunday afternoon in the old railroad station at the Highlands to form the nucleus of what has since become known as the Second Congregational Church which now stands at the corner of Washington street and Kenwin road and is known as a community church, being a mile or more distant from any other church.

This church, whose members are all energetic, sincere and hardworking, is free from debt and has been most fortunate in having secured for its minister the Rev. Carleton N. Jones of Newton, who has already endeared himself to everyone with whom he has come in contact.

This church, although remarkably successful in many ways has never had an organ, but a committee consisting of members, and residents of the Highlands, has been formed to solicit funds for an organ costing approximately $3000. The efforts of this committee have very successful up to date, but we need all the help we can get, so if you feel you would like to contribute to this worthy cause send your check or contribution to, George H. Lochman, treasurer, Organ Fund Committee, Second Congregational Church; William R. Baker, 227 Forest street; Robert J. Winton, 162 Forest street; Laura B. Tolman, 607 Washington street.

"The satisfaction of a good deed, honestly and promptly performed, will continue forever."

MANY HAPPY RETURNS!

The regular Official Board meeting of the Methodist Church was interrupted last Monday evening by the secretary, A. B. Bent, who moved a brief intermission.

The motion was carried and A. D. Nicholas, church treasurer, made a short speech in which he paid tribute to one who had done a great deal for Winchester Methodism and whose birthday was occuring on May 11. He continued by naming Frank E. Crawford as the man and wished him a happy birthday.

Mr. Nicholas then spoke of the minister, and commented that the board was happy as the minister and people began the third year of the present pastorate, and then pointed out that Mr. Butters also was celebrating a birthday on Wednesday of this week. At this moment, Mrs. Hitchcock and Mrs. Welburn entered with two lovely birthday cakes, covered with candles, and all joined in singing the birthday song.

Both men were completely surprised and very much pleased at the many expressions of affection showered upon them. The women members of the board had prepared refreshments and the evening closed with a social hour.

WINCHESTER GIRL AMONG WELLESLEY'S FAIREST

Miss Gene MacDonald, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. MacDonald of Ravenscroft road, was recently picked as one of the prettest girls of the freshman class at Wellesley College. It is one of the oldest customs at Wellseley for the juniors to choose as Prom Maids at their Junior Prom a group of the prettiest and most active girls in the freshman class. Miss MacDonald served in this capacity Friday night, May 7.

Junior Promenade is generally accepted as the most important social event at Wellesley College throughout the year. The motif for the decorations was Dutch. On each pillar was a windmill and at the far end of the ballroom was a little Dutch house with a little pond of yellow ducklings in it. The Prom Maids carried out the scheme for decorations by wearing Dutch costumes and bonnets.

FATHERS TO MEET SONS ON DIAMOND

On Saturday, May 22 at Manchester Field the ancient and honorable baseball pennant race between fathers and sons of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church will open. For many years this torrid feud has been carried on with all the fanfare and attraction of the big leagues. This year the fathers have recruited players into their ranks that will make it hard for the boys to win or even score. In order to ballyhoo the game as much as possible, there will be open practise on Thursday and Tuesday nights at the field in the week before the game. Under the leadership and guidance of Ted Atkinson, Cy Young and "Ed" Grosvenor the men will display their terrifice batting eye and agile ability on the diamond. All men are invited to join in the fun—the boys have a unique idea that they are going to win.

GARDEN CLUB

The annual meeting of the Winchester Garden Club was held on Wednesday, May 12. The members met for luncheon at the Shaker Glen House in Woburn, where the tables had been gayly decorated with varied colored glass flower containers, filled with pansies, which the club president, Mrs. Reginald C. Ribinson had presented to each member.

After luncheon the group went to the home of Mrs. Robinson, 48 Wildwood street, where the annual meeting was held. The annual report was read by Mrs. Michael H. Hintlian.

The newly elected officers are: Mrs. Theodore Von Rosenvinge, president; Mrs. Thomas I. Freeburn, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Robie Cove; and Mrs. John B. Wills, corresponding secretary.

HARRISON A. HATCH

Old Winchester Resident Passes Away

Harrison A. Hatch of Eaton street, died at his home early Monday morning after a long illness. The funeral services were held at the residence on Wednesday afternoon.

Harrison Alvah Hatch was born in Winchester, his parents being Horace and Esther Wyman (Thompson) Hatch. He was 85 years of age and made his home here during his entire life. Following his graduation from the Winchester schools and a term at a Boston business college, he entered business with his father, a well known Winchester builder and contractor. Upon the death of his father he continued with the business, retiring from active work ten years ago.

He came from old New England stock, and his mother, Esther Wyman Thompson, was a direct descendant of Count Rumford (Benjamin Thompson) of colonial fame. He was widely known among Winchester residents. During his manhood he was an ardent baseball fan, always to be seen at the local games and a constant attendant at the league games. Even after his confinement to his home, he followed the games on the radio with keen enjoyment.

For many years he was secretary of the Winchester chapter of the Royal Arcanum.

In 1879 Mr. Hatch married Miss Idella G. Yeaton of Everett, who survives him, together with one sister, Mrs. Josephine Atwood.

Rev. Howard J. Chidley conducted the funeral service at the residence Wednesday afternoon and the burial was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

JAMES F. McCAULEY WELL KNOWN HERE

James F. McCauley, veteran Edison Light employee who died suddenly at his home on Buck street in Woburn shortly after midnight Tuesday, May 11, was widely known in Winchester, visiting the town daily to replace burned out street lights. He was stricken with a heart attack while at the Edison Power Station in Woburn at 11.45 o'clock Monday night and was taken to his home where he failed to rally.

Mr. McCauley, a native of Woburn, had been in the employ of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company for more than 30 years. He was a brother of Police Chief Charles R. McCauley of Woburn and of the late Sergt. Thomas F. McCauley of the Winchester Police Department. He was an ardent follower of Woburn High athletic teams and often visited Winchester to attend games or at other times, social events, his sportsmanship and genial personality winning him a host of friends among residents of the town in all walks of life. He was especially well known to the newspaper men who covered local police headquarters where he was a frequent and welcome visitor. Many will recall his helpfulness at the En Ka Street Fair a year ago.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

Thirteen Rotarians were absent from the meeting of May 13. Some of these have already made up for their absences.

"Church" Hindes has been enjoying a trip to the Middle West thereby gaining first hand knowledge of the center of the sit-down strike industry. We understand that he does not propose to put his observations into practice.

Ralph Bonnell reports that the District Conference at Framingham last week was a great success. He will present details of his experiences there at our next meeting.

The latest issue of the "News letter" from Rotary International announces the organization of 26 new Rotary Clubs. At present clubs are being organized more frequently than for years. And never, we believe, has the world had greater need for service clubs, service clubs which really function as such.

The current meeting (May 13) took the form of a joint session with the Winchester Chamber of Commerce and the Lions Club of Winchester in observation of the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce. The total attendance including guests was close to 100. Caterer Fred Scholl, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, served one of his delicious dinners, during which a delightful program of music was presented under the direction of Winchester's Mary Ranton Witham.

Immediately after the dinner there was a short business session, during which the following were elected to serve as officers of the Chamber of Commerce during the year 1937-38:

President—George H. Lochman.
Vice President—Harry C. Winton.
Secretary—Ernest H. Butterworth.
Treasurer—Frank H. Knight.
Directors—The above ex officio and Vincent P. Clarke, George T. Davidson, Helen I. Feenenden, Thomas Quigley, Jr., Fred H. Scholl, Herbert H. Seller, Harris S. Richardson, Raymond S. Wilkins, George Welsch.

President Lochman of the Chamber of Commerce presided at the after-dinner exercises and called on the following for brief greetings: Vice President Warren J. Hersey of the Rotary Club of Winchester; President Robert L. Emery of the Lions Club of Winchester; Representative William E. Ramsdell and Selectmen W. Allan Wilde and Richard W. MacAdams.

Rev. Carleton N. Jones, who has recently come to Winchester to serve as pastor of the Second Congregational Church, delivered a stirring address which he introduced under the title "Messes." Mr. Jones showed in a convincing manner that, whereas in the private lives of most individuals and also in the experiences of all social bodies there is much confusion and turmoil and pulling at cross purposes, yet under the influence of right thinking and the saving grace of that sense of proportion with which humanity has been blessed all of these disturbed conditions are finally resolved into a state of order and peaceful progress.

The final attraction of the evening was an illustrated lecture by Mr. Lester C. Phinney, New England representative of the Hudson's Bay Company. To many of us here in New England the story of the Hudson's Bay Company, going back as it does to the early days of colonial struggles, partakes largely of myth and fancy. And yet this company is of the very substance of Canadian life for the past 268 years. Insofar as was possible in the short time at his disposal, Mr. Phinney explained how the company came into existence and gradually assumed its authoritative position as a chief arbiter of the destinies of the vast north land of our continent with world-wide ramifications. There was a most interesting display of various articles, chiefly the handiwork of Eskimos, collected on various expeditions by members of the company's staff. And finally, five complimentary subscriptions to the company's magazine, "The Beaver," were assigned by lot among those in attendance at the dinner, the lucky ones being Daniel Kelley, Nathaniel M. Nichols, Mrs. J. A. McLean, Molly Falvey and Warren A. Hersey. This lecture will linger long in the memories of those who heard and saw and the Chamber is to be congratulated on the success of its presentation.

Attendance percentage of the Rotary Club of Winchester for May 6—87.10 per cent.

STREET FAIR COSTUME RECALLED OLD CALUMET DAYS

There is an interesting little story in connection with the Dutchman's costume worn by Dr. E. Russell Murphy as he strolled about the grounds at the En Ka Street Fair last Saturday.

In 1916 Dr. Murphy played the role of the "Duke of Vollendam" in the musical show by that name, staged by the Calumet Club in the town hall during the days of Mr. Arthur W. Dean's presidency. When he was asked to assist at the Fair the doctor recalled the old costume and thought it would be an appropriate one to wear on that occasion.

Visiting the Wolff-Fording Company, who outfitted the Calumet show 21 years ago, he contacted Mr. Leon Dadmun who coached the production and enquired if the costume he had sported in the "Duke of Volendam" was still available. It was, and the company's files showed all the costumes worn by the individual members of the 1916 cast.

Through the courtesy of Wolff-Fording's Mr. Lynch the costume was donated for Dr. Murphy's use at the Street Fair, the local cleansing firm of Fitzgerald putting the suit and hat in first class condition for the occasion, also as a contribution to the cause.

So it was that the "Duke of Volendam" returned to Winchester, not far from the exact spot of his original visit on the town hall stage. Both Wolff-Fording and Fitzgerald Cleansing surely did their bit to provide atmosphere for a worth-while undertaking.

JUDGE JOHN G. MAGUIRE

Associate Justice Curtis W. Nash of the Woburn District Court, a resident of Winchester, with Police Chief William H. Rogers, Lieut. Edward W. O'Connell and others prominent in civic life, represented the town at the funeral of Judge John G. Maguire at St. Charles Church in Woburn Tuesday morning.

Judge Maguire, formerly associate justice of the Woburn Court and one of that city's most respected residents, died Sunday morning at a rest home in Norwood where he had been for the past winter. He was 88 years old and a native of Waltham, a graduate of Boston University Law School in 1877 and for more than 50 years a member of the Massachusetts Bar.

He served Woburn as city solicitor, assessor and as collector, was formerly a member of the House of Representatives and for nearly 30 years, associate justice of the Woburn Court.

Judge Maguire was one of the corporators and for many years a director of the Woburn Co-operative Bank, vice president of the Woburn Charitable Association, sustaining unit of the Choate Memorial Hospital; director of the Five Cent Savings Bank and Woburn National Bank, first president of the Woburn Bar Association and a charter member of Woburn Lodge of Elks. He leaves two sons, W. Frank Maguire, Woburn attorney, and J. Leo Maguire of Boston.

The deceased jurist while on the bench established an enviable reputation as an interpreter of the law and was highly esteemed by many in Winchester to whom news of his passing brought a sense of deep regret.

UNITED THANK OFFERING

By Women of the Epiphany Parish

Sunday, May 16, women of the parish of the Epiphany will bring to the 8 o'clock and 11 o'clock services the contents of the blue boxes in which, for half a year, each woman has been collecting her own thank-offering. Several decades ago a woman felt the impulse to express her thankfulness for some good things in her life that she could not have secured for herself, by putting aside a bit of money that her church might use to make life a better thing for some less fortunate woman. Perhaps her heart was full of thangsgiving at a great deliverance; perhaps the doctor had told her that a child who had been fighting for life would come safely back to health. She expressed her gratitude by giving a coin that would help bring medical and nursing services nearer to a sick child in China or Alaska or in a penniless United States tenement.

This way of turning a thankful spirit to work for some other woman commended itself to others, and the Women's United Thank Offering became general in the Episcopal Church, and is now an important fund for missionary enterprises both in the United States and abroad. An increasing number of women in this Winchester parish keep and use the blue boxes. Some of the coins they have given doubtless represent times when a great happiness has come or a great sorrow been averted. Many more represent thankfulness for the quiet order of a woman's days,—for monthly bills paid, for a good report card from school, for the whole family flock safely and cheerily at home, together when evning comes. No woman knows what another woman gives nor why she has given it. The United Thank Offering is very private giving. Only the total sum will be reported to the parish.

The treasurer is Mrs. Clifford Towner. In the mechanics of this May collection she has had the assistance of Mrs. David A. Carlue, Mrs. Robert Clark, Mrs. James Cleaves, Mrs. Conrad Larson, and Misses June Aitcheson, Eleanor Barron and Florence Barron.

Mrs. Towner and other members of Epiphany parish will present the offering at a Presentation Service of the Diocese of Massachusetts at St. Paul's Cathedral, Boston, Wednesday, May 19, at 10.30 a. m.

At 2 p. m. there will be a meeting in the Crypt. The amount of the diocesan offering will be announced, and those present will hear of projects that the General Convention will consider for the Thank Offering Fund and will be invited to express their opinion as to how delegates to the Convention might wisely vote.

Of very special interest in the afternoon meeting will be the presence of the founder of the United Thank Offering, Mrs. Richard H. Soule, who will speak.

Tea will be served at 3.30.

Miss Mary L. Hodge of 17 Edgehill road sailed from Baltimore Tuesday on the S.S. Kent of the Merchants & Miners Line, enroute home via Boston, after having visited Washington, D. C.

OUR MODERN AGE

By J. J. Doherty

A DESIRED DECLINE

The nation's music clubs, we hear, have picked out their work this year improvement of the sick-calf sounds that emanate from merry-go-rounds. This seems to be the first clear sign that we are on a sane decline from post-war idealistic peaks. For up until the past few weeks our crusades have been aimed so high we simply got lost in the sky. So hats off to the music faction for starting a desired reaction.

The experts of Fella Plumbing & Heating Co., of 656 Main St., in appreciation of the splendid reaction which their modernization work has caused among the people of the community, continue to offer the same high standard of work—consisting of the use of the very best obtainable materials skillfully and permanently applied. Call 0903 for a non-obligating estimate on a kitchen and bathroom modernization job.

What is the "Low-price Field"?

YOU hear a lot about "the low-price field" these days. A good many cars claim to be in it.

So whenever the low-price field is mentioned, remember:

Until Ford came, no average American could own a car.

Today all Ford prices are still low — with the prices of the 60-horsepower Ford V-8 $30 to $60 lower than those of any other car of comparable size.

But with Ford, "low price" doesn't merely mean low figures on the price tag. It means much more than that. It means low prices and low costs all the car's long life. Low prices for service — for parts — and, above all, for operation.

Both Ford V-8 engine sizes are economical to operate. The 85 horsepower gives greater gasoline mileage this year than ever, and the "60" delivers the highest mileage in Ford history.

Private owners, cab companies, fleet operators all report that the "60" averages from 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Check and see how much Ford saves you.

Ford V-8 Prices Begin at $529

This price is for the 60-hp. Coupe equipped with front and rear bumpers, spare tire, horn, windshield wiper, sun visor, glove compartment and ash tray.

WINCHESTER WON FROM MAYNARD

Winchester High won its Middlesex League baseball game from Maynard last Friday afternoon on the new athletic field 6—2, its first win on the new diamond.

"Carlie" Johnson went the route for the locals and though touched up for 14 hits, the diminutive southpaw was very good in the pinches, getting nine of the visitors on strikes and allowing but a single free ticket. He was given good support by his mates, while Lattuca, Maynard hurler, got some pretty wobbly backing at times, so that Winchester's seven hits counted plenty.

The visitors got both their runs in the first with two away. Flaherty and Columbo singled in succession to left and scored on Haapanen's double to the same pasture. Lattuca walked and Kitowicz's single to left filled the bases. Johnson, however bore down and big Creighton's grounder to DeTeso was converted into a force play at second.

Winchester went out in front in the third. After Latucca had tossed out Bairstow, Johnson walked and was forced at second on Kenney's bounder to Latucca. Kenney stole and Smith got a life when Columbo messed up his grounder, Kenney reaching third. Both boys were over on DeTeso's timely single and the latter reached third when R. Donaghey's rap got away from Gudzinowicz. On an attempt to catch DeTeso off, Latucca threw wildly and the run scored. Murphy hoisted to Gudzinowicz.

With one away Smith reached on a fielder's choice in the fifth and went all the way around on R. Donaghey's triple to far left. Donaghey's single to left and Murphy's double gave the locals their last two runs in the eighth, a wild pitch letting Murphy tally.

The victory was a bit marred by the fact that a stone was thrown through the Maynard players' bus as they left for home after the game. The name of the boy alleged to have been responsible was given to the Police. Following is the summary:

The Winchester Millionaires lost a tight 2—1 ball game to the Melrose Red Sox in the Inter-City League opener at Melrose Monday evening. The latest bon mot: As popular as a mural in the Mystic School.

So we must support our great President or go under a Dictatorship? And the Boy Scouts start in giving the hailing sign! Good morning comrade.

". workers asked the officers to help them get through the picket lines. They were told that as long as the pickets were orderly, the officers could not interfer." In other words, if you want to work, go ahead and get your beating-up—but don't you do anything about it.

From what we hear, the only way for a purging of our odorous Aberjona is through a concerted action by our citizens. The only concerted action we have witnessed thus far is that of the CIO. Having reached Springfield, where sit-down strikers carried mattresses and provisions into the Milton Bradley factory, it seems only a matter of time when it reaches Winchester. Let's hold all negotiations on the island in the Mill Pond.

Not to be outdone by the cheese at the Street Fair at the Town Hall, residents bordering Mystic Lake put up such a holler that the State Board of Health sent a truck out Saturday morning and gathered up a load of dead fish in the cove of the upper lake. The dead fish lodged at the Island where tea was served at the Street Fair, were safely hidden in the "soup" through high water (?), some enterprising soul dropping a couple of flash boards in the mill dam. Further cleansing of upper Mystic was stopped by a west wind, which swept the offal over to the point. Altogether it might be a nice thing to stage a few lawn parties along the lake shore and invite the various health departments hereabouts to attend and secure odorous evidence that our river is really and truly polluted.

The Park Commissioners took exception to the Star's comment upon children keeping adults off the town's tennis courts during week-ends, and Commissioner Packer, Winchester's tennis "than-whomer," tells us that there is no injustice being done. In every instance where complaints have come to his attention actual records of play show the complainants have had their full share of time upon the courts. The children who are playing the game today are the adult players of tomorrow and it is natural that those working for the future of Winchester tennis should have an especial interest in them. The Park Commissioners, however, have no intention of depriving grown-ups of indulging every opportunity possible to get healthful recreation and physical exercise on the town's tennis courts. When "Bill" Packer says they are not being, and never have been deprived of this opportunity, at least because of the youngsters, we are very ready to believe him!

The town has commenced its job of spraying, which includes of course all trees on public property and wherever requested, those on private property, at the owner's expense. The joker in the private spraying is that many owners whose trees are badly in need of attention will not go to the expense of having them sprayed and as a consequence the work done on adjacent trees is not nearly as effective as it should be. The cost of spraying trees is very nominal, and it would seem that all trees in need of attention in town should be sprayed, whether or not their owners request it. The community has no finer asset than its trees, and a number of neglected trees in a neighborhood can in time cause considerable damage to nearby growth. The men in charge of spraying would not naturally do the work unless necessary, but when trees need attention and are threatening nearby trees in good condition they should be sprayed, with or without the owner's permission.

Those who have at heart the best interest of clean sport in Winchester learned with regret that a stone was thrown through a window of the bus in which the Maynard High School baseball team was leaving for home after last Friday's game on the new athletic field. To our knowledge this is the first time such rowdyism has occurred at an athletic contest in Winchester and we sincerely hope it will be the last. There was no reason for the act. No trouble had occurred during the game, nor after it, and Winchester fans have had no cause to complain of their treatment at Maynard, at least in recent years. Rowdyism at high school games, or any games for that matter should not be tolerated, and the local authorities have now had warning that there is at least a bit of tendency in that direction. Any repetition should result in prompt and stern measures being taken. Winchester enjoys too fine a reputation as a sports town to permit one or two thoughtless youngsters to wreck it.

We have always looked upon En Ka as a law-abiding body, composed of members zealously devoted to the public weal in its various ramifications, and as a consequence were surprised and shocked to learn that a definite breach of the law was countenanced, if not actually committed, by the Society at its Street Fair last Saturday. We refer to the shooting of bow-'narrers, which it has been learned since the fair is illegal within the confines of the Athens of America. Apparently authority for this statement is a quaint little volume entitled "It's the Law," in which are listed many forgotten statutes which apparently have never been repealed by the communities which originally invoked them. Shooting bow-'narrers does not go in our fair township according to that book, of which one of the well known magazines has thought enough to reproduce several of its more interesting ordinances. Among them is Winchester's cramping of archers' style. Chief Rogers, who knows his statutes as well as the next one, had not heard of the restraining law and neither had we, until after our round at long butts or hoyles or rovers or whatever bluff King Hal would have called our competition with Arthur Hollins last Saturday. We knew about the limitations placed upon lady tight-rope walkers in Winchester and also about such important matters as the jurisdiction of the town's eels and the lack of control of the town hall pigeons. The law against shooting bow-'narrers we will admit frankly we had not heard about. Apparently we have broken that law, along with En Ka and Arthur Hollins. What the penalty for violation is we have not been able to learn, but whatever it may be, we think we have some nice companions in misery.

RIGHT IN SPRINGFIELD

He (Matthew Campbell, CIO organizer) said that strikers were about equally divided between men and women. He said that the men would occupy the first floor (of the Milton Bradley Company) and the women the third floor, as sleeping quarters. Food and bedding were taken into the plant this afternoon. —[Boston Herald.

A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

For the first time in four years, Washington has apparently become "economy-minded." It has become obvious to the thinking people of this country that unless we have a balanced budget we must face the dangers of a tremendous credit inflation which will seriously imperil the security of every person in this country. On April 5 the National Economy League presented a petition to the President and all members of Congress calling for the fulfilment of the President's policy to achieve a balanced budget in the next fiscal year.

We are now asking you to write or wire your Senators and the Congressman from your district asking them to do their utmost to support the League's petition and to work for a balanced budget. The most logical place to seek economy is in the matter of relief. Seven million persons have been re-employed in this country during the past two years, yet our relief costs continue to grow.

Our petition states: "It is time now to develop a program of relief which will place the main responsibility for administering unemployment relief on state and local governments, to be aided by grants from the Federal Government. Our studies have shown that a return to a co-operative system of relief by which the major responsibility for administration is placed where it rightly belongs, on state and local governments, with Federal grants where strictly necessary to supplant local resources, would largely reduce the Federal cost, while not imposing an unduly large burden on state and local governments."

Do your part now by writing to Washington! Urge your friends and neighbors to do the same! With your help we can make sure of a balanced budget and we can put a stop to the wasteful spending of the people's money.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

To the Editor of the Star:

Enclosed is a paragraph from Marjorie Mill's Saturday morning broadcast of the New England Kitchen, and we ask if you will print it in the Winchester Star this week. Just one more evidence of the community spirit which makes our En Ka Street Fair such a grand success. Thank you.

En Ka Street Fair Committee
Winchester, May 11

This is sort of a dark gloomy day isn't it. I feel so sorry for our En Ka crowd in Winchester. It's the day of the Winchester Street Fair you know. They've worked so hard and made the most wonderful plans. I think every one will come just the same though don't you? They're going through with all the activities. Booths where you can buy the most wonderful things, plants and cheeses and grabs for the children. The money from the En Ka Street Fair goes to the Winchester Hospital and the Old People's Home. It's an annual event and everyone has such a good time. And it's such a worth while cause.

They're ready for a thousand people for a big supper and dance tonight. Of course if it should rain they'll have it just the same only in the town hall. And then the drawing for all the big prizes tonight. I think it would be a very neighborly act if all the people in Stoneham and Woburn and Reading and surrounding towns drove over to Winchester today to the Street Fair just because the weather isn't favoring the committee. They've worked so hard and they're putting on such an interesting affair. We look forward to the En Ka Street Fair all year round and people come from miles around to see it. I guess they'll drive over to Winchester just the same this afternoon, don't you think?

CREATES A BAD IMPRESSION

2 Calumet Road,
Winchester

To the Editor of the Star:

As I have occasion to drive through the streets of our beautiful town I cannot help but notice that the appearance of the Town as a whole, and probably the value of its real estate, is fast being depreciated by what seems to be a contest between certain real estate brokers doing business in Winchester, to see which can erect the greater number of FOR SALE signs in the most prominent places.

It seems too bad that there is not some Board or Committee in the Town to regulate such practices with the idea of protecting real estate values. It seems to me that there is nothing more depreciating to the value of a piece of property than to have several real estate brokers' signs thereon, or have one or more real estate brokers' signs on several contiguous houses. It certainly must give a stranger to Winchester, to say nothing of a resident therein, the impression that something is wrong with a neighborhood if there are too many houses therein with FOR SALE signs attached. It cannot help but give an impression that ready buyers are not easily found for Winchester property if it requires the combined efforts of sometimes as many as four real estate brokers as evidenced by the many signs to find an interested buyer.

For example, in the neighborhood near the corner of Fletcher and Copley streets there were four properties with real estate brokers' signs thereon within sight of this intersection; and also in Rangely there have been as many as six signs at one time visible from Church street; also a beautiful home on Grove street was supporting four real estate brokers' signs the last time that I observed it.

If such an impression as this is created in me, who thoroughly and entirely believes in the future of the Town of Winchester, as well as the permanency of the value of its real estate, I cannot help but wonder what impression must be given to prospective residents of the Town.

It seems a pity that our real estate brokers cannot get together in some way, and through agreements between themselves arrange to regulate this depreciating practice or that there is not a Town By-law which would give the power to some Board to regulate same.

Yours very truly,
Harold V. Farnsworth

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, May 16.
The Golden Text is: "They that are in the flesh cannot please God. But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you" (Romans 8:8, 9).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "But that no man is justified by the law in the sight of God, it is evident: for, The just shall live by faith. And the law is not of faith: . . . But before faith came, we were kept under the law, shut up unto the faith which should afterwards be revealed" (Galatians 3:11, 12 to 23).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "By universal consent, mortal belief has constituted itself a law to bind mortals to sickness, sin, and death. This customary belief is misnamed material law, and the individual who upholds it is mistaken in theory and in practice. The so-called law of mortal mind, conjectural and speculative, is made void by the law of Immortal Mind, and false law should be trampled under foot" (p. 2291).

HOSPITAL DRIVE NEXT FALL

Maurice Bird, Chairman of Hospital Finance Committee Announces Preliminary Plans

Following the publication in last week's Star of the names of the Winchester Hospital Finance Committee for the coming year, Maurice Bird of Yale street, chairman of that committee made the following statement to a Star representative:

"My committee is not prepared to make any announcement of its specific plans at this time. You may say, however, that plans are definite for a ...ve for funds in support of the hospital and that the drive will take place, as we see it now, in late October. The reasons for a drive at this time are quite clear and sound in the judgment of those who have considered them. We shall present them to the public at a more opportune time, when they will be fresher in the minds of the citizens whom we shall canvass.

"Probably nobody in Winchester is unaware of the splendid work being done in our hospital nor of the efficient and unselfish management which has made it outstanding among suburban hospitals. But I may add that unless one has actually visited the hospital he will be tremendously surprised, as I confess I was, when he goes to see the work. During the summer my committe will familiarize itself with the details of this work to the end that it may be able in the fall to present to the citizens of the town a vicarious impression of what we wish they might all experience personally.

"When the campaign starts we shall spare no effort of which we can conceive to acquaint the public both with the worth and with the needs of the hospital. We shall meet later this week to lay out summer's plans which will prepare us for this task. In view of the steady generosity and the remarkable public-spirit of the town and in view of the known abilities of the individual members of my committee there is no reason whatsoever to doubt that we shall more than attain our objectives which will also be more fully described in the fall."

ANNUAL LOBSTER LUNCHEON

Duplicates Previous Successes

The good luck that has attended recent Tuesday social events of the Parish of the Epiphany held again for the annual lobster luncheon, on Tuesday, May 11, and sunlight flooded the apple-blossom decorations of the parish hall and of the luncheon tables. This one element of success must be credited to luck, for all the others credit goes to the general chairman, Mrs. Malcolm Cook, and to her committee in the Jordan Group.

More than 100 guests enjoyed the luncheon and the fashion show that followed immediately after it. Through the courtesy of a Winchester apparel shop, many smart and charming costumes for various occasions were shown. Most of the women modeling were members of the parish, and, as always, this gave a special intimacy and informality to the occasion. Very popular was the model who showed what the 6 year old will be wearing to play or to party, Jane Ford and the poised young person who demonstrated how the 10 year old will look this summer, Janice Mortensen.

The master of ceremonies for the style parade was also a non-professional, Mrs. Fred M. Cameron, who was easy, charming and competent.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The Winchester Council Girl Scouts held its final meeting for this season Wednesday morning at the cabin. The leaders of the troops attended. Reports of the various committees were presented and plans were discussed for strengthening the Scout organization next year.

Heretofore the annual meeting has been held in January. It was decided this year to make the Council year coincide with that of the troops so that in the future the annual meeting will occur in May.

Troops have been winding up their business and holding their last meetings before summer vacation. Each and every one has had a most successful season; the Tenderfoot Scouts working to become first class, the older Scouts following their different pursuits.

Troop Notes

At the last meeting of Troop 6, Captain Howe awarded five second class, 17 badges, five gold stars, nine silver stars. Troop 6 is sending one of its members to camp for two weeks this summer.

Brownie Pack 2 under Brown Owl Wright, made May baskets which they distributed at the Home for the Aged. The Brownies sang and told stories there. They held their final meeting at the cabin.

WINCHESTER DISTRICT NURSING ASSOCIATION

National Organization for Public Health Nursing April 28 at which Mrs. Ben Schneider presided. The most discussed topic at these meetings was nutrition and the vital part it plays in a health program.

The board discussed plans for a fall party which it is hoped to make an annual event through which the organization can raise funds to supplement money raised by the $3 memberships.

Mrs. Alice Gormly gave her report for the month of April and spoke especially of the typhoid situation which she feels is being very satisfactorily handled.

EN KA FAIR A BIG SUCCESS

which threatened rain and blew a cold wind through one's warmest coat. It was loyalty to En Ka, the hearty support and sincere approval the town of Winchester feels for this organization which is constantly serving, always giving of its money, time and strength. The Society should feel a pleasant glow of satisfaction and pride in that unmistakable evidence of loyalty and support.

The "Attic" was an adorable little orange-painted storehouse that was completely fascinating. It was crowded all day with shoppers who found the most satisfying bargains for there were real treasures to be unearthed for most reasonable prices. Mrs. Athur Rutter was chairman of the Attic, and her committee included Mrs. Carl Bolter, Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. James Woolley, Mrs. Hollister Olmsted, Mrs. Luis Weil, Mrs. O. Kelley Anderson, Mrs. Theodore Cunningham, Mrs. Donald Wyman, Mrs. Hall Gamage, Mrs. Streeter Bush, Miss Bonney Wilson and Miss Marjorie Harris.

Mrs. Donald Gardner was the manager of the Balloons, and in her white-picketed space on the grounds there were all kinds of fascinating toys for the children. Working with Mrs. Gardner were Mrs. Robert G. Abbott, Mrs. Frank Christian of Weston, Mrs. Luther Puffer, Jr. of Malden, Miss Virginia Wadsworth, Miss Polly Kimball, Miss Suzanne Gleason, Miss Lee Clark, Miss Mary Alice Mason, Miss Joyce Beardsley, Miss Betty Dickson and Miss Faith McVicar. Miss Marjorie Dickson was to have been included but illness prevented.

A Dutch windmill was in the center of the Fair grounds, and at its windows donations were received. On duty there during the day were Mrs. Clarence G. McDavitt, Jr., in charge of all tickets; Mrs. Morris B. Kerr, Mrs. Lowell Smith, Mrs. Alfred Pierce, Jr., and Mrs. Kenneth Moffatt. Winners of the various awards, announced during the evening were: the Ford Tudor sedan, Mr. Frank Carter of Wayland; bicycle, Douglas Edwards of Main street; knit dress, Mrs. George W. Pitman of Mt. Pleasant street; 100 gallons of Socony gasoline, Mr. Reuben Kimball of Chesterford road; University Theatre pass, W. H. Smart of Boston.

The candy booth, in the form of a little pink house trimmed with Dutch tile, was a place that was very hard to pass by! Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth had charge of this tempting display of all kinds of delicious candies and nuts, assisted by Mrs. Warren Jenney, Mrs. Vaughn Harmon, Mrs. Lyndon Burnham, Mrs. Vincent Clarke, Mrs. Everett Stone of Lexington, Mrs. Charles Hart, Mrs. Richard Harlow and Miss Gretchen Stone.

Assisting her also were Mrs. Hale Paulley of Lexington and her house guest, Miss Julia Bruce of West Virginia.

Mrs. Robert MacArthur headed this committee, which included Mrs. Francis Millett, Mrs. Carl Zimmerman, Mrs. Paul Forrester, Mrs. Allan Lindbland, Miss Jean Livingston, Miss Flora Locke and Miss Barbara Watters.

Miss Lillian Clark's busy scissors cut an amazing number of silhouettes which were delightful souvenirs to take home from the fair.

Those who successfully resisted the sweets and pastry completely capreulated at the Cheese counter, where an unusually complete and attractive display made mouths water. There were all kinds of delicious spreads and boxed cheeses, while the earnest cheese epicure was delighted with the unusual and hard-to-find specialties. The booth itself was fresh and dainty in blue and yellow, with an enormous and life-like cow and an equally imposing Edam cheese mounted on the roof. Mrs. T. Price Wilson had charge of this booth, assisted by Mrs. Warren Goddu, Mrs. Frank Rounds, Mrs. Stuart Stearns, Mrs. Lowell Smith, Mrs. Richard Steinmetz, Mrs. Dean Blanchard, Mr. William Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grant of Cambridge. No fair would be complete without plenty of Pop Corn, Ice Cream and the ever popular Hot Dogs. Mrs. Leslie Tucker's vendors were Mr. Frank Crawford, Mr. Charles T. Main, Mr. Robert E. Fay, Miss Barbara Drew and Mr. Francis E. Smith who were kept busy all day keeping up with the demand for pop corn. Mr. and Mrs. William Beal, with Mrs. Roland Carter and Miss Hester Harrington were keeping an expert eye on the ice cream trucks, which did a rushing business in spite of the cold. Hughes, Mrs. Fred Cameron, Mrs. Stanley Barnes Mrs. John Carruthers, Mrs. Harold Partridge, Mrs. Walter Dufton and Mrs. Gerald Hills. WHAT YOU SAY GOES— if you say BUICK!

THIS year, good things come in eights—get into this bellwether Buick and the other feliow will know who's lead-off man in your neck of the woods!

You're boss of the bunch when you ease in gas to the great valve-in-head straight eight, ablest engine of its size anywhere in the world. It's soft of voice but it packs authority—there isn't any fooling when it has work to do!

You're the envy of all eyes, garbed in Buick's princely style — handling these ready controls is the softest job in the whole wide world.

You stream down the straightaway—soar over the tallest hills—you sweep around the corners and curves erect as a dowager making her entrance — why even the back seat's chatterproof, so swectly, smoothly, serenely does this road-wise car conduct itself!

You can't hurt it—it's built rugged and stout as Buick always has been—but still we say, handle with care! For so instant-quick is its lift to your toc-touch, so quietly easy will it outwing the birds, that you never have to force it to make your distance safely with time to spare.

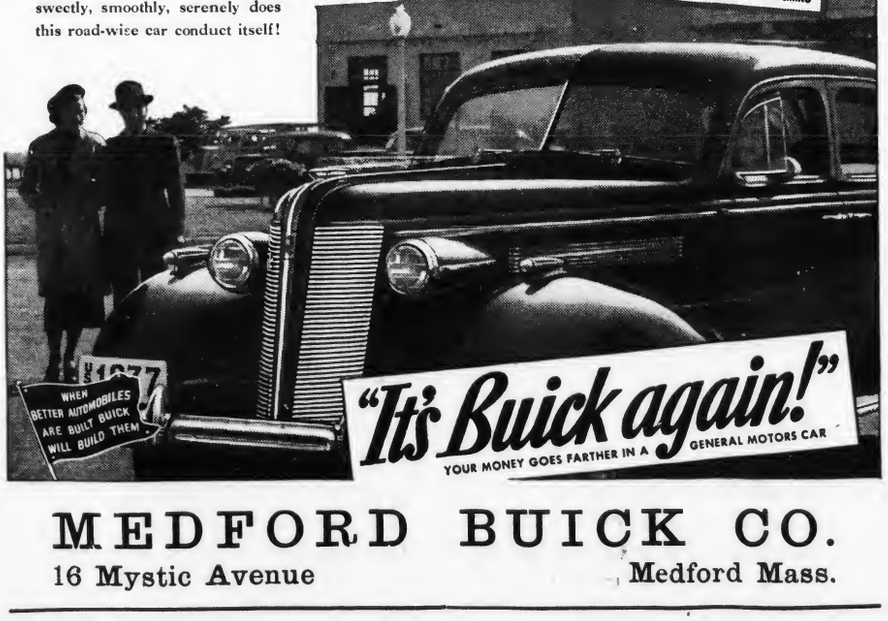

This year say Buick—and whatever you say on the open road will go with the whole parade. Its purchase is as easily managed as its feather-light controls—for today Buick is priced at the lowest figure in history.

Your cue now is to see us. Do that without delay and you'll hold the center of the stage all summer long!

EN KA FAIR A BIG SUCCESS

pleasant respite from the crowds, and Miss Eleanore Dow and her committee served many persons there in the afternoon. Assisting Miss Dow were Mrs. Francis Booth, Mrs. Ralph Herrick of Andover, Mrs. J. W. Shoemaker and Mrs. Duke Dorrey. Waitresses were Jane Wilson, Helen Davis, Ann Rivinius, Barbara Moulton, Marion Samuels, Shirley Reynolds and Helen Butler.

The supper in the Town Hall drew nearly 1000 people, and Mrs. Guy B. Howe, was the capable chairman of an energetic committee which did a splendid piece of work. The tables and stage were decorated with tulips, and the supper itself was delicious and promptly served. Mrs. Howe's committee included Mrs. A. Allan Kimball, Mrs. Carl Eaton, Mrs. Whitelaw Wright and Mrs. Clarence Russell. Assisting also were Mrs. George Harvey, Mrs. Harold Meyer, Mrs. Davis G. Maraspin, Mrs. Gerald Curtis, Mrs. Roger Tenney and Mrs. Roscoe Patten of Arlington; Mrs. Warren Jenney, Mr. and Mrs. James Doty, Mrs. Ray Mauger, Guy Howe, Jr., Richard Mancib, Russell Joy, Mr. Whitelaw Wright, Mr. Harold Bennett of Arlington, Mr. Clarence Russell, Mr. A. Allan Kimball, Mr. Carl Eaton, Mr. Francis Booth and Mr. Guy Howe.

Girls and boys who served as waitresses and waiters were:

Jane Kimball	Barbara Hickey
Virginia Taylor	Kenneth Leghorn
Jane Munroe	Jack Finger
Ann Marsters	Jim Harris
Jean Tarbell	Richard Sexton
Ena Burt	Dick Bugbee
Dorothy Lybeck	Dick Marsters
Marylin Howe	John Hopkins
Priscilla Howard	Bert Hopkins
Betty Collins	Lucius Smith
Ruth Wilde	Whitelaw Wright
Bunny Collins	George Manning
Marjorie Bird	Bill Kilborn
Priscilla Underwood	Donald Howard
Barbara Harris	George Hebb
Louise Donahue	Harold Saltman
Jean Howard	John O'Neill
Connie Bond	Ray Mauger
Mary Alice Mason	Sam Crabtree
Ella Armstrong	Peter Sibley
Dorothy Bruno	Emmons Ellis

Space in the street had been arranged for dancing, but the weather was too unpleasant, so Ken Reeves and his splendid dance orchestra played from the stage of the Town Hall and the crowd thronged there. Mrs. James F. Dwinell, Jr. had charge of this final entertainment feature of the day, and it was immensely popular. She was assisted by Mrs. Thomas M. Righter, Jr. and Mrs. John Wilson, and a group including Mr. Dwinell, Mr. Righter, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Charles Woolley, Mr. Lyndley Beardsley, Mr. Stephen Neiley, Mr. Alfred Pierce, Mr. Charles Clarke and Mr. Lawrence Martin.

"The Street Fairs News," edited by the able president of En Ka, Mrs. Robert S. Clark, and published by the Winchester Star was an entertaining, readable little paper that contained much of interest pertaining to the Society and its work, which has reached an importance in charitable endeavor second to none. Mrs. W. Campbell Ross was the advertising manager.

Mrs. Clark Collins and Miss Barbara Pratt were located in the Information Booth for a great part of the day selling supper tickets.

The Winchester Boy Scouts were represented by two boys from each troop. They were assigned certain hours of the day to be at the service of anyone who wished errands done, rubbish disposed of, or messages delivered. They were of splendid assistance.

And the loyal menfolk—how they worked! For weeks before the Fair they were helping in every conceivable way, and there must be many whose names we have unintentionally omitted, who should receive much credit for interested, patient and untiring effort.

When one considers that this year's Fair was only the third, one realizes the intelligence and thought that have gone into the planning and execution of this mammoth event. The Society should be congratulated upon a good job well done.

Notes

We haven't been able to figure out just why the photographer took a picture of Steve Neiley, shrinking under the heavy hand of Sergeant Cassidy. The latter claims he has nothing on Steve, so maybe it was just in a spirit of fun. Anyway, it may come in handy some day.

The Dutch costumes may have done nothing to flatter the female figure, but they were certainly convenient to conceal the layers of sweaters, warm skirts, woolen socks and other comforting though unfashionable winter garments. We wouldn't have been surprised to have glimpsel ski trousers. In fact we would have been envious.

Another in costume was Dr. E. Russell Murphy, whose attire caused n end of comment. Dr. Murphy was wearing the identical costume he wore as the "Duke of Vollandum" in a show of that name presented py the Calumet Club in 1915. It took some effort to locate the old costume, but it was finally unearthed and loaned for the occasion by Wolff Fording & Co. And the Duke was doing a grand job of ticket selling, too!

Wolff Fording & Co. did a good job on Dr. Frank W. Rounds. His Dutch costume was perfect. Someone said that the company spotted him as a typical native on his last visit to Holland.

Those who passed up the dance in the Town Hall missed something. We thought, in our blissful ignorance, that we had this dancing situation well in hand, but we find that we are definitely "dated." The youngsters were pretty cute with their trick steps, and there was some fancy truckin' that completely un-nerved us.

Huck Olmsted can always get a job as a side-show barker. Everyone "barking" up on the Midway was doing a swell job, as the profits will show, and Huck was giving the crowd extra rare bits of humor and advice that kept them spiel-bound. (Sorry.)

Will Entertain Neighboring Parishes

Tuesday, May 18, at 2:30 p. m. the Service League of the Church of the Epiphany will be hostesses to members of the League in near-by parishes—Arlington, Cambridge, Lexington, Medford, Stoneham and Woburn.

In receiving the guests and at the tea, the head of the Epiphany League will have the assistance of the Hospitality Committee, Mrs. Gerald Y. Hills, chairman.

The guest speaker will be Miss Dorothy Hickey of Boston. Her subject will be, "Revolution Through Education" a study of the relation of church and state in Mexico. This theme has doubled interest at the present time because of the light which understanding the Mexican situation throws on one of the problems in Spain.

Voice Your WILL or PAY the BILL

TAXES $

Your hard-earned money is being taken to support your State and your community. They in turn are expected to provide you with honest and economical government and such material benefits as well-paved streets and roads, good schools and adequate police and fire protection.

Are you getting your money's worth?

Are your gasoline taxes, property taxes, water rates and all the other taxes you have to pay being spent thriftily and honestly?

You cannot hope to learn all the answers yourself. If you tried, you would have no time for anything else.

There is, however, an organization which is on the job, day in, day out, saving your money for you. Since it began its work it has saved you millions of dollars. It does this by assisting honest and capable public officials and by relentlessly tracking down and exposing wasteful and illegal spending of the peoples's money.

This organization is the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations, 1 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

Please tell me how I can voice my will for economical and honest state and local government.
Please also send me the story of how my money is being saved for me.

There are now 15 members of the Home, as follows:

Miss Annie B. Stott

During the year three of the members died:

Mrs. Mary A. Allen

Mrs. Mary A. Allen, long a resident of Winchester, a former deaconess in the Baptist Church, whose husband used to own the present Hevey's Drugstore, was a quiet, helpful person.

Mrs. Nettie L. Pease, of a charming personality, was a member of the Rebekah Lodge of Merrimac, N. H.

Miss Mary Richardson, the last of her branch of that old family, formerly lived at Francis circuit and came into the Home with her sister Martha. Both were members of the Congregational Church. Miss Richardson had been ill a long time and had endeared herself to the members of the Home and to all who knew her.

As in other years, the Home has had the services of the following doctors, given without compensation to the members: Dr. Sheehy, Dr. Burgoyne, Dr. Quinn, Dr. Emery, Dr. Harmer, Dr. Wallace and in addition the members of the Home have received care in the treatment of their eyes from Dr. Holbrook Lowell, Dr. Palmer Briggs, Dr. Besse.

At the suggestion of Dr. Bowers, optician in Stoneham, Dr. Funnell, eye specialist in Boston, has also given his valuable services to members of the Home.

The relief and comfort brought to the Home through the unstinted care given by these members of a noble profession cannot be measured.

MAY PARTY

Miss Elsie Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Murray of Mystic Valley Parkway, entertained the girls of her third grade class at the Mystic School Monday afternoon with a May party at her home.

Accompanied by their teachers, Miss Elizabeth Davis and Miss Minnetta Jurgenson, the girls spent a pleasant afternoon, being especially intrigued with Miss Elsie's collection of 60 dolls, gathered literally from the four corners of the earth and all in their native costumes. Among the more interesting are dolls from Russia, Iceland, Portugal, British West Indies and some woven from grass by the Seminole Indians.

Luncheon was served in the dining room, the table being most attractively decorated in a color scheme of pink and white, with tall pink tapers, a centerpiece of pink roses and violets, pink cupie dolls for place cards and clever little pink elephant favors that proved on close examination to be pencil sharpeners. Fancy paper hats extracted from pink and gold bonbons added to the merriment.

Among those invited were the Misses Betty Gallagher, Ellen Kenerson, Margaret Parkhurst, Virginia Walker, Jennie Lou Elliott, Barbara Elliott, Antoinette Lynch, Barbara Lynch, Sally Maraspin, Betty Engstrom, Marjorie Wass, Ann Harris, Evelyn Kaknes, Virginia Riley and Elizabeth Murray.

RECEIVE DEGREES FROM SMITH

Two Winchester girls will receive their A. B. degrees from Smith College at the commencement exercises on Monday morning, June 21. They are Priscilla Chamberlin and Madeline Young.

Miss Chamberlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Chamberlin of 51 Wedgemere avenue, prepared for college at the Winchester High School. At Smith she majored in English. As a junior Miss Chamberlin was an usher at Junior Prom and historian of her class, as well as an usher at commencement. She was a member of the golf team in her sophomore year and then was chosen to represent this sport on the Athletic Association Council. Miss Chamberlin has been president of her house during the past year.

Miss Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Young of 22 Chestnut street, prepared for college at the Winchester High School, and majored in economics at Smith. Her extra-curricular activities have included membership in Social Science Club, composed of those showing interest and ability in this field, and on the proof-reading staff of Weekly, the Smith College newspaper. In her junior year, she was chosen a member of the honorary committee of Junior Ushers who serve during commencement.

MR. JOHN H. WALSH

MEMORIAL DAY SUNDAY MORNING SERVICE

Memorial Day Sunday morning services are to be conducted by the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church in conjunction with the American Legion who will attend the church in a body. It has been the custom for many years now for the Men's Club to take over the services for one Sunday at the church and this year it is our good fortune to be able to combine the two services in one. Worship will be conducted with appropriate music by the officers of the club while a guest speaker will give the address. We are fortunate, indeed, to have Mr. John H. Walsh of Waltham, at present vice-chairman of the National Legislative Committee, for our guest speaker. Mr. Walsh has had a long and honorable record as a community leader in Waltham, having been past president of the Waltham Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce and at present he is a member of the Waltham School Committee. He is also an ardent worker in the American Legion having been past Department Commander and now vice-chairman of the above mentioned committee. However, as if these honors were not enough, Mr. Walsh is known as a forceful and brilliant speaker. His address, therefor, will be a stirring inspiration to those who attend this Memorial service to our war dead.

HOME OF EDISON MANAGER THREATENED BY FIRE

Mr. Warren A. Hersey, district Edison manager, with his wife and four year old daughter, Elaine, was driven from his home on Pierrepont road shortly before 1:30 Wednesday morning by a fire which threatened the dwelling, but which actually did little damage, except by smoke.

The fire started in a corner of the basement in some stacked papers, and made a bad smudge, filling the house with smoke. Mrs. Hersey was awakened by the sound of her daughter coughing and arousing Mr. Hersey they investigated, locating the fire and notifying the Central Station by telephone. Box 262 was put on at the station at 1:25 o'clock.

Meanwhile the Herseys had been driven from their home. Mrs. Hersey and Elaine were taken in the police patrol by Patrolmen John H. Boyle and James F. Noonan to the house of a neighbor while the firemen quickly put out the fire, which actually burned only a few boards in a partition in the basement near where the papers were stacked and a nearby shelf. A wire lath and plaster ceiling kept the flames from getting into the first floor. Heavy smoke damage was done throughout the house. It was 3:17 before the all out signal was sounded.

MRS. DEWART BRIDE OF BALTIMORE MAN

Mrs. Murray W. Dewart, widow of Rev. Murray W. Dewart, late rector of the Church of the Epiphany of this town and one-time chaplain in the Yankee Division, was married at noon Wednesday in Baltimore, Md. to William H. Staub of that city.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fred C. Reynolds of Grace Church, Roland Park. After a brief wedding trip to Atlantic City and New York Mr. and Mrs. Staub will live at 502 Wingate road, Roland Park.

Mrs. Staub is well known in Baltimore where her first husband served as rector and was one of the prominent clergymen in his denomination. Mr. Dewart was chaplain of the 101st Field Artillery, 26th Division, during the World War. He had churches in Roxbury and Winchester before he was called to Baltimore as rector of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church. He died suddenly several years ago.

Mr. Staub is purchasing agent for the Baltimore Transit Company, the city's street railway system.

HATCH APPOINTED SALES ENGINEER

Harold C. „Lefty" Hatch, formerly of this town, has recently been appointed sales engineer of the Mead-Morrison Division of Gar Wood Industries, Inc. of Detroit. Mr. Hatch, who has been with the company for the past three years in the capacity of assistant engineer of the Mead-Morrison Division, is well equipped to disseminate the numerous sales and engineering features which are incorporated in the line of winches, cranes and pole derricks that the company produces. Gar Wood, world's speedboat champion and present holder of the internationally famous Harmsworth Trophy, is president of Gar Wood Industries, Inc.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The 17th annual convention of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters was held in the Hotel Sheraton, Boston, on May 11 and 12. The Winchester League was represented by Mrs. Clifton S. Hall, president; Mrs. Ralph Sparks, the retiring president and now serving the League as a director at large; Miss Dorothy Pendleton, 1st vice president; Mrs. Joseph Worthen, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Phillip Johnson, chairman of finance; Mrs. Joshua Knowles, treasurer; Mrs. Walter Winship, former chairman of Department of Civil Service; Mrs. Theodore A. Monroe, chairman of the Department of Government and Economic Welfare; Mrs. William C. Usack, newly elected recording secretary and Miss Dussetta State League; Mrs. Joseph W. Downs, Mrs. Warren Whitman, Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell, Mrs. Theodore Atkinson and Mrs. Gordon Fisher.

Mrs. Merle Fainsod of Cambridge, a graduate of Bryn Mawr and a candidate for a master's degree at Radcliffe College next month, was unanimously elected president of the League to succeed Mrs. Richard Field of Weston who has served for two years.

The State League voted to continue its campaign for the Municipal Manager plan with council elected by proportional representation; for opposition to the $25 tax limit on real estate; for specialized judges for juvenile cases; for child labor legislation, including ratification of the child labor amendment; for legislation for further protection of minors in hazardous occupations; for administration and development of the social security plan; for certification of teachers; for legislation raising the school age from 14 to 16; for repeal of the teachers oath; and for legislation providing for jury service for women.

TOMORROW WILL BE POPPY DAY

Tomorrow will be Poppy Day in Winchester and in thousands of other cities and towns throughout the United States. Millions of bright red poppies will be worn in America's annual tribute to the World War dead.

Women of Winchester 97 Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets early tomorrow morning with baskets of the memorial flowers, offering them in exchange for contributions to aid the war's living victims, the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead. They will continue working throughout the day, giving everyone an opportunity to "honor the dead and aid the living" by wearing a poppy.

Preparations for the observance of Poppy Day here have been completed by the Auxiliary under the leadership of Elizabeth Mitchell, general chairman. Poppies will be distributed by 12 women and girls, all working as unpaid volunteers. Money received for the flowers will be used to help maintain the welfare work of the Legion and Auxiliary among disabled veterans and fatherless families during the coming year.

"The little red poppy worn above our hearts tomorrow is the truest symbol of our remembrance for those who gave their lives in the nation's service during the World War," said Elizabeth Mitchell. "It is their flower. It grew on the fields where they died and it was the only floral tribute on the bare battle graves where they were buried. We of the Auxiliary are hoping that everyone in Winchester will understand the poppy's significance and wear one with pride tomorrow."

TWO ACCIDENTS WEDNESDAY

Another accident took place at the junction of Washington street and the Parkway Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock when a Dodge sedan, driven south on Washington street by Miss Helen E. Slattery of 14 Cambridge street, Attleboro, was in collision with a Plymouth coupe, headed west along the Parkway and being driven by Paul W. Nelson of 28 Forest street, Arlington. Both machines were damaged and Mrs. B. McCabe, riding in the Dodge, complained of injuries sustained.

Wednesday afternoon shortly before 2:30 a Ford pickup truck, driven by Arthur T. Boos of 34 Lake street, Somerville and owned by the Bennett Company of 282 Somerville avenue, that city, while making a right turn from Myopia road onto Cambridge street, was in collision with a Dodge sedan, headed toward Arlington and being driven by Andrew A. Kinball of 18 Cabot street. Both machines were badly damaged and Boos complained of injuries to his head.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

The Board held public hearings on the applications for billboards on Cross street at the railroad station and on Main street at 994. Several interested persons were present and emphatically expressed their opposition to the billboards. The Board will file with the State Department opposition to both of these billboards, which violate the town by-laws as well as being unsightly and detrimental to property.

The town hall has been granted to Sister Mary Camilla for a piano recital on the 28th, and to Dorothy Horn Cullen for a dance recital on June 11.

The Department of Public Utilities has granted locations to the Edison Company for poles on Hillcrest Parkway.

The Board has received from the Commissioners of Public Works the permit for the new traffic signals to be installed in the centre.

KAY SNOW TO GIVE COURSE TO RADCLIFFE PLAY GROUP

To Instruct Older Children in Marionette Making

Miss Katherine Snow, better known as "Kay" and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman E. Snow of Glen road, has been added to the teaching staff of the Radcliffe Summer Play Groups at Radcliffe College and will offer in struction in the fine art of marionette making to the older children between the ages of 5 and 13 years. The youthful instructor will be only four years the senior of her oldest pupils, yet it is doubtful if the school could secure many more competent to give the instruction she will offer.

"Kay" made her first marionette at camp in 1931. Since then, aided by her father, who is very mechanically inclined, and two friends, "Dottie" Bruno and Ella Armstrong, now Winchester High School seniors, she has developed a troop of 20 intriguing dolls that do everything but talk under the skillful manipulation of the young puppeteers, who have won a reputation far beyond the confines of their home town. A completely equipped, electrically lighted stage, some excellent props and artistic scenery complete her outfit and make an ideal setting for the four plays the girls produce, Hansel and Gretel, Rumpelstiltskin, The Three Little Pigs and the Further Adventures of the Three Little Pigs. Kay showed her marionettes in Winchester no later than the En Ka Street Fair and always has enthusiastic audiences.

She will begin her course at Radcliffe with the opening of the Summer Play Groups on June 6. Her pupils will find the work of making and operating marionettes interesting, but not so easy. They will find that they need a lot of ability, determination, co-ordination and patience before approaching the skill of their young instructor.

SELECTMEN ACT ON ABERJONA SITUATION

During the past few days the Board of Selectmen with the co-operation of other town officers has devoted considerable time and energy to try to obtain for the town some relief from the polluted condition of the Aberjona River and the Upper Mystic Lake. The Board has appealed to Governor Hurley who has called a conference to be held at his office at the State House next Monday, May 24, at 1:30 p. m. This conference will be limited to members of the Board of Selectmen and members of the Legislature from Winchester, together with representatives of the State Department of Health and the Metropolitan District Commission.

Together with numerous other citizens of the town, the Board has protested vigorously to the Governor and to the State Department of Health.

The State Health Deparment is to give a hearing in their office, Room 546 in the State House Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and all citizens of the town are urged to attend.

During the past week an attempt was made, by releasing the water through the mill dam, to flush the river of some of the accumulated filth. This afforded a temporary relief. Another development the past week has been the receipt in the Selectmen's office from the State Department of Health of a copy of a letter addressed by that Department to the Metropolitan District Commission, the text of which letter appears elsewhere in this issue.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Helen I. Fessenden reports the following recent transactions negotiated through her office:

Harold A. and Ruth C. Smith have sold their single house property located at 9 Orient street, Winchester to Miss Alice R. and James H. Brine of Winchester. The house has 7 rooms, garage, oil burner and an attractive landscaped lot.

The property at 319 Highland avenue, corner of Mt. Pleasant street, formerly occupied by Professor Barrows, has been sold to Ruth C. and Harold A. Smith of Winchester. This property consists of an 8 room house, plus a most attractive game room with fireplace, two baths, first floor lavatory, a beautiful sun room and a sleeping porch. There is hot water oil heat. The 13,080 ft. lot is hedged and beautifully landscaped.

Another sale is that of the property owned by Jennie Wallace, 9 Calumet road, corner of Oxford street. This property is of true English architecture, masonry construction with a tile roof. There are 12 rooms, 3 baths and a first floor lavatory. It has hot water heat with oil burner, garage and a hedged lot. There are 15,147 ft. of land.

Another contract recently signed is that of the Greco house at 32 Everett avenue. This property is one of the notable ones in Winchester. It has over 33,000 ft. of land with the largest amount of land on Everett avenue bordering Mystic Lake. The house comprises 12 rooms, 3 baths, first floor lavatory, oil heat and a 2-car garage.

MISS WATERS ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard O. Waters of 51 Salisbury street announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Louise, to Mr. Donald Ridgway MacArthur of Providence, R. I.

Miss Waters is a graduate of the Winchester High School, class of 1934 and attended the Erskine School in Boston.

Mr. MacArthur who was graduated in 1935 from New Hampshire University is now associated with the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company.

TAXPAYERS MEETING

A public meeting of the Winchester Taxpayers Association was held on Tuesday night at the High School auditorium, Norman MacDonald, executive director of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Association and Thomas Joyce, also affiliated with the Massachusetts Federation, addressed the meeting.

Mr. MacDonald stated that the function of the State Federation was to protect the interests of the taxpayer at the State House and cited the 300 per cent increase in the cost of government since 1913 as adequately justifying concerted action of taxpayers in insisting upon government at the lowest possible cost. He also emphasized the expenditure of public funds for $10 waste baskets and $34 letter openers as being object lessons to those that have said, "it can't happen here," and explained that the very existence of a State Taxpayers organization acting in the capacity of watchdog was the strongest deterrent to such raids on the treasury.

Mr. Joyce recounted his recent experiences in the City of Lowell. He stated that the 1936 tax rate for that city was the highest in the world and that when he was first sent here by the Massachusetts Federation, the local taxpayers association had a membership of 37. Within three months the membership was increased to 3500 and through the activity of that organization it is now expected that the 1937 Lowell tax rate will be $6 less than in 1936.

Mr. Dunbar Carpenter announced that a ten day membership drive was to start on May 20 and stressed the fact that a substantially greater amount than the $1 membership fee must be contributed by the Winchester taxpayers in order to give their share necessary for the financial support of the Massachusetts Federation.

"ROYAL MOUNTIES" AT THE RECREATION CENTER

The next Sunday evening meeting for young people at the Recreation Center will be May 23 at 8 p. m. when Mr. William L. Rutledge will speak on, "Five Years with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police." Admittance will be free to young people who are registered and in good standing at the Recreation Center. A limited number of guest tickets may be had at the door.

The first of many Sunday programs planned for the Recreation Center took place Sunday evening, May 9.

Through the courtesy of the Winchester League of Women Voters and the clever leadership of Miss Pendleton, a most interesting and delightful party was enjoyed by approximately 100 boys and girls over 16. Questions, discussion, plans for future meetings, conundrums and singing kept the audience alert and interested. Lucky numbers brought unexpected prizes to many and ice cream and cake put the finishing touch on the party. Dominic Millyan drew the number which made him chairman for the evening and he filled the office in fine shape.

Needless to say, every boy and girl present on this occasion is looking forward to the "once a month" party promised by the League in the fall.

WINCHESTER ELKS TO OBSERVE 15TH ANNIVERSARY

A hustling committee, headed by Past District Deputy Fred H. Scholl, has been working hard on arrangements for the big party to be held by Winchester Lodge of Elks on Thursday evening, May 27, at the Calumet Club to celebrate the 15th anniversary of the inception of the lodge.

A banquet is to be served, commencing at 6:30, and a fine entertainment program, the details of which will not be divulged in advance, has been arranged. Reservations already made indicate a record turnout and all Elks are urged to get in line immediately as accommodations at the club are limited.

Besides Past District Deputy Scholl the committee includes Harry A. McGrath, P.E.R.; John Doherty, William H. Vayo and Charles A. Farrar, P.E.R.

DANCING PARTY

Miss Priscilla Tapley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Tapley of Glen road, Miss Margaret Greene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greene of Highland avenue and Miss Jean Drake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Drake of Lagrange street gave a dance at the Winchester Boat Club on last Saturday evening for the freshmen assembly class. ROTARY CLUB NOTES

At the meeting of May 20 four absentees were recorded. This is a decided improvement over recent attendance percentages.

We are much pleased to note that Harry A. Damon has discarded the crutches which he has been using for some weeks past. And we hope that he will never need them again.

Add to the accomplishments of Warren Hersey that of an efficient fire-fighter. Losses due to the recent fire at his residence are, we understand, moderate.

We are hearing many complimentary remarks about the Rotary rock garden which is located on the river bank in the northerly section of Winchester. It appears that Pat himself is open-minded on the subject.

Contributors to the June "Rotarian" include the following: Sir Edward Beatty, chairman and president, Canadian Pacific Railway; Carlo Bos, late commissioner of customs for China; Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer; Dr. Charles H. Mayo, famous surgeon of Rochester, Minnesota; William Lyon Phelps; Jesse Rainsford Sprague and Willis H. Carrier in the debate of the month. Few magazines can boast of so notable a list of contributors. Watch for the June "Rotarian."

Through the co-operation of Edmund Sanderson and our fellow citizen, Thomas S. Knight, District Manager for the General Electric Company, the club was addressed at the current meeting by Frederick W. Bliss, the Company's New England District Manager for Sales Development. Mr. Bliss' subject was "The Magic of Man-made Electricity" and the part it plays in modern civilization. We learn that the production of electric power constitutes the fourth largest industry in this country, doing an annual business of 13 billion dollars from which an income of two billion dollars is realized. Nineteen cents of each dollar of income is required for taxes. Mr. Bliss made several interesting demonstrations with aparatus which he brought, including the following:

Lighting a replica of Edison's first practical incandescent lamp, produced in 1879; then lighting the so-called "grain-of-wheat" lamp, the smallest incandescent lamp made, used chiefly in surgery.

Lighting a gas glow lamp showing the violet spectral light of the gas argon.

Demonstration of the photo-flash lamp, used for taking ordinary flash light photographs in 1/50 of a second with a candle power equivalent to that of a lamp of 100,000 watts.

There were various other demonstrations and after the speaker had concluded members were allowed to use an X-ray portable fluoroscope, thereby being enabled to discern bones in hands or feet.

It is generally agreed that Mr. Bliss' presentation was one of the best demonstrations of the progress made in the field of science which has come to the attention of this club. We are deeply indebted to him and his company for an extremely entertaining meeting.

Next week we shall listen to an address on the subject of dog racing, presented by an exnert in this department of sport. We anticipate a full attendance on the 27th.

Percentage of attendance May 13—83.87 per cent.

WAS FORMER WINCHESTER RESIDENT

Mrs. Helen L. Studley, who died Sunday afternoon, May 16, in the Choate Memorial Hospital, Woburn, was widely known in Winchester, having formerly made her home for a time on Russell road in this town.

Mrs. Studley, principal soloist at St. Charles Church in Woburn, was stricken with a shock while rehearsing with the choir Sunday morning at the conclusion of the 11:30 Mass. She was rushed to the hospital where she died without regaining consciousness.

As Regent of the Catholic Daughters of America, Mrs. Studley enjoyed a wide acquaintance and she was also well known through her ability as a soloist. She was a member of the Winchester Choral Society, and gave freely of her time and ability on many occasions. She was a past master of the Woburn Grange and had made her home in Woburn for 18 years. She leaves her husband, Alfred W. Studley, a brother and two sisters.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from the late residence, 11 Middlesex street, Woburn, with solemn requiem high mass in St. Charles Church. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

New lot of billfolds 50c and $1 Star Office.

METHODISTS HAVE GUEST SPEAKER

Rev. Russell D. Cole, formerly minister of the Old South Church of Reading and now on the Boston University Century of Service staff, will be the preacher at the morning worship service in the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church Sunday. Rev. and Mrs. Cole and their daughters Betty and Nancy will live in the Winchester apartments on Lewis road. Mr. Cole is a graduate of Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and of the Boston University School of Theology. At the recent meeting of the New England annual conference in Gardner, he was voted into detached service for special work for Boston University, and his membership assigned to the quarterly conference of the local Methodist Church.

GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

A large representation of members and friends attended the annual meeting of the Winchester Chapter, Guild of the Infant Saviour, which was held Tuesday afternoon, May 11, at Lyceum Hall.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. James Gaffney, who thanked each and every member who had contributed in any way in making the year such a successful one. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. Richard O'Rourke and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Earl Wood. Mrs. Jonathan Felt told of the many pieces of babies' clothing that had been distributed in Winchester, Woburn, Medford and Boston. Mrs. Charles Farrar, who has so faithfully taken care of the sick and bereaved members throughout the year with her flowers and notes, gave an interesting account of her work. She presented Mrs. Gaffney with a basket of flowers, a token of affection from the members.

Following the business meeting a very clever play "How the Club Was Formed" was given. The cast was most suitably picked and handled their lines like "old troopers," but are to be congratulated most highly upon their costumes and make-up. When close friends who have worked together as intimately as this group has and yet have difficulty in recognizing each other much can be said about make-up. The costumes were of the Gay 90's and each character wore two and some three different dresses. Surely old trunks in many an attic were emptied to assemble this gorgeous array of plumes, buckles, dresses, gloves and shoes.

The cast was directed by Anita S. McGaragle who for many years has always given most generously of her time and talent.

Guest artists for the afternoon were Molly T. Ghirardini who gave two vocal selections, "Thank God for a Garden" by Theresa Del Rego and "All for You" by Bertrand Brown, with Mrs. Esther Hennessey accompanying and Mrs. Claire Reynolds who gave a reading "Vera Cherra's Morning Sunshine Talk." Both artists are favorites with Winchester audiences and added greatly to the afternoon's enjoyment.

The characters for the play were:

Mrs. Brown	Mary B. Dolan
Mrs. Snow	Frances T. Conlon

Mrs. Martin	Maryrose McDevitt
Mrs. Hobbs	Mary F. Fitzpatrick
Mrs. Shaw	Ann Riley
Mrs. Turner	Mary T. Hintlian
Mrs. Spring	Mary Ursula Kelly
Mrs. Welch	Elizabeth Powers

Hostesses for the tea which followed were: Mesdames Jonathan Felt, O. J. Logue, Francis Mullen, Charles Farrar, Frank Merrill, William Carroll, Edward T. Gallagher and John J. Gorman.

The cast in their costumes assisted in serving the tea which was a merry one.

Lecture

The last lecture of a most interesting series was held at the home of Mrs. Richard O'Rourke, Pleasant street, Woburn on Friday morning. It was an ideal spot for farewell greetings among friends who have worked most faithfully as one group throughout the past year. Even the program contained two who needed no introduction to members, Miss Mary Hickey of Peabody and the Rev. Chas. McInnis, S.J. Miss Hickey gave a number of readings preceding Father McInnis' lecture on John Carrol, First Catholic Bishop in the United States.

Mrs. James Gaffney presented Mrs. Michael Hintlian with a bouquet of flowers in appreciation of her work as program chairman throughout the year.

Mrs. M. J. Meagher and Mrs. James Gaffney presided at the morning coffee.

EPIPHANY FIRESIDE GROUP ENDS YEAR WITH BANQUET

Friday evening, May 21, at 6:45, the Fireside Group, of young people of the Parish of the Epiphany, will end an active and successful year with a banquet at the parish house. The banquet is being given to them by all the mothers of the young people in the group. The committee in charge of arrangements consists of Mrs. Dana Cotton, chairman; Mrs. Herbert Kelley, Mrs. George Kimball, Mrs. Malcolm Nichols and Mrs. Ellsworth Snow.

The speaker for the occasion will be Mrs. Helen Jackson Beals, of Wellesley. Mrs. Beals has spent much time in travel and knows not only Europe but the Orient. After the World War she was one of the American women engaged in reconstruction work. In this experience and in her sojourns in foreign lands, Mrs. Beals has had associations with interesting people, and she will gratify the universal and unfailing interest in personality when she speaks on, "Famous People I Have Met."

FINAL MEETING OF METCALF UNION

The Metcalf Union of the Unitarian Church will hold its final meeting of the season on Sunday evening, May 23 at 6 p. m. At the annual banquet the toastmaster will be Mr. A. Russell Ellis, chairman of the Standing Committee of the church. Reports for the year will be given and the election of officers will be held.

The speaker of the evening will be Mr. Davis Humphrey, an associate director of the Boston Y. M. C. A. Mr. Humphrey has done considerable work in the Social Service field, particularly with young people. For some years he was doing this sort of work at Fitchburg where he made many valuable contacts and secured profitable results.

OUR MODERN AGE

By J. J. Doherty

WE — THE PEOPLE

You know, this is a lucky nation. Just take the marriage situation. In Italy they give a prize to all the newly married guys— and Hitler does the same thing, too. But over here what do we do? We just increase the income tax — and all the boys, like jumping jacks, start hopping around to find some mates to whom they can transfer estates and show a hefty profit loss when Uncle Sam says, "Come across."

The most profitable investment you can make right now is to have your kitchen and bathroom modernized, completely and expertly by the specialists of Felis Plumbing & Heating Co., 656 Main St. They guarantee a beautiful, lasting job at reasonable cost. Why not phone 0903 today and ask them for an estimate?

ANNUAL MEETING OF JUNIOR FLORENCE CRITTENTON CIRCLE

The annual meeting of the Winchester Junior Florence Crittenton Circle was held at the home of Mrs. Paul Dunn, 14 Perkins road, Tuesday evening, May 11.

The annual report of the secretary of the Junior Florence Circle of Winchester for the year 1936 and 1937 was read by the secretary, Elizabeth Adriance, as follows:

"Under the able leadership of our president, Janet Beal, the year 1936-37 has been a very successful and enjoyable one for our Circle. The first meeting of the season was held at the home of Mrs. H. F. Peirce, 10 Marshall road on October 27. Mrs. Vincent Clarke, a former president of the Senior Circle spoke to us on the origin and work of the Florence Crittenton organization and Mrs. Robert Elliott talked very entertainingly about her trip through Russia several years ago.

In conjunction with the Medford Junior Circle we ran our usual dance the evening of the Florence Crittenton bazaar held Nov. 13, at the Copley Plaza.

In December a Christmas party was given under the direction of the Social Service Committee for the girls at the Florence Crittenton Home. Sweaters were donated to the Home and each girl received a small Christmas present.

Clothing has also been donated to Welcome House by a member of our Circle.

The second regular meeting was held in January at the home of Mrs. Lyndon Burnham, 72 Yale street, at which time we enjoyed hearing about the activities of the 4H Club from Miss Emily Clino of Wakefield.

The winter activity of the Ways and Means Committee was a raffle of chance tickets for $20 worth of merchandise from Jordan's. Sixty-three dollars and fifty cents was made from this project.

The March meeting of the Circle was held at the home of Mrs. James Nowell, 16 Stratford road. A Nominating Committee was chosen and Mrs. Albert Bradley Carter, educational secretary of the Florence Crittenton organization, spoke to us about the Home and Welcome House.

On March 27 a very successful social event in the form of a scavenger hunt was given by the Ways and Means Committee. A good time was reported by all those attending.

A group from our Circle helped with the Senior Luncheon on May 5.

At this, our last meeting, we wish to express our appreciation to our president, Mrs. William Beal, for her splendid work in making this past year such a pleasant and worth while one for the Winchester Junior Crittenton Circle.

Following the reading of this report the election of new officers for the next year took place and those elected were Mabel Tompkins, president; Marjorie Danforth, vice president; Frances Peirce, secretary; and Helen Nowell, treasurer.

The speakers of the evening were Mrs. Chute of Welcome House and Mr. Carter of the State Probation Department, both of whom gave a very interesting talk on their work.

An enjoyable social hour followed the conclusion of the meeting.

HELP THE CUBS!

The Winchester Cubs baseball team, a team of local youngsters managed by the inimitable "Payzan" Marrone are sponsoring a whist party next Friday evening in Knights of Columbus hall starting at 8 o'clock to raise funds for uniforms for their coming season.

For several years now the Cubs have been organized and have played regularly scheduled games through the summer, winning their fair share of contests and giving many youngsters of high school age and below a chance to play the game competitively both in and out of Winchester. Several members of the high school squad this season, "Tom" Kenton, DeTeso and Ralph Murphy to mention some of the regulars, have played with the Cubs and gotten valuable experience in their games. On the whole "Payzan's" club has been about the only independent team in Winchester, with the exception of the Millionaires, who are older, to maintain their organization and play the game on their own, doing their bit to keep baseball alive among the boys of the town.

They now want uniforms for their club and are asking the fans of the town to come and play whist at their party to help get them. The boys aren't asking a hand out. They want to give every one a run for their money. If you can't go to the party, at least buy a ticket and help out the youngsters. They deserve it!

A COMMUNITY WORKSHOP FOR WINCHESTER

In Winchester there is apparently a rather widespread interest in home workshop activities such as woodworking, art metal work, leathercraft and several others. In response to several requests, two Winchester men, teachers of high school shop work, have suggested equipping a shop here to be opened for classes during the evenings of the coming fall and winter months providing there seems to be sufficient interest to warrant such a project. It is believed that if the demand for such a shop and such instruction is as general as it appears, the expense to those interested can be kept down to a low minimum.

Advocational interest in skilled hand work is not a fad. Ordinary observation of its growth in recent years assures us of this fact which is further confirmed by the popularity of home workshop guilds, the increasing demand for books and magazines devoted to the so-called arts and crafts and the demand for low-priced wood-working machines, special supplies and equipment.

We are thus led to inquire why this desire exists and persists in this age of high speed and rapid changes in which we are living and also as to the values and advantages to be derived from the time and effort spent in such activities.

The answers to both these questions are fairly obvious. We are born with an urge toward creative expression and we find happiness in surrounding ourselves with things of beauty we ourselves have made. Individual forms of expression may vary but the urge has always been present from primative man down to our own generation. Modern civilization tends to crowd it out but when given an outlet we are amazed at the peace of mind and the physical and mental well-being we have gained.

The therapeutic value of hand work for those who are mentally or physically ill is generally recognized but its benefit to those who are well cannot be over-emphasized.

In the achievement of completing and possessing a well designed and well executed project there is great satisfaction to the avocational craftsman but his greatest rewards are found along the way. Truly creation is an important factor in genuine recreation.

Tentative details and probable cost of membership in the proposed Winchester Community Workshop have been rather definitely worked out and further information may be had by calling Win. 1958-W or Win. 0678-M or by inquiring at the F. E. Barnes & Co. store in Winchester Center.

Our reference to the alleged law prohibiting the shooting of bow-'narrers in Winchester and our expressed regret that we, among others, had apparently broken that law at the still remembered En Ka Fair brought us a visit from Police Chief Rogers, and it was our ensuing conversation which has led us to qualify any future reference to the prohibitory statute with the adjective "alleged." We mentioned last week that the Chief knows his statutes as well as the next one, and he is very positive in his belief that there is no law prohibiting the shooting of bow-'narrers in Winchester, per se, as the lawyers put it. Shooting bow-'narrers hereabouts at deer—yes! Shooting bow-'narrers, not at deer,—no! Not a bit of it! Positively no "law agin it"! We leave it to the Chief! So we are feeling very secure about the whole matter and doubtless our archery partner, Arthur Hollins, will have reason to be greatly reassured. We certainly did not shoot at any deer! As a matter of fact we didn't even see any deer, at least not the kind you spell with a double "e"!

Present agitation over the foul and filthy condition of the Aberjona River and upper Mystic Lake seems to have risen to the usual high pitch customary on such occasions. Steps are being taken to remedy the situation and the usual warnings are being issued to various State officers and departments. Meanwhile the river, while appearing to improve somewhat under the storm of criticism, will probably continue to flow along as it has for the past (how many?) years. Since way back in the horse and buggy days Winchester has been plagued with this nuisance. So far as we can see, it will continue to be. The Town has done its part, beautified the unsightly and unsanitary shores, and sat waiting for commensurate results. It apparently will continue to wait. All spring the river has been foul and filthy, and at times the stench has been so great that it seemed impossible that it could continue without some uprising in protest. Apparently the Town has become so used and hardened to the condition that it was not until within a few weeks, when all the fish so carefully planted by State and Town authorities were [illegible] and covered the surface, that residents did get up on their [illegible] and demand aition. We [illegible] this week one letter with reference to the situation and are told that a hearing is to be held on Monday to further consider it. Meanwhile this open sewer continues in our center. So far as we can see it will be with us indefinitely. The one bright spot is the probability that no more fish will be planted therein to add to the mess. That is gratifying.

GATHER YOUR WOOD NOW

May 18, 1937

To the Editor of the Star:

If there are any persons interested in gathering wood for their next winter's fuel supply, I would advise them to station themselves at the foot of the Aberjona where it flows into Mystic Lake, with a suitable receptacle, as there are plenty of logs, lumber, barrels, sticks, etc., floating down at all times.

Junk dealers could no doubt gather in considerable profit from the sale of bottles, quantities of which could be gathered at the same point of vantage, and while we are about it, a collector of tin cans for various purposes could secure some fine specimens.

I doubt if anyone is interested in gathering the scum that covers the river practically all the way to the lake, and oft times makes obnoxious and unsightly coves in and around the Wedgemere section.

Sincerely yours,
Ernest Dudley Chase

MORE ON FOR SALE SIGNS

May 19, 1937

To the Editor of the Star:

The excellent letter of Mr. Harold Farnsworth concerning the unsightly duplication of for sale signs, published in a recent issue of the Star, should not pass unnoticed.

Plastering a house and grounds with for sale and to let signs is not only unsightly, but also, it would seem, must hurt the value of the premises. Any one now visiting Winchester might well wonder whether a town so be-sprinkled with signs is a good place in which to buy property. The more one cries one's wares, the more reluctant prospective purchasers become.

There can be no doubt, however, that the public-spirited realtors in our town will make their practices conform to Mr. Farnsworth's suggestions. It is surely not too much to expect them to work out among themselves an inoffensive method of advertising the properties placed in their hands for sale or for rent.

Yours very truly,
Dunbar F. Carpenter

THE AMENDMENT DOES NOT PREVENT ANNUAL SESSIONS

To the Editor of the Star:

The Biennial Session Amendment, that the legislature has referred to the voters, does not prevent the general court from meeting every year.

The Amendment merely declares that "the general court shall assemble in regular session on the first Wednesday in January" and every second year thereafter.

While annulling the provision that requires the general court to meet annually, it fails to lock the door to prevent the legislature from coming back the next year. In fact it invites such return in the words—"Nothing herein contained shall prevent the general court from assembling at such other times as they shall judge necessary."

ON RESERVING TENNIS COURTS

To the Editor of the Star:

I have been footing up the hours at which courts can be reserved. At present the 8 o'clock court in the evening is not considered any good. Those players who have the 7.30 court continue as far into the night as they desire. If they leave it other people step on the court and play. Mr. Skilling, having left after watching the change of courts at 7.30 p. m. Next week we expect to have him remain for the 8 p. m. shift.

Now for the question of those who are in Winchester public schools or in corresponding grades of other schools, on the one hand, and those who are not on the other.

The school group can make reservation from 2.30 to 6.30. That is four hours on five days of the week. The total is 20 hours. In addition they can reserve courts on Saturday from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. Tha is five hours. Five and twenty adds up to 25 which is the total time during which the school goers are on equal terms with the others.

The others have exclusive rights to reservations from 6.30 to 8 p. m. on five days of the week, seven and a half hours. On Saturdays they have from two to eight, which is an additional six hours. Their great day is on Sunday when they again have exclusive right to sign up. That means 11 hours, from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. The sum of 7½, 6 and 11 is 24½ hours a week when non-school citizens are allowed exclusive rights of reservation. The school goers have 25 hours but they are not exclusive. Others can come and ask for courts on the same basis.

So far we have not found it necessary to administer the turns before 2.30 p. m. on week days but sometimes I think the time is not far off when it will be necessary to have courts assigned from 6.30 a. m. to 8 a. m. There will be a few days in June when it will look that way.

It is almost as absurd to say that a school boy or school girl has all day in which to play tennis as it is to say that a non-school goer can play all night. The schools take attendance and have truant officers.

Tennis players are fine people with high ethical standards except in two respects. Some of them do not realize that tennis balls are private property. And very few of them ever feel that they should give up a court, no matter how long they have been using it.

There is a certain disposition to chisel on the matter of courts, It may be observed here as elsewhere. For instance, parents have been known to sign for a court for themselves and then to sit down and let one or more of their own children play with another child or children. Doubles are another problem. We are trying to favor doubles by giving out the courts on which singles are being played before we give out doubles courts until the doubles players have had an hour. A study of the charts on which the names of players are recorded shows that some of the most vocal individuals play a great deal, possibly more than they realize.

Of course it would be nice if there were more courts. If tennis players would remember in January how much they enjoy the game in May and June there might be more.

May I take this opportunity for saying that the help of the Winchester Star has been notable and is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
William S. Packer,
Member of the Park Board

BLAMES SEWER CONSTRUCTION FOR ABERJONA POLLUTION

The following copy of a letter from Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, M.D., State Commissioner of Public Health to Mr. Eugene C. Hultman, Commissioner of the Metropolitan District Commission, will prove of much interest to Winchester residents generally and especially to those who live adjacent to upper Mystic Lake or within sight or smell of the foully conglomerate mess of filthy, white scummed green-brown water that back in the "horse and buggy days" was our Aberjona River. Canoeists actually used to paddle up that stream for the pleasure of the ride, fish and turles inhabited its depths and water lilies and other forms of attractive plant life grew in and along its water. Seems hard to believe, in view of present conditions which are really hard to credit in a civilized community of a great State which prides itself upon its progressiveness in health matters.

Prodded by really insistant requests for action from irate local householders the State Department of Health, after an investigation has placed the blame for much of the present intolerable conditions and advanced the belief that it is now practicable to "reduce" the present pollution of both our river and upper lake. We print its letter to Commissioner Hultman below:

May 8, 1937

To Mr. Eugene C. Hultman, Commissioner, Metropolitan District Commission, 20 Somerset Street, Boston

Dear Sir:

Complaints have been made to this office relative to the pollution of the Aberjona River, and examinations made in response to these complaints show that not only is this stream seriously polluted in its course through the Town of Winchester by the overflow of sewage from the Metropolitan sewers but that the northerly part of the upper Mystic Lake also is becoming seriously polluted. These conditions, in the opinion of the Department, have been the partial cause, at least, of the death of fish found in the northerly portion of this lake.

The observations of this Department have shown that sewage has overflowed frequently from the Metropolitan sewers near Cross Street in Winchester and also at points near the Atlantic Gelatin Company in Woburn. Much of this overflow of sewage appeared to be due to construction activities being carried out under the direction of your Commission near the Atlantic Gelatin Company whereby the use of considerable lengths of the existing sewers in that vicinity have been abandoned due to the construction of a by-pass and regulating chamber.

When the question of the construction of the proposed by-pass and regulating chamber near the works of the Atlantic Gelatin Company in Woburn was considered by this Department during the latter part of the year 1936, the flow in the Aberjona River was considerable and, accordingly, because of the amount of water available for dilution, objectionable conditions resulting from the pollution of the river were less likely to occur than during periods of low flow. This Department in its communication of Dec. 21, 1936, to the Emergency Public Works Commission assumed that the work of constructing this proposed by-pass and regulating chamber would be completed before the low flows occurred during the present year.

A recent examination by representatives of this Department would indicate that it is at present practicable to reduce the pollution of the Aberjona River and Mystic Lake caused by the overflow of sewage from the Mctropolitan sewers by carrying out the recommendations contained in this Department's communication of Dec. 21, 1936, herein referred to, a copy of which has been supplied to your Commission, and by utilizing portions of the relief sewer already constructed. Unless the recommendations of this Department in this regard are carried out, the Department will have no alternative but to refer the matter to the office of the Attorney General for action under the provisions of Chapter 291 of the Acts of 1911. In order to assist you in this matter the Department will be pleased to afford the facilities of its engineers and laboratory, so far as practicable.

Respectfully,
Henry D. Chadwick, M.D.
Commissioner of Public Health

After being rained out plenty the Winchester Millionaires swing into action this evening, playing the Everett Olympics in an Inter-City League game on the new athletic field. "Artie" Johnson, tall left hander and "Sandy" MacKenzie will be the local battery. Next Wednesday the Millionaires play the Medford Kevlin Club at home and will be out to reverse their defeat in Medford.

Sunday the Millionaires play a return game with the Brighton Civics at Rogers Park, Brighton and Monday evening meet the Everett Olympics in a league game at Everett. "Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, May 23.

The Golden Text is: "Rejoice the soul of thy servant: for unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul" (Psalms 86:4).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would. But if ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the law" (Galatians 5:16-18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We must destroy the false belief that life and intelligence are in matter, and plant ourselves upon what is pure and perfect. Paul said, 'Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh.' Sooner or later we shall learn that the fetters of man's finite capacity are forged by the illusion that he lives in body instead of in Soul, in matter instead of in Spirit" (p. 22).

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Jean Arthur and Charles Boyer, the screen's newest romantic team, comes to the Granada Theatre in Malden today in "History Is Made at Night." "History Is Made at Night" is a smart, fast-paced romance with Charles Boyer in a totally new type of role. It seems Miss Arthur is planning to divorce her husband, Colin Clive, and instructs his chauffeur, Ivan Lebedeff, to go to her hotel and compromise her so she will stop the divorce proceedings. The climax is a surprise.

"MARCH OF TIME" AT THE UNIVERSITY

The March of Time's customary timeliness, terse editing and skillful photography are once again outstanding in the new issue which comes to the University Theatre on Sunday featuring arresting episodes on "U. S. Unemployment," "Irish Republic—1937" and "Puzzle Prizes." Concluding that the relief problem, despite returning prosperity, is still official Washington's major anxiety, "U. S. Unemployment" focusses on 35-year old David Lasser and his 800,000 jobless followers. Organized like any labor union into the Workers' Alliance of America, this army today is backing up Lasser's demands for the greatest relief appropriation in history, thus emphasizing the vital question of just how many there are who are actually in need of direct or WPA support.

The Irish picture is a pertinent and important document in Eamon de Valera, the New York-born President of the Irish Free State, and his new Constitution in which he demands complete political and economic independence for the whole of Ireland. Nominally independent since 1922, the Free State nevertheless has been economically bound to England, and self-sufficiency has been the goal toward which de Valera has aimed in a modernization drive that has revolutionized Irish industry and agriculture.

In "Puzzle Prizes" an entertaining survey of America's latest national obsession for lucrative commercial contests, the March of Time's most newsworthy sequence is a detailed treatment of this year's famed $200,000 picture puzzle game. But around this central theme is woven a deft story of the entire question of sales promotion contests and their status in the eyes of U. S. postal authorities.

JUNIOR HIGH P. T. A.

On Monday afternoon, May 10, Mrs. Charles Livingstone, president of the Junior High Parent Teacher Association entertained the members of the board at a silver tea, in her home on Brooks street. The guest speaker was Mrs. Edward G. Mason, an officer of the State Parent Teacher Association and her edifying and interesting talk was much appreciated by those present.

On Wednesday afternoon, May 12, the fourth and final tea for the teachers and mothers of eighth grade pupils was held in the sewing room of the Junior High School, and was very well attended.

The list of mothers of children in the Junior High School was divided into four groups this year and each group was entertained informally in the school at the afternoon teas, which afforded teachers and mothers an opportunity to meet and discuss the progress of the pupils.

The annual meeting of the association and the final meeting of the year was held in the High School Auditorium on Thursday evening, May 13, at which the president, Mrs. Charles Livingstone, presided. The annual report submitted by the secretary, Mrs. Gilbert Tapley, follows:

Annual Report of the P. T. A.

The Parent Teacher Association of the Winchester Junior High School has had four meetings this year planned by Mrs. Malcolm Nichols, chairman of the Program Committee. The first one on Oct. 28 was an Open House affair with each teacher receiving in his or her room. Interesting displays of the different types of work done by the pupils were on view, helping the parents to see just what was being done in the different subjects. There were nearly 200 parents present, with a goodly proportion of fathers among them. Mrs. Lane arranged for two hostesses to be in each room to introduce the parents to the teachers and to keep the lines moving. Dues were collected in the front hall under the able leadership of Mrs. Rooney. Refreshments of cider and doughnuts were served on the third floor by Mrs. Clark and her committee.

Mrs. Livingstone presided at the meeting on Dec. 2. The Junior High School Chorus of 120 voices under the leadership of Miss Page gave us all a great deal of pleasure by their rendition of several Christmas songs. A most interesting and stimulating Panel Discussion followed led by Mr. Carl Wetherell.

Mr. Mansfield represented Athletics, Mr. Packer, the Park Board; Mr. Tansey, Playgrounds; Mr. Nelson, Boy Scouts; Mrs. Harold Farnsworth, Girl Scouts; and Mr. Ericson, the 4H Clubs. We feel very grateful to them for the time and interest they so willingly gave that we might better understand how much is being done for the youth of Winchester.

There are still plenty of opportunities for widening these fields however. Out of the lively discussion that followed, the realization that something definite must be done for indoor recreation was born in on us most vividly. Later, letters were sent by the Board to the Town Meeting Members calling their attention to and urging favorable action on the article in the Warrant appropriating funds with which to start an experimental Recreational Center.

Mrs. Lane presided at the meeting on March 3, Mrs. Livingstone being absent due to illness in her family. The Junior High School Orchestra delighted and impressed us with their deft interpretations.

Mr. Grindle fave a most interesting and helpful talk on the various problems that arise as the child changes from Grammar School to Junior High School and then High School. Many informal discussions were continued over coffee and doughnuts served in the gymnasium afterward by Mrs. Clark and her committee.

Mrs. Fifield and her committee have given four teas for mothers and teachers in the Domestic Science room. The eighth grade girls of Miss Beeman's class were hostesses at one, and Miss Nevin's at another. The attendance was fairly good, but we are always hoping that more mothers will avail themselves of this opportunity to meeting the teachers informally. At the February tea there was a special exhibit of the clever handwork done by Miss Irwin's class. On Oct. 13 Mrs. Blanchard opened her home for a get acquainted tea for the Board and the teachers.

The movies on March 13 arranged for by Mrs. Kenneth Caldwell and her committee were most successful both from a financial point of view as well as that of entertainment. We are indebted to Mr. E. M. Low for his interest in selecting the films and his generosity in providing operators and machines without cost to the association. Besides meeting our obligations, we were able to give $50 to the Scholarship Fund.

In December, we were regretfully forced to accept the resignation of Mrs. Gordon Parker as secretary. Mrs. Gilbert H. Tapley was appointed to take her place.

Mrs. Conlon as chairman of Publicity has kept the public well informed of our activities through the medium of the Star.

There have been four Board meetings during the year. At the November meeting Mr. Dickman explained the schedule of home work to the members present.

Twenty-five dollars has been voted for a suitable gift for the teachers' room and for more games for the children to use on rainy days. Mrs. Robert Clark is in charge of the disbursement of this fund.

Respectfully submitted,
Mabel L. Tapley,
Secretary

MYSTIC THEATRE, MALDEN ATTRACTIONS

Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea continue their march toward the position of the screen's best loved romantic pair in "Internes Can't Take Money," the romance of a poor medical student and a working girl which opens a week's run at the Mystic Theatre on Friday. The story poses a question in principles around which much of the action is based. As an interne McCrea is unable to accept money from his patients. A grateful gangster, played by Lloyd Nolan, gives him a $1000 for saving his life in an emergency operation. Miss Stanwyck, with whom he is in love, needs that money in order to find her child by a previous marriage who had been taken away from her. But McCrea's strict adherence to his oath forces him to return the money, thus shutting out happiness to himself and the girl whom he loves. A way is found, however, by Nolan who sets things to rights with the aid of the underworld in his own manner.

"Trouble in Morocco" is the second attraction opening Friday at the Mystic Theatre, Malden. This is a fresh, breezy film packed with the fastest sort of action, and presents Jack Holt at his best in a ripping story of the French Foreign Legion. Mae Clarke has the leading feminine role with C. Henry Gordon, Harold Huber, Victor Varconi, Paul Hurst and Bradley Page in the principal supporting roles.

The latst issue of the March of Time is also being shown this coming week at the Mystic Theatre as a special added attraction.

One day service on developing and printing your films. Star Office. Wilson, the Winchester Star.

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING

By Alfred A. Fraser, Wellesley

All flower seeds can be sown now. Insist on the best available. Some good kinds have the germination percentage and date on the package. Others are treated before packaging against "damping off." Your local dealer will gladly help.

Plant peas now for July crop.

Before planting seed have the soil tested and spade in plenty of fertilizer to bring it up to standard as the test will show. Your hardware dealer can have it tested.

Started annual plants and rose buds in leaf can be set out next week. Seedlings with every plant's roots kept separate will do better by reason of no root disturbance in planting.

Gladioli bulbs may be planted now at a depth of 4 or 5 inches, enrich the soil first.

Destroy any tulips that are apparently diseased.

Sweet corn may be sown now.

Start spraying madonna lilies now to control blight—which frequently starts early.

Get window boxes in readiness.

Plant annuals in between tulip and narcissi foliage—allowing the bulbs' foliage to dies back naturally.

Perennials can be planted out still.

Asparagus, if newly planted, should be allowed to grow for three seasons without cutting.

Plant gladioli 4 or 5 inches deep, and at least 6 inches anart..

Spray iris plants with arsenate of lead to catch young borers as they hatch.

Insect pests either chew or suck. The first kind is controlled by a "stomach" poison like arsenate of lead. The second type by "contact" poison like nicotine.

The percentage of germination in seeds varies widely. For instance Salvia is excellent at 55 per cent, while zinnias germinate above 90 per cent easily.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

The following list of Contagious Diseases was reported to the Board of Health for week ending Thursday, May 13:

Dog Bite	1
Whooping Cough	1
German Measles	1
Measles	31
Pulmonary Tuberculosis	2
Para Typhoid Fever	3
Mumps	2
Chicken Pox	2

HOSPITAL BENEFITS BY MEMORIAL TO WINCHESTER MAN

Daughter of Late Daniel Murphy Provides Sterilizing Equipment

The St. Joseph's Hospital, Jamaica, B. W. I., is about to receive a most useful gift in the form of a memorial to Mr. Daniel Murphy of Winchester who, having made the cruise to Jamaica in company with the clergy attending the centenary, developed pneumonia shortly after his arrival and died at the hospital on Jan. 24. Mr. Murphy was a dear friend and generous benefactor of many of the missionaries whom he had met on other trips to Jamaica. His sudden death from heart failure, when he had seemingly recovered from bronchial pneumonia, was a shock to all who knew him. Out of gratitude to the Sisters at the hospital who took care of Mr. Murphy during his illness and as a means of doing something which will benefit the Jesuit missionaries who may be hospitalized there from time to time, Mr. Murphy's daughter, Mrs. Francis Joseph O'Donnell of Needham has given $2500 to purchase complete sterilizing equipment for the new operating room in the contemplated "Bishop Collins Memorial," a new wing which is about to be built. A battery composed of dressing, water, utensil and instrument sterilizers has been ordered, together with a cabinet for storage of sterile dressings, a curved glass table for holding dressings during an operation, two solution stands and two instrument tables. Assuredly, this is a boon to the hospital and to all its patients.—[Jesuit Seminary News for April, 1937.

ANNUA REPORT OF THE HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE IN WINCHESTER

The Winchester Visiting Nurse Association has also rendered generous service to the members of the Home.

Messrs. Ralph T. Joslin, Attorney; William Eben Ramsdell, Attorney; J. Franklin Tuttle, Engineer; Charles R. Main, Engineer, and Mr. T. Price Wilson, publisher and printer, have again given the Home professional help, which has been timely and valuable.

Public Accountants, John Carruthers & Co. (Mr. T. Rutherford Edmands) again audited our accounts and checked our securities without charge.

Other services, given free of charge, include: many favors received from Hevey's Drugstore, clock repairing by Mr. Ernest Butterworth, repairing of furniture by William J. Nutting, radio service by Mr. Kelley of Park Radio Service, trucking by Seller's Market, laying of linoleum and carpets, Mr. A. W. Cross.

After seven years of devoted service, Frank E. Crawford resigned from the presidency of the Home, due to the large amount of work he has been carrying on,—more than his health could stand. The list of presidents of the Home is a roster of Winchester's finest citizens, and Mr. Crawford is a worthy exponent of the high standards and traditions built up by them. Under his direction the Home has not only been efficiently operated and the property well maintained, but through funds secured by his efforts, and endowments received, the assets of the Home have reached a higher level than ever before. In fact, the total amount of investments and assets of the Home, exclusive of its building and real estate, are practically equivalent to all the bequests to the Home. Winchester has had many devoted workers, but none more unselfish or unsparing of their own comfort than Frank E. Crawford.

Our matron, Mrs. Maude T. Wolloff, has given the Home efficient operation. Her sympathetic care and constant concern for the welfare of the members has made for their happiness and comfort. Her staff have been faithful and efficient.

We thank the members and friends of the Corporation who have again this year generously contributed to the support of the Home.

Eighteen of the Brownie Girl Scouts from Miss Wright's Troop left May baskets at the Home and gave a very happy entertainment to the members.

Miss Ella Robinson gave the Home a subscription to the Winchester Star. The En Ka Society sent 16 tickets to their May 8 luncheon, and on Mrs. Orella Kimball's birthday, ice cream and flowers were sent by Mrs. George Welch for the entire family at the Home.

The En Ka Society on May 8 held a Street Fair, a large part of the profits of which are to be donated to the Home. The accurate results are not known in time for publication, but will be printed in next year's report. Inasmuch as the Fair not only had a large attendance from Winchester, but from surrounding towns also, we hope it will prove as profitable financially as it was in the good time afforded all who attended.

The generous help given the Home shows a spirit of sympathy and love that makes Winchester proud of its fellow citizens who have thus provided for their aged people a refuge filled with care, comfort and happiness.

A very interesting and worthwhile illustrated lecture on "The Conservation of New England Wild Flowers" was given recently before Grades 3, 4, 5 and 6 by Mrs. Kirkwood of the organization for Wild Flower Conservation.

Grades 4, 5 and 6 viewed the following films as a visual aid in geography and history study:

"The Daniel Boone Trail"
"The New South"
"The Dutch East Indies"

Grade 6 is arranging a trip soon to the Museum of Fine Arts there to see an exhibit of Mediaeval Art and Grade 3 is planning to visit the Children's Museum to see a Japanese exhibit in connection with their study of Japan.

Grades 4 and 5 were entertained recently by Grade 6 with a dramatic reading of Percivale, the Boy Knight, a play which took us into the world of knighthood many years ago when King Arthur was the beloved leader of the Knights of England.

Correlating a study of Knighthood during the Middle Ages with an observance of Mothers' Day, Grade 6 has studied, "The Knight's Toast" by Sir Walter Scott, and an original dramatic interpretation of this poem is soon to be given.

The final Junior Red Cross meeting for this year was held on Friday, May 7. President, Stephen Powers has returned from Washington, D. C. where he represented the Winchester junior members at the annual convention of the American Red Cross Society. During the convention a check, contributed to by all the Winchester Junior Red Cross Chapters, was presented to the presiding officer as Winchester's contribution to the National Children's Fund.

GAME TRANSFERRED!

The annual baseball game between the fathers and sons Men's Club, Congregational Church will be played Saturday, May 22, 2:30 p. m. at the new athletic field, Shore road, (Railroad avenue) instead of Manchester Field as originally planned.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Winchester Boy Scouts were today raising their hands to give the hailing sign to the latest addition to the district organization—new Troop 5.

Sponsored by the Society of Cristoforo Colombo, the new troop held its first official meeting in the basement of the Wadleigh School at 7 p. m. Wednesday night.

All the formalities of induction into the Boy Scouts of America were completed at a meeting of the adult leaders of the troop in the home of Acting Scoutmaster Salvatore Ferro, 11 Harvard street, last Wednesday night. Delivery of the troop charter on behalf of the national organization was made to the committeemen by William O. Jones, Commissioner of Fellsland Council.

A fitting sponsor for a Boy Scout troop is the Society of Cristoforo Colombo regarded by the Winchester District executives. To that society have been handed down the traditions of the discoverer of the New World to honor and to perpetuate and it is the spirit of those same traditions that motivates the great, outdoor activities of the Boy Scouts of America.

Notable are the names of the public-spirited Italian-Americans who comprise the adult troop committee who will supervise the programs of the new troop of which Salvatore Puma of 15 Harvard street is Scoutmaster. The personnel is as follows:

Chairman—Vincent Gigliotte, 2 Tremont street.
Secretary—Anthony Gigliotte, 12 Cedar street.
Treasurer—Gulseppe Maggio, 37 Florence street.
Dr. Angelo L. Maietta, 977 Main street.
Alphonse Lambiase, 13 Tremont street.
Gulseppe Ferro, 11 Harvard street.

From the rough and ready practicalities of their organization's activities the Boy Scouts of Troop 2 will turn to the lighter social graces next Friday night when they hold a dance in their parish hall headquarters of the Church of the Epiphany.

Anything but exclusive, the youngsters announce that all the Boy Scouts of the Winchester district are welcome to attend the affair which will start at 8 o'clock and conclude three hours later.

Several Winchester Scouts and Cubs have already registered for camps and thereby saved the $1 discount, the time limit of which expires on June 1. After that date the cost for Scouts will be $10 per week and for Cubs $11 per week. This represents an advance of $1 over last year made necessary even for this non-self-supporting enterprise by the higher costs of food and materials. The camp's annual deficit incidentally is made up from the council budget.

Few are the Winchester Scouts and Cubs who are not familiar with the summer camps of the council on the banks of the Powow River. Reorganized by Scout Executive Edward W. Nelson last summer the camps had one of their most successful seasons. With virtually all of his assistants of that season once more on the rolls the addition of the Rogers Physical Fitness Tests by a trained expert, more equipment and rehabilitated buildings the coming six weeks bid fair to outdo that of 1936.

Particularly gratifying to the Scout Executive was the acquisition of Mrs. Anna Little of Winchester for her second season as the camp cook. The best recommendation, however, according to Mr. Nelson is that of the satisfied Scouts of last year's camps, plus an almost perfect health record.

Once more will the courses in swimming be emphasized at the camps. More than one parent was given a pleasant surprise to find that in two weeks' time his offspring had acquired the art.

Further information relative to the camps may be obtained at Scout Headquarters on South Border road, Win. 2030. Scoutmasters and the Winchester district camp committeemen, E. A. Weaver, 326 Main street, Win. 0770-W and E. C. Whittemore, 18 Hillside avenue, Win. 0618-M.

WINCHESTER AND LEXINGTON TIED

Winchester and Lexington High Schools played a 2—2 tie last Friday afternoon on the new athletic field in a Middlesex League baseball game which was stopped by rain at the close of the eighth inning. McNeilly, who pitched for Winchester showed great improvement over his previous efforts, fanning nine and allowing seven hits. The summary:

WEEK- END MOTOR ACCIDENTS

The first of several motor accidents, reported to the police over the past week-end took place shortly before 4 o'clock last Friday afternoon when a Dodge sedan, driven by Peter Sciascia, Jr., of 87 Harvard street, and a Ford truck, owned by the Fara Department and driven by Supt. Thomas McGowan of 41 Canal street, were in collision on Harvard street. Both machines were damaged but no one was injured.

Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock a Chevrolet sedan, driven by Lillian L. Fenton of 4 Summit road, Medford, while headed east on Winthrop street and making a left turn onto Highland avenue, was in collision with an Oldsmobile sedan, headed north on Highland avenue and being driven by Joseph S. Donnell, Jr. of 38 Kenwin road. Both machines were damaged and passengers in both cars were slightly injured. Winthrop street at the easterly end is a one-way street.

An International truck, owned by the American News Co., Lowell News Co. Division, and driven by Edward J. Rooney of 45 West Third street, Lowell, while headed south on Cambridge street near the intersection of High street, was in collision with a Graham sedan, headed north and driven by the owner, Bert W. Schiller of 12 James street, Brookline. Both machines were damaged, the Graham so badly it had to be towed to the Central Garage. Schiller was taken by a passing motorist to the Winchester Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy for an abrasion to his left knee. Rooney, the driver of the truck, complained of injuries to his left shoulder.

Sunday morning at 3:45 Patrolman Henry P. Dempsey, discovered a LaSalle coupe abandoned on Washington street opposite Webster street and bearing evidence of having figured in an accident, the right side being damaged. Investigation disclosed the fact that it had sideswiped two trees and an Edison Light pole in front of the residence of Mrs. Frances LaFleur at 270 Washington street. The machine was registered to W. F. Cobb & Son, 30 Pittsburg street, Boston. At a local garage it was learned that a man and woman had been driven after the accident to Winter Hill and had ordered the machine towed to the garage. At 5:15 the same morning Elisha W. Cobb of the Myles Standish Hotel, Bay State road, Boston, came to Headquarters, accompanied by Alice B. Manning of 30 Porter street, Watertown, who he said was driving the machine when the accident occurred. Neither had sustained injury.

Shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon a Buick sedan, driven by Ralph G. Hudson of 45 Ashton avenue, Newton Center, while pulling away from the curb on Main street opposite the Economy Grocery Company's store in the center was in collision with a Ford sedan being driven south on Main street by Charles G. Westcott of 198 Ferry street, Everett. The machines were only slightly damaged and no one was reported as injured.

WINCHESTER S. P. C. A. AUXILIARY NOTES

Dr. C. L. Blakely, a member of the staff at the Angell Memorial Animal Hospital, addressed the Winchester S. P. C. A. Auxiliary at its May meeting last Thursday afternoon. Dr. Blakely is an interesting speaker and his practical experience as a veterinarian made his remarks especially helpful.

The six doctors at the hospital, with their large staff of co-workers, last year handled 32,000 cases, or an average of 90 each day. These include various kinds of animals. There is a wide variety of diseases, also many accidents, largely fracture cases,—the work of automobiles, which have worked frightful havoc in the animal kingdom. Many of these cases remain at the hospital as patients, others return to their homes after being treated. The hospital's excellent equipment insures correct diagnosis and expert care for each one.

A new clinical laboratory, for the purpose of diagnosing disease is now operated at the hospital, under the direction of a trained technician.

The veterinarian is just as often puzzled by obscure diseases in animals as the physician is in treating human beings, and that is where the laboratory comes in, to make the diagnosis of disease as certain as possible by utilizing all the aids that modern equipment affords in the analysis of blood and other fluids and tissues, in the culture and study of bacteria and in microscopic analysis.

While laboratory work has always been emphasized at the Angell Memorial, the new laboratory is said to be unique among animal hospitals, in the completeness of its equipment and because it is under the direction of a trained technician.

Dr. Blakely's description of several specific cases was very entertaining, for instance, that of the tiny monkey who came into the world by means of a Caesarean operation, and is making good progress in an incubator.

Mrs. Taylor, who with other auxiliary members, attended the humane day exercises in the public schools, spoke in enthusiastic praise of the very fine programs presented at that time.

Several appropriations of money were voted at the meeting and the proceeds from the recent food sale were transferred to the Shelter fund.

After the meeting, a social hour provided opportunity for the members to meet Dr. Blakely and ask numerous questions about the hospital and its work.

New, good looking personal stationery. Your name and address printed on quality papers, also monogram style, all with envelopes to match. New wanted styles to choose from. Attractively priced. T. P. Wilson, the Winchester Star.

YOUNGSTERS KEPT POLICE BUSY

The first of several complaints of the actions of youngsters about town last week-end was received at Police Headquarters shortly after 1 o'clock Friday afternoon when a gang of young hoodlums was reported as annoying the children at the Lincoln School. Eight boys between the ages of 13 and 16 years were rounded up and their parents informed that court action will follow further trouble at the school.

Friday afternoon at 3:45 Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy discovered two boys on the halyards of the flagpole at the rear of the Junior High School. They were warnd about damaging town property.

Shortly after 4 o'clock a resident of Francis circuit who had been absent from town since last December notified the police that upon his return he found several windows and a number of panes of glass in a door at his home broken with air rifle shot. Several large stones had also been knocked from a wall at the rear of his dwelling.

Chief William H. Rogers and Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy went out Saturday afternoon shortly before 2 o'clock to investigate a complaint about a boy selling subscriptions for a baseball team. They rounded up the boy responsible and from the manager of the team he claimed to be representing learned that no permission had been given to him or any one to solicit funds. The money collected was returned to those who gave it.

Sunday the police were notified by a contractor building a house on Forest street near the Socony Station that youngsters had entered the house and damaged a new ceiling. The authorities expect to locate the youngsters responsible.

The second complaint received Sunday was to the effect that a North End boy had pummeled a State boy living in that neighborhood, and had removed his shoes which he had thrown into Winter Pond. Sergt. Charles J. Harrold interviewed the parents of the boy alleged to be responsible and issued a warning of court action in the event of further trouble.

BETHANY NOTES

Whether it be fair or stormy weather, the Bethany ladies stand together—weather never deters them from their aims, so (to bear out our statement) in spite of the rain last Friday afternoon, an unusual number of members and friends were present at the cake sale and silver tea, sponsored by the finance committee.

While "the early bird catches the worm" is an old saying, it should always be remembered by everyone wishing to buy any of the marvelous looking cakes those same Bethany ladies know how to bake! So, when the committee arrived at the assembly hall, there was Mrs. F. E. O'Neil (who had previously had lots of luck—all bad) "waiting at the church" to select a perfectly gorgeous looking cake, all covered with "yummy" frosting, which at least six people were anxious to buy, but were unable to inveigle the lucky buyer into parting with even half of it. By the time some prospective buyers arrived much to their chagrin, all the dainty, delicious, delectable, delovely looking cakes had a cute little tag which read "sold" on them; but I'm sure they would have thought of another adjective for the tags.

The silver tea was a delightful affair, and all present enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon.

The finance committee is composed of the following ladies: Miss Abbie Potter, chairman; Mrs. Gunnar Abrahamson, Mrs. Frederick Bartholomew, Mrs. Susan Foster, Mrs. Annie Foster, Mrs. Rony Snyder, Mrs. Fred Saunders, Mrs. John Webber and Mrs. Edward Weber. Mrs. E. Weber was "conspicuous by her absence," being enroute to Switzerland.

The last Bethany luncheon until fall will be on June 1.

BOARD OF SELECTMEN AT THE STATE HOUSE

The new Metropolitan Relief Sewer which runs through Winchester and which, it is said, will substantially take away the pollution in the Aberjona River, will be finished and available for operation July 15 unless there are unforeseen contingencies. The members of the Board of Selectmen were so informed in a conference held in the office of Governor Hurley in the State House on Monday of this week. Three of the nine sections of the sewer are completed and the uncompleted sections are being worked on simultaneously. Work is still being done on a syphon, a railroad underpass and some sections of tunneling.

The Selectmen sought the conference with the Governor, after months of effort with various departments, and immediately obtained it.

At the conference in the Governor's office there were present Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman of the Metropolitan District Commission; Joseph Dever, engineer of that Commission; Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, Commissioner of Public Health; Arthur D. Weston and Edward Wright, engineers in his department. The Selectmen were accompanied by Senator Harris S. Richardson, Representative William E. Ramsdell and Maurice Dinneen as Agent of the Winchester Board of Health.

The Governor seemed particularly interested and very sympathetic toward the situation which prevails in Winchester and among other things requested of the Metropolitan District Commission a complete report of the conditions surrounding the building of the North Metropolitan Relief Sewer, the reasons for its delay in completion and the status of the work at the present time. Governor Hurley left no doubt in the minds of those present at the hearing of his intention to see that everything possible is done to speed up the completion of the North Metropolitan Relief Sewer and to afford temporary relief if possible.

Later in the afternoon, members of the Board were among more than a score of Winchester citizens who attended a second conference in the office of the State Department of Health, together with state officials and members of the Metropolitan District Commission, to discuss the present condition of the river and temporary steps which might be taken to alleviate this nuisance until the time of the opening of the relief sewer. At this hearing the Board of Selectmen and the citizens of Winchester were informed in no uncertain manner that, barring unforeseen contingencies, the relief sewer will be finished and available for operation not later than July 15, and that its completion will substantially relieve the cause of the pollution in the Aberjona River and Mystic Lake. They were further informed that the State Department of Health, with the co-operation of the Metropolitan District Commission, will arrange to put into immediate effect the use of such portions of the North Metropolitan Relief Sewer as have been finished in an attempt to bring about an immediate though temporary relief.

The Board has been informed that arrangements to carry out this temporary plan are already under way and that it is expected to be in operation within a week.

FLOWER MISSION

Once again every Tuesday, beginning June 1, the flowers leave the Winchester station on the 9 o'clock train for distribution in Boston. Our flowers with those from some five other towns, are sent to the South Bay Union, where they are distributed to hospitals and institutions, to shut-ins, and to just "folks" known to the community and having no chance for growing flowers of their own.

On other days the various parts of the city are covered by other towns.

Won't all who have the joys of a garden, help to spread the cheer of flowers to those less fortunate?

Don't forget, Tuesday mornings during the summer are our times for sharing.

Zeta Alpha has as its purpose the study of modern drama. Miss Dutch will serve as president of the society for the year of 1937 and 1938.

Miss Dutch has made a splendid scholastic record at Wellesley, having been elected to the sophomore honor roll last year. This year she was a junior Wellesley scholar.

Colpas of Arlington, formerly of this town.

The church was attractively decorated with white lilacs and white spring flowers for the ceremony, which was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. Robert W. Coe, the double ring ceremony being used.

Miss Poessnecker, wearing ivory satin with tulle veil and carrying gardenias and valley lilies, had as her honor attendant her cousin, Miss Gladys Hoffman of Jamaica Plain. Miss Anna Tilly of Roslindale and Miss Ruth Ross of Brookline were bridesmaids. All the attendants wore chiffon frocks, that of the honor maid being turquoise and those of the bridesmaids, rose. NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

William A. Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Russell of Jefferson road and a sophomore at Dartmouth College, underwent an operation for appendicitis Monday afternoon at the Dartmouth Infirmary. His condition yesterday was reported as satisfactory.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Hall of Oxford street are the parents of a daughter, Martha, born Saturday morning, May 22, at the Winchester Hospital. Mrs. Hall is the former Eleanor Boyd, daughter of Mrs. Eva L. Boyd of Lewis road.

The condition of Mrs. Edward McKenzie of Hemingway street who has been ill at the Winchester Hospital since last Sunday is reported as considerably improved. Her son, Mr. John McKenzie, who is in the sugar refining business at Banes, Cuba, arrived home on Wednesday after a flying trip, which commenced last Sunday at noon and included a memorable bus ride from Banes to Havana, a trip from Havana to Miami, Fla., by plane and the last leg of the journey on the "Hell Gate" express from Miami to Boston. Mr. McKenzie arrived at the South Station about 3:30 Wednesday.

Dr. Robert L. Emery of this town, is a member of the committee on arrangements for the 93rd annual congress of the American Institute of Homeopathy to be held at the Hotel Statler, Boston, June 13 to 17 inclusive. Doctors from all parts of the United States and Canada will meet at the sessions, at which latest advances of medical practice will be discussed, information concerning new instruments and drugs presented and exact news of homeopathic physicians, societies and schools will be given.

NEW UNIFORMS FOR HIGH SCHOOL GRIDSTERS

The Star on Wednesday got an advanced peek at the new football uniforms the Winchester High eleven will sport in their games next fall. The suits are a radical departure from the uniforms which the boys have worn in past seasons and are very snappy, comprising black jersey with large scarlet numbers front and back, black pants, scarlet helmets and scarlet stockings. "Herbie" Wood, tall tackle on last year's eleven, sported the suit for our inspection, regretting that he wouldn't be around next year to wear one in action. Co-Captains "Gerry" Ficociello and "Pete" Sibley accompanied Wood and put their enthusiastic O. K. on the outfits. It is reported that even "Ray" Hayward is pleased!

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

The club's opening dance held last Saturday evening was a most enjoyable affair some 35 couples were on hand, and, "Gus" and "Ned" should be given much credit for its success, they did the work.

Three of the new snipe class sail boats are now in the water and the others which are under construction will be launched shortly. Last Sunday every craft in the bay, capable of carrying sail, got aweigh, (we don't mean away) but underway. Some of the more venturesome sailors got caught out in the squall and downpour of late afternoon and suffered a slight drenching.

NEW PRECINCT MEMBERS

To fill existing vacancies Dr. Eugene M. Pollard of 31 Winthrop street has been elected a town meeting member for Precinct 2 and Mr. William J. Croughwell has been elected a town meeting member for Precinct 5.

Street Fair Netted $3318.36

Final receipts from the En Ka Street Fair, recently held for the benefit of the Winchester Hospital and the Home For Aged People, showed a net profit of $3318.36. This is the largest sum yet realized by local organizations for either institution, and in this case it was made possible by the enthusiastic interest and support of the whole town.

EN KA LUNCHEON

Much Interest in Report of Recent Fair

Seiler's 1775 House in Lexington was the delightful location chosen by the En Ka Society for the annual luncheon and final meeting of the year which was held last Tuesday. Great interest in this important meeting and a perfect spring day accounted for the largest attendance ever recorded since En Ka's reorganization five years ago. There were 90 members present, many of whom were from out-of-town.

The attractive dining room was a perfect setting for the many smart costumes and beautiful corsages which were worn. Mrs. Alvin Litchfield, assisted by Mrs. Carl Bolter, Miss Eleanore Dow, Mrs. E. George Pierce, and Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth arranged the luncheon. The decorations of bright tulips, with a blue windmill on the center table, were much admired.

Mrs. Robert S. Clark presided at the business meeting which followed the delicious luncheon, and the various annual reports were most interesting. The amount of the total profit from the recent Street Fair of May 8 had been kept a closely guarded secret, and it was with tremendous interest that the Society received the reports of Mrs. Charles H. Woolley as she called on each booth manager for her individual statement. The group rose to its feet in a burst of delighted applause, as Mrs. Woolley announced the total profit to be $3318.36. The joy and satisfaction of the En Ka Society will certainly be felt in large measure by the townsfolk, who so heartily supported the Fair.

This figure exceeds last year's total by several hundreds dollars and will be spent on the Winchester Hospital and the Home for Aged; the Society, however, retaining an active, personal and financial interest in the Nurses' Home. The exact distribution and purposes will be planned and announced at some future date.

The ballot for the coming year assures the Society of a splendid executive board, who will have as their president Mrs. Guy B. Howe. Well known for a delightful personality as well as extraordinary ability in many varied activities, Mrs. Howe is well equipped to head this important group. Mrs. Charles H. Woolley is to be vice president, while Mrs. Percy Fugbee takes over the duties of secretary. Miss Eleanore Dow is to be treasurer, while Mrs. Samuel D. Coleis to be chairman of the Wavs and Means Committee. The Nurses' Home Committee is headed by Mrs. Harold F. Meyer and the Hospital Committee by Mrs. Clark W. Collins and Mrs. W. Campbell Ross. Mrs. Franklin J. Lane is to be chairman of the Civic Committee. Other elections

Membership—Mrs. Robert W. MacArthur, Chairman; Mrs. Francis E. Booth, Mrs. Harold Deer, Mrs. Clarence G. MacDavitt, Jr., Mrs. Alfred Pierce, Jr.
Meetings Committee—Mrs. Alvin Litchfield, Chairman.
Nominating Committee—Mrs. Stephen B. Nelley, Chairman; Mrs. Jameson Slocum, Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth.

Mrs. Clark, the retiring president who has so capably directed the Society through a most successful year, spoke of her pleasure in so doing, and Mrs. Howe replied most graciously as she accepted her nomination.

After the business meeting, the Society was entertained by some really excellent colored movies of the recent Fair, taken by Mrs. Marshall Symmes and Mr. Dean Symmes. Considering the cloudiness of the day, they were surprisingly good, and should prove a record of great value of the successful and enjoyable Fair of 1937.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The second annual spring mixed doubles tournament sponsored by the Winchester Tennis Association will commence on the Palmer street courts at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday, June 1.

As was the case last year, when nearly 100 players entered, partners will be chosen by lot. The draw will take place at the courts just prior to the commencement of play. Medals struck off by the new die recently acquired by Park Commissioner William S. Packer will be the prizes. These medals are most attractive and are from a design, submitted by Mr. Packer, displaying crossed tennis racquets with the words, Winchester Town Courts, suspended from a blue and gold ribbon.

There is an entry fee of 25c and all entries should be given to Mr. Skilling at the Palmer street courts.

Waterfield Lodge of Odd Fellows is to hold its annual memorial service on Sunday, June 6, at the Second Congregational Church on Washington street at Kenwin road.

CANVASS STARTS FOR NEW DIRECTORY

The canvass for the 1937 edition of the Winchester Town directory has been started and the directory representatives have asked the cooperation of all citizens to help compile accurate information. The representatives will visit every home and business place in the town.

All material in the new edition will be checked and verified to insure accuracy. Besides the alphabetical list of names and citizens, business firms and corporations, professional men and women, the buyer's guide, street guide and directory of householders, classified business section and other features, the directory will include vital data showing the progress of the community and its interests and activities.

It is the intention of this feature to advertise the town and its advantages throughout the United States. Copies of each new edition are sent out to replace the former issue in the branches of the free directory library system maintained by members of the Association of North American Directory Publishers, with which the H. A. Manning Company is affiliated.

Mr. M. H. Lombard of Church street has opened his summer home at Hyannisport.

REV. FR. JOSEPH M. FITZGIBBONS

ST. JEROME'S ANNUAL GARDEN PARTY

On Wednesday of this week, Father Joseph M. Fitzgibbons, Pastor of the new Arlington-Belmont Parish, St. Jerome's, opens his annual garden party which will run for four days through Saturday the 29th on the church grounds at Lake street and Concord boulevard. This is interesting news to the many Winchester friends of Father Fitzgibbons, who was formerly assistant at St. Mary's Church in this town.

Many special attractions are on the program to insure ample entertainment for young and old, some of which are games of chance, daily evening concerts, prize drawings each night, etc. Saturday will be featured by a doll carriage parade, games and races for the children and a bank nite drawing for the elders as well as all the usual attractions at such affairs.

If the weather is at all favorable this year's party will no doubt realize a tidy sum toward the reduction of the church debt. The many warm friends of this new parish and of Father Fitzgibbons will be interested to know that St. Jerome's celebrated the second anniversary of the dedication of the new church last Sunday.

The Pastor is assisted by Fr. George P. Gallivan as curate who came to the Parish upon his ordination last year. The Holy Name Society under the direction of Father Gallivan recently concluded a most successful bowling season.

The garden party will be the final Parish activity until next September when the Fall season will open with a monster penny sale in the Arlington Town Hall. J. C. Shea, who is also well known in Winchester, is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

FATHERS' AND SONS' BASEBALL GAME

A complete reversal of expected form resulted in an upsetting victory for the fathers at the annual fathers' and sons' baseball game of the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church. The men looked more like boys both afield and at bat and the boys looked more like tired business men as they bobbled the ball, got caught napping off the base and weakly hit the services of the two pitchers for the men. Perhaps this does not tell the whole story for while the men were a coordinated well trained nine (with the exception of right field) the boys showed up with only five in their team and had to resort to a picked group of "ringers" that seriously lowered the morale of the team by their subsequent inferior showing in the field.

From the first the men showed their mettle for in the first inning they batted around the lineup with everyone getting on base by virtue of a hit or base on balls with the horrible exception of "Doc" Pollard who fanned the air three times to be called out on strikes and immediately be pulled from the team. Ole Cyrus Cochrane Young led the men in hitting with four bingles, one of which was a three bagger that would have cleared the fence in Fenway Park. Not being content with that he pilfered bases with the ease of "Billy" Werber. "Babe" Herman" Abbe poled one into the same territory for a triple and made several shoe-string catches in center field that got the pitchers out of bad holes. "Iron man" Fevold knew no match on first base and seemed unlimited in his ability to stretch it for pegs for put-outs. "Doc the Rabbitt Maranville" Blanchard never let one by him at short but in his superhuman attempts at stopping otherwise sure hits it was impossible for him to recover soon enough always to nab the runner. "Dick" Rush, "Art" Rogde and "Ted" Atkinson completed the all star infield and their work was so smooth that difficult plays looked too easy for comment. Captain Atkinson lambasted the ball twice for safe hits but being handicapped with a bad knee found it difficult to stretch his singles into doubles. McClintock in left field looked so much like Tris Speaker that his valiant catch to end the game was only what could be expected. He hit safely once and to make sure of another run allowed D. Harris the pitcher to belt him a terrific fast ball in the leg. The less said about Pollard, Smith and B. Harris in right field, the better. None of these three made a hit or put out and had the boys hit to right field very often the score would have been reversed.

Dick "Dizzy" Rush pitched four innings, and although they touched him for six hits he always had the situation well in control and never got himself in a bad hole. He struck out two of the amazed boys and only walked one. Art "Daffy" Rogde was a bit wild at first but settled down in the last three innings to some tight-spot piching. They only touched him for seven hits in five innings and his fielding of his position was worthy of Wes Ferrell himself.

Of the boys D. Harris stood out both in his work on the mound for seven innings and by his terrific belts of the ball at bat. His pitching was excellent, striking out five and walking one, and had he had the support the game would have been a victory for him. When J. Harris came to the mound in the eighth he looked like Bob Feller himself for he struck out five and only walked one. Had he started the game and cintinued this type of performance throughout the outcome may have been different.

The score of 11 to 6 for the men does not tell the whole story for the men looked like pennant winners from the start to finish and are ready and willing to defend their title against any and all comers in the future. The boys spoke of a return game and it is suggested that they get nine men together and have daily practise for two weeks and try it again.

WINCHESTER SCORED 7 POINTS IN INTERSCHOLASTIC TENNIS

Winchester High scored seven points for a third in the Interscholastic tennis tournament played last Saturday, partly on the Winchester town tennis courts and partly at Newton. Sexton, Bugbee, Bancroft Graham, Riley and Worthen represented Winchester. Bugbee, who was seeded number 6, won his second round match from Morgan Milne of Haverhill, 6—2, 6—3 but bowed in the third round to Leo Lowery of Newton, 3—6, 6—1, 6—2.

COOPER THIRD IN MILE

Eugene Cooper, Winchester boy and member of the Tech track team, was third in the mile run at the New England Intercollegiate Track and Field Championships at Tech Field in Cambridge last Saturday. Porter of Bowdoin was the winner in the fast time of 4 min. 21.4 secs. Cooper has been a consistent winner and point getter for Tech during his college course and ran a fine mile under last Saturday's pressure. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cooper of Myrtle terrace.

MILLIONAIRES WON TWO

Winchester Millionaires won from the Everett Olympics in an Inter-City League baseball game last Friday evening on the new athletic field, 8 to 1. Sunday the Moneymen defeated the Brighton Civics of the Boston Park League at Brighton, 9—6 in 11 innings.

Kendrick was very effective against the Civics and also hit a home run with one on to tie the game in the 7th. In the 11th with the tieing run on base he struck out the next three batters to face him. The summaries:

GARDNER PLACED AT STADIUM

Big "Bob" Gardner, stalwart shot-putter, gave Winchester its only points in the Harvard Interscholastics at the Stadium last Saturday when he got the 12 pound shot out 42 feet 6 inches for fourth in the Class C competition. Gardner has done better than 44 feet in competition this spring.

Winchester's Elbridge Davis placed fourth in his heat of the half mile, but as places were awarded by times in this event failed to finish in the money. Generally speaking the local boys were the victims of inexperience, and all added materially to their fund of track knowledge by their fling in fast company.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS' TENNIS

The high school girls' varsity tennis team has thus far very successfully maintained the high record set by the teams in previous years. Matches have been played with Melrose, Malden, Belmont, Brookline, Arlington and Watertown, Winchester winning them all by the score of 5—0, excepting that against Brookline, which was won 4—1. Remaining matches are with Newton, Concord and Milton Academy. It may be interesting to note that three of the first seven players on the team are seniors, the remaining four being freshmen, which promises very well for the future.

FRANCES KEYES TWICE RUNNER UP AT LONGWOOD

Frances Keyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Keyes of Lloyd street, was twice runner up for championship honors in Mrs. George W. Wightman's annual spring tennis party for boys and girls not over 15 years, held last Saturday amidst the showers at the Longwood Cricket Club courts on Chestnut Hill.

The little high school freshman, who has the distinction of pacing Winchester High as No. 1 singles player this season, played a lot of consistently good tennis to win her way into the final round of singles play at Longwood, finally bowing to Dorothy Wightman, daughter of the party's sponsor, 6—2. Two Winchester girls were in the semi-final round of play, Frances winning her way into the final bracket at the expense of Priscilla Tapley, who yielded only after a stiff struggle 6—5 under the abbreviated scoring system that governs these party tournaments. Peggy Greene, Jean Drake and Sally Sharon reached the quarter finals.

In mixed doubles Frances and Richard Bugbee, Winchester High School No. 1, were defeated in the final round by Miss Wightman and Bruce Daniels of Worcester in a nip and tuck battle, again by the abbreviated score of 6—5. Priscilla Tapley and Robert Wright and Polly Greene and Stockwell Evarts were partly Winchester teams in the semi-final round of mixed doubles play. Natalie White and J. Gahan and Sally Sharon and Robert Kitchin were in the quarter finals.

On the boys' side of play Bennett Wightman reached the semi-final round, being defeated by Stockwell Evarts of Newton, 6—2. Evarts was defeated by Ernest Johnson of Newtonville in something of a championship upset, 6—2. Robert Kitchin reached the quarter final round of play.

The girls' consolation singles was won by Edith Lyman over Barbara Hughes, 6—0. George Fuller beat Jack Tobin for the boys' consolation title, also 6—0. More than 100 players participated in the party, including a large delegation from Winchester.

And now the wife of our great president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, has entered the field in behalf of the oppressed women of the nation. She has come out flat-footedly for an eight hour day for wives—poor things, and advocates a definite salary for the stay-at-home helpmate. The nation is breathlessly awaiting the outcome of this latest bit of labor legislation—for it will undoubtedly become an early law. Report has it that any act to carry out the provisions of the idea will meet with opposition, opponents believing that it should apply only to the wives of those numerous new settlements which Mrs. Roosevelt is interested in. Be this as it may, assuming that the model settlements can be found and enumerated, it will be interesting to watch the response of the nation's housewives. Fully franchised, these women will poll a strong vote and their combined action may result in another break in "must" legislation. Whether unmarried women will immediately organize in opposition or enlargement of the act is another feature which will be interestedly watched. Thus far CIO organizers have tactfully evaded the subject, and it will probably not be taken up by this group until the remainder of the nation is properly and thoroughly unionized. While it cannot be said that the housewives have been particularly hostile toward our great President, it is undoubtedly a clever step to bring them into line and solidly back of the party. Possibly this may be the first break for a "layman's balance" in the household budget. Altogether the idea holds interesting possibilities. Few of the present dwindling hord of economic royalists will care to be thus subjected to still another exposure of their past overt acts of depression of the masses, and while the idea will undoubtedly necessitate greatly increased expenditures and may further delay the balancing of the budget, its excellent points are readily discerned Well—our little woman has not yet heard of the move and has not yet met Mrs. Roosevelt, so the skies are still clear over the home roof, but we will certainly go down fighting, and we are sending our subscription in today to the committee against the Big United Ladies' League. BULL.

TWINS ARE BACK

The Twins are back—back to their old stand on the fountain in the middle of the Common. For twenty long years they have been in obscurity. They have received a fresh coat of paint and yesterday were placed on their old pedestal to ornament and elevate Winchester.

When our fountain in the Common was erected it had two water shelves and was crowned by the twins. Certain church people, so it is recalled, objected to their unclad loveliness and aggitated for their removal as a corruptor of morals and a depraved tendency of the times. In fact, so heated became the controversy, that their existance was seriously threatened, and the matter was finally brought before the voters in town meeting. A heated debate and a record vote relegated them to limbo.

Now they have been returned. Although the upper shelf of the fountain has long since been removed, they look just as cute as ever, and from their lesser elevation may be much more admired from a critical viewpoint. Their return, so we hear, is in response to a request made by a prominent lady who well remembers their attractiveness.

How times have changed!

NEW SCHOOL OPENS IN WINCHESTER

Miss Elizabeth Mullin, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Francis R. Mullin of Main street, is announcing the establishment of the Winchester Day School, which is to open for the season of 1937-38 on Sept. 22 at 63 Washington street, the former Tuck property at the corner of the Parkway.

The house has been carefully adapted to meet the needs of a modern school for young children, and the entire plant was opened for inspection at a tea given by Miss Mullin and her staff on Wednesday afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock. Mrs. Warren C. Rowe of Belmont poured and members of the school faculty acted as ushers, conducting the 125 guests who attended the tea about the building and grounds.

Miss Mullin, a graduate of Boston Teachers' College, is director of the school staff and is being assisted by Miss Mary R. Dacy of the Leland Powers School. Miss Genevieve Mullin is acting as executive secretary. A strong faculty of competent instructors has been assembled and through arrangements with the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association the children of the school will be given regular physical examinations.

The school is to comprise a nursery group, a kindergarten and a first class, and the staff aims to maintain the same high standard as the Winchester Public Schools in promoting general health, physical development, social adjustment and mental and emotional growth. As extra curricular activities class or private lessons in elocution, dancing and art may be arranged for older children and for those attending the school.

In connection with the school Miss Mullin announces the formation of a play group which will commence on July 6. Further information concerning this feature or about the Day School may be obtained by addressing her, either at the school or at her home.

"DOTTIE" BRUNO WON JUNIOR DOUBLES CROWN

"Dottie" Bruno, smooth stroking member of the Winchester High School tennis team, paired with Katharine Hubbell of Dedham to win the doubles championship in the junior girls' open tennis tournament conducted Wednesday by Mrs. George W. Wightman on the courts of the Longwood Cricket Club at Chestnut Hill.

"Dottie" and her Dedham partner won from Jean Davis of Waban and Ruth Carter of Everett in the final bracket, the score being 6—4.

In singles Miss Bruno made an excellent showing, defeating her doubles partner in the semi-final round, 6—2 to enter the championship bracket. In the final the Winchester girl was defeated by Miss Davis, after a stiff fight 6—4.

Another local entrant, Mary Alice Mason, won the consolation singles from her sister townie, Martha Kimball.

SENTENCED FOR THEFT OF CAR

A Winchester young man was sentenced Tuesday in the Woburn District Court to three months in the House of Correction, with sentence suspended, for taking an automobile without the permission of the owner.

The misappropriation occurred sometime before 12.30 Tuesday morning, at which time the young man was apprehended by Patrolmen John F. McCarthy and James F. Tenney of the Woburn Police Department, who, while swinging through Pond street on patrol, noticed a Chevrolet sedan parked in the rear of the filling station at the corner of Cambridge and Pond streets.

As the police drove into the yard to investigate, a young man ran toward the rear of the station, but was caught by the officers and held until the arrival of Sergt. Joseph Derro and Patrolman Henry Dempsey of the local police.

Upon being questioned, the young man stated that he had been given a ride from the Four Corners in Woburn to the filling station by two young men who stopped there for gas and water, leaving him with the keys to the Chevrolet sedan, which was found to be registered to Patrick J. Foley of 11 Harden street, Somerville. Further investigation disclosed that the machine had been left at the Bonnell Motors Company on Main street to be sold and that its owner had given no one permission to use it.

When the young man, taken by the Police, was unable to describe the pair who had given him the lift, he was locked up, charged with taking a machine without the owner's permission. He was found guilty when arraigned in court later that morning.

GROUP THEATRE ELECTIONS

Those who have been following the growth and the success of the Winchester Group Theatre, will note with delight the list of officers for the coming year:

President—Dr. Eugene Pollard.
Vice President—Mr. George Hayden.
Secretary—Mrs. Guy B. Howe.
Treasurer—Mrs. Harold F. Meyer.

The election took place on the evening of May 18 at the Wedgeneree avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Von Rosenvinge with a large and enthusiastic gathering of active members present to hear partial plans for the next season.

This clever and progressive organization has chalked up many notable successes in the few years since it was formed. With the high school auditorium as its theatre, the Group performs before a discriminating, subscription audience, whose size and patronage bear testimony to the high quality of the presentations.

Something decidedly new, both in scenery and in costuming is promised for next year by Mr. George Hayden and his play-reading committee, and the long list of sustaining members eagerly await further announcements.

MISSION CLOSED AT ST. MARY'S

Last week's mission for men at St. Mary's Church, with night and morning services, was concluded Sunday evening with a special service which included sermon, benediction, renewal of baptismal vows and the Papal blessing. A similar mission for women was held the week preceding the men's mission and a special mission for children was held on Thursday, Friday and closing Saturday morning of last week.

The mission services, which were well attended throughout the two weeks, were conducted by members of the Vencentian Fathers, Rev. Fr. Albert Gay and Rev. Fr. William Gunville, both of Germantown, Pa. Both proved accomplished preachers who were able to hold the entire attention of the large congregations who greeted them.

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, May 30.

The Golden Text is: "I am with thee to save thee and to deliver thee, saith the Lord. And I will deliver thee out of the hand of the wicked, and I will redeem thee out of the hand of the terrible" (Jeremiah 15:20, 21).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels, and prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven. And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him" (Revelation 12:7-9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "That false claim—that ancient belief, that old serpent whose name is devil (evil), claiming that there is intelligence in matter neither to benefit or to injure men is pure delusion, the red dragon; and it is cast out by Christ, Truth, the spiritual idea, and so proved to be powerless" (p. 567).

WESTERN AUTO OPENS

Mr. K. L. Caven and Mr. W. E. Money of the Western Auto Supply Company of Kansas City, arrived Monday morning to assist Mr. Charles W. Duby with the installation fixtures and merchandise at the new Western Auto Associate Store at 528 Main street which will be open Saturday.

They are very enthusiastic about the future of the Western Auto Associate Stores like the one Mr. Duby is opening in Winchester. These stores are all independently owned and operated, but handle all the well known brands of merchandise of Western Auto Supply Company and share in the price advantages made possible by the co-operative buying of this large group of stores.

Mr. Dunby says his opening stock of merchandise is going to include the latest and best in auto supplies and accessories, radios, bicycles and other popular lines.

Go ahead, Mister!
IT'S YOUR MOVE—UP!

IT doesn't make much difference what kind of car you're driving now—when you see what you can do in this bellwether Buick, you'll agree you've gone ahead, moved up, stepped away out front!

Sit in it—settle back in its cushions and sense the bulk of its fine mass beneath you—you feel better already and you haven't made a start!

Take the wheel, it fits your hand like a sword-grip—swing it, it's easy and responsive as a bandmaster's baton!

Touch the treadle—quiet and silky that waiting engine leaps into life quick as a hungry trout—that's no mere six you're bossing, but the matchless valve-in-head straight eight that only Buick knows how to build!

Let's find a highway, any kind of highway! Be it straight or be it winding you'll ride erect, smooth, steady, without heel-over, sidesway, dip, even on the sharpest curves.

Hills? They flatten out like linen under the iron! Traffic? It only gives you better proof that this is the most manageable car you ever drove.

What's to keep you from going ahead with this king-pin car this spring and summer? If you think it's money, think once more—for this great eight costs little more than the average six, and actually less than some!

So come see us now. Once in a Buick your own good sense will make you reach for the dotted line.

SUBURBAN LEAGUE TEAM TO PLAY IN WINCHESTER

The Riverside team of the Suburban Twilight League is moving to Winchester from Riverside Park in Medford and will play the remainder of its home games at the new athletic field on Shore road, according to announcement made by Manager "Eddie" Cartullo to the Star on Wednesday. Arrangements have been completed with the Park Commissioners and the team will open in Winchester next Tuesday evening at 6.15 against one of the regular Suburban League clubs.

The Riversides played in Winchester last season on Leonard Field under the name of Cottage Crest and while in the fight for the first half championship of the Suburban League had a fine team on the field. The second half the team was away below its first half class and finally left town when the patronage became too poor to meet expenses.

Whether the team remains in Winchester this season is strictly up to the local fans, and by the same token, up to the club management. The Tanners drew well here with a good club, but couldn't pull out a baker's dozen with the make-shift lineup they had after their stars slipped away.

Cottage Crest at the start of last season and in fact through the first half was as good a semi-pro ball club as any one could ask to see perform. Manager Cartullo says he has an equally good team this year and will bring only strong attractions to Winchester.

On his playing roster now are "Bill" Hunnefield, ex-White Sox and Cleveland player; "Pete" Coscarart, former Holy Cross star and New York Giants player; Frank Crowley and Bobby Bond, Cambridge and Watertown sluggers with Villanova; Teddy Galligan and Johnny Temple, former B. C. stars; Fred Loftus, former New England Leaguer; "Dan" Cosgrove, ex-Syracuse Minor Leaguer; "Red" Fleming, former C. U. star, late with the Boston Bees; Jim Powers, and others equally good.

Manager Cartullo has been made commissioner of semi-pro baseball in Massachusetts by High Commissioner Honus Wagner, than whomever shortstop of the old Pittsburg Pirates, and promises Winchester some fine ball if given the proper support.

Next Tuesday's game will start at 6:15 and the usual 25c admission will be charged.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Preservation of Antiques Group

There will be a pilgrimage to the Gore place in Waltham Thursday, June 10, with cars leaving the Unitarian Church at 1 p. m.

Chairmen of the day, Mrs. John Carruthers and Mrs. Harold Partridge. Mrs. Roger Burgoyne will assist with transportation. Reservations for this trip must be made not later than June 8.

Gore Place, seat of Governor Christopher Gore (1758-1827), was built after our country became a nation and is called "one of the half dozen outstanding houses of the United States." There will be a small admission charge.

Whether or not these pilgrimages are to be continued depends entirely upon the ability and willingness of our club members, who have cars, to supply transportaton for those who have none. For the last Pilgrimage of 1936 in order that all who had registered might attend it was necessary at the last moment to find non-members who were willing to furnish cars and drivers. This cannot be depended upon as a means of transportation. We did not have a May Pilgrimage because of the Federation meeting at Swampscott.

It is intended that the next trip will be Wiggins Old Tavern, Northampton, Thursday, June 24. Members who are willing to furnish cars for this trip communicate at once with Mrs. George Hayden, Win. 0120. Watch your Star for further details.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

During the past week the Board of Selectmen has been advised of three important developments tending to give relief from the polluted condition of the Aberjona River.

These developments are in line with the determination of the Board and other officials of this town and with officials of the State Department of Public Health and the Metropolitan District Commission to do everything possible to bring about a speedy relief from the nuisance which the pollution has caused.

The developments are:

1. The passage by the legislature and signing by Governor Hurley of the bill providing, at an approximate cost of $4,500,000, an extension of the North Metropolitan Relief Sewer from Medford to East Boston. It is understood that the wording of this piece of legislation was such as to enable (in all probability) correction of the sewer situation in Woburn which has been a factor tending toward the pollution of the Aberjona River.

2. The State Department of Public Health has cited to the Attorney General the action of the contractor on the Relief Sewer in placing an obstruction in the Aberjona River Valley Sewer contrary to the state law and the orders of the Department of Public Health. The Department requested the Attorney General to institute proceedings to enforce this law and to prevent this pollution of the River.

3. Steps are already underway to by-pass sewage overflows around Winchester by utilizing the completed section of the Relief Sewer from Cross street, Winchester, to a point off Grove street adjacent to the Winchester-Medford line. From this latter point older existing sewers will be used. This by-passing should provide substantial relief until such time as the new sewer system is in full operation and able to care for all needs.

COSTLY RIDE

A party of 15 horseback riders from a Melrose Riding School was discovered one moonlight evening last week on the restricted area around the town's reservoirs in the Fells.

Special Officer James Halwartz became suspicious when he noticed hoof prints after a previous moonlight night and with Water Superintendent Harry Potten took a turn about the water shed on the next favorable occasion and discovered the riding party.

All members were booked and the owner of the stable summonsed into court at Malden with his riding master. Both appeared yesterday and were found guilty of trespass on the watershed. Fines were assessed and a warning about riding on restricted land issued.

WINCHESTER OBSERVED MEMORIAL DAY

Legion and Spanish War Veterans Honored Soldier Dead—Comrade Storey, G.A.R. in Line

In the wilting heat of Monday, Winchester held its annual Memorial Day observance as veterans of three wars paraded and held exercises at Calvary and Wildwood Cemeteries in honor of the soldier dead.

Headed by Comdr. Otis E. Alley a decorating detail of Legionnaires left the Post Headquarters during the early morning to decorate the graves of veterans in Calvary and Wildwood and such out-of-town cemeteries as Oak Grove in Medford and Forrestdale in Malden. Comprising the detail were Senior and Junior Vice Commanders Stafford Rogers and Conrad Larson, Claude Fleming, Lee Mellett, Harry Goodwin, Hector Cyr, Harry Dodge, John McCarthy, Antonio Jacobellis, Clifford Towner, Theodore Lawson, Frank Migliaccio, J. Elwin Colprit, Lawrence Nichols, William Rogers, Whitelaw Wright and Edward Boyle.

The first of the two afternoon parades, that to Calvary Cemetery in East Woburn, formed at the Legion House at 1:45 and proceeded to the cemetery, headed by a police escort and the Post Band. The Leonard Field Memorial was passed with "eyes left."

Exercises at the Cemetery were held at the Knights of Columbus Stone and followed closely those of preceding years. Commander Alley presided and introduced the speaker, Rev. Fr. James Fitzsimons, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church. Father Fitzsimons, in a tribute to the Nation's soldiery, said in part that he liked to think of the veterans of the civil War as having established the union of the United States and of the veterans of the World War as having established our Country's freedom.

At the conclusion of his address three volleys were fired by the Legion Firing squad, commanded by William R. Carroll, and echo taps blown from the corners of the cemetery by trumpeters of the band.

Returning to Post Headquarters, a brief pause for rest and refreshments preceded the principal parade to Wildwood Cemetery, which got under way shortly after 3:30. The roster included:

Motorcycle Officer Winthrop Palmer
Police Escort, Lieut. Edward W. O'Connell, commanding.
Drum-Major Chester R. Kochs.

DR. PAYSON SMITH AT HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

For the first time in several years there will be a guest speaker at the graduation exercises of the Winchester High School, Class of 1937, to be held on next Tuesday evening, June 8 in the high school auditorium.

Dr. Payson Smith, former Massachusetts State Commissioner of Education whose removal by the then Governor James M. Curley created a furor, has been invited by the School Department to deliver the principal address at the exercises, a special program having been arranged to honor the 100th anniversary of the birthday of Horace Mann, often referred to as the father of American education.

In recent years all the addresses have been made by members of the graduating class. There will be no student essays this year, the only students to speak being the senior class president, Norman Thornton, and the junior class president, John Finger, who will present and accept the graduates' gift to the school. The salutatory and valedictory addresses were discontinued last year.

Superintendent of Schools James J. Quinn will introduce Dr. Smith, and the high school chorus will sing several selections under the direction of Mr. J. Albert Wilson, director of choral music at the high school. Principal Wade L. Grindle will award the honors.

MACBRIEN—AYER

Miss Hazel Octavia Ayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ayer of Sylvester avenue, and Luther Andrew MacBrien of Sanbornville, N. H., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Luther MacBrien, were married at 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, May 29, in the Crawford Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church by the pastor, Rev. George A. Butters. Miss Hattie E. Snow, organist, played the music for the entrance of the bridal party and also a half-hour recital preceding the ceremony.

Miss Ayer was given in marriage by her father and had for her honor attendant Miss Marion F. Hatch of Winchester. Miss Virginia Fancie of Winchester was bridesmaid and the little flower girl was Miss Dolly Castine of Woburn. Philip MacBrien of Sanbornville, N. H. was best man and William A. Ayer, Jr. of Winchester, brother of the bride, headed the corps of ushers, who included Bernard Daley, John Simes and Jay Keen, all of Winchester.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and lace with a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, valley lilies and white sweet peas. Miss Hatch and Miss Fancie were both gowned in marquisette with matching hats, the former wearing hyacinth blue and the latter, old rose. Both carried Colonial bouquets of vari-colored sweet peas. The little flower girl wore a frock of yellow organdie with an old fashioned bonnet, both trimmed with old rose, and carried a silver basket of rose petals.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, the bride and bridegroom being assisted in receiving by the bridal attendants, best man and brother of the bride. Decorations for the reception were by Snowflake Gardens of Winchester.

Upon their return from a wedding journey through the White Mountains, Mr. MacBrien and his bride will make their home in Marblehead. The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School. Mr. MacBrien, who is employed by the General Electric Company of Lynn, is a graduate of Georgetown Academy.

CHARLES LAWTON CASE

Charles Lawton Case of 16 Wyman terrace, Arlington, a former widely known resident of this town, died Sunday afternoon, May 30, in the Winchester Hospital after a long illness. He was 73 years old.

Mr. Case was the son of Edwin and Rhoda Douglas (Smith) Case. He was born in Fall River, received his early education in the Fall River schools and was graduated from Harvard with the class of 1889.

Nearly all of Mr. Case's business life was spent in the field of cold storage refrigeration. He first became associated with that business in New York and later was identified with the firm of A. Booth & Co. in Chicago. For ten years he was associated with the Boston Terminal Refrigerating Co. in East Boston and it was during that time that he made his home on Wedgemere avenue in this town, leaving to take up residence in Arlington in 1927.

For a time after leaving the refrigerating field Mr. Case was associated with the Pressure Proof Piston Ring Co. in Walpole, retiring from active business five years ago. He was a member of the Engineers' Club of New York and of the Boston City Club.

REV. AND MRS. REED HONORED AT "BON VOYAGE" PARTY

A committee composed of prominent members of the Unitarian Church held a reception and bon voyage party for the Rev. and Mrs. George Hale Reed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Worcester at 111 Church street on Tuesday evening.

The large attendance present paid glowing tributes to Mr. and Mrs. Reed who have completed 17 years of inspirational service and loyal friendship to all those with whom they have come in contact.

As a token of their deep respect, appreciation and high regard for their minister and his wife, the members of the church presented Mr. and Mrs. Reed with a wallet containing a substantial check, wishing them a bon voyage and speedy return from a summer vacation to be spent abroad.

The committee extend their thanks to all those who contributed towards making this occasion an overwhelming success and express their appreciation for the countless numbers of congratulatory letters received from Mr. and Mrs. Reed's many friends.

OFFICER HOGAN INJURED

Early Sunday morning Sergeant Charles J. Harrold and Patrolman James F. Noonan in the Police cruising car discovered Patrolman John F. Hogan lying unconscious on Warren street, badly bruised about the face, hands and legs. They took him to the office of Dr. Philip J. McManus who discovered that he had a fractured nose in addition to other less serious injuries. Several stitches were necessary to close a cut on his face.

It is thought that Officer Hogan became ill and fell while on his way toward the center after pulling his last box. When he began to recover from the effects of his injuries he could recall nothing of what had happened to him, nor could he remember pulling the box. After treatment by the doctor he was taken to his home where he is still confined. Some years ago, while riding the police motorcycle Officer Hogan was pitched from his machine in a collision, suffering severe injuries. He was for some time assigned to duty at Headquarters but lately had been on patrol duty on the west side.

CRUSADE UNION BOY SINGERS TO APPEAR HERE

On Sunday evening, June 13, the Crusade Union Boy Singers, will be presented in the Sanctuary of the First Baptist Church of this town by the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the church. This group is part of an organization which has been in existence since 1915. The appearance of the Crusade Union Boy singers in this town is of far more than ordinary importance. This chorus, consisting of boys generally ranging from 10 to 19 years of age, is considered one of the most famous, versatile, and thrilling boys' choruses in America. They sing four part music—soprano, alto, tenor and bass.

They are probably the only chorus in which the entire soprano section can sing high C. These boys will not only sing high C but will sustain it at length. A large Kiwanis Club at North Adams commented on the program given by this chorus by saying "the Kiwanians and their guests were amazed by the quality of their voices, their effective chorus work and the precision of their singing."

Rev. H. E. K. Whitney, the founder and National Director of the Crusade Union Boy Singers in commenting on the chorus said that the object of the organization is to use music to develop the better spiritual life of boys.

These remarkable groups have, during the past 20 years been received or honored by three Presidents of the United States. The singers have won the commendation of such notable churchmen as Bishop McConnell, Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, Dr. Will Houghton, General Evangeline Booth. Since the organization was started, the many ever-changing choruses have traveled about 100,000 miles and have sung in three countries to well over three million people. They have been amazingly applauded by two World's Fairs, one International Gathering, and several conventions.

Dr. Whitney, the National Director, will be in charge of the musical program and will personally conduct the choral selections which will be presented during the evening. There will be both chorus and solo numbers. Accompanying the chorus will be the Crusade Union Boys' Brass Band, also under the direction of Dr. Whitney.

Directly following their local appearance the group will leave for a tour of the South presenting their programs in the leading cities of the south appearing before many great organizations and gatherings. For this Southern trip, this summer, Dr. Whitney is adding a few more exceptionally good voices, especially tenors and unusual boy sopranos, to his chorus, in most every place where he appears. Outstanding instrument players are also being auditioned for the brass band. The local audition will be held at the First Baptist Church at 5 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, June 13.

A marvelous and inspiring program is assured for the town of Winchester with the appearance of this group. The entire program is in charge of the young people of the First Baptist Church. It is hoped that the public will accept this as an invitation to attend this program. Free will offerings will be taken. Everyone is invited to attend.

Remember — The Crusade Union Boys' Chorus and Band will appear at the First Baptist Church, Winchester, Sunday evening, June 13, at 7 o'clock.

MRS. ELIZABETH S. FRENCH

Word was received late last week of the death in Baltimore on May 27 of Mrs. Elizabeth S. French, a resident of Winchester for many years. Mrs. French had been spending the winter months at the home of a relative in Baltimore and was about to return North when an accident involving the automobile in which she was riding resulted in her death in her 87th year.

Mrs. French was the widow of the late William B. French, a prominent lawyer in Boston and a resident of Winchester at the time of his death in 1912. She was born in Gardiner, Me., the daughter of William L. and Lydia Carver Southard and after her marriage lived in Boston until she and her husband established their home here in the late 1880's. During her residence Mrs. French was especially interested in the Winchester Hospital, the Home for Aged People and the Unitarian Church. Many friends of her own and the younger generation recall the hospitality of her home on Church street now occupied by Mr. Henry E. Worcester.

Mrs. French is survived by a daughter, Margaret (Mrs. Stanley Clark), wife of a New York attorney. A former Winchester neighbor, Rev. John W. Suter, now of New York, officiated at her funeral in Baltimore. The interment was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery on Monday. Dr. H. J. Chidley officiated at the cemetery.

Tuesday afternoon the Fire Department was called to put out a dump fire near Goodhue's Filling Station on Cross street.

"MUSIC HATH CHARMS"

The author of those often quoted lines probably believed what he wrote and there have been many everywhere who have endorsed his views, but unfortunately it was not a music lover on Wendell street who objected to being kept awake between 4 and 4:30 last Saturday morning by strident vocal strains coming from the direction of the Loring avenue playground.

Good singing has been esteemed through the ages, or so the singer in question informed the Police when they, in response to an urgent request, arrived at the playground. The singer added the information that he had felt like singing, and why not sing!

The police listened attentively, but not sympathetically. Singing, they felt, might be all very well, but a public playground at the hour of 4 a. m. didn't seem just the best place at which to indulge one's urge for song.

The singer was taken into custody on a charge of drunkenness, and later that morning appeared in the District Court at Woburn, where his case was filed.

ENTERTAINED AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Master Hubert L. Smith, Jr., son of Mrs. Esther E. Smith of Main street, celebrated his birthday by having a party at his home last Friday afternoon. Many games were played and enjoyed by those present in his large playroom on the third floor. Luncheon was served in the dining room which was attractively decorated in pink with a large green aeroplane above the center of the table. In the center of the table was a large birthday cake, appropriately marked. There was also a mysterious fancy tower in the center out of which came musical pipes and gold and silver aeroplanes for each guest. Fancy paper hats and basket place cards added to the attractiveness of the table.

Among those invited were Masters Donald Armstrong, Billy Nichols, Herbert Smith, Robert Murphy, John Rutherford, Kenneth Symmes, Lee Stockwell, James Morrison, Frank Gunby, Frederick Coon, Frank Livingstone, Teddy Green and Hubert L. Smith, Jr.

TWO ARRESTED FOR TIPSY DRIVING OVER WEEK-END

Saturday night at 11:45, while on duty in the center, Patrolman Clarence Dunbury took into custody Thomas J. Newnan of 155 Pearl street, Chelsea, the latter being charged with drunkenness and driving his Buick sedan while under the influence of liquor. In the district court at Woburn his case was continued until June 10.

Sunday morning shortly before 1 o'clock Patrolman Archie T. O'Connell saw an Essex brougham, heading south on Bacon street, jump the curbing as it turned into Ravenscroft road and stopped. He found in the driver's seat a man whom he arrested on the charge of drunkenness and driving while under the influence of liquor. The driver gave his name as Frederick E. Armstrong of 196 Washington avenue, Chelsea. He appeared in the District Court at Woburn, where his case, like that of Newnan was continued until June 10.

OUR MODERN AGE

By J. J. Doherty

MODERN PROPHETS

Well, every day the country's fate is picked as subject for debate by front page "know-alls" everywhere. Suggestions simply fill the air for warding off impending dam or bridling an expected boom. Since everyone gives free advice, here's some I hope may cut some ice: let papers every month or so reprint news of a year ago. We'll realize that old debate about the land's impending fate is always with us, like the poor. Our prophets should be shown the door.

You don't need a prophet to tell you whether or not the kitchen and bathroom in your home are in need of a modernization job. If they are, have the work done by the experts of Fells Plumbing & Heating Co., 656 Main St., and be sure of complete satisfaction. They can give you better service, better workmanship and more reasonable rates. Phone 0903 today and ask for a non-obligating estimate.

WINCHESTER'S McSPADEN CHAMPIONSHIP RUNNER-UP

Extra Hole Necessary to Decide P. G. A. Title Tourney

"Denny" Shute of Brae Burn, defending titlist, retained his National Professional Golfers' Association championship at Pittsburg on Sunday by defeating Harold "Jug" McSpaden, professional at the Winchester Country Club, at the 37th hole of the final round.

For 36 holes the pair had competed on even terms with the advantage varying in a manner that kept the gallery on edge. Shute was two down with four holes to play and only the Brae Burn man's ability to keep his head up and play his game unemotionally in the final stages enabled him to pull his second championship out of the fire.

Shute took the lead at the end of the morning round, scoring 3s on five of the last six holes, and standing 3 up as the afternoon round got under way. At the turn, however, McSpaden had flashed a classy 34 to erase the Brae Burn pro's advantage and build a 1 up lead of his own to start the inward nine.

By scoring a par 4 on the 31st and a par 3 on the 32nd, "Jug" was leading 2 up with four to go, but unemotional Shute got a par 3 and a one-over-par 5 to square the match at the 35th and the boys halved the 36th hole to finish all even.

On the extra hole McSpaden had the misfortune to hook his drive into the rough and his second drive, also hooked, landed in more rough at the top of a bunker. The Winchester pro pitched on well, but missed a par when his eight foot put slid over the corner of the cup instead of sinking.

Shute made his extra hole in par figures without incident, thereby becoming the fifth champion to repeat in this golf classic, being written into the books with "Jim" Barnes, Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen and Leo Diegel, all of whom had previously turned the trick. Diegel's repeat in 1929 was the last until this year.

While defeated, Winchesters' popular "Jug" was by no means disgraced, and was lauded by Shute in the locker room after the match. Characterized by the gallery as one of the gamest of runners-up, McSpaden made a great showing and many new friends as he battled through to the championship bracket, playing two extra hole matches to land in the final. Critics claimed his proneness to hook cost him the title, for it was his hook at the 35th that permitted Shute to square the match and his two hooks on the 37th gave the title to "Denny."

In the semi-final round on Saturday Shute defeated the open champion, Tony Manero of Salem, 3 and 2; while McSpaden turned back Ky Laffoon of Chicago, 2 and 1. McSpaden stood to win the most in the championship bracket, victory for him meaning his first major title and a place on the United States Ryder Cup team in addition to $1000 in prize money.

Following are the cards in the championship round:

WILL BE AT WESTON PLAYHOUSE

Mr. Basil Burwell of Hollywood and formerly of this town, will turn from his research on the New Bedford whaling industry to join the players at the Weston Playhouse in Vermont this summer. In association with the theatre, the drama department of the Boston Conservatory will hold a summer workshop, and Mr. Burwell will be one of the instructors. He will also prepare the weekly broadcast of the Playhouse and school.

Mr. Richard Parkhurst of this town is one of the patrons of the venture, having long been interested in the Weston Community Club.

In the Log-Book

A ship's log-book is the ship's diary, notes a writer in London Answers Magazine. In it are entered the rate of progress according to the log, hence its name, and all other particulars of the ship's course. In it also are entered all details of misdemeanors committed on board, with the culprit's name and the punishment meted out. From this we get the expression, "to log a man," used in the sense of to fine him.

PALMER STREET BEACH OPENED

The Palmer street beach opened for the current season last Saturday, and although there were few bathers either that day or Sunday, the heat of Memorial Day afternoon attracted a big crowd to Wedge.

All expressed themselves as pleased with the remodeled bath-house, now equipped with showers and toilets for men and women and having a much improved general layout. The addition of toilets will ensure greatly improved sanitary conditions at the beach while the new layout will assist those working in the bath-house to exercise a more effective general supervision of the plant.

Only one of last year's staff is on duty this year, Miss Mara McDonald having been reappointed as girls' supervisor and registrar at the house. Robert Donaghey is also on duty in the house, and lifeguards on beach duty are Daniel Coss and Francis Murray. All three boys are well-known high school athletes.

Chairman George T. Davidson of the Park Department told the Star that the guards discovered some broken glass on the beach and in the water where bottles had evidently been thrown by revellers at odd times since last season. This glass has been removed and precautions against recurrance of such dangerous practice taken. One youngster got a badly cut foot at the beach on Sunday afternoon, but except for this and another kiddie getting a bit excited in the water Sunday morning no casualties were reported over the holiday.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The Misses Catherine Marchesi and Mary Malloy of Swanton street, together with Miss Lois West of Boston, are enjoying a motor trip to New York City and Washington, D. C.

The sweltering heat of Tuesday drove a big crowd of bathers to Wedge Pond and the remodeled bath-house at Palmer street got a real testing.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hill of Wildwood street left this week to spend the summer at Brier Neck, Gloucester.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The Winchester Millionaires lost their Inter-City baseball game to Reading at Reading Tuesday evening 7—5. A pitching lapse in the third frame proved fatal to the local chances, though the moneymen outhit Reading by a comfortable margin.

Mrs. Maud K. Wolloff, matron at the Home for Aged People, is at the Winchester Hospital suffering from a broken hip. Mrs. Wolloff slipped in the hall at the Home on Monday, sustaining a bad fall and the fracture. She will probably be confined to the hospital for several months.

CUBS MANAGEMENT EXPRESSES THANKS

The Winchester Cubs baseball team conducted a most successful whist party in Knights of Columbus Hall last Friday evening, realizing a sum sufficient to meet the bill for the new uniforms which the nine will wear on the diamond this season.

Manager "Paysan" Marrone and his players are most appreciative of the support accorded them by the townspeople and wish to express their thanks to all who in any way assisted in making their party so successful.

SO THERE YOU ARE

Our open sewer, the Aberjona River, is still with us. But what a change! Now, instead of allowing all the scum and debris to flow unmolested down through the center, the playground and Upper Mystic Lake, it is skimmed off above town, and while the sewer is still with us, its appearance is greatly changed. This is a welcome improvement. In fact much more than we anticipated. The sewage, so we are reliably informed, is still flowing into the river, and due to the fact that the new sewer has still to be accepted by the PWA, it will not at this time be possible to by-pass the sewage through it. So there you are.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Big night of the Boy Scout year for Troops 3 and 7 of Winchester comes next Monday when those two lively groups meet together in First Congregational Church parish house to award honors achieved by their members during the past 10 month season.

The parish house is the headquarters of Troop 3, Scoutmaster Paul Dunn. Sponsor of Troop 7 is the First Baptist Church.

Big event of the night will be the conferrng of the rank of Eagle Scout highest in the organization to James B. Weaver of 326 Main street. Only Scout to obtain the coveted ranking in Winchester this year is Weaver and one of the very few in Fellsland Council.

All of the inspiring Scout ritual will be conducted during the awards and the troop leaders have invited parents of the Scouts of the two troops and adult Scouters to witness the ceremonies. Present will be Fellsland Council President Robert H. Sibley of Winchester and many other officials.

Opening the meeting at 7 o'clock will be the flag ceremony by eight Scouts, four from each troop. Then follows the investiture exercises with its lighting of candles, symbolical of the Scout oath and law, under the direction of Scoutmaster Raymond Bohannon of Troop 7.

Weaver will be charged with the responsibility of his rank by President Sibley. Award of his Eagle Scout badge will follow. Then in turn will be awarded a host of merit badges and certificates.

Moving pictures of Camps Fellsland and Ellis in Amesbury which will open on July 4 for the Scout vacation season will be shown.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL

The Philathea Class of the First Baptist Church is holding a Strawberry Festival on Saturday afternoon, June 5 from 3 to 6 o'clock, in the garden of Mrs. Lyman B. Smith on Highland avenue. Delicious refreshments consisting of ice cream with crushed strawberries, homemade cakes and fruit punch will be served. The tickets, which are 35c for adults and 20c for children, may be obtained from Mrs. Lyman B. Smith, Win. 0802, or purchased at the gate. The public is invited.

WESTERN AUTO OPENS

The big new sales room of Winchester's latest business enterprise, a Western Auto Associate Store, opened this week in the Locatelli Building, 528 Main street, Mr. C. W. Duby, owner of the store, will personally attend to the needs of his Winchester customers.

In announcing its opening the firm is offering a list of special bargains in auto supplies, radios and bicycles.

BETHANY NOTES

Although Tuesday was one of the hottest days for many years—(according to statistics; but one of the "hottest ever" to many)—quite an unusual number of friends and guests were present at the luncheon. Mrs. Oscar Finley, of Malden, was the guest of Mrs. Laverty. The day seemed to be just made to fit the menu which included salads and ice cream, the ever popular dessert with the youngsters. There were many varieties of salads—"hearty and party" —all especially attractive, delicious and very refreshing. The ladies of the committee, who received many congratulations for the success of the delightful luncheon were Mrs. Scott Farnham, chairman; Mrs. Gunnar Abrahamson, Mrs. Minnie Fogg, Mrs. Charles Kendrick, Mrs. Ralph Perkins and Mrs. Harold Roth.

At the meeting which followed, Mrs. Ronald Richburg presided—our president, Mrs. L. J. Higgins, being detained at home by illness of her young son. We are glad to report that he is now recovering from the congestion of the lungs, and also glad to have Mrs. Higgins in town with us again, she having taken up her residence on Wedge Pond road.

Mrs. Gunnar Abrahamson invited the ladies to a Silver Tea at her home, 3 Holton street, on Friday, June 18, the same being promptly accepted, with thanks, and Mrs. Clarence Eddy is to be assistant hostess. These ladies will be remembered as the charming hostesses of previous June teas, and will be assisted by members of the Finance Committee.

Mrs. George Hartson presented an invitation from Mrs. Wheeler to spend the day at her summer home in Stowe. This invitation also being accepted, Mrs. Hartson and Mrs. John A. McLean were appointed to attend to arrange a date and transportation to Stowe.

The Silver Tea, sponsored by the Missionary Society, and held at the home of Mrs. William J. Nutting, was very well attended. A cake sale was also included, which proved very successful. Miss Abbie Potter was in charge of the Silver Tea, and was assisted by Mrs. William Bowles.

Mrs. Paul B. Thompson was in charge of the cake sale.

Mrs. Perkins and family have returned from Limington, Me. We were thankful not to miss them from the luncheon.

We were also glad to have Mrs. Saunders with us again, and although we missed Mrs. Peter MacDonald, we are glad to report she is convalescing.

Mrs. John Robinson is entertaining her sister, Mrs. John A. Spencer, her niece, Miss Flora Spencer and Mrs. Walter Cochrane of Windsor, N. S.

Mrs. George Potter, and family have gone to their summer home at Strafford, N. H. Miss Abbie Potter will join them later.

Mrs. Bartholomew's niece, Mrs. Bruce Maxwell has returned to her home in Flint, Mich.

Mrs. Laverty's guests, her father, sister and brother have returned to their homes in St. John and Moncton, respectively.

Mrs. William Cutter who has been spending the past three weeks in New Rochelle, N. Y.. is with us again.

MILLIONAIRES TRIPPED LEAGUE LEADERS

The Winchester Millionaires defeated the Cambridge Notre Dames, joint leaders of the Inter-City League evening, 6—3.

This evening the Millionaires play West Medford on Leonard Field instead of the new athletic field. Following is the summary:

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

A fine remedy for speeding is one accessory that goes free with every new car.

Unemployment in and out of Winchester is no respector of jobs—but it certainly creates a wholesome respect for them.

It is easy to flatter some people here in Winchester, others have their own opinions of themselves.

To all Winchester bachelors—If you paid your wife's bills for a while, you would call her dear, too.

It never is in Winchester gardens only,
Where flowery beauty lies—
Fellow says he's seen it like a strange ointment
In a certain Winchester woman's eyes.

Winchester motorist says a tire blow-out is invariably accompanied by a similar breach in the pocketbook.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God" (I John 5:11, 13).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In Science, man's immortality depends upon that of God, good, and follows as a necessary consequence of the immortality of good. . . . Spiritually to understand that there is but one creator, God, unfolds all creation, confirms the scriptures, and brings the sweet assurance of no parting, no pain, and of man deathless and perfect and eternal" (pp. 81, 69).

BELGIUM KEEPS AN EYE ON THE BELGIAN CONGO

Belgium's King Leopold III plans to make a visit to the Belgian Congo, the first since he became king.

Linked by strong commercial ties with her African outpost, Belgium holds a national festival each July to commemorate the founding in 1885 of the Congo Free State, says a bulletin from the Wasington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. It was annexed 23 years later as the Belgian Congo. A museum near Brussels is devoted to the products which pour into the tiny mother country from her vast black colony, nearly 80 times larger. Among the exhibits are samples of minerals which form two- thirds of the territory's wealth.

Over 20,000 square miles in the present colony's northeast section formerly belonged to Germany. The cattle-rich Ruanda and Urundi districts, once part of adjoining German East Africa (now Tanganyika), were ceded to Belgium as mandates of the League of Nations after the World War.

Colony Rich in Minerals

The Belgian Congo is one of the two great world sources of radium. It also produces gold, copper, tin, and diamonds. These, together with palm nuts, palm oil, cotton, copal gum, (used in varnishes), and coffee, form the chief exports. The latter is shipped duty free into Belgium, where it is almost a national drink.

Much of the Belgian Congo's 918,000 square miles of area is covered with steaming tropical forests and open savannas where elephants, gorillas, and other African animals roam. There are also great stretches of land where agriculture flourishes. Because of the little effort required, the raising of palm trees and the production of palm oil are popular with the natives, while coffee is cultivated chiefly by Europeans.

The region has a population of approximately 9,000,000 black natives and only about 18,000 white people. In 1935 nearly 12,000 of the latter were Belgians; only 32 were Germans. Europeans have been discouraged from settling by the country's hot, moist climate, with its two wet seasons, and by the malaria and sleeping sickness which often attacks residents of the lowlands.

Congo River Is Colony's Trade Artery

Give the map of Africa a quarter turn to the left and the shape of the Belgian Congo will very roughly resemble that of the United States with Mexico attached. In place of the boundary formed by the American Great Lakes, the chain made up of Lakes Albert, Edward, Kivu, Tanganyika, and Mweru forms a part of the boundary at the top, separating the Belgian Congo on the East from Uganda, Tanganyika, and Northern Rhodesia. On the west, the colony tapers, like Mexico, to a narrow strip of land, through which the Congo River flows into the Atlantic. This 25 mile stretch of seacoast is the vast territory's only access to the ocean.

A weekly air service links Brussels with Leopoldville, the Belgian Congo's capital, 5173 miles away. Those who come to the colony by boat instead of by airplane find it a nineteen day journey from Antwerp to Matadi, the chief port of entry, located on the Congo River, about 90 miles inland. Pilots are needed in the rainy season because of the swift current which constantly shifts channels, washes away buoys, and even carries along dangerous "floating islands" of earth and roots which bear vegetation, occasionly even palm trees. Crocodiles and hippopotamuses are common.

Past the smaller ports of Banana, and Boma, passenger steamers usually proceed to Matadi, shut off from winds and sweltering on its steep, rocky bank. In 1934 more than 100 oceangoing vessels docked at Matadi. This is no easy task in the rainy season, when the river level is frequently 23 feet higher than it is at low water.

Between Matadi and Leopoldville, more than 250 miles farther up, the Congo is interrupted by rapids. Travelers disembark at Matadi and cover the remaining distance to the capital by train. Beyond Leopoldville, steamers run for more than 1000 miles to Stanley Falls, and above the falls, more than 500 miles up the section of the congo called the Lualaba. It was the noted explorer, Sir Henry Morton Stanley, who proved that the Lualaba and the Congo Rivers were the same.

En route to Wildwood the parade halted at the War Memorial on the high school grounds and a wreath was placed at the base of the statue by Commander Alley, followed by the blowing of taps. As the line of march swung along Church street a second pause was made to pick up one of Winchester's two Grand Army veterans, Comrade David F. Storey who makes his home at 62 Church street. Comrade Storey entered an automobile and rode to the cemetery in a special automobile, decorated with A. D. Weld Post, G. A. R. guidons, held by Boy Scouts.

At Wildwood the exercises were held at the Soldiers' Monument, the speaker being Rev. George A. Butters, pastor of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. Butters repeated Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" and the World War poem, "In Flanders Field" by Lieut.-Col. John McCrea, pointing the message to be found in their immortal lines and calling upon the Legion to work to promote peace in the strife threatened world about us. Those attending the exercises both in Calvary and Wildwood were very attentive. Rev. Mr. Butters was followed by the firing of three volleys by the Lawrence Light Guards and again the echo taps from the corners of the cemetery.

Returning to the town hall the line of march was reviewed as it passed over the bridge on Mt. Vernon street by the Board of Selectmen, after which ranks were broken and the marchers proceeded into the hall where refreshments were served at long tables by members of the Auxiliary to Post 97, A. L., under the direction of John J. Moynihan.

Winchester's observance of Memorial Day really commenced on last Friday when members of Winchester Post, A. L., spoke at the town schools in connection with special exercises arranged by the School Department in honor of the occasion.

At the high school a student Memorial Day program was presented, at which Commander Alley spoke briefly and introduced his accompanying Legionnaires, Selectman W. Allan Wilde, Whitelaw Wright, Kingman P. Cass, Marshall W. Symmes, Stafford Rogers and John H. McCarthy. Whitelaw Wright spoke at the Highland School and again at the Mystic, accompanied at the latter school by Henry Lowther and Marshall Symmes. Theodore Lawson spoke at the Washington, accompanied by Stafford Rogers, and Whitelaw Wright again spoke at the Noonan School, Theodore Lawson repeating at the Lincoln. At the Wyman School Nathan Thumim spoke, accompanied by Henry Lowther and again at the Junior High School the speaker was Nathan Thumim, this time accompanied by Conrad Larson.

The annual religious Memorial service was held on last Sunday morning at the First Congregational Church where the Men's Club of the church took charge of the program, under the direction of the assistant pastor, Mr. John Clark.

Fifty uniformed Legionnaires with their colors and color guard attended the service, at which the guest speaker was John H. Walsh of Waltham, vice-chairman of the Legion's National Legislative Committee and Past Departmental Commander, A. L.

Mr. Walsh said in his address that there are three fundamentals of Americanism, our system of education, our home life and freedom of speech. The maintenance of these fundamentals is vital to our system of democracy and is something which the speaker called upon the Legion to vigorously sponsor.

The chancel choir under the direction of Organist and Choirmaster J. Albert Wilson, sang "Souls of the Righteous" by Noble and "Sleep Noble Hearts," an arrangement of the air by Mendelssohn, sometimes called "Consolation." As a prelude Mr. Wilson played Handel's Largo and at the Postlude, the March by Guilmant. Dr. Eugene Pollard and Mr. Richard F. Johnson assisted Mr. Clark with the service.

Senior Vice Commander Stafford Rogers headed the Legion Memorial Day committee in charge of arrangements for the town's observance.

Decoration Day Notes

The glass showed well over the 100 degree mark in the sun as the boys formed for their afternoon parades, and it is fortunate that none of the marchers was overcome. Some of the Spanish War veterans fell out during the parade to Wildwood and there were several who wisely rode instead of trying to march.

Supt. Thomas J. Macksey and his men of the Park Department surely had Wildwood Cemetery looking its finest for Memorial Day. There are few more beautiful spots than Wildwood as visitors to the cemetery invariably remark.

There were 26 Spanish War Veterans in line, and a small delegation of disabled World War veterans from Bedford riding in the automobile division. Drivers of the cars were Harry A. Dodge, Gerald Y. Hills, Reveley H. B. Smith and Henry Lowther. Ralph Bonnell as usual had a spandy new open Ford for the use of the Selectmen and drove himself.

Selectmen W. Allan Wilde, James J. Fitzgerald, James C. McCormick and Arthur S. Harris rode over the line of march, but their colleague, Richard W. MacAdams, as adjutant of Winchester Post, marched at the head of the Legionnaires. Both Selectmen Wilde and Harris, past Legion commanders, were in uniform.

Comrade Joseph A. Moulton, one of Winchester's two Grand Army veterans, was unable to participate in the afternoon parades because of a broken elbow. Comrade Storey was in line, and both veterans were visited during the evening by a detachment of Legionnaires, headed by Commander Alley, and presented with bouquets of flowers as tokens of the esteem in which they are held by the World War veterans.

The Lawrence Light Guards were as snappy as usual, and their appearance in the parade can not be over-estimated. The boys do not have to come to Winchester and the fact that four squads, totaling 36 men with Lieutenant DeFina, paraded here after marching in Medford during the morning is proof positive that they like their treatment here.

Fred McCormack, former all Middlesex League guard at Winchester High, was in line with the Medford boys. "Polock" was well warmed up when he finally reached the town hall, his light blouse being dark with perspiration around his belt and across his sturdy shoulders.

"Bill" LaRue's Winchester Post Band gave the boys plenty of music despite the heat and the fact that they had played a long fatiguing job in Melrose during the morning. The bandsmen were mighty glad to stop when their final note was blown, but had the satisfaction of doing another fine job, their 11th straight in Winchester.

The parade wouldn't be complete without the police escort and the officers in line included James E. Farrell, John J. Murray, Joseph Quigley, D. Irving Reardon, Henry P. Dempsey, Clarence Dunbury and William E. Cassidy. Sergt. Charles J. Harrold led the parade to Calvary and Lieut. Edward W. O'Connell, that to Wildwood. It still doesn't look natural not to see Lieut. John A. Harrold at the head of the line of march.

Popularity honors went to the Ladies' Auxiliary group who served refreshments at the town hall. Included among the workers were Mrs. John J. Moynihan, Mrs. Fred S. Mitchell, Mrs. Kenneth M. Colgate, Mrs. William R. Carroll, Mrs. John E. Hanlon, Mrs. David J. Meskell and Mrs. James Tracy. Also assisting were Miss Ruth Hanlon and Miss Madeline Rogers of Dorchester. "Jack" Moynihan, "Fred" Mitchell, "Jack" Hanlon and "Jim" Tracy were the "buddies" helping out.

Rep. William E. Ramsdell, past Post Commander, was in line again this year. He "mugged up" with his "buddies" at the regular tables and then got into action helping to keep the Scouts' appetites satisfied. "Bill" totes a good tray, and so does "Ted" Cameron.

The Legion Firing Squad was made up of G. Warren Johnston, C. Newcomb Bacon, Whitelaw Wright, Harry Goodwin, Arthur A. Mullen, Lee Mellett, Edward Boyle and Robert Johnston. William R. Carroll was the "top kick" in charge.

"Tony" Cullen and George Donaghey once again carried the Legion Colors. The G. A. R. color-bearer was "Squire" Lunt, a young oldster who went over the two routes with the best of them. Theodore Lawson, Lawrence Nichols and Clifford Towner were the color guards.

The Boy Scout guidon bearers were Leo Tracy and John Campbell. The Guidons, to remind you, are replicas of the original A. D. Weld Post guidons and are the work of the Legion's senior Vice Commander Stafford Rogers.

An innovation in the line of march this year was the appearance of several members of the Spanish War Veterans' Auxiliary. Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside was with this group, and incidentally had an interesting camp proposition which the Legion is considering.

Captains Georgia Farnsworth and Marion Symmes deserve orchids for their marching and general assistance with the Scouts at the town hall. Their girls were a credit to them.

Along with "King" Cass and "Ted" Cameron, the latter Scoutmaster of Troop 1, was Assistant Scoutmaster Fred Croto of Troop 1, the Legion Troop. Warren Maynard had Cub Committeeman Harold N. Blount with him in line.

The Girl Scout color-bearer was Gladys Fifield and the color guards, Betty Pride and Frances Keyes.

There were about 50 Legionnaires in line, considered a good showing for a three day holiday week-end.

As usual the youngsters got in everyone's way and made themselves a nuisance around the town hall. Those who have no business at the hall ought to be kept off the grounds while the marchers are eating. One car was rifled and several nicely daubed up by youngsters climbing all over them while owners were in the hall.

Speaking of policing, Traffic Officer Jack Regan did another good job getting the line of march through the square.

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING

By Alfred A. Fraser, Wellesley

Plunge house plants in pots outdoors in semi-shade.

If transplanting outdoor ferns use the smaller ones.

Plant gladioli five inches deep to eliminate staking and falling over.

Flower seeds can still be sown—also tomatoes. Use seeds protected against "damping off."

Grass seeds sowing is a little late—but chances are good.

Old lilac flowers should be cut off to conserve the plant's vitality.

When you water the lawn or flower bed be sure you soak it thoroughly.

Evergreens used as hedge should have only half their new growth snipped back.

Herbs can still be sown.

Roses need fertilizer right along. Bone meal is good.

You can trim your hedge if it's out of line.

Feed your shaded lawn with cotton-seed meal, 8-6-2, or 5-8-7.

Burn any diseased tulips.

The thing that makes some youngsters here in Winchester get on a man's nerves is the realization that he once acted that way.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

Evangelizing the Pews

Few church members are drunkards, adulterers or gamblers. But many are quarrelsome, envious and spiteful. The pews are cluttered up with men and woman who foment petty factional strife and hatefulness. Indeed, some pews were better boarded up or removed, as they are nothing but hotbeds of enmity and malice. How sad that pews cherish such feelings and that factions should sometimes exist even among paid workers in the Master's vineyard.

Did not our Lord say: "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you; do good unto them that persecute you and despitefully use you." Christianity is a religion of love, peace, long-suffering, meekness, goodness, gentleness. Paul wrote: "Be ye kindly affectioned one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."

Being a member of a church will not save anyone. We must live the life. We must love our fellowmen. We must forgive those who have wronged us. Jesus wept over Jerusalem. If Jesus would return today, would he weep over the Christian Church?

READING THEATRE

The well-known Chinese medical system was used during the filming of World War scenes for "Seventh Heaven," the 20th Century-Fox picture starring Simone Simon and James Stewart, which opens Sunday at the Reading Theatre.

The Chinese pay their physicians for keeping them well as contrasted with the Occidental practice of waiting until sickness overcomes them before paying for the services of a doctor. Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th Century-Fox production chief, believes in following the Oriental practice in producing pictures.

Dr. C. A. Seyfarth and two other physicians were kept busy during the filming of "Seventh Heaven" supervising the bandaging of 85 soldiers for a hospital scene, so that they would look as if they were severely wounded and yet not be injured by the tightly bound strips of crimson-streaked gauze.

Most of Dr. Seyfarth's work on the huge studio lot consists of preventing injuries by supervising dangerous film sequences from the standpoint of safety.

The co-feature will be James Cagney and Mae Clark in "Great Guy." The double feature bill for today and tomorrow includes Warren William with Karen Morley in "Outcast" and "Off to the Races" with "The Jones Family."

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

Earth's moods are only man's:
She is as he may feel—
Ah, what the sky o'er Winchester spans
That we sing to and kneel!

Courtesy arouses suspicion. That is because suspicion is so much commoner of the two.

"Your voice is heavenly music," cried
A certain Winchester woke;
Yet he was right for was he not
In heaven as he spoke.

Right here in Winchester some people of fluent speech have a serious impediment in their thoughts.

The assertion, by scientists, that baboons are almost human in their weakness for jazz, seems to conflict with the older theory which seemingly has proof in fair Winchester that humans are almost baboonish in their predilection for jazz.

Winchester woman is all the time bawling out her husband because of the time he spends at the barber shop when he goes there for a shave. Oh well, it takes some time for a barber to shave a man and tell all the new stories he's heard from the flappers.

PAGEANT AND FOLK DANCE FESTIVAL

Four hundred Medford Girl Scouts are taking part in the Pageant and Folk Dance Festival to be presented on the grounds of the Brooks Estate this Friday, June 4, at 7 o'clock in the evening.

This beautiful estate on the borders of West Medford and Winchester will be opened for the occasion through the courtesy of Mrs. Shepherd Brooks a 92-year old lady who is keenly interested to see another pageant on her grounds, the famous tercentenary "Pageant of the Mystic" remaining still fresh in her memory.

This pageant is Medford's contribution to the 25th anniversary celebration of Girl Scouting in this country and is interesting as an example of what can be accomplished in the way of an outdoor pageant by children.

Consisting of dramatic episodes and colorful dances and songs held together by a thread of plot, it was presented earlier in the season at the Tufts gymnasium and should prove even more attractive as an outdoor sunset and twilight production.

Mrs. George W. Angell of West Medford, active in dramatics at Tufts College in her undergraduate days and experienced in directing alumni performances for a number of years, is the guide and director.

Much research has been put into the production of this pageant. The mediaeval costumes were all designed from models pictured in an English Mediaeval History of Costuming.

Preceding the pageant the eMdford High School Band will give a half-hour concert.

Three amendments to the constitution recommended by the board were adopted by the club. It was announced that Mrs. Hollis Webster of Lexington would talk on "Herbs" at the next meeting of the club.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Walter Scott Williams, Corresponding Secretary of the Federation of Garden Clubs of Massachusetts, and her talk, "A Thousand Happy Wonders" took us from the bulb fields of Holland to her own home. She wore an authentic Dutch costume which heightened the interest in her vivid description of bulb growing in Holland. The audience was busy with notebook and pencil for the reason that Mrs. Williams comments were extremely valuable to the amateur gardener. The boats of Holland, carrying on one of the great industries of the country, look like great flower arrangements so with a model of a typical Dutch boat, Mrs. Williams made a charming arrangement of tulips, flowering shrubs and spring flowers, a pictured miniature of a boat sailing up a canal.

After the lecture the audience assembled in the committee room on the lower floor to look over the exhibits of flowering bulbs and other arrangements of spring flowers brought by the members. There were 37 exhibits. In Class 1, "Specimen Blooms" due to inadequate labeling no vote was cast. In Class 2, "Arrangement of Flowering Bulbs," Mrs. Wm. Goodhue's arrangement of purple Iris in a white container was the first choice by popular vote.

In Class 3, "Arrangement of Flowering Bulbs combined with other material" first place was given Mrs. Norman Mitchell's arrangement. Although the exhibit was not large there were many choice and interesting displays.

AIR-CONDITIONING HERE IN 1890

Apparently provisions were made for air-conditioning the town hall as early as 1890, or only two years after the building was erected, according to a statement appearing in the town report for that year, shown the Star reporter by Water Registrar Frank Olmstead yesterday.

In the report the Board of Selectmen, Messrs. James Russell, Albert Ayer, Arthur Whitney, James Winn and James Dorsey, state that a large coil of pipe in the town hall had been connected with the "Highland Water" so that the coil could be filled with a running stream, thus cooling the air to an approximate temperature of the water in the coil. The air thus cooled was to be forced through the building by a large fan, driven by a water-motor.

Whether subsequent reports tell what happened to the air conditioning scheme we as yet can not say. That it somehow fell by the wayside we do not doubt after visiting the town offices on hot days, and especially after sweltering through by-gone graduations, and social gatherings in the town hall.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

A Good Conscience

The very best of men have their traducers and George Washington was no exception. Happy the fellow who can meet his adversaries with such words as Washington did his. When a scurrilous attack was made upon him by his enemies, writing to Henry Lee, he said: "But in what will this abuse terminate? For the result, as it respects myself, I care not; for I have a consolation within that no earthly efforts can deprive me of, and that is, that neither ambition nor interested motives have influenced my conduct. The arrows of malevolence, therefore, however barbed and well pointed, never can reach the most vulnerable part of me; though whilst I am up as a mark they will be continually aimed."

It is this "consolation within" that brings true blessedness to human lives. Describing the changed and exalted state of one who had been truly converted, William James, the noted psychologist, says: "A self hitherto divided and consciously wrong, inferior and unhappy, becomes unified and consciously right, superior and happy, in consequence of its firmer hold upon religious realities." To have the assurance within that one's motives are pure and his conduct upright is enough to make anybody feel "superior and happy."

The Word of God bears abundant testimony to this truth. "Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered. Blessed is the man to whom the Lord imputeth not iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no guile." With absolutely no thought of boasting of his spiritual attainments, when he was old and gray-headed, Samuel called Israel to witness that, though he had walked before them since childhood, no one could accuse him of oppressing the poor, or defrauding anyone, or accepting a bribe. While we do not hear his voice, his words have a ring such as only an approving conscience can give. When someone threatened to reveal something dark in Spurgeon's life, the great preacher replied: "You may write my life on the skies; I have nothing to conceal." When Paul was accused of defiling the temple by taking a Gentile within its sacred precincts, he replied that he was innocent of the charge, and that he "exercised himself to have always a conscience void of offence toward God and toward man."

Yes, the testimony of a good conscience gives much courage as well as great comfort. .

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

It takes three generations to make a gentleman. But all a girl needs to be a lady is time enough to get a permanent wave.

It is pretty hard to make a gentleman out of a scrub man, but scrub ladies are common, even in fair Winchester.

Winchester attorney was talking about setting aside a certain will. Well, we know Winchester women who long ago acquired the habit of setting aside their husbands wills on all occasions.

One Winchester fellow says he sits down when he is in trouble to see where he stands.

Life is not so hard for the Winchesterite who has found a soft place.

The man who takes a drink after a woman refuses to marry him usually does not now when to stop celebrating.

It does seem quite unnecessary for some young women here in Winchester to kiss and make up nowadays, since they are already made up.

Styles are showing what women can bare.

The fatter some Winchesterites get the less they squeal.

Men in and out of Winchester should so live that they will not fear what is said about them when they are summoned into the divorce court.

Among the June bugs in fair Winchester will be the bride-grooms.

When the average Winchester woman orders a new skirt, her conscience is her only guide.

According to a Winchester fellow who generally knows what he is talking about, people who are anxious to tell how they earned their first dollar, are often not so frank about telling how their latest ones were won.

There's a difference even in Winchesterites. One fellow spreads flattery on thick when one knows it is the bunk. Others take one by the hand and "sets your blood-a-tingle through and through"—such a one's friendship is 100 per cent on the level!

Winchester fellow wasn't able to find a clean collar the other morning and so he kicked the family cat, a pretty cheap sort of a man, take it from us.

Star reader wants something done about the fellow who smokes a pipe or cigar in public and lets the ashes blow where they may.

Even here in Winchester men and women marry on impulse and live to regret it.

Let all good Winchesterites sing with Edgar A. Guest:

"He is happiest here who moves
Serenely toward his goal,
Who does not set his life in grooves,
But sees it as a whole,
And meeting joy or sorrow, proves
The valor of his soul."

MALTA, POTENT PEBBLE OFF THE MEDITERRANEAN SHORES

Malta's constitution is now unconstitutional. The government of this tiny group of Mediterranean isles has been changed by Great Britain to the status of Crown Colony.

Malta's deep, rock-sheltered harbors were built to order for a modern fleet eons before man dreamed of floating one, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Planted between Africa and Italy, between the east and west basins of the Mediterranean Sea, Malta's location and structure make it a significant factor in any possible man-made upheaval in its neighborhood.

A Mediterranean Kennel for British Sea-Dogs

The island's military importance is symbolized by a built-in battleship. A rocky headland and its crowning castle have joined the British Navy, with a commission as "His Majesty's Ship Egmont," and an admiral in command. This sturdy white fortress is one of five, all formidable, guarding the Grand Harbor. The double bay on Malta's northeast shore is the finest, but the island, less than a hundred miles square, has a half-dozen others to help England make it a comfortable dog house for kenneling her fleet of Mediterranean mastiffs.

Malta is really quintuplets, a group of five isles; four of them could be contained within the largest, which supplies the family name. Two are mere rocky slivers, used for target practice by the fleet. The other three stand abreast, 58 miles southwest of Sicily, for all the world like the Three Bears. Big Bear Malta and Middle-sized Bear Gozo hold Little Bear Comino between them.

Gozo is still living down the bad publicity it received from Homer. Islanders point out a cave where they say Ulysses spent years resisting Calypso, who tried to beguile him into staying for a perpetual honeymoon.

Malta, however, is a more popular resort. Ships stop in Valetta, its main port of call, for provisions and fuel. Tourists have been numerous enough to encourage a miniature fleet of gondola-shaped skiffs in the harbor; in them, eager Maltese merchants meet the ship traveler more than half-way, and talk business in English over fresh fruit or the native Maltese lace of black and white silk.

Entertaining visitors on too lavish a scale would put the little island to some inconvenience. In contrast to the populous British Museum, of London, and the endless Louvre, in Paris, Malta's museum admits only three sightseers at a time. In one respect Malta is not to be outdone. The dome of its Musta Church is one of the three largest in the world.

American Territory Once Owned by Malta

Proud and peaceful, the Maltese call their few square miles of native rock the flower of the world, and continue to thrive there while foreign governments come and go. The small dark people preserve a language in which Dido may have welcomed Aeneas to Carthage, for it is believed to have Phoenician origins.

That the island was someone's happy home even before those days, is indicated by remains of Stone Age structures. Three temples have encouraged legends of a prehistoric race, because of their immense slabs of stone, believed to have been rolled into place with the use of strange stone balls. Parallel tracks in solid rock are explained as the road ruts of Malta's first families.

Prehistoric days found the island populated with animals now extinct, which lumbered over to winter in Africa by means of the land bridge that now survives only in the Maltese islands. The cave of Ghar Dalam, it serves as a hotel register, recording in its shadowy vaults the fossils of hippopotamuses, mammoths, and dormice which "stopped over" in Malta and never got beyond.

Since the dawn of history, whenever "x" marked the spot of trouble in the Mediterranean, it was likely to be in Malta. Rival races have snatched it from one another, and it has been tied to the apron strings of Carthage, Rome, France and Spain. Napoleon picked it up easily on his way to Egyptian triumph. Arabian rule survives in names, architecture and legend.

Its period of greatest fame was probably under the wealthy Knights of Malta, when riches and art from all Europe poured into the palaces and churches of the devout warriors. Their symbol, an eight pointed cross of white on a black field, has become universally familiar as the Maltese cross.

For 12 years Malta governed territory now owned by the United States. St. Croix, in the Virgin Islands, was part of the realm of the Knights of Malta. Well could the Knights afford to expand, for their annual rent for Malta was one falcon.

CUMMINGS BROS. FLORISTS, OPEN FOR INSPECTION

One of Woburn's very enterprising concerns, Cummings the Florist, at 42 Cambridge road, has completed extensive and attractive alterations about their store, alterations which have been going on for several weeks and which now when completed, present a most attractive frontol arrangement, extending the entire length of the location.

The new front which gives beautiful display windows on either side of a smart entrance, is of the new black carra glass, lined in ivory, with the name Cummings the Florist, inscribed in ivory plastic lettering, over the entrance, and the entire interior which now has soft cream walls and contrasting natural woodwork affords much more ample display room. On the left of the entrance in one of the attractive showrooms is to be seen a most attractive display of blooms. There against a colorful background of gorgeous pink and blue hydrangeas is displayed, calceolarias in an abundance of colors, the ever popular Martha Washington geranium, begonias, fragrant fuchias, Mayflower verbenas, and numberless rose bushes. Another attractive corner finds ivy and regular geraniums, nasturtiums, pansies, and all the spring garden flowers.

That local residents and citizens from many surrounding cities and towns may see this attractive display the Cummings Brothers, John W. and S. Robert, have planned to open their new store and all their greenhouses for inspection, over this week-end. Beginning this Friday morning, and continuing throughout Saturday and all day Sunday, visitors will be welcome to come and see this display of spring and advance summer blooms. It is interesting to note that the local concern has over 75,000 plants in all varieties potted for holiday trade and from their snapdragon greenhouse they are now picking 100 dozen blooms a day; 10,000 sweet peas are picked in their sweet pea house and over 1000 carnations are picked from their carnation house, all the products of these local flower growers.

Electric flood illumination lights the driveways and approach after nightfall, and the entrance is most inviting, dwarf evergreens on either side of the doors, in attractive garden tubs are blooming beautiful pink azaleas, arranged to greet the large number of visitors which the local concern anticipates over this week-end, and where all who visit will be assured from the display of flowers that spring is really here, and summer cannot be far behind.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

The nearest approach to perpetual motion will be the straw hat that goes careening down some Winchester street.

Winchesterites who make a success of any enterprise are those who persevere.

A lot of husbands here in Winchester do not even try to understand each other.

Believe it or not, a certain young man right here in conservative Winchester carries a vest pocket perfume spray.

Yes, some folk call stinginess thrift.

There is no truth in the rumor that the Observer has ceased opening letters addressed to him, for fear that they are demands for $10.000.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

The bride is apt to find marketing, what and how much of various foods to buy, her hardest job. Lower prices for vegetables, lower prices for lamb and fish, a lengthening list of fruits and lower prices for butter and eggs await the early June bride's first marketing. Of course the first arrivals of peaches, melons or new variety of berry are high but each week sees a longer list and lower prices.

Carrots are the only really high priced vegetable left. Beets cost but two-thirds of last week's price. New potatoes are more plentiful and lower.

Seasonable foods make up the following menus.

Veal Pot Pie with Vegetables
Potatoes Onions Peas
Bread and Butter
Vanilla Pudding with Bananas
Tea or Coffee Milk

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Robert Taylor and Jean Harlow in "Personal Property" heads the double bill opening at the Granada Theatre in Malden today. In support of Taylor and Miss Harlow there are Reginald Owen, Una O'Connor, Henrietta Crossman, E. E. Clive and Cora Witherspoon. Robert Taylor plays the part of a young black sheep who, on being cast out from his self-righteous family, secures a job as deputy in a sheriff's office. There he is detailed to stand guard in the homes of people whose debts have gotten beyond them. He must see to it that nothing is removed. The twist of plot lies in the fact that his first assignment is in the home of an American widow, played by Jean Harlow. His older brother, portrayed by Reginald Owen, under the impression that Miss Harlow is wealthy, is seeking her hand in marriage. At a social function given by the lady, Taylor helps her out by appearing as her butler. Only the brother and his family are aware of his identity. The situation ends happily when Taylor and Miss Harlow fall desperately in love, with money no object. The elder brother is happily relieved to escape marriage to a poor woman and the young couple, rich with love and unafraid of poverty, go merrily on their way. It is a novel story remarkably well handled by a competent cast.

"Her Husband Lies," with Ricardo Cortez, Gail Patrick, Akim Tamiroff, Tom Brown and June Martel is the second attraction on the bill starting today. Ricardo Cortez plays the role of a big time gambler who is deeply in love with his wife Gail Patrick. She gets him to agree to stop gambling. However, his young brother, Tom Brown, comes from the West with a big idea. He is going to beat the gamblers at their own game. He doesn't know that Cortez is the big gambler with whom he plans to match wits. Cortez conspires with his former henchmen to give the lad a "trimming." But Brown wins, and Cortez's henchmen emerge believing they have been taken for a ride. Furious when they discover Brown is Cortez's brother they force the pair into another game Cortez is thus forced to go back on his word to his wife. Still hoping to cure the lad of the gambling habit, he plays a crooked game for the first time in his life and is discovered. The climax is first class drama.

STRAND THEATRE, MALDEN

Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea in "Internes Can't Take Money" heads the double bill opening at the Strand Theatre in Malden today. Joel McCrea is cast as a student doctor who treats Barbara Stanwyck, a laundry worker, for burns. Later they meet in a saloon where the girl helps the doctor dress the wounds of Lloyd Nolan, a gangster, who has been shot. Nolan tries to give McCrea $1000 for patching him up but the interne cannot take money and he is surprised when Miss Stanwyck steals the money. Miss Stanwyck wants the money to pay another gangster to tell her where her child is hidden. McCrea gets Nolan to follow her and he shoots the other gangster. McCrea then finds out what Miss Stanwyck is trying to do and keeps the man alive until he talks. It is strong, grim drama but with a happy finale.

Paul Muni and Miriam Hopkins in "The Woman I Love" is the second attraction on the bill starting today. This is a story of the World War with Muni cast as an aviator. Louis Hayward, a new flyer, is put into the same plane with Muni. Daily both risk their lives and becomes aces and firm friends. Each talks about the woman he loves back in Paris. Muni asks Haywood to deliver a letter to his wife while he is on leave. Haywood is amazed when he discovers the woman with whom he has had an affair is his comrade's wife. Loyal to his friend he leaves the woman but she follows him to the front. The working out of the problem provides Muni with an excellent role.

"Romeo and Juliet," Shakespeare's classic, starring Norma Shearer and Leslie Howard, with a supporting cast of stars including John Barrymore, Basil Rathbone, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Denny, Edna May Oliver, Ralph Forbes, Henry Kolker, Andy Devine and Conway Tearle will be presented at the Strand on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Over two years time went into the production of "Romeo and Juliet." It presents Shakespeare's classic love story of all time with fidelity, with consideration for its poetic beauty, its swift action and unsurpassed drama but with a greater scope than has ever been possible before. Set against the amazing background of the fabulous 15th century when the Renaissance was at its height in Italy, the story singles out Juliet and her Romeo and follows each exciting step in the stirring and adventurous four days that follow their romantic meeting. "Trouble for Two" with Patricia Ellis and James Melton, will be the second feature starting Wednesday.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

Review pictures form the basis of the program for the first part of the week at the University Theatre, giving patrons another chance to view their favorite pictures or to see the ones they have missed.

"Broadway Melody of 1936," featuring Jack Benny, Eleanor Powell and Robert Taylor and "Men in White," co-starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, will be shown on Sunday.

Monday's program includes "Theodora Goes Wild" featuring Irene Dunne and Melvyn Douglas and "Morocco" co-starring Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper.

Joan Crawford and Briane Ahern in "I Live My Life" and Burgess Meredith and Margo in "Winterset" will be shown on Tuesday.

Wednesday's program includes "One in a Million" starring Sonja Henie and the Ritz Bros. and "Nine Days a Queen" featuring Nova Pilbeam and Cedric Hardwicke.

According to Mark Twain, the late great novelist and humorist, his story, "The Prince and the Pauper," is one of those things that "might have happened." It is the tale of two boy babies born in London at the same moment in the 16th century—one being Prince Edward, heir to the throne; the other being Tom Canty, brat of a ruffian and thief. And Twain had them resemble each other identically—meet, change clothes, get their childish lives all mixed up. It was a great novel. It became a great stage play. Now it has reached its top heights as a movie, which comes Thursday, because at last the perfect players to fit the title roles have been found in Billy and Bobby Mauch. They're a pair of what science calls "identical twins." Billy and Bobby Mauch whom you may have heard on the radio within the past couple of years. They're so much alike that even their own mother can't tell them apart except for one little thing. One of them (you shan't be told which) is left-handed. Errol Flynn is starred with the youngsters. In the cast also are such players as Claude Rains, Henry Stephenson, Barton MacLane, Alan Hale, Eric Portman, Montagu Love, Phyllis Barry, Halliwell Hobbes and a score or more of the same rating. All the color and drama of 16th century England is brought to life on the screen, and the magnificent coronation scene in which the pauper boy who has exchanged identities with the prince is almost crowned King of England, is one of the most dramatic screen moments of recent years.

"Mama Steps Out," is the co-feature, a hilarious comedy of Americans in Europe. The cast includes Guy Kibbee, Alice Brady, Betty Furness and Stanley Morner.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

When a certain woman here in Winchester is telling of her sins, one can never be sure whether she is bragging or confessing.

An old-time Winchesterite is one who can remember when there were but three or four taxes to dodge.

When a fellow marries nowadays, about the only new thing he finds out about his wife is her temper.

Early to bed and early to rise and a Winchesterite won't make food for the sluggard flies that will soon be on the job.

SPOON AND KNIFE PATRIARCHS, FORK NEWCOMER AMONG MANS IMPLEMENTS FOR HANDLING FOOD

Spoons that scooped up a watrus stew from a common pot, and knives that sliced off mouthfuls of raw blubber for hungry Eskimos 1000 years ago were found this summer in Alaska by a joint expedition of the National Geographic Society and the Smithsonian Institution.

These ancient utensils give a vivid picture of the life of ten centuries ago but they also are reminders that although table manners have changed, eating implements of today are essentially the same as in prehistoric times, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Spoon "As Old As Soup"

The spoon is as old as man himself, or at least, as a wit remarked, as old as soup, while the knife dates back equally far. Even the fork, though only a few hundred years old in its present form, developed from skewers or broiling sticks, which were stuck in the ashes with fish "spitted" on them for cooking. The first forks had only a single prong.

The prehistoric Eskimo spoons found in Alaska are of wood, ivory, or the horns or bones of caribou. The knives have wooden, ivory, or bone handles with slate blades ground to a sharpness comparable to the table knife of today.

The earliest spoons, however, probably were clam or oyster shells, or small gourds. Later someone thought of inserting the shell or gourd in the split end of a stick, thus making a handle. Until recent times many silver spoons had the "rat tail," a rib on the back of the bowl forming an extension of the handle, which some scientists think was a hold-over of the old stick handle.

The spoon, knife and many other utensils also had a common origin in the wooden "throwing board" used by some primitive peoples for gaining greater leverage in throwing a spear. Flat and slightly hollowed, the throwing board was used also for a fire-making tool, for catching blood from a slain animal, and had a sharpened edge for use as a skinning knife or a weapon. It could be used as a combined knife, spoon and platter.

Ancestors Carved on Spoon Handles

The spoon served from earliest times not only for eating soups, stews, berries and other foods not easily picked up with the fingers, but also as a record of family and tribal genealogy. All over the world primitive man carved tribal ornaments and totems of his ancestors—many of them mythical—on the handles of his spoons, often with amazing artistry and extremely delicate detail.

Spoons of later date, too, had elaborately carved handles, for example the "Apostle spoons" in sets of 13, each bearing the figure of a different one of the 12 Apostles, and the 13th the figure of Christ. They were popular as gifts to new-born babies. Some ancient spoon handles had sharp points for puncturing eggs.

Spoons have been made of many materials, wood, ivory, stone, porcelain, even the horns of mountain sheep steamed until they could be bent into an open spoon shape. Some American Indians had spoons of coils of basketry sewn into spoon shape, but used of course only for dry foods.

In old Russia, the peasants used wooden spoons in preference to metal ones when they gathered around to eat from the single large soup kettle, for a wooden spoon if it were dropped in the soup would float, while a metal one would sink out of sight in the hot liquid and its rescue would be embarrassing.

In the 13th century a guest used the same spoon throughout his meal, and was expected to bring his own knife. Even as much as 400 years later people of the more prosperous classes, when traveling, carried their own knives, forks, and spoons with them, for inns of those days seldom provided eating utensils. Fashionable people had elaborate sets of folding knives, forks, and spoons for traveling.

Next to the spoon the knife was the oldest eating utensil, and "eating with ones knife" was far from bad manners until very recent times. The Eskimo of 1000 years ago, and today, stuffs the end of a strip of meat into his mouth until it will hold no more then cuts off the remainder with a swift knife stroke that barely misses, but never touches, his nose.

Early Knives Served Also as Forks

Old knives were pointed, for spearing fragments of meat, and had round ends, for table knives came into use only after forks became popular. In the 18th century, many knives had their blades curved and widened at the ends for scooping up peas and other small-sized foods.

The first knives of course were chipped flints or the sharp edges of shells. Originally every man carried a knife which served all purposes, from fighting to eating.

In Italy, there were knives that also doubled as music sheets. On their wide blades were etched the music for the tenor, bass, and other parts of graces to be sung before and afters meal.

Italians, too, were the first to use forks for eating, and at first were ridiculed as ultra-fastidious or even effeminate. Forks originally came into use for eating fruits or other foods that might stain the fingers. Large two-tined forks for steadying joints while carving were used long before forks for eating.

Not until the 17th century did forks come into general use in Europe, replacing the time-honored method of picking up food with the thumb and first two fingers. Use of more fingers was considered bad manners.

One hundred and thirty-eight members of the class of 1937 were graduated Tuesday evening from the Winchester High School, the commencement exercises held in the school auditorium having a double significance because of the fact that the program had been especially arranged to honor the 100th anniversary of the birthday of Horace Mann, first commissioner of education and known as the Father of Public School Education.

Omitting the student essays which have been a part of graduation during the past few years, Dr. Payson Smith, former State Commissioner of Education, was invited by the School Department to deliver, as guest

Aside from the appearance of the guest speaker the exercises followed closely those of other years. The graduates marched in two lines to the platform, headed by Principal Wade L. Grindle, Superintendent Quinn, Chairman James S. Allen of the School Committee, Rev. R. Mitchell Rushton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Dr. Smith. The stage was decorated with vari-colored spring flowers and the National and State Colors were displayed at either side of the platform. Frances Randall played for the entrance of the graduates and also was accompanist for the chorus numbers upon the program.

Rev. R. Mitchell Rushton made the invocation and the high school chorus, under the direction of Mr. J. Albert Wilson, sang the old Welsh Air, "Men of Harlech." Dr. Smith's address followed this selection and preceded two further numbers by the chorus, "Come Thou Almighty King" by Giardini and the Thuringian Folk Song, "How Can I Leave Thee."

WINCHESTER MAN SPEAKER AT TECH ALUMNI DAY CONFERENCE

John Ely Burchard Termed Prefabricated House Best Substitute for Subsidized Housing

Mr. John Ely Burchard, widely known resident of Winchester and recognized Boston research authority on housing, was one of the speakers at the National Housing Conference, held Monday at Massachusetts Institute of Technology as the highlight of the alumni portion of the Institute's 70th Commencement week. Dr. Vannevar Bush, vice president of M. I. T., presided and other authorities to speak included Sir Raymond Unwin, English City Planning authority; Robert D. Kohn, former director of the PWA Housing Division; and Ernest J. Bohn, former president of the National Association of Housing Officials.

Mr. Burchard impressed upon the gathering the need for extensive research before today's complex housing problems will yield to solution. He said in part:

"We need first objective study of what our housing minima really are," he declared. "Then, objective consideration of how to build to produce these minima cheaply. Improvement, if any, will come through evolution, not revolution. We need hard work and not imaginative excursions into the housing stratosphere."

Continuing, Mr. Burchard termed the prefabricated house the best substitute for subsidized housing. The prefabricator rejects formal subsidy, but recognizes that for many years to come it will be impossible to eliminate the concealed subsidy which now exists.

If all our people are to be housed up to the standard needed for health and reasonable social efficiency, it is Mr. Burchard's opinion that there must be provided a sufficient number of adequate dwellings at rents which each income grade can afford to pay. If the minimum adequate dwellings cannot be built within the cost which such low rents will meet, there must be some form of grant in aid of rents such as those which have led to and justified the general adoption of grants for education.

It will be necessary, Mr. Burchard believes, to continue the subsidies or grants until such time as the lower income can be raised to meet the lower rents, and the buildings subsidized must be secured against any future rise of rents beyond what the lowest income groups can afford to pay.

CAMBRIDGE STREET HOUSE BADLY BURNED

An unoccupied house at 138-140 Cambridge street was badly burned Wednesday night by a fire believed to have had an incendiary origin.

The fire, which started in a back stairway, was discovered shortly before 10.35 o'clock, and alarms from both Boxes 56 and 57, brought apparatus to the scene. The flames spread to the second and third floors of the dwelling, badly burning the rear and attic of the structure and breaking through the roof. At times every room in the building was ablaze and the firemen had a stiff fight before finally quenching the fire at 3 o'clock Thursday morning. Damage done the building, which was formerly occupied by Mr. P. J. Melly was extensive and Fire Chief David H. DeCourcy stated that in his opinion the fire had been set. Two shifts of Police handled traffic at the fire, Sergt. Joseph Derro being on duty from 10:35 to 1:45 with Patrolmen Henry Dempsey and Joseph Quigley, and Sergt. Charles Harrold going on at 1:45 with Patrolman James Noonan and Irving Reardon, remaining until 3 o'clock.

JOHN CHALLIS

John Challis, widely known as president of the Winchester Co-operative Bank and a former chairman of the Board of Selectmen, died Monday night, June 8, at his home, 90 Bacon street, following a six months' illness.

Mr. Challis, who was in his 77th year, was a native of Boston. As a boy he came to Winchester and received his education in the Winchester schools, later living as a young man for some years in Chelsea where he was actively identified with Mystic Lodge of Odd Fellows, serving both as Noble Grand and Secretary. He returned to Winchester shortly after his marriage in 1888, living first on Church street and later in the home built for him on Bacon street, in which he died.

Mr. Challis' first business experience was secured in the employ of Jones, McDuffie & Stratton of Boston, which house he joined shortly after leaving school. He later became New England manager of Edward Miller & Co., dealers in lamps and electric fixtures. In 1927 he became treasurer and general manager of the Whittemore Brothers' Corporation of Cambridge, manufacturers of shoe polishes, retiring eight months ago.

Mr. Challis was intensely interested in and actively identified with the Winchester Co-operative Bank from its inception. He signed the petition for a charter, helped to incorporate the bank in 1893 and had since that date served as director. He was elected president in 1927 and his vision and unfailing efforts were in large measure responsible for the erection of the bank's fine new home in 1931. He had been a corporator of the Winchester Savings Bank since 1908.

Interested in the civic life of the community, Mr. Challis served the town as Selectman in 1902 and in 1903, acting as chairman of the Board in the latter year. Flags on the common and town buildings were down at half staff in his honor. He was a member of William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Winchester Royal Arch Chapter, De Molay Commandery, K. T.; Aleppo Temple of the Mystic Shrine and of all Scottish Rite Bodies in Boston. A man of quiet charm and sterling worth, he was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

He is survived by two sisters, Miss Catherine Challis and Miss Mary Challis, both of Melrose; and by a brother, Edward Challis of Meriden, Conn. His wife, the former Jeanette Hook of Castine, Me., died in 1924.

Largely attended funeral services were held at the late residence on Thursday afternoon with Rev. Dwight W. Hadley, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, officiating. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

REUNION OF W. H. S. '32

Final arrangements for the first reunion of the class of 1932, W. H. S. have been completed and the success of the venture assured. That so much has been accomplished is due in large part to the inspired and untiring efforts of Agatha Shinnick in directing the activity of the Reunion Committee.

Latest reports have it that a minimum of 40 members will be present in the old Boston Room of the Puritan Hotel when the fun begins at 7.45 p. m. on Tuesday, June 15. The committee has made plans for an interesting evening's program for which "Gus" Chandler has been chosen toastmaster. The whole affair blending together an extreme informality with an ample measure of genial good humor, is calculated to produce an unbounded spirit of good fellowship.

For any member who may decide to come at the last moment, the committee wishes to have it known that arrangements have been made to care for everyone.

Among the many titles the twins have held in tennis is the girls' indoor doubles championship of the United States.

DOWNS WINNER OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS AWARD

Miss LeRoy Awarded Third Prize

John H. Downs, student at the Winchester High School, has been awarded first State prize of $25 in the 11th annual competitive examination on the League of Nations, conducted by the Educational Committee of the League of Nations Association. The second and third prizes, of $5 each, were awarded to Ruth Packard, student at the Walpole High School, and Ruth LeRoy, student at the Winchester High School also. The first and third prizes were presented on Tuesday night, June 8, at the Commencement exercises by Mr. Wade Grindle, principal of Winchester High School.

The winner, who is the son of Joseph W. Downs of 1 Oneida circle, was also awarded honorable mention in the national competition by the National Educational Committee of the League of Nations Association. Students from 1156 schools all over the United States competed in the examination, for which the first national prize is a trip to Europe. Because he won the first State prize John Downs is also eligible for a $100 scholarship at Boston University, if he should choose to attend that university.

Ruth LeRoy is the daughter of Harris G. LeRoy of 113 Church street. Forty-four Massachusetts High Schools competed in the State contest, and great credit is due to Mrs. Ella Stacy teacher at the Winchester High School, for her work in preparing the students so that Winchester might capture two of the State prizes. Miss Ruth Packard, winner of the second prize, is the daughter of J. Roy Packard of 113 Union street, East Walpole.

DOWNS GARDENS TO BE OPENED FOR CHARITY

Through the courtesy of Miss Elizabeth Downs, the gardens on the beautiful Jere A. In the event of rain the gardens will be opened the following day.

It is expected that the famous Downs rose garden will be at its height next Tuesday and the Rhododendrons also should be at their best. Much interest also has been manifest in the new formal perennial garden which is a copy of the famous Hampton Court Garden in England.

Mrs. C. E. Young of this town is heading the committee in charge of arrangements for the opening and is being assisted by Mrs. Frederick H. Caswell, Miss Olive Webster, Mrs. Howard Davis and Mrs. Roger Tyler, all of Newton; Mrs. William C. Cusack, Mrs. John A. BOYS STEALING TREES FROM COUNTRY CLUB

Last Friday evening Police Headquarters was notified that the caretaker at the Winchester Country Club had caught two boys taking trees from the club property.

Sergt. Charles J. Harrold went to the club and found two Winchester boys, aged 10 and 12 years in the custody of the caretaker. The youngsters had pulled up 12 young evergreen trees and tied them up preparatory to taking them home.

The caretaker felt the boys were rather young to prosecute and Sergeant Harrold took them to their homes, warning their parents who agreed that there would be no further cause for complaint.

WINCHESTER CHAPTER RED CROSS

Sponsor Picnic for the Disabled Veterans' Hospital in Bedford

On Friday, June 4, a procession of 41 automobiles passed through the center and up Mt. Vernon street on its way to Nahant, where it has been an annual custom for many years to hold a picnic for these shut-ins.

This year Red Cross took 127 from the hospital and it was generally considered by all participants to have been a delightful and successful picnic.

Two motorcycle police from the Concord barracks acted as an escort for the party, and thanks to the wonderful handling of the cars by Mr. Harry Bean of the Bates Motor Co. of Woburn, the party left the hospital on schedule time and the committee wish to express their gratitude to Mr. Bean for the many busy hours he spent in helping to make things run smoothly.

Scarcely 15 minutes had passed after arriving at the shore when 31 men had donned bathing suits and were in the water in spite of a low tide and not a very high temperature. It was too wonderful an opportunity to be lost as it is often the only chance many of these men have to see the ocean during the year. Many patients were satisfied and happy to sit on the balcony and look out to sea, one man remarking it had been nine years since he had enjoyed such a sight and anyone who loves the sea can understand why there were tears in his eyes. Music for dancing and singing was furnished by Mr. Mordelia and his daughter, both playing accordians, as well as the piano, and Miss Mordelia who has a very beautiful voice, sang all songs, requested and led the group singing of old and popular tunes.

Supper was served at 4:30, 175 sitting down and were served by ten of the ladies under the direction of Mrs. George Dutting, chairman of the Winchester Red Cross Chapter, and also chairman of the picnic, and it was thanks to her careful planning that such a successful day was enjoyed.

The delicious supper was prepared by Mr. Luther Witham of Lynn.

We wish to extend our thanks to those furnishing the abundance of home made cakes which are always such a treat to the men in the hospital.

Many of the school children saw the long line of cars, a flag fluttering on each, pass through town and we would like to have them realize that each Red Cross member had contributed towards making the picnic possible.

May we never grow unmindful of these shut-ins away from the numerous joys we experience.

Our sincere thanks to all those who furnished cars and to those who drove cars. These were:

Mrs. George Dutting, Chairman
Winchester Red Cross,
225 Mystic Valley Parkway,
Winchester, Mass.

Dear Mrs. Dutting:

May we, in behalf of the patients and staff, express to you our warm appreciation of your kindness in planning so splendid an outing for the Bedford patients? As usual, Winchester had a day of fine weather, and we were proud, indeed, as the long line of cars moved slowly out of the hospital grounds. We knew how much the ride meant to the men, and it was a source of much satisfaction to know that so many could have a day at the beach. Arriving at Little Nahant, we found that we had practically a private beach, which proved helpful in planning beach games and swimming.

The 1937 picnic had a larger attendance that is usual, and there were many improved features of the outing, at least from the hospital standpoint. The supper, at which the men were seated at long tables, was delicious and most palatable. All confusion was avoided, and without much apparent policing, the men were accounted for and safe.

We know just how hard you worked to provide so many nice cars and to plan the menu and other details which added greatly to the comfort of the men. All here extend to you their warm thanks for the interest and care taken to provide everyone with proper comforts and conveniences.

To the many who provided cars for the day, we express the thanks of the men and the hospital staff. They showed a fine spirit of co-operation and service. To Mrs. R. K. Miller, who shared responsibility with you, we send our thanks also.

Cordially yours,
Evelyn Davis,
Recreational Aide

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The outlook for a happy and worthwhile summer at the Day Camp to be held at our Cabin on the Brooks estate seems assured for this season. Camp opens on Tuesday, July 6 and will be held every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday through Aug. 19. Beside having Miss Gregg who was director last year with us again in the same capacity, Miss Elizabeth Hovey of Newton Highlands has promised to assist. She is a graduate of Colby Junior College, is graduating this June from the Department of Religious and Social Education at B. U. She was State champion bugler for two years, besides being adept at handcraft, an ideal combination of talents.

The weather was favorable for only two of the four afternoons at the cabin planned for the Thursdays through May. A total of 104 Scouts attended for the four days. Mrs. Bigwood, the director, had many new games for the children to play. Mrs. Robert Drake, Mrs. John H. Taylor, Mrs. William J. Croughwell and Mrs. Gilbert Tapley furnished transportation. Mrs. James Doty, Mrs. Philip Johnson, Mrs. Lowell Smith and Mrs. Earl Wood helped at the outdoor fireplaces.

OUR MODERN AGE

By J. J. Doherty

ISN'T IT THE TRUTH?

When anything is started here, we go from low into high gear and really do the thing up right. Just take the present labor fight. The thing is so mixed up today we don't know what the headlines say. Yes, when we start we make things hop. We never know, though, where to stop.

Smart home-owners know that it pays to have the home equipped with modern plumbing systems, plumbing that adds new beauty and affords the utmost in comfort, convenience, cleanliness and efficiency. You can easily afford to have your kitchen and bathroom modernized. Just phone 0903 and ask the experts of Fells Plumbing & Heating Co., of 656 Main Street, for an estimate.

AROUND THE BOAT CLUB (1937)

Clang! clang! clang!

With the clubhouse polished inside and out and the veranda ready for the rocking-chair fleet, we haul anchor and set sail on another season and this is the season!

Sailing will definitely be the piece de resistance this summer. The lake is absolutely too foul for swimming and believe us it is much healthier skimming over it than through it!

Of course we still have dancing (a brand new "vic") ping pong (champion exhibitions coming soon) paddling—(wanted a crew!) tennis—(nights too!) and don't forget—volley ball every Tuesday night at 8 p. m.

Now let's see.

The snipe-boat building class conducted this winter is now bearing fruit at the rate of one fruit (or really fish) a week. Eight of the fellows started building in November and we would like to say here and now to those scoffers who doubted the success of this idea, the boys have done a noble job—witness the boats.

Many thanks to Don Simonds who supplied factory, tools and machinery and his able assistant Jan Friis for constant and helpful supervision.

Four of the snipes are now in—Don Simonds' Weave-it; Blanchard's Dunlin; Croughwell's Guttersnipe; Millican's Cotton-seed. Those to come include Dwight Hill, Micky Muerling, Leslie Curtis and Phil Cabot. All within the next two weeks.

This will make a total of 10 snipes and bring the fleet up to nearly 30 boats.

This year for the first time, there will be two sailing trophies, one for snipes and one for handicaps.

Pictures of snipe racing will accompany an article soon to appear in "The New England Yachtsman."

Don't forget sailing races Sundays at 3 p. m. The following were the results of last Sunday's:

Entries and Names of Boats

Oxward—1772.
Millican—Cotton-seed.
Simonds—Weave-it.
Blanchard—Dunlin.
Croughwell—Guttersnipe.
Swanson—Cheerio.
Cunningham—Spook.
Downes—No. 26.
Gustin—"7 Seas."
Reeves—Baybird.
Bowler—(?).

Winners

First—Croughwell—Guttersnipe.
Second—Blanchard—Dunlin.
Third—Reeves—Baybird.
Fourth—Cunningham—Spook.

That takes care of sailing for the nonce. Under splices we have the cantankerous Al and Mary. They fell for each other last summer, remember, when they tipped over in Al's sailboat. Congratulations from us to you.

Things We Are Happy About

The new ping pong table.

The first club dance, which was a howling (?) success—next June 26.

The rejuvenation of the Graham's boat. (If Doug doesn't weaken).

The two ducks—Ike and Mike.

Jimmy Gustin's new sails.

The speeding up of the "Spook." (Doc Cunningham performed the operation known as raking the mast).

Ed Sherburne's mustache (?) and —just loads of things.

Adios

PROVINZANO HONORED AT WILBRAHAM

Frank Provinzano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Provinzano of Florence street, has won high athletic honors at Wilbraham Academy where he has just concluded his first year. Last fall he made the academy football team as a regular halfback, doing the kicking and passing for the eleven and being largely instrumental in bringing to Wilbraham the Western Massacnusetts Preparatory School football championship.

This spring "Frankie" or "Ref" as his Winchester athletic friends know him, has caught regularly for the academy baseball team, starring at bat and in the field and being elected captain at the annual baseball election.

In addition Provinzano has been elected captain of next year's football team, for he will return to Wilbraham for another year before entering college. Besides his two captaincies the Winchester boy has won the academy award as the best all around athlete and the placque going to the player who is adjudged to have done the most for the baseball team.

At Winchester High "Frankie" was a three sport athletic star and conceded to be one of the best schoolboy football players in the Greater Boston ranks. He also won the coveted Mansfield Sportsmanship Cup in the fall of his senior year.

T. W. BOWES WINNER AT COUNTRY CLUB

DAVIDSON TO CAPTAIN BOWDOIN BASEBALL TEAM

George T. Davidson, Jr., son of Park Commissioner and Mrs. George T. Davidson, has been elected captain of next season's varsity baseball team at Bowdoin College, concluding three years of consistent play with the Polar Bears.

"Junie" is a fine example of what determination and intelligent effort can accomplish for a boy of ordinary ability in the field of athletics. Never an outstanding player in his high school days, he started as an infielder and shifted to the outfield where he won the admiration of Coach Mansfield for the manner in which he worked and practised to better his all around game. He was one of the most improved ball players on the squad when he was graduated.

Entering Bowdoin, he stuck with the varsity through his freshman year, improving right along and getting into most of the games toward the end of the schedule. In his sophomore year he was a regular from the start, playing both the outfield and second base. This year he has again alternated between the infield and outfield, giving an excellent account of himself wherever stationed. His all around consistency and popularity with his team mates is attested by the fact that his election to the coveted captaincy was unanimous.

"Junie" is the second Winchester boy to win a Bowdoin captaincy this year, "Dave" Fitts, rangy end, having been elected co-captain of the football team last fall. All in all the Winchester boys have been doing rather well for themselves at Brunswick.

NEW FOR CANOES

All canoe racing (except occasionally in Canada) is done over a straightaway course of one mile, or one-half mile. This means that the spectators only see the finish. In order to give persons viewing these encounters a chance to see the entire affair, the race can be run over a quarter mile straightaway, then a turn around a buoy, and the end will be at the starting mark. This quarter mile stretch should be along the shore which means that persons may follow every foot of the way, with the boats always in sight.

Now at the Medford end of Mystic Lakes the situation is just perfect to stage such a spectacle, and on the afternoons of July 19 and 20, there will be a regatta. Paddlers from all over New England, and possibly some from New York and New Jersey will try out this new scheme.

The turn will call for some celever boat handling and if not done correctly will mean tipovers and upsets. This should be fun to watch. Quite a sight the four-men craft are going to be, especially the "double-bladers," with some kneeling and others seated.

This regatta of the week-end of June 19 and 20 is being run jointly by the Medford and Winchester Boat Clubs and it is honed that a good crowd will turn out to encourage this type of water sport.

New lot of billfolds 50c and $1 Star Office.

WINCHESTER CHAPTER GUILD OF THE INFANT SAVIOUR

At a special meeting of the executive board of the Winchester Chapter, Guild of the Infant Saviour, elaborate plans were completed for the annual June bridge party sponsored by them at the Rockport Country Club on Tuesday, the 22nd of June at 2 o'clock. The location is an ideal setting for a summer party, as it is known to be one of the coolest spots on the North Shore, the view overlooking the ocean. The clubhouse boasts of wide verandas and a home like atmosphere prevails throughout. This party is the only summer activity given by the Winchester Chapter, the proceeds of which are used for the Winchester table at the "County Fair," which will be held early in the fall at the Copley Plaza.

The general chairman is Mrs. James F. Gaffney, president of the Chapter, who is being assisted most ably by Mrs. Earl M. Wood, Mrs. G. Osterberg and Mrs. Thomas Hennessey in charge of tickets; Mrs. Michael Hintlian in charge of clubhouse; Mrs. Richard O'Rourke, tables and chairs; Mrs. Oscar J. Logue, bridge prizes for each table; Mrs. John O'Leary assisted by Mrs. A. DeMorris, tallies and cards, pencils; Mrs. Robert Cavenaugh and Mrs. Thos. McDonough, will arrange transportation, decorations will be capably handled by Mrs. M. J. Meagher and Mrs. Thos. Feeney; luncheon reservations, Mrs. James Carr. A special delicious luncheon will be served for a moderate sum at the club house at 12:30. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Carr, Win. 0813-M before Saturday, June 19. A lovely door prize will be awarded during the afternoon to the holder of the lucky ticket.

The hospitality committee will include Mrs. Thos. Riley, chairman; Mrs. Allen Beausang, Mrs. John Costello, Mrs. Wm. Croughwell, Mrs. Virgil Ghirardini, Mrs. Jonathan Felt, Mrs. Chas. Farrar, Mrs. Ed MacDonald, Mrs. Ralph Sexton, Mrs. Phillip O'Rourke, Mrs. Malino Moffett and Miss Josephine Brine.

As this is the first Guild affair since the close of the club year, the president, Mrs. James Gaffney invites all the members to make this party a summer reunion of members and their friends, before departing to their various summer homes.

STUDY GROUP HELD COSTUME PARTY

On Monday evening, June 7, the study group which has been meeting all winter under the leadership of Mrs. K. B. Toye to go over "Post War Europe," climaxed the season with a supper at the home of Mrs. Stanley Barnes, 221 Forest street. Those members of the group who did not have sickness at home came in costume representing some character of the countries studied, and most amazing was the League of Nations which sat down to solve Europe's troubles. At the League table sat:

Mussolini—Mrs. Stanley Barnes.
Hitler—Mrs. K. B. Toye.
Stalin—Mrs. Harold Partridge.
Hailie Selassie—Mrs. N. Barker.
Duke of Windsor—Mrs. Tucker.
Duchess of Windsor—Mrs. Albert Thompson
Queen Marie of Roumania—Mrs. Wm. Priest.
Ex-Queen Eta of Spain—Mrs. A. W. Drew.
King Peter of Jugoslavia—Mrs. Davidson.
U. S. Congress—Miss Barbara Drew.
Madame Lupescu—Mrs. Emerson Priest.
Kemal Ataturk—Mrs. Geo. Budd.

Mrs. Toye was presented with a beautiful basket of flowers and the wherewithal to purchase numerous books for next year's study which will be "The Story of Civilization."

If any passing motorists or bus passengers were startled at the apparitions entering 221 Forest street on Monday evening, please rest assured you were not having hallucinations, it was just that you are not used to Continentals!

Inspired by the phenomenal success of the En Ka Street Fair, a group of young people headed by Miss Sally Badger gave a most successful Street Fair of their own last Saturday on the grounds of the Badger home on Prospect street. There were all sorts of games held in the garage, delicious things to eat and drink, a fortune teller and check dancing on the porch. That the affair was a real success as well as a lot of fun was evident in that the group realized $25.63, which was donated to the Home for the Aged.

On Sally's committee were Claire Smalley, Joan Somerby, Joyce Pitman, Dorothea Richardson, Marylin Pinkham, Yvonne Clennon, Marion Philbrick, Peggy Fitzgerald, Cynthia Newton, Kendall Wright, Ferd Manning and Paul Blake.

HIGH SCHOOL HELD FINAL ASSEMBLY

On Tuesday, June 8, the Winchester High School held its annual final assembly. The assembly included spring sport awards and, as a novel feature, served as an installation assembly for the officers of the High School clubs and organizations for 1937-38.

The assembly was presided over by John H. Downs, the retiring president of the Thrift Association. He introduced the girls' coach, Miss Rosamond Young, who presented the girls' tennis letters. Miss Young also gave the class numerals to the winning class of the interclass girls' tennis. This year's winners were the Juniors.

Mr. Tom Maynard, former collegiate high jump champion, the track coach, awarded the track letters for varsity and second teams.

Mr. Vinal Good, freshman baseball and football coach, awarded the baseball second team letters.

Coach Wendell Mansfield then presented the baseball varsity letters with fitting words about each player.

The principal, Mr. Grindle, awarded John Downs with the first prize in the League of Nations history essay contest.

Jack Finger was then sworn in as the new president of the Thrift Association. Ben R. Schneider, Jr. was introduced as the new president of the Athletic Association by its retiring head, James Harris.

Bradford Darling was presented with the presidency of the Dramatic Society by Barbara Hickey, and spoke briefly. George Manning, the president of the Science Club, introduced its new president, Lincoln Grindle, who invited all scientifically interested students to join.

Marjorie Rush, president of the new French Club turned its presidency over to Jack Tead, who promised to serve faithfully.

Ruth LeRoy, the editor-in-chief of the Highlights, the schools bi-weekly newspaper, introduced Eleanor Jenkins, the new editorial editor, who said she hoped to uphold Ruth's good work.

Finally John Downs, in the immortal phrase that closes all High School assemblies, bade all to return to their home rooms.

WINCHESTER DISTRICT NURSING ASSOCIATION

The June meeting of the Board of the Winchester District Nursing Association took place June 4 at the home of Mrs. Gardiner Pond with 18 members of the board present.

Mrs. Slocum, chairman of the education committee gave a very interesting paper on the history of the Public Health movement and also outlined a program of education for new board members during the summer months.

In reporting for the membership committee Mrs. Clarence McDavitt said that the spring drive for new members had interested nearly 100 people who agreed to become members. Of this number about one-third have already sent in their $3 membership dues. This was gratifying to the members of the board who are anxious to increase the support of the organization through memberships.

Mrs. Gormley gave the following report for the month of May:

360 calls made on 91 patients.
264 full pay calls on 67 patients.
53 part pay calls on 13 patients.
33 free calls on 11 patients.

At the conclusion of the meeting the members of the board were joined by the nurses, Mrs O'Connor, Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Gormley for a picnic lunch at the bungalow in Mrs. Pond's beautiful garden.

ST. MARY'S GRADUATION SUNDAY

The annual graduation exercises of St. Mary's Parochial Schools will be held on Sunday afternoon in the upper church.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The season's activities of the ladies of the First Baptist Church were brought to a close yesterday when they enjoyed a delicious luncheon and afternoon at the home of one of their members, Mrs. Francis Henderson of Ridge street. As has been the custom for several years, the members from the Home for Aged were their guests at this June meeting. Mrs. Henderson was assisted by Mrs. Avard Walker in serving luncheon.

The reports at the annual meeting showed that under the able leadership of Mrs. John Winchester the undertakings of the League had met with very great success and they were able to turn over to the church finance committee a substantial amount toward the reduction of the church debt. At the same time they have maintained their usual many missionary activities. They will send one of their members as a delegate to the Northfield Missionary Conference in July and have contributed toward sending several of their young people to the School of Methods at Ocean Park this summer. These things have been made possible by the whole hearted co-operation and interest of every member in the work. Mrs. Charles A. Burnham, chairman of the Thrift Shop, gave a fine report of that project, announcing the closing of the shop for the summer this week and plans for its re-opening in October.

The 1936-37 executive board held their last meeting at the Winchester Country Club when they entertained the retiring president, Mrs. Winchester, at luncheon. The new officers for the coming year are:

Odd Ways of Greeting

Polite Arabs used to kiss the hands of their superiors. But when two Arabs of equal rank met, neither wished to appear conceited by allowing the other to kiss his hand. This meant a scuffle, and soon a compromise—they shook hands. There are many queer handshakes. The Ainu, living in northern Japan, rubs his palms together and strokes his beard. Negro chiefs snap the middle finger three times when greeting their friends. On Banks Island, British Columbia, Canada, men lock the middle fingers of their right hands. Both then pull their fingers loose with a crack.

SELECTMEN WORKING FOR SEWER RELIEF

The Board of Selectmen is continuing to bend every effort to bring about relief from the polluted condition of the Aberjona River and progress is being made in this direction.

Under date of June 10 the Board received a report from Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, State Commissioner of Public Health, relative to the situation. This report read:

"In response to your request, I am submitting the following information relative to conditions affecting the pollution of the Aberjona River since the conference in this office on May 24, 1937.

"Immediately after this conference engineers of this department conferred with representatives of the Sewerage Division of the Metropolitan District Commission, the Federal Public Works Administration and the State Emergency Public Works Commission relative to ways and means for reducing the amount of sewage overflowing from the trunk sewers of the North Metropolitan Sewerage District into the Aberjona River, and arrangements were made by this department to maintain 24-hour oversight of the river in order to ascertain locations where sewage is overflowing. In addition studies were initiated by this department with a view to providing remedial measures to reduce offensive conditions in this stream resulting from sewage which had overflowed in the past few months. These latter studies have shown that sewage has overflowed into the Aberjona River—

(1) Because of the inadequacy of the present North Metropolitan Sewerage system.

(2) Because of obstructions placed in one of the sewers by a contractor to assist him in the construction of a regulating chamber in the vicinity of the Atlantic Gelatin Company works.

"Relative to the first cause, this condition cannot be wholly eliminated until that part of the North Metropolitan Relief Sewer through the town of Winchester is placed in use.

"Relative to the second cause, the department on May 28, 1937, served a notice on the contractor in question calling his attention to violations of Chapter 291 of the Acts of 1911 and on June 1, 1937, requested the Attorney General to take action in the matter under said Chapter 291. As a result of these activities, the contractor removed certain obstructions in the sewer, and on Monday, June 7, there was no evidence of sewage overflowing into the Aberjona River as a result of obstructions or for other causes for which the contractor was responsible, and the department so advised the Attorney General.

"In the matter of placing certain sections of the North Metropolitan Relief Sewer into use, representatives of this department have held numerous conferences with representatives of the Metropolitan District Commission, and at the time of writing this letter, department is advised that the necessary temporary diversion work will shortly be provided whereby the new Relief Sewer from a point near Cross street in Winchester to a point in the vicinity of Grove place near the Winchester - Medford boundary will be placed in use.

"With this section of the Relief Sewer in use the further overflow of sewage into the river near Cross street and from manholes in the vicinity of the Atlantic Gelatin Company due to the inadequacy of the North Metropolitan Sewer system should cease.

"Deposits of decomposed organic matter already in the Aberjona River and Upper Mystic Lake resulting from the overflow of sewage into this stream in the past few months are already causing offensive conditions in the vicinity of Winchester, and should the temperature of the water at this stream increase and the flow be materially reduced from that maintained at the present time, there probably will be depletion of oxygen in the water and even more offensive odors may result. In order to remedy this condition, department has arranged with the Town Engineer of Winchester for a temporary dam to be constructed across the Aberjona River a short distance below Swanton street to increase the storage in this basin and to thus assist in the precipitation of objectionable organic matter which may be in the water of the river at this point due to the overflow of sewage. This will also permit the interception of scum or other flating offensive matter and facilitate treatment of the water with sodium nitrate for replenishing oxygen in the water and to dose the water with chlorine, if necessary, to reduce the number of bacteria in the water.

"This program, together with the carrying out of the present program of the Metropolitan District Commission for removing scum from the surface of the river and deposits of scum and decaying organic matter along the shores of this stream, should reduce the offensive conditions as far as practicable.

"The department is submitting to the Metropolitan District Commission estimates of cost of treating the water in this stream with sodium nitrate and chlorine, and the department is arranging with its engineers for the installation of a weir and the necessary gage to assist in determining the flow of the stream as such information is necessary to adequately treat the water.

"This department in carrying out its duties relative to preventing the pollution of the Aberjona River, will welcome the receipt of any information relative to the overflow of sewage or other polluting matter into the stream within the town of Winchester."

The Town Engineer, Parker Holbrook, under the direction of the Board of Selectmen, and taking advantage of a transfer of $500 voted by the Finance Committee from the Reserve Fund, has the dam above referred to well under way.

The Board is also maintaining constant touch with the Metropolitan District Commission trying to have the competed section of the new sewer put in use as soon as possible to divert the sewage from the River as it flows through Winchester.

Red Coral Always Prized

It is red coral that is and always has been prized, not solely for jewelry and buttons, but as a charm to bring safety, health and secrets not revealed to the ordinary person. As ancient Gauls rushed headlong into battle, they trusted their safety to their swords, strength and the "magic" coral imbedded in their shields or helmets. Many Italians and Indians regard coral as protection against the "evil eye." The world's red coral comes from the reefs off the Mediterranean coast of Africa, says the Washington Post, and is obtained chiefly by Italians.

The Golden Text is: "In God is my salvation and my glory: the rock of my strength, and my refuge, is in God" (Psalms 62:7).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Preserve me, O God: for in thee do I put my trust. . . . The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou maintainest my lot. The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage" (Psalms 16:1, 5, 6).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The divine Mind that made man maintains His own image and likeness. . . . All that really exists is the divine Mind and its idea, and in this Mind the entire being is found harmonious and eternal" (p. 151).

"Man-Power" of a Nation

"Man-Power" of a nation really refers to the number of men available for service in time of war, says London Answers Magazine. We arrive at it by taking the total population and estimating how many of these are men between certain ages—say, eighteen and forty-five. From the figure this gives, we must deduct a certain proportion of weaklings of all kinds. The remainder left may then be called the "man-power" of the nation. Speaking broadly, a nation can put ten per cent of its population in the field. That is its man-dower.

Blackstrap Molasses

Blackstrap molasses is the very lowest grade, made from what is left after every possible bit of sugar has been removed from the sugar cane by the commercial process. It is combined in mixtures for feeding stock and enormous quantities of it are used in the production of alcohol.

Only One National Hymn

There is no national hymn approved by the government in any way except "The Star Spangled Banner." There are several hymns, including "America," which have practically a national status, inasmuch as they are known and loved throughout the nation.

CRUSADE UNION BOY SINGERS AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY EVENING

The Crusade Union Boy Singers, a nationally famous group of boy singers, ranging in age from 11 to 19, will present a program of inspiring music at the First Baptist Church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. This group is being presented by the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the local church. The appearance of this group of boys is of far more than ordinary importance, due to the fact that this chorus is considered one of the most famous, versatile and thrilling boys' choruses in America.

The founder and national director of the Crusade Union Boy Singers, Rev. H. E. K. Whitney, in commenting on the chorus said that the object of the organization is to use music to develop the better spiritual life of boys. The fulfillment of this purpose may be seen in the religious atmosphere found in the group. Dr. Whitney will be present to conduct the chorus and instrumental numbers during the evening.

The many ever changing choruses formed since the organization of the Crusade Union in 1915 have had many honors bestowed upon them. They were honored by Presidents Wilson and Harding and received in the White House by President Hoover during their terms of office. They have presented their concerts in three countries, at two World's Fairs, one International gathering and several notable conventions.

The appearance of the chorus at the First Baptist Church will be one of the last before the group leaves for a summer tour of the southern states. Many new voices are being added daily to the chorus. The local audition will be held under the direction of Dr. Whitney on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the church.

Notable among the boy performers are Paul Wheeler, baritone soloist; Edgar Greene, boy basso; Michael Tinnis, outstanding violinist and Robert Wheeler, piano accompanist. Solo, chorus and instrumental numbers will be presented, accompanied by the Crusade Union Brass Band.

The young people of the First Baptist Church extend this invitation to the people of Winchester to attend this service which is assured of being one of the finest ever presented in the musical field in this section. Admission is free with free will offerings being taken. The entire program is unique, versatile and inspiring.

Use of Anaesthetics

In the Middle Ages and up to the Eighteenth century alcohol in large doses served to benumb the patient to some extent. But despite these aids surgery, before the days of true anaesthesia, (absence of feeling) must have been in more senses than one a shocking business. A new era began at the end of the Eighteenth century with the discovery that the breathing of laughing gas (nitrous oxide) caused unconsciousness. It was used for minor operations, but its effect lasted too short a time to be of much use for those which were more prolonged. Then, half-way through the Nineteenth century came the discovery of ether, quickly followed by that of chloroform.—London Answers Magazine.

Ears on the Butterfly

Certain types of butterfly and moth possess what might be called ears. The position of the organs in these cases is on either side of the body and at the junction of the thorax and abdomen. Experiments have shown that the butterfly and moth are capable of perceiving sound of but very short wave length.

Liked Cold Drinks

According to historians, Alexander the Great stored kegs of wine in trenches filled with snow and covered with straw, so that he might be refreshed with cooling beverages in the summer time. Nero is supposed to have had slaves carry quantities of snow from the Alps to Rome for the same purpose.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

Lovely Town of Winchester, kiss and hail to you!
Town of the nameless charm, lips as fresh as dew!
Up the world and down the world, to and fro to stray
Back again to Winchester by the old heart's way:
Winchester, the Winchester
Of Main Street and the hill
That lifts in beauty of the dawn
Where lovely memories thrill!

According to one Winchesterite it takes three generations to outgrow the habit of being afraid of the servants.

BUSY, BRILLIANT OSTEND HAD BLOODY HISTORY

Business has been so good lately in Ostend—active seaport and pleasure resort on the north coast of Belgium—that officials are planning to improve its harbor, establish a hydroplane base, and make a bid for the port to become the western terminus of the proposed transcontinental highway to Istanbul, Turkey.

From a little fishing village of the 11th century, Ostend has grown to be an important, modern port for English Channel shipping, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. With a permanentt population of about 45,000 this strategically located port on the west coast of Flanders has become a popular point of transfer for passenger service and a fashionable watering place catering to hundreds of thousands of visitors annually.

Bloodshed Not Business Made Ostend Famous

Yet its development as a shipping port, since a canal in 1284 first linked this settlement to Bruges and facilitated inland trade, has been less spectacular than its military history.

From the time when Crusaders embarked in sturdy Flemish sailboats tied to its crude docks, to the 1918 sinking of the cement-loaded "Vindictive" that sealed the entrance to the harbor of this German-held port, Ostend has been recorded by historians as the scene of war and bloodshed. As the last stronghold of the Dutch in the 16th century conquered by the Spaniards in 1604 after a bitter three-year siege; occupied by the French in the middle of the 18th century and held again later against English attack, Ostend is more dramatically recalled as a battle ground of international struggle than as a growing seaport and smart resort.

It was during the World War, when Flanders' shores were used as a German submarine base that Ostend was last a buffer in a war not its own. During its occupation, more than two thousand bombs were dropped on it from planes. Four hundred citizens were killed; hundreds of houses demolished.

THERE'S a lot more in this picture than meets the eye, though the eye has plenty to sparkle about in the stunning style of this spirited Buick car.

What you don't see here is the lift that's yours when you touch off the flashing power of Buick's valve-in-head straight-eight engine and go streaming off across the map.

What you don't see is the solid, steady feel of Buick—the firm stability that holds you on the line without weave or sway or wander on straight-aways or on the curves.

What you don't see is the assurance you'll know once you step on Buick's tiptoe brakes and see how surely and safely they make you master of its power.

We can't picture here the security that's yours in a body of steel-fused-to-steel—with floor, roof, side panels, cowl all welded into one stout unit of protective metal.

And only time can tell you how big is your money's worth in Buick—all steel and two yards wide, a big package that's your one best bet of the field when you add the superb action that gives its metals life.

All we can do is show you how a Buick looks—and handsome as this gallant traveler is, remind you that its good looks are literally the least of what it has to offer.

There's still time to make this a summer long to be happily remembered—if you'll go try a Buick now.

YOUR MONEY GOES FARTHER IN A GENERAL MOTORS CAR

MEDFORD BUICK CO.
16 MYSTIC AVENUE, MEDFORD MASS.

GENTLEMEN, ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND!

It is not often that automobiles are decorated for distinguished service and so it seems to the Star not inappropriate to mention the honor recently shown the Franklin Ford, durable sedan owned by George W. Franklin, some time known as the "Squire of Fairmount Hill" and driven by the Squire with loyalty and mounting pride upon the highways and byways for quite some few years now.

On last Friday the sedan turned its hundred thousandth mile, to the Squire's intense satisfaction, justifying as it did in large measure the confidence he has always reposed in the machine's ability to deliver. Naturally in the first flush of his exuberance he was communicative, and so it was that certain of his friends felt it incumbent upon them to take due note of such an important milestone in the life of the Squire and his automobile and celebrate in a manner somewhat befitting so momentous an occasion.

Steps were taken during the night of last Friday, effective steps in the wee small hours while the Squire was peacefully sleeping with joy in his heart as he thought of the start his faithful friends would make on the morrow toward the accumulation of the second hundred thousand miles. "Something attempted, something done had earned a night's repose."

Came the dawn, and the Squire unlocked his garage for the early morning run to the village. He looked again, and then again! The good old car appeared the same, but yet different!

Covering not a little of the body and hood were large paper cutouts, many clever, not a few apropos and some even having artistic merit of a sort. The car was really something to see. Take our word for it, because the Squire drove it to the office door that we might get our news first hand!

He personally was delighted with his friends' thoughtfulness, so much so that he had to share his good fortune and take a car-load of well-wishers on a triumphal tour of the town. "The Franklin Chowder and Marching Club Outing" was the way the Squire referred to the party, and "all hands" seemed imbued with his cheery outlook. On second thought we can't speak for "Ray" Hayward, because we couldn't see him, but we have Coach Mansfield's word for the statement that he actually was on the back seat—underneath!

MILLIONAIRES WON

"Red" Noble toyed with West Medford last Friday evening on Leonard Field and the Millionaires won their Inter-City League game from the visitors, 3 to 2. Foolish base running by the locals prevented the score from being larger. Neither team was able to show any consistent hitting, but the Millionaires had many more chances to score than the opposition. The summary:

Prayer

When trouble comes to one what a relief to prostrate ourselves before the Almighty! No matter, who we are or what we are God hears our prayers. 'Tis a direct talk with God that gives us renewed courage to carry on. 'Tis prayer all of us need to set the old wheels turning when the whole world seems still and dead. When the things we think impossible before we get down on our knees surely will take form if we sincerely pour our burden unto Him where in all wisdom lies.

Nancy Farmer has wisely sung:

'Tis plain to see that our lives are planned
By a Power unthinkably great;
That when the pages of life are finally scanned
They bear definite markings of fate.

So pray a prayer, ye, an humble prayer
To a God who hears and understands,
Whene'er your trials are too great to bear,
Too tedious for mere mortals' hands.

God ever looks down on a humble race
And the burdens of His people wants to share;
So while we're waiting to see Him face to face,
Why not speak often with Him in prayer?

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

It is strange that more women do not become statisticians. They are certainly adept at revealing the figures.

Force and fuss are not the same.

And other folk too often call stubborness "standing by a conviction."

All of us mortals face many a bitter day. Sometimes the very person we have grown to trust causes our faith in humanity to pine away.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

Nine members were absent from the meeting of June 7. This meeting was the joint gathering at Reading, taking the place of our meeting regularly scheduled for Thursday, June 10.

Our George Hale Reed has departed for a tour of Europe which will cover a period of some two months. On his return we anticipate with pleasure a travelogue presenting in George's most attractive manner the highlights of his journey.

This week (June 6-11) the annual convention of Rotary International is in session at Nice, France. As a matter of course a large delegation of Rotarians and their guests from the USCNB area will be present. We regret to state that our own club will not be represented at the convention although it is certain that many of our number would willingly have made the journey could their affairs have been arranged so as to permit. We hope that some of our friends who are attending the convention can visit us later and give us a first-hand description of the proceedings.

The Rotary Club of Reading was host at the current joint meeting attended by the Rotary Clubs of Malden, Melrose, Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Winchester and Woburn. This was one of the most successful joint meetings held in this district in many years and was attended by more than 250 Rotarians and their guests. A novel feature consisted of vocal selections rendered by the Girls' Glee Club of the Reading High School.

The guest speaker was Leland C. Bickford, editor-in-chief of the Yankee and Colonial Network News Service. Mr. Bickford, who appeared at a recent meeting of the Rotary Club of Winchester, delivered, as he did at Winchester, an address exposing the inside history of dog racing in Massachusetts and other states, giving in the course of his remarks well attested facts showing the connection between this sport and some of the most notorious underworld activities in this country. In the pursuit of this work in behalf of society Mr. Bickford displays most commendable courage, energy and persistence and we can but wish him every success as he strives to overcome a monstrous, firmly intrenched evil. Certainly his is no task for a weakling.

The next meeting of this club will be held on Thursday June 24, 1937. The meeting regularly scheduled for June 17 will be omitted, due to the fact that it falls on a holiday. Please bear this in mind.

Percentage of Attendance, June 3—(tentative) 80.65 per cent.

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING

By Alfred A. Fraser, Wellesley

Bedding plants can still be set out. The better the root system the better the plant.

Lima beans, carrots, turnips can be sown now.

Ground phlox clumps can be split and planted out for next year.

Water newly planted shrubs and evergreens thoroughly and frequently.

Place stakes in position for tall growing plants.

Feed your roses. Liquid cow manure seems to suit them best, but any good fertilizer is satisfactory.

Sweet peas should be sprayed with contact insecticide to control lice. Dust or spray the foliage with Bordeaux mixture and give a light fertilizing.

Annuals are good to fill voids in the perennial garden. Use straight colors for distinctive effect. Plants with separate root systems are to be preferred.

When cutting peony flowers leave all the foliage you can.

Fast growing annuals can still be sown.

Wated delphinium well when the buds are setting.

Most wild flowers need an acid soil. If your wild group doesn't do well it might be best to test the soil.

D. A. R.

Committee of Safety Chapter of Winchester D. A. R. had an interesting outing for our May meeting. A number of autos furnishing transportation.

Our first stop was at the Pioneer Village in Salem. Although things were not in working order we had a fine opportunity to see what it will look like in a very short time.

Huts, tents, log cabins and now an old fashioned warehouse is in the progress of being constructed of old timbers, some of them 300 years old. On certain days they spin, weave, make salt, soap and candles and carry on the industries of old times.

From there we hunted up the House of Seven Gables. At the end of Turner street is the old weather beaten dwelling with its many peaks converging together in the clustered chimney.

You enter through the shop door with its hanging bell, once a penny shop, now a real gift shop. An attractive young lady conducts you through the house and explains the interesting features of the house. One thing that attracted us especially was the opening of a panel at the left of the fireplace disclosing a secret stairway winding about the chimney into a room above. Quite a hide-a-way.

It is related that one day after Hawthorne had written a book he was walking through the house with his cousin and as they descended the rickety stairs she remarked that the house had "Seven Gables." Shortly after he gave that name to the book he had been writing.

The garden was another delightful spot full of old fashioned flowers one delights in seeing.

We next went to Marblehead where we had our lunch and a short meeting. This is our closing event until October.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

In June milk is most plentiful and more butter and cheese are made than at any other season. That means low prices for these healthful foods. Eggs reached the year's low at wholesale last week.

Poultry prices continue to be lower than last year and fowl, broiling and frying chickens, ducklings and turkeys are all good values. Fish prices also are fairly low. Meats continue to be high. Best values are to be found in forequarter cuts of lamb and veal.

More summer fruits are arriving each week with promise of plentiful supplies and lower prices soon to follow. Potatoes are much cheaper.

Seasonable foods make up the following menus.

Low Cost Dinner
Baked Stuffed Breast of Lamb
Scalloped Potatoes Spinach

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

Winchester philosopher remarks that it is too bad we cannot blame the divorce evil on booze, but it looks as if the primary fault is marriage.

One Winchester man's idea of an egotist is the fellow who thinks he is as good as he is.

Remember, dear Winchester folk, real hustle is seldom accompanied by bustle.

There are times when one Winchester fellow is so short of reading matter that he would gladly spend five minutes on the Congressional Record.

When you hear that some townsman is "Wreathed in smiles," don't get the idea that he is necessarily an optimist. It may be that he is laughing at some Winchesterite who is.

Florida towns have weed cutting crews. By the way, have we any weeds in fair Winchester?

Tailors can do most anything except make an important man look that way in pajamas.

Star reader, evidently of the female persuasion, wants to know why it is that woman is more pious in her behavior and actions than that sex who arrogate to themselves the title of lord and master? We pass the question on. No, we will try to answer it by saying of it is that true religion consists more of love and affection than of proud demonstration or haughty argument. The constitution of the female heart is turned towards the gentlest affections; and when that object is presented to her, she principally consults that faithful monitor to good, generous and pious deeds—a woman's breast.

Oil is a lubricant that even has caused friction in the political machinery of Winchester.

It must be a sour motorist who writes to the Star's columnist that it were not for the pedestrians a city and town could get along with half its traffic cops.

The happily married Winchesterite is he who can always see his wife's thumb when he looks up.

It is true, girls of fair Winchester! A broom on the floor brings bloom to the cheeks.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

"And One Clear Call for Me"

God has a call for every man. It is impossible to doubt that this is so. We have plenty to do—the world is full of opportunities. There is a clear call from the Almighty for each one of us to do the work that has been appointed to us, and every right opportunity is a call to action as really as that other call to death when we are ready to "cross the bar."

Blessed is that man who has learned to seek God everywhere. Dr. G. A. Chadwick tells how Moses was maturing for his destiny. Self-reliance, pride of place, hot and impulsive aggressiveness, were dying in his bosom. To the education of the courtier and scholar was now added that of the shepherd in the wilds, amid the most solemn and awful scenes of nature, in solitude, humiliation, disappointment, and, we learn from the Epistle to the Hebrews, in enduring faith.

Wordsworth has a remarkable description of the effect of a similar discipline upon the good Lord Clifford. He tells

"How he, long forced in humble paths to go,
Was softened into feeling, soothed and tamed.
Love had he found in huts where poor men lie;
His daily teachers had been woods and rills,
The silence that is the starry sky,
The sleep that is among the lonely hills.
In him the savage virtues of the race,
Revenge, and all ferocious thoughts, were dead:
Nor did he change, but kept his lofty place
The wisdom which adversity had bred."

Emerson wrote: "When the Master of the universe has points to carry in his government he impresses his will in the structure of minds." Anu Frederick Douglas said that "one man with God on his side is a majority against the world."

Will we heed the one clear call?

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"The Prince and the Pauper," a screen version of Mark Twain's immortal adventure-romance with a great cast that includes Errol Flynn, Claude Rains, Henry Stephenson, Barton MacLane, the Mauch Twins, Phyllis Barry and Montagu Love, heads the double bill opening at the Granada Theatre in Malden today. The story is about a young Prince Edward of the 16th century who was born in the palace at the same moment that young Tom Canty, son of a thief, was born in the slums. The two boys look exactly alike and they finally meet by chance. For a lark they change clothes and from that moment on their lives are interchanged. The magnificent coronation scene in which the pauper boy, who had exchanged identities with the Prince is almost crowned King of Engand, is one of the most dramatic moments of recent years. Errol Flynn as the star of the picture plays a swashbuckling swordsman who helps manipulate the careers of the two lads.

"Time Out for Romance," with Claire Trevor and Michael Whalen as the stars, is the second attraction on the bill starting today. Claire Trevor is cast as the daughter of a millionaire sportsman. She marries a titled foreigner not knowing her socialy minded mother has forced the father to settle half a million on the husband. Furious because her mother had virtually purchased her a husband, Miss Trevor flees the house, changes the color of her hair and starts out to hitch hike to California to find her father and get a divorce.

READING THEATRE

Three sailors, minus a battleship, have landed and they have the situation well in hand, particularly the comedy situations. For 15 years a trio, known as "The Three Sailors," has been making the world laugh. In all that time, the public has not previously heard of them by their actual names. Now, for the first time, in the Universal star-studded musical, "Top of the Town," the identities of "The Three Sailors" will be revealed to the public. The modern mariners are Bert Jason, Bob Robson and Harry Blue. "Top of the Town" will be at the Reading Theatre Sunday for three days.

The co-feature will be "History Is Made at Night" with Charles Boyer and Jean Arthur. The double feature bill for today and tomorrow includes "Her Husband's Secretary" with Jean Muir and Warren Hull and "Interne's Can't Take Money" with Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

"The Good Old Soak," with Wallace Beery, Eric Linden, Judith Barrett, Betty Furness, Ted Healy, Janet Beecher, George Sidney and Robert McWade as the stars, heads the double bill opening a four day run at the Strand Theatre in Malden today. Beery is cast as the head of a grown up family who sells his business to have more time for the speakeasies. His wife is not dependent on him as the children are all working and she has a nest egg of stocks. When the family fortune in stocks disappear Beery is naturally blamed for it. It hurts him pretty badly to have them think he would do such a thing. He investigates and finds out that his son Clem has embezzled some money from his firm to make a big showing with a night club entertainer. Knowing his wife loves the boy he tells him he will take the blame.

"The Hit Parade," which goes in for radio personalities in a big way is the second attraction on the bill starting today. Phil Regan, Frances Langford, Carl Hoff and his orchestra, Duke Ellington and his band, Eddie Duchin's orchestra, George Givot, the Voice of Experience, Ed Thorgenson, the Tic Toc Girls, Molasses and January and Al Pearce and his Gang are to be seen in the film. The plot weaves itself engagingly about the featured songs, dances and comedy sketches that make up the production.

A WINTER WORLD SKIDS BY ON SKIS

This winter the popular sports slogan is "Go North, Young Man—and bring the ladies, too," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Ski trains plow northward from big cities, their cozy "snow coaches" laden with skis, ski poles, skiers, and would-be skiers. Ski planes operate from Chicago. And "snow boats" have been leaving new York Harbor to give passengers several weeks of slides and tumbles at the famous ski centers of Europe.

Department stores offer a free lesson with each ski suit, or practice on borax covered runs to try out a set of skis. An international winter sports meet was held in New York City, transplanting skiing to an indoor Arctic, homemade with airconditioning and machines for flaking 500 tons of ice into "snow." The ski slide came down from the rafters of Madison Square Garden.

This burst of enthusiasm climaxes an amazing developement of skiing as a sport. Eighty years ago a ski was all for utility and not for sport. It served as the heavy substitute for a galosh or a hip boot used by Scandinavians who had to venture through their long winter's heavy snows. Hunters skied from trap to trap over drifted forest trails. Then some original spirit, not weary with hunting or fishing or running errands, had the idea that skiing might be fun.

In the Telemark district of Norway, about 1860, probably with no thought beyond fresh air and rivalry and healthy play, some unsung pioneers started skiing competitions, and the new sport was born. Soon the whole world welcomed wings for its toes. Equipment was simple: some snowy slopes, two skis, two poles to push or brake progress, and two knees not prone to tremble.

Yard-Long Pointed Leather Shoes on

The ski itself has gone through several transformations. The name comes from an Icelandic word for "piece of wood" but four centuries ago it applied also to leather shoes three feet long, with pointed toes curled up and the rear end fastened around the ankle. An earlier variation was a wooden ski with tips like prows of ancient Viking ships curving either in or out in a scroll-like curl. The resmblence may have been one reason why old Norse poets called a ship "the ski of the sea."

Now the national sport of Norway, ski-running has long been at home in that country. Legend claims that the first Scandinavian, named Nor, actually reached his peninsula home on skis. Early settlers revered a ski-shod god of winter, Ullr, and a special goddess for ski-running, Skade. Skiin Norwegians a thousand years ago astounded their enemies by leaping from mountain ledges and sliding down slopes without injury. A picture of a ski-runner, carved on a rune stone near Upsala, is believed to date from the 11th century.

Skiing is essential to snowbound Lapps when Arctic winter descends upon the top of the Scandinavian peninsula. They do not use two ski poles. Their pole is a handy weapon against wolves which may attack reindeer herds; therefore only one is carried, since an additional one would only become entangled in the fray.

Within recent years veteran skimakers of Norway and Sweden have been importing white hickory wood from the forests of Minnesota. It is heavy enough to give the skier ballast and is extremely tough. Care is necessary in seasoning and varnishing hickory skis, however, or they may warp. White ash, the favorite bow wood of the Indians, is a lighter substitute, while some skis are fashioned of maple or pine. Machines are little help in ski-making. For the proper thickness—about an inch in the middle—and the correct tapering, a watchful carpenter is to be preferred. The straight slats are carefully steamed until they turn up their toes.

Their length varies from 18 inches for toddlers to about 10 feet for adults. Like other footgear, skis must fit, but they fit the wearer's height instead of his feet; usually they are as long as the height of the wearer's reach.

The use of skis spread from Norway mainly by word of mouth advertising of snow-sportsmen and mountain climbers. England is a stronghold of skiers, although no skiing is possible in their own country. Even Japan, Australia, and New Zealand have had a touch of the craze.

Popularity in Canada is traced to college students who encountered skiing on their trips to Europe. Scandinavian immigrants brought the sport to the United States at the beginning of this century. Now New England is an important skiing area, with perhaps the world's most extensive network of downhill skiing trails.

About 80 winter playgrounds are scattered through the Poconos and the Alleghenies in Pennsylvania, the Catskills and Adirondacks in New York, the Green Mountains in Vermont, the White Mountains in New Hampshire, the Berkshires in Massachusetts and Connecticut, and the Rockies and coast ranges of the Far West. Ski trains pour city sportsmen into mountain hamlets which would otherwise contentedly snowbound. As in Whittier's day, the snowstorm brings "a world unknown nothing we could call our own," but today that means the whole white universe of sky and snow is overrun with scarlet and orange ski suits or red plaid windbreakers, and echoes to shouts of "Tra-a-a-ack!"

ROME'S NEW SUBWAY TO UNDERLIE PART OF APPIAN WAY

Rome's newest way—a subway started recently by the pick of Premier Mussolini—will tap the Eternal City's most famous ancient road, the Appian Way, points out a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. It is near its southern terminal that the subway will underlie the road.

Military Road and Trade Artery

The old Appian Way, begun in 312 B. C., must be distinguished from the new one, built later, says the bulletin. The old one was a military road, 15 feet wide, stretching from Rome southeastward across the Campagna and down the west coast of Italy to the city of Capua. There it forked. One branch extended still farther south to the present Reggio on the toe of Italys boot, from where Roman soldiers and merchants advanced to conquest and trade in Africa.

The other branch ran from Capua southeastward to the seaport now called Brindisi, on the heel of the boot. Its harbor swarmed with galleys that carried traders to and from Asia. The modern Levant Fair held at Bari, near Brindisi, attended by over a million people annually, recalls Rome's lucrative trade with the Near East in the days of the emperors. Then, Assyrians, Persians, and other eastern traders traveled up the Appian Way to settle near its Roman terminus close to the modern Piazza di Porta Capena.

The most interesting and familiar section of the highway to most people is the short stretch, lined with openings to catacombs and ruins, that lies just inside and just outside the walls of Rome.

Driving south along the Appian Way from the Piazza di Porta Capena, one passes the huge reddish ruins of the Baths of Caracalla, among which Shelley wrote "Prometheus Unbound" in 1819. Farther on, the road is spanned by the Arch of Drusus, probably once part of an aqueduct that carried water to the Baths. Beyond is the St. Sebastian gate; then high garden walls and houses line the way. Beside the road is the Chapel of "Domine, Quo Vadis?", which, tradition claims, is built on the site where St. Peter, fleeing down this road from Nero's persecution, was stopped by an apparition of Christ. Inquiring "Domine, quo vadis?" Lord Where are you going?, St. Peter was given the reply that made him return to Rome to welcome further persecution.

Beyond this chapel stands the Basilica of St. Sebastian. It commemorates the soldier who marched down this road in one of Rome's glittering cohorts until, according to legend, he was shot to death with arrows for having become a Christian convert.

Inside the cold-looking, white building, visitors find a surprise. A guide pulls up a shade on the wall, disclosing a dark stone bearing two pink marks Originally part of the pavement on the Appian Way, it has been set in the church's wall. With a schoolroom pointer the guide outlines the marks, and explains that they are accepted by many as the actual footprints of Christ left on the stone when he appeared to St. Peter.

Beneath the basilica sight seers descend shivering into the damp, chilly catacombs of St. Sebastian. Together with those of St. Calixtus, they are the most interesting and the most frequented of the many catacombs in Rome. Following a guiding monk, sightseers, carrying pencil-thin white tapers, wind in a long flickering line of lights through the dark tunnels to peer into empty tombs covered with wax drippings from candles of generations of visitors. The niches carved in the rock, sometimes in tiers, once contained the remains of Romans.

In contrast to these secret subterranean places, farther down the Appian Way rises the large circular tomb of Cecilia Metella, a proud, unpersecuted Roman matron. It is one of the best preserved and most imposing of the tombs of wealthy Romans interred in this neighborhood. Beyond it, part of the road has been excavated down to the original pavement over which chariot wheels rolled: polygonal basalt flagstones from the Alban Hills.

As interesting as the ancient road itself is the anachronistic sight of modern traffic on it today. Buses full of sightseers speed along it. Black victorias bowl along, red spokes of their wheels flashing, and white caps nodding on the horses' heads. Blue carts roll by on two immense red wheels. Occasionally one passes a man riding on a donkey's haunches behind two big baskets of vegetables, or sees a man sweeping the gutter with a broom made of twigs. Wine carts pass, laden with wooden casks of wine from the Alban Hills while the driver lolls on the front seat under a peculiar awning like the hood of a baby carriage raised sideways.

ANIMAL COLLECTORS ON QUEST TO FAR EAST TO CARRY AMERICAN BEASTS TO ORIENTAL ZOOS

Reversing the usual procedure, some American wild animals will leave the shores of the United States soon, bound for the Far East to make their homes in zoos on the other side of the world. This was disclosed with the departure from Washington, January 12th, of the National Geographic Society-Smithsonian Institution East Indies Expedition led by Dr. William M. Mann. The expedition will be gone for six months.

Dr. Mann not only plans to collect rare species of animals and reptiles from the island of Sumatra and other far-away corners of the East, to bring back for the National Zoological Park in Washington, of which he is director, but he also will take with him American animals which, though common in zoos of this country are little known in the Far East. It is perhaps the first time that an animal collecting expedition ever started out from home with a good-sized menagerie "in its baggage."

To be Presented to Zoos in Orient

Among Dr. Mann's animal globe-trotters will be opossums, raccoons, mountain lions, jaguars and possibly a black bear or two. Familiar to the eyes of American zoo-goers, these animals are as unusual in the Far East as tigers or aadvarks are in the United States.

Dr. Mann will present the American animals as gifts to zoos in various cities which he expects to visit in the Orient. The gifts will cause no depletion of American zoos, for there is a surplus of these animals in this country.

Sumatra, Netherlands East Indies, the objective of the expedition, is exactly half way around the world from Washington. There the members of the party not only will collect unusual animals but also will gather geographic and natural history information and photographs.

Accompanying Dr. Mann will be Mrs. Mann and Dr. Maynard Owen Williams, staff representative and photographer of the National Geographic Society. Two curators of the National Zoo, Roy Jenier and Malcolm Davis, will follow later in charge of the gift animals. They will carry with them a number of special "mercy traps" and a few special cases in which to bring back small, delicate creatures. Heavy traps and cages needed for the larger jungle beasts will be built in the field.

The party will sail January 19 from Vancouver on the Empress of Asia. They will spend eight days in Japan, during which they will visit the Tokyo Zoo, and then will proceed to Singapore to obtain additional equipment. Sumatra will be reached about March 1, and the expedition will establish headquarters at or near Medan in the northern part of the island. The party will spend about four months collecting there and in nearby islands.

WINCHESTER HORSE SHOW BIG SUCCESS

Gladys Marchant and Pearl Campbell Winning Local Exhibitors

The annual Winchester Horse Show, held last Saturday at the new ring on the heights above the Country Club, attracted a record entry list and the usual large and enthusiastic gallery.

It was the second show to be held at the new location, high above Mystic Lakes, where the gallery, when not intrigued with action in the ring, could look across and down to catch a charming view of the wooded highlands to the east mirrored in the water. The grounds were in good condition this year, having been sown to rye and there was no dust to bother as was the case last season, though things were wet down by a sprinkler at the intermission as a precaution.

With a later date than usual this year the committee had been a bit apprehensive about the entry list and it was true that several regular exhibitors did not show this year, having gone to their summer homes. There were, however, a number of new exhibitors to swell the ranks and the fact that several of the newcomers were among the prize winners is proof of the fact that they brought good horses to Winchester. The committee was much pleased with the entry list, and especially with the fact that the entries are becoming much more wide-spread than formerly. New horses are needed to keep the show alive.

From a strictly local standpoint, the gallery had but two opportunities to cheer. Once was when Miss Gladys Marchant's popular mount, Bit o' Glory, won the trophy and blue for the best five gaited saddle horse in the show, despite his lack of training for the show-ring; and again when Miss Pearl Campbell's Dwight's Choice left the ring with the blue for model saddlers. Miss Campbell's mount added a red ribbon in the event for Ride and Drive Horses.

The coveted trophy won by Miss Marchant's horse was a head of "Bit o' Glory," to be executed by Francis Merritt of Reading, well known painter of animals, who donated the trophy for this particular class.

Several of the former Winchester exhibitors, like Arthur Kidder and John Marston, are no longer showing, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Farnsworth's horses were at their farm. Miss Joan Harding is another favorite exhibitor who was unable to show this year.

The fine showing made by horses owned by Allan J. Wilson of Newton was pleasing from a local angle because of the fact that he and Mrs. Wilson became members of the Horse Show committee this year.

SELECTMEN REPORT NEW SEWER SECTION IN OPERATION

The section of the new Metropolitan Relief Sewer from Cross street to Grove place has been put in operation during the past week thus reducing the sewage in the old system and reducing materially the amount of the sewage overflow into the Aberjons River. Further steps are being taken to increase the number of diversion outlets and to have the old sewer cleaned so as to correct further the situation.

This is the substance of information which has been obtained by the Board of Selectmen.

The Board is further advised that before the section of the new sewer was put in operation it was approved by the PWA and Metropolitan District Commission authorities.

Further developments during the past week include the assurance from the State Department of Health to the effect that the State will carry on the work of treating the river chemically and meeting the cost of this work. This treatment is being done for several reasons: to reduce the bacterial content and to kill the midges (chironomus) which have proven to be a great nuisance to deodorize and to add oxygen to the river. The Board of Selectmen feels that it is only as a result of the persistent effort which it and other town boards have exerted and the co-operation which the State Department of Public Health has given that this substantial progress has been made toward correcting the situation.

A public hearing will be held by the Selectmen on June 21 at 8.30 p. m. at the town hall on the joint petition of the Edison and N. E. Telephone Companies for permission to erect and maintain one pole on Elmwood avenue approximately 90 feet north of Park street.

The housekeeper is left $3000 outright, and the right to occupy his home for one year. Arthur H. O'Leary the chauffeur, also receives $3000. The Winchester Visiting Nursing Association receives $2000 as a trust fund for the benefit of the Winchester Hospital, and the Winchester Home for the Aged, $1000. BISHOP OF MAINE ORDAINS TWO TO EPISCOPAL MINISTRY

On June 11 at the Church of the Epiphany, Winchester, the Right Reverend Benjamin Brewster, Bishop of Maine, ordained to the diaconate of the Episcopal Church, Mr. Gordon E. Gillett and Mr. Philip Kierstead. Both young men had just completed their theological studies. Mr. Kierstead at Berkeley Divinity School, New Haven, Conn., and Mr. Gillett at Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Va. During their period of study, both had been candidates from the diocese of Maine and under the direction of the bishop of that diocese.

When the time for their ordination approached, it was Mr. Gillett's wish that it might take place in the Winchester parish, with which he had very warm and close early association. He had received his first religious instruction in the church school of Epiphany, had been confirmed in that parish, and been active in the work of young people of that church before going to Bowdoin College, Maine, for his college training in liberal arts. Of Epiphany Parish his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Parker, had been a devoted member, and to his entry into the ministry of the Church she had looked forward with deep interest and eagerness. There her spiritual presence would be vividly felt.

To Mr. Gillett's request to be ordained in his boyhood church, Bishop Brewster generously agreed, and he arranged that Mr. Kierstead's ordination should take place at the same time. Mr. Kierstead was presented by Rev. Alexander Cairns, and Mr. Gillett by Rev. Stephen Webster of Weston. The sermon was given by Rev. Calvert E. Buck of Washington, D. C.

Music for the service was furnished by members of the Epiphany choir, and Miss Anne Everett of Grace Church, Medford was the organist.

The parish of the Epiphany and the rector, Rev. Dwight Hadley, took pleasure in arranging the details for the ordination. The chairman of the Altar Guild, Mrs. George Bryne, and Mrs. Frederick Hamerstrom decorated the altar and the sanctuary with beautiful white flowers of the Massachusetts springtime, and Winchester gardens gave their profuse blooming also to fill with color and fragrance the parish house, where luncheon was served after the ordination to about 60 clerical and personal friends of Mr. Gillett and Mr. Kierstead. The decorations were arranged by Mrs. Arthur Hills. The luncheon was in charge of the Ways and Means Committee, Mrs. Torr Harmer, chairman, and Mrs. Warren Jenney, co-chairman.

The ordination fell on a very interesting day of the church calendar, that appointed for special remembrance and honor to St. Barnabas. The thought of the young man who, in the early days of Christianity, gave his all to the new "good news" that was shaping individual lives into a new quality and who went on far and perilous journeys alsong with St. Paul to carry the message and to build the Christian Church, gave a depth of significance to the dedication of young men of our own troubled day to the same renewing message and renewed community.

BADLY HURT IN FALL AT SANDPIT

John J. Breen, 64, of 15 Spruce street was seriously injured Monday in a fall at the sand and gravel pit of Michael McGonigle of 360 Cross street. Mr. Breen was discovered lying unconscious under a clump of bushes at the foot of a high ledge at the rear of the home of John Gonsalves, 38 Arlington street, Woburn, by Owen M. McCarron, 19, of 24 Arlington street, that city, who notified Mrs. McGonigle.

The latter called the police at 3.50 o'clock and Chief William H. Rogers, Sergt. Thomas F. Cassidy, Sergt. Joseph Derro and Patrolman John J. Dolan went to the sandpit with the police ambulance. They found Mr. Breen, bleeding badly from a bad scalp wound at the back of his head. His clothing was wet, indicating that he had been lying where he was found for some time. The fact that his hat was recovered on a projection some 30 feet up on the face of the ledge, led the police to believe he may have fallen from that point or above it at the top of the ledge.

Mr. Breen was removed in the ambulance to the Winchester Hospital where he was attended by Dr. Philip J. McManus. While the full extent of his injuries could not be ascertained at once, it was found that he had sustained a severe concussion, a badly lacerated scalp, dislocated shoulder and in addition was suffering from a severe shock.

MYSTIC LAKES MELEE

It's going to be a busy week-end on the Mystic Lakes, starting at 3 p. m. tomorrow, Saturday, June 19. A full program of American Canoe Association races will run right through the two days. On Sunday, the 20th, is scheduled four races of four separate types of sail boats, this to be in the morning starting at about 9.30. At 1 p. m. the balance of the paddling events will be run off. Among them will take place the one man double-blade, the tandem single blades, the double bladed four boats and lastly the war canoes.

Much interest is being shown as this meet is the first in this country where the course will be halved and a turn will have to be made. As this is a left turn, the right-handed paddlers will be somewhat favored.

The spectators are going to be able for the first time to see both start and finish and the entire course of the race.

As this all takes place at Medford Boat Club along the shore drive, everyone will have a good chance to view it. Medford and Winchester are jointly sponsoring the regatta and it is understood that a special school boy four boat race will be run on Saturday afternoon for high school crews in this vicinity.

The race with a turn is quite common in Canada but so far has not been used in U. S. A. If it is successful no doubt it will become a fixture.

CUBS LOST TO NORTH WOBURN

The Winchester Cubs went a bit out of their class Monday evening and despite some effective pitching by "Libby" Gaudioso, were defeated 7—2 by the North Woburn Tigers on Leonard Field. The visitors seemed a much older club on the average than the Cubs and had just a little too much strength all around for the locals. The summary:

LEGION NOTES

The nominating committee of Post 97, American Legion, of which Rep. William E. Ramsdell is chairman has submitted the following nominations to be acted upon at the coming June meeting:

Commander—Stafford Rogers.
Senior Vice Commander—Conrad S. Larson.
Junior Vice Commander—Richard W. MacAdams.
Adjutant—A. Allan Kimball.
Finance Officer—R. H. B. Smith.
Chaplain—Vincent P. Clarke.
Historian—Marshall W. Symmes.
Executive Committee—Otis E. Alley, Harry Dodge, James R. Doty, Hezekiah Griffith, Salvatore DeTeso, Manlino G. Moffett, Nathan Thumlin, Henry E. Lowther, Lee Mellett, Frederick Mitchell (and the elected officers).
Delegates—Otis E. Alley, Patrick Foley, Conrad S. Larson, John H. McCarthy, Stafford Rogers, Raymond S. Wilkins.

Besides Rep. Ramsdell the Post nominating committee included two more past Commanders, Wade L. Grindle and John H. McCarthy, Theodore Godwin and Bertram Gurley.

On May 28 members of Winchester Chapter, World War Mothers of New England, honored two late members, Mrs. A. Beatrice Thompson, past New England president; and Mrs. Bessie L. Preston Rowe. Memorial markers were placed upon the graves of these deceased members with appropriate ceremonies by Mrs. Mary Gilbody of this town, who succeeded Mrs. Thompson in office.

The recent "Poppy Drive" conducted by the Post Auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Mitchell proved most successful. Thelma Pierce won the special prize for the largest amount collected with honorable mention going to the Lawson sisters.

The Auxiliary president, Mrs. Elizabeth Moynihan, expects a good sized delegation of local members at the State Convention June 17, 18, 19.

While speaking of the Auxiliary, the new curtains which its members made for the Legion House are up and very much appreciated.

Past Commander John H. McCarthy was the winner of the recently concluded annual House billiard tournament with Harry Goodwin, runner-up.

Among the Legionnaires who have submitted to blood tests for possible transfusions are Police Sergeant Charles J. Harrold, Selectman Richard W. MacAdams, Otis Alley, John McCarthy, Whitelaw Wright, Raymond Hayward, Stafford Rogers, Fred Cameron, James Doty and Paul Maiullari. The above have all signified their willingness to donate blood without cost to some one in need.

Once again the Post is to have charge of the town's celebration of Independence Day and Whitelaw Wright has been named chairman of the Legion's committee to this end. There will be the usual water sports in the morning with ice cream for the kiddies, and the Legionnaires are to organize this year in a determined campaign against "repeaters."

Pietro Mordelia with his daughters, Flora and Rita, have been secured to provide a "different" sort of entertainment for the Post's June meeting. The three Mordelias offer a musical evening of charm and originality which no one will wish to miss.

STATE BASEBALL TOURNAMENT

The National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress has announced the dates of Aug. 13 to 25 for the Annual Tournament at Wichita, Kan. The Massachusetts State Tournament will be held at Riverside Park in Medford during the first weeks of July. The winner of the State Tournament qualifies for a place in the National Play-off.

A comprehensive State-wide tournament is planned with representations from all parts of the Commonwealth. This is the second annual State Tournament and the interest all ready evidenced by the entries from various parts of the State indicates that the contest will be a close one.

Honus Wagner, of big league fame, is at the head of the National Committee and he has reappointed Mr. Edward Cartullo of Arlington as State Commissioner. The committee has announced a competitive elimination system which will enable Winchester to enter its strongest semi-pro club and win a place in the National Tournament.

The State play-offs will be conducted at one of the finest parks in greater Boston. Two games will be played each day during the Tournament and cash prizes will be awarded to the first and second place clubs. The winning club will also receive the Honus Wagner trophy, a large gold award with a basebal payer mounted on the top of it.

A special series for the winners of the State Tournaments of Vermont and Massachusetts is now being arranged as a special feature. Interested managers will receive complete information by writing to the State Commissioner at 1187 Massachusetts avenue in Arlington.

CUBS PLAY B. & M.

The Winchester Cubs will play the strong B. & M. shop team tonight on Leonard Field, commencing at 6.15. The B. & M. boys have visited Winchester several times for games with "Bill" Gibbons Immaculate Conception team, and never failed to give a good account of themselves. "Pyzan's" charges will have to hustle to win this one.

MILLIONAIRES LOST AT WILTON

The Winchester Millionaires journeyed to Wilton, N. H., last Sunday, losing a hard-fought, well played 12 inning ball game to the Wilton Town Team, 2—1.

Big "Al" Barnard pitched well enough to win, but an error in the 12th let the winning run trickle over.

"Rod" MacDonnell cut off a run at the plate in the fifth and a great peg by "Red" Noble prevented a run in the sixth. From then until the 12th Barnard retired Wilton in order. The summary:

Apparently the State has finally recognized the fact that the water of Mystic Lakes is not all it should be. On the holiday the M. D. C. posted signs at Sandy Beach, "Contaminated —No Swimming!" Why anyone had to be told beats us!

Speaking of mail delivery under the auspices of the CIO, we ran into another phase last week when part of a box of stamped envelopes was defective. The envelopes could not be replaced at the Post Office, but the cost of the stamps was refunded. The amount of money involved was negligible, but the Government certainly is strict when it comes to stamps and mail. Still, this is New England, and we are next to the outlaw state of Vermont.

CORRECTIONS IN MR. BURCHARD'S PAPER

To the Editor of the Star:

In thanking you for the courtesy and honor you have shown me in giving an account of my paper at the Technology Housing Conference last week, I do not wish to seem ungrateful by calling your attention to one or two errors in the implications in that account.

Your report is in general so nearly correct that I should not bother to amend it if it had appeared in any other journal, but I am particularly anxious that my friends and neighbors in Winchester have no doubt as to my position with respect to governmental intervention in housing and with respect to present Federal activities, essentially all of which I completely deprecate.

What I actually said was that if industry or research did not succeed in reducing the cost of the house, it might then be necessary for society to save itself by turning to subsidy but I also definitely suggested that this failure to provide cheaper shelter was not yet convincing that prefabrication, or failing that integration, was well on the move; that these methods of house building might easily show to better advantage in times of prosperity than in depression; and I suggested that we wait a while before we rush to subsidy. I think my opinion as to what is going on in Washington in connection with housing can best be expressed by a brief quotation from my paper which you did not previously make. I said:

". . . . probably for many years to come it will be impossible to eliminate the concealed subsidy which now exists. We have good reason from American record to fear political machination, good reason from European record to fear national bankruptcy, good reason from record of all history to fear the damage done to the moral fibre of a worthwhile population. We know that bread and circuses are easier than thinking—we know that the first American reaction to anything is to pass a law, but we have seen abroad that government builds no more cheaply than the individual and that subsidies clearly tend to preserve bad features of the status quo rather than to eliminate or reform them. We belive that a government honestly interested in the housing problem would prefer a five-million-dollar-a-year housing research council to a five-billion-dollar-a-year house-building program."

Thank you for the opportunity to correct this position, if any correction is needed.

Cordially yours,
John Ely Burchard
8 Dartmouth street

AROUND THE BOAT CLUB

First off—apologies to Al and Mary Gautreau. My apologies and the type-setters. I wrote (in my fine (?) Italian hand!) Gautreau and he printed "cantankerous." We are sorry.

For Coming Events

The two day regatta at the Medford Boat Club, June 19 and 20, Saturday and Sunday. This should be interesting to us, but due to the inaccessibility of the Medford Club and our evident lack of crew it is best that we skip lightly but firmly over it.

Our ideas on where the meet should have been held, the best facilities and so forth, are another story, however the place is Medford, the time Saturday and Sunday and here's to it.

The latest addition to the club menagerie is a bowl of gold fish. Three in number they are hereby christened: Ickle, Mickle and Pickle, for future reference. This zoo business is liable to assume serious proportions if someone should decide to get rid of a white elephant (joke) or the Godwin's Vego.

Eddie Logan, the once famous crew man is now devastating the southland. Eddie's last card was from Richmond, Va. "Down with the multitude!" Ed. Jimmy Weaver, our up and coming Saturday Evening Post boy is bound for the Boy Scout Jamboree in Washington. Jimmy's an Eagle Scout and a very nice person too.

On Sunday last, the famous 26-mile marathon sponsored by the Samoset Canoe Club was run off. Representatives Jim Fitch and Ken Pratt attended from Winchester and participated in the water sports held after the marathon. Jimmy as usual showed the boys how to do it, taking four firsts out of seven—the hand-paddle, jumping gunwhale, upset and tail-end.

Ken and Jim won the first heat in the tilting and they do say that Jim landed on everything except his chin. He even landed on a thwart and broke it (tho'-what!) Ow! Henry Surrette of Medford took part in the marathon and made 26th place out of 38 entries, which we consider good—being his first time.

Meanwhile the sailing races at the club. Sundays results:

1st—Charlie Reeves, Baybird.
2nd—Red Irving, Spook.
3rd—Blanchard, Dunlin.
4th—Millican, Cottonseed.

We don't usually mention 5th's, but this one was so close that we think fifth place deserves an honorable mention. Jimmy Gustin, by an unlucky fluke of wind just missed 4th place by about six inches. Nice sailing Jim.

And so it goes.

IN APPRECIATION

The Directors of the Home for Aged People in Winchester, wish to publicly express their thanks and appreciation to the Misses Sally Badger, Claire Smalley, Joan Somerby, Joyce Pitman, Dorothea Richardson, Marylin Pinkham, Yvonne Clennon, Marion Philbrick, Peggy Fitzgerald, Cynthia Newton and Kendall Wright, Fred Manning and Paul Blake, for the donation of the proceeds of their "Street Fair" held on Prospect street June 5.

The thoughtfulness of these young people is greatly to their credit. The money donated will be used for some specific object, and the young people will be advised later as for what good use the money has been expended.

RIVERSIDE PROS WON IN WINCHESTER

After being rained out twice the Riverside Pros' baseball team of the Suburban Twilight League finally opened on the new athletic field Tuesday evening, defeating the Arlington Town Team, 9 to 3. The visitors were pretty much outclassed by the Pros who are to play their league games in Winchester from now on.

Manager "Eddie" Cartullo had a pretty good club on the field Tuesday night and after the third inning Arlington never threatened.

FORTNIGHTLY NEWS

Literature Group

Mrs. G. W. Paul, chairman of the Literature Committee, entertained the members of the Literature Group at luncheon at her home recently, after which plans were discussed for the reading they will enjoy this winter.

Because everyone so enjoyed reading the literature of Scandinavia last winter, it was decided to follow along the same line and the literature of Ireland was decided upon as the topic for next year's study.

With the opening meeting presenting the background and history of that romantic and interesting old country, the study of the literature of Ireland should present an unusually worthwhile year's program.

Miss M. J. Davis, teacher at the Junior High School, will spend the summer at her home in Pleasant Valley, Amesbury.

Let all the earth fear the Lord: let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him. For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast" (Psalms 33:6, 8, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind, supreme over all its formations and governing them all, is the central sun of its own systems of ideas, the life and light of all its own vast creation; and man is tributary to divine Mind. . . . The world would collapse without Mind, without the intelligence which holds the winds in its grasp" (p. 209).

WINCHESTER HORSE SHOW BIG SUCCESS

The wins of the Misses Burkard, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burkard whose Arlington home is only a half mile from the ring, were also hailed as next door to "home town." Miss Miriam Driscoll of Lexington, Mark Duff of New Bedford, Miss Martha Moor of Worcester and Mrs. Jerome Swain were some of the winning newcomers from further away.

Making a concession to convention the committee this year voted to give purses instead of prizes and the innovation seemed popular. The Winchester show was one of the last to conform to this general practice. A new event was the competion for the Championship Cup of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Cup, donated by Mr. Richard Welling, which was won by Miss Dorothy Storer with Miss Nancy Murphy second.

The veteran Arthur H. Lovesey acted as manager of the show with Allan Wilson as ringmaster. Mrs. Edith Washburn Clark of Newton was judge of saddle horses, ponies and riding competitions, and Mr. Fred Hannon of Cleveland, Ohio, rated the hunters and jumpers. The competition lasted until about 6:30 and it is a tribute to its quality that by far the majority of the gallery remained for the final distribution of awards.

At noon luncheon was served at the Country Club under the direction of the capable show treasurer, Miss M. Alice Mason. A table set for 30 and gay with white peonies was reserved for members of the committee, the judges and their guests.

Mrs. O. C. Sanborn, chairman of the show committee, was unfortunately out of town and Mrs. Ralph Burkard served as acting chairman. Miss Mason as treasurer and Mrs. Helen Sanborn Ralls, secretary, completed the officers and the remaining members of the committee included Miss Gladys Marchant, Dr. Mary T. Maynard, Mr. Ralph Burkard, Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Wilson and Mr. George H. L. Lamson

Members of the advisory field committee include Messrs Arthur J. Henry, Ralph P. Symmes, Samuel James, Harry Good, Leo Boyle and Benjamin Crooker.

"SHALL WE DANCE" AT THE UNIVERSITY

Singing, dancing and romancing their way more securely into the hearts of millions of theatre-goers, America's dancing favorites, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, are co-starred once more in their gayest and most spectacular screen hit, "Shall We Dance," which starts Sunday for four days at the University Theatre. The novelty that has always featured the stars' vehicles again characterizes the new offering, with eight brilliantly conceived dance numbers. Dances by the two terpsichorean luminaries and by Harriet Hoctor, America's foremost ballerina, include remarkable solo novelties, ballet and modern dancing ensembles. Romance, however, is balanced by a wealth of comedy furnished not only by the two stars, but also by Edward Everett Horton and Eric Blore, both of whom have contributed heavily to the mirth of former Astaire-Rogers films, and by two newcomers, Jerome Cowan and William Brisbane.

"Once a Doctor," featuring Jean Muir and Donald Woods is the co-feature. It is a thrilling story of the brave fight made by a young physician to regain the place in the medical world which he lost by shouldering the blame for another surgeon's blunders.

All the world knows, and thrills to this story—a story of a girl and a boy in love—a story as old as time, yet modern as today—the story of Romeo and Juliet! Now these immortal lovers live and love again, brought to life by Norma Shearer and Leslie Howard on the screen starting Thursday where the stirring picturization of "Romeo and Juliet" will be presented with all its drama. It brings Miss Shearer to the motion picture audiences as their Juliet. It marks the return of John Barrymore to the screen as the bawdy, roistering Mercutio, one of the finest roles ever written. Others in key roles are Edna May Oliver, Basil Rathbone, C. Aubrey Smith, Andy Devine, Ralph Forbes, Reginald Denny, Maurice Murphy, Conway Tearle, Henry Kolker, Robert Warwick, Virginia Hammond, Violet Kemple Cooper and many other favorites.

Marooned by the blizzard in a mountain lodge, with only a stuffed moose as chaperon and caviar and crackers for food—that's the romantic predicament that faces Don Ameche and Ann Sothern in "Fifty Roads to Town," the companion picture, a laugh-spiced romance. Supporting these two vital, delightful and thrilling stars, Slim Summerville, Jane Darwell, John Qualen, Douglas Fowley, Allan Lane, Alan Dinehart and Stepin Fetchit add humor and excitement to the season's most zestful escapade.

Eversharp pencils, long or short lead. Star Office.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

Robert Montgomery and Rosiland Russell in "Night Must Fall" opens a four day run at the Strand Theatre in Malden today. "Night Must Fall" was a London stage play. It is not a mystery story. On the contrary, the audience knows in advance that it is watching criminal, even before he conceives his next act of violence. The picture builds to one of the most terrifying and dramatic climaxes in the history of pictures.

"Two Wise Maids" with Alison Skipworth and Polly Moran as the stars, is the second attraction on the bill starting today. Alison Skipworth and Polly Moran are cast as school teachers in a tough East Side New York district. The supporting company includes Donald Cook, Hope Manning, Jackie Searle and Lila Lee.

George Brent and Josephine Hutchinson in "Mountain Justice" will head the bill for next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Josephine Hutchinson is a young mountaineer girl who has had a chance to live in the outside world for a time, and returns with ambitions to improve the conditions of her people. "Mama Steps Out," with Guy Kibbie, Alice Brady, Betty Furness and Stanley Morner as the stars will be the second feature on the bill starting Tuesday.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in "Shall We Dance" opens a seven day run at the Granada Theatre in Malden today. • The story deals with a tempestuous love affair between a famous ballet dancer, Fred Astaire, and a celebrated revue artist, Ginger Rogers. Just as the romance reaches a satisfactory point, rumors hint that the two are secretly married, and a series of mirthful complications follows. The supporting company includes Edward Everett Horton, Eric Blore, Ketti Gallian, Jerome Cowan and William Brisbane. Three of the song hits are "They Can't Take That Away," "I've Got Beginners Luck," and "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off."

"Call It a Day" with Ian Hunter, Oliva de Havilland, Anita Louise, Roland Young, Alice Brady, Peggy Wood and Bonita Granville as the stars, is the second attraction on the bill starting today. This is a delightful comedy drama based on the sentimental experiences of all the members of an English suburban family when the first day of spring sets them wandering along love paths. Ian Hunter and Freda Inescourt are husband and wife. Spring does its work on Hunter and he thinks he is in love with an actress client, Marcia Ralston. His wife is "propositioned" by Roland Young, whom she meets through his sister, Alice Brady. As for the children, Olive de Haviland falls for the artist who is painting her picture. The young brother gets a bad case from Anita Louise, who lives next door. Bedtime finds them the same old family, a little more experienced and considerable wiser.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

According to a dress designer, "a long face is brightened by a short skirt." That is true all right, and we have observed that quite often the person whose face is brightened is one who wears pants.

Winchesterites who engage in the unnecessary use of swear words would be hard put for such words if they were Japanese because there are said to be no swear words in the Japanese language.

We know lots of modern maids right here in fair Winchester who will listen to honeyed words, but often others have already put a bee in her ear.

Winchester fellow says it is no wonder that Solomon was a very wise man. He had 700 wives to tell him what to do.

There's always room for improvement, even on a crowded street car line bus.

What good are forefathers? One can't borrow a penny from 'em wails a disgruntled college stude who hangs his hat in a certain Winchester domicile.

There is always something to take the joy out of life. The more prosperous times get, the less the parking space in and out of Winchester.

Knowing that you don't know much is knowing a lot.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

"Eddie" Guest expresses our sentiment in these words:

God won't ask if you were clever.
For I think He'll little care
When your toil is done forever.

He may question: "Were you square?
Did you do the best you could do
With the Knowledge you possessed?
Did you do the things you should do?"
That will be your earthly test.

The pleasure of being pleasant
Is Something you call a spell;
Try it and be contented,
And know all is well, is well.

Winchester fellow says in his experiments with cussedness he has tried as hard as any individual in the town to hide his tracks, but the neighbors always picked them up, followed them, and apprehended him.

The size of a box of candy a Winchester chap should give his best girl depends upon how many brothers she has.

Some folk even here in Winchester have yet to learn that a wet paint sign is a warning—not a temptation.

Five Ohio Governors Resigned

During the last century five Ohio governors resigned to accept other positions—Tiffin in 1807 to become United States senator; Meigs in 1814 to become postmaster general; Brown in 1822 to become United States senator; Shannon in 1844 to become minister to Mexico, and Wood in 1853 to become consul at Valparaiso.

HEART TO HEART TALKS

"They Say"

It does seem strange how ready folk are to speak ill of others. Gossip is to many people what water is to a duck. Only a second rate man or woman will listen to gossip in the first place. By pandering to their love of detraction we may win a momentary popularity among these lovers of evil speaking, we at the same time inflict upon ourselves a permanent and ineffaceable injury.

"They Say." How often we hear these words in the course of a day. But to carry gossip is to be petty, mean, selfish, and certainly very dishonorable; and the oftener we yield to this temptation the more likely we are to become essentially and irretrievably bad ourselves. When we dishonor our neighbors we dishonor ourselves more. Momerie has stated the common sin of evil speaking in these words: "Instead of elevating ourselves, as we fancy we are doing, by the attempt to depreciate others, we are most effectually accomplishing our own degradation. In speaking ill of others, we are doing ill to ourselves."

The following poem, "They Say," was found in a scrap book, clipped from some newspaper, and the authorship is unknown:

"They say!" Ah, well, suppose they do!
But can they prove the story true?
Why count yourself among the "they"
Who whisper what they dare not say?
Suspicion may arise from naught
But malice, envy, want of thought.

"They say!" But why the tale rehearse,
And help to make the matter worse!
No good can possibly accrue
From telling what may be untrue;
And is it not a better plan
To speak of all as best you can?

"They say!" Well, if it should be so,
Why need you tell the tale of woe?
Will it the bitter wrong redress,
Or make the pang of sorrow less?
Will it the erring one restore,
Henceforth to "go and sin no more?"

"They say!" Oh, pause and look within—
See how thine heart inclines to sin;
And lest, in dark temptation's hour,
Thou, too, should'st sink beneath its power,
Pity the frail, weep o'er their fall,
But speak of good, or not at all.

Eugene Bertram Willard

Winchester business man says: "Don't forget the customer is always right and when he's a good customer, he is perfect."

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Cooking for two days at a time in summer helps to keep the kitchen cool at least every other day. Cooking may be done on Saturday to keep Sunday an easy day for the housewife too, since her family makes it a rest day.

If the two day plan does not work, plan meals that use quickly cooked easy to prepare foods, featuring salads and fruit if the budget permits. A good rule to keep in mind, however, is never to serve a meal without one hot dish, whether it be soup, beverage, main dish or dessert. It will help keep away summer indigestion and lagging appetites.

There has been but little change in the average prices of foods during the past week.

Seasonable foods make up the following menus.

Low Cost Dinner
Cold Meat Loaf Potato Salad
Pickled Beets
Bread and Butter
Steamed Dumplings with Crushed Berries
Tea or Coffee Milk

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING

By Alfred A. Fraser, Wellesley

Perennials can be propagated by taking cuttings—such as Phlox, Sedum, Iberis and Aubrietia.

Roses should be sprayed regularly.

Tuberous rooted begonias do best in a shady place.

Cucumbers, tomatoes and potatoes, or any vegetables subject to blight, should be sprayed with Bordeaux mixture.

Sweet corn can be planted to July 1.

Be sure your tomatoes are staked.

Chinese lantern plants should be sprayed with arsenate of lead to kill any beetles.

It isn't too late to plant vegetables as beets, lettuce, turnips, and carrots now.

Perennial seeds can be sown now.

Remove any crabgrass as soon as it appears. Every plant distributes 150,000 or so seeds about it annually.

Keep all newly set out bushes and trees well watered.

Spray squash vines with a nicotine solution.

Shady lawns may be fertilized again.

HOOD'S HAS EMPLOYEE DISABILITY

Nearly 3000 members of H. P. Hood & Sons Mutual Benefit Association will receive greatly increased wage protection during time lost through accident or illness following the establishment of a new Disability Fund by the company on June 1, it was announced this week by H. P. Hood, 2nd, president of the 90 year old New England company.

Under the new plan, members of the 34 year old Mutual Benefit Association will receive direct from the Disability Fund checks supplementing the benefit payments made during absence by the Association.

Employees with less than five years service will receive full pay for 13 weeks during absence and half pay for 39 weeks. Five to ten year employees will be eligible for full pay for 26 weeks and half pay for 26 weeks. Employees who have been with the company for 10 years or more will be protected for a maximum of one year at full pay.

The new Disability Fund benefits have been established following a six months study of the best mutual aid plans in operation in America, conducted jointly by the company and the Mutual Benefit Association.

"In keeping with our aim to make the Hood Company a good company to work for and to do business with, we wanted to give the greatest possible security against loss of income through accident or illness," said Mr. Hood, in announcing the plan. "From our study of what other progressive companies in America are doing, we feel that the protection now available to Hood employees is second to none."

In addition to sickness and accident benefits, Hoods employees are eligible to receive death benefits of as much as $3200. The Hood Mutual Benefit Association provides death benefits up to $2000. The company supplements death benefits with group life insurance giving members of the Association policies worth up to $1200 depending upon length of service.

FINGERPRINTS TO PROTECT CIVILIANS, AS WELL AS CATCH CRIMINALS

Realizing that fingerprints may be an effective means of identification in case of death or amnesia, increasing numbers of civilians are having their prints recorded at the Federal Bureau of Investigation, a division of the United States Department of Justice that is perhaps better known as "the G-Men," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Cards Chemically Treated

Visitors are conducted on tours through the Identification Division at the rate of several hundred a day. Many remain to have their fingerprints taken. In long chattering lines, business men and their wives, giggling girls, and solemn small boys pass before the recorder with his yellow stamp pad and small white cards marked off into spaces for each finger's print.

A young girl approaches, holding out red-nailed white hands. The recarder presses her right thumb firmly on the stamp pad and then down on the card, rolling it from right to left. "Just relax, don't try to help me," he instructs her, for if she presses with her thumb, it overinks and smudges the pattern.

He takes the marks of her right hand's fingers, one after another, and then those of her left hand, individually.

Next, he records, at a single impression, all the fingertips of her right hand, and, with another impression, all those of the left, as a check upon the sequence of the preceding prints. She stares amazed at the dark whorls on the card made by her unstained white fingertips. The colorless chemical solution on the stamp pad acts on the chemically-treated card, but remains invisible on the hand.

Little boys, whose cards are already smudged with thumb marks of grime, approach as solemnly as if going to the dentist. "It won't hurt," the recorder assures them, and gives them each a souvenir which they study under a handy magnifying glass. The original cards are also returned to those who request them.

Digit Marks Offer Tell-Tale Evidence

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, with 267,000 sets of fingerprints in its civilian files, is increasing at the rate of almost 800 a day. The Bureau does not search for fingerprints of criminals among the prints in these files, but it may search for them among the prints of Civil Service employees, which are filed to keep men with prison records from holding positions of public trust.

Exhibited on the wall of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is a device like a large automobile-mileage-meter. Each time the last number on the right changes, it marks, not another mile, but a new set of criminal fingerprints received at the Bureau. The number changes about 175 times an hour. The Bureau, on duty twenty-four hours a day, receives during that time about 4,200 new records of people under arrest. These are sent in from more than 10,000 law enforcement agencies all over the United States and from eighty foreign countries.

Imagine that a suspect, Bill Smith, is arrested in Los Angeles. His fingerprints are taken with printer's black ink, which, with his photograph, are rushed to Washington to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. There they will be checked against fingerprints in the criminal files to see if he has a previous criminal record. If the check reveals that Bill Smith is really ex-convict "Butcherknife Joe," wanted in New Orleans for murder, two telegrams are sent, one to inform the Los Angeles authorities, another to tell New Orleans officials the Los Angeles police have their man.

Fingerprints found on weapons, woodwork, glass, and articles near a scene of crime are also checked against prints in the Bureau's criminal files and aid in capturing law violators.

Since no two fingers have ever been discovered whose patterns were identical fingerprints offer such tell-tale evidence that criminals have tried to change theirs. But they cannot be entirely changed, even by the painful process of removing the skin. Dillinger tried this, and after the scars healed, the skin grew back into the same design. A baby's fingerprint pattern is firmly fixed about three months before birth; enlarges but does not change as the child grows to an adult. It remains the same even after death. All fingerprints fall into one of nine patterns, including loops, arches, and whorls.

SPEERS—CHIDLEY

In the midst of a setting of rare beauty, at the First Congregational Church at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 19, William John Speers, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. William J. Speers of Wedgemere avenue, and Elizabeth Chidley, were married by the bride's father, Dr. Howard J. Chidley.

The chancel of the church was decorated with palms and ferns and candles, with a single cluster of red peonies on either side furnishing a high light of color.

Mr. Lawrence Apgar of Providence, R. I., a friend of the bride's family, was at the organ and played during the half hour before the ceremony, his program including three movements from the "Water Music Suite" by Handel, "Liebestod" from "Tristan and Isolde" by Wagner, "The Fifers" by d'Andrieu, Jongen's "Chant de Mai" and the "G Major Prelude" by Bach.

Miss Chidley came down the aisle on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Samuel J. Elder of Winchester. She wore a bridal gown of white satin and a tulle veil, with halo and cap of old lace, and carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Her honor maid was her sister, Barbara Burrows Chidley of Winchester, who wore a white marquisette gown with a halo of the same material, and carried yellow roses.

The bridesmaids, who were Janet Appelton of Peterboro, N. H.; Ruth F. Evans of Watertown, Conn., Helen Byram of Reading, Sally Kinsolving of Baltimore, Md.; and Marion K. Hadsell of Dover, wore identical gowns of white marquisette with matching halos and carried alternating bouquets of deep blue delphinium and red roses.

Mr. Speers had for his best man Perry A. Brayton of Fall River. Ushers were Charles S. Eaton of Winchester, Robert L. Goodale and Donald Field of Cambridge, Sears Walker of Watertown, Geoffrey Sawyer of Arlington, William Langley of West Hartford, Conn., cousin of the bridegroom; George Read of Fall River and Robert Anthony of Providence, R. I.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Grey Rocks, the home of Dr. and Mrs. Chidley. Refreshments were served outdoors, where the spacious lawns and trees furnished a beautiful background for gaily decorated tables and chairs. Mr. Speers and his bride left immediately after the reception for a wedding trip.

The bride is a 1937 graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design in Providence. Mr. Speers was graduated from Yale in 1931 and from Harvard Law School in 1934.

FITTS—SKENE

Miss Brenda Skene, daughter of Mrs. Norman L. Skene, was married Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at her mother's home in Glengarry to Henry King Fitts of New York City, son of Mrs. Henry K. Fitts of Grassmere avenue. The marriage service was read jointly by an uncle of the bridegroom, Rev. Frederic W. Fitts, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Roxbury, and Rev. Dwight W. Hadley, rector of the Church of the Epiphany. Miss Skene was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Edgar F. Noyes of Newburyport, and the only attendants were Miss Virginia C. Hull of Red Wing, Minnesota, formerly of this town, and David W. Fitts, brother of the bridegroom and Bowdoin College senior.

Mr. Fitts and his bride will spend the summer at Lake Sunapee, New London, N. H. In the fall they will live at 999 Pelham Parkway in New York City, where Mr. Fitts is teaching at the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind. The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School, class of 1934, and of Bradford Junior College in the class of 1936. PLAYED AT NEW BEDFORD RECITAL

MISS KINDRED ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Kindred of Main street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy G. Kindred, to Edward Ecker of Roxbury.

MID SUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM AT GREY ROCKS

For the third year the Lincoln House Players of Boston will present in Winchester a Shakespeare play out of doors. "Mid Summer Night's Dream," to be given on Tuesday, June 29 at 8.30 is this year's production, following "As You Like It" and "Twelfth Night" which were given the past two years. Again Ruth Elder is the director and again the play will be presented in the Chidley gardens at Grey Rocks on Myopia Hill.

The vitality of this group of young players from the South End of Boston will be remembered by those who have been present at their productions in past years. Their keen appreciation of the play itself and their evident joy in its performance were especially commented upon in the Star after last year's production. "Mid Summer Night's Dream" is particularly adapted to an outdoor setting and the staging and lighting are being prepared to carry out to the full the fairylike qualities of the play. Mendelssohn's music, written for this work of Shakespeare, will be played during the performance and the dances are under the direction of a teacher from the Miriam Winslow School of the Dance. To carry out Shakespeare's contrast between the everyday world and fairyland, some of the players will be in colorful, modern, summer dress and the scene will be set as the author set it, in contemporary England.

The players are young people from Lincoln House, a Settlement House which has carried on recreational and cultural activities for almost 50 years in Boston's South End. The production of fine plays is a tradition dating back many years and this tradition is behind these vivid performances of Shakespeare out of doors. Lincoln House, with its thousand members, is fertile ground for the discovery of talent that otherwise might remain hidden.

The proceeds from the Winchester production go back into the dramatic group of Lincoln House and are used for the costuming and the staging of future plays. Mrs. John M. Kingman of Herrick street is local chairman in charge of arrangements for the performance. In case of rain there will be a postponement until the following evening, Wednesday, June 30.

SIR HUGH LEVICK

Sir Hugh Levick, a former resident of Winchester died in Cape Town, South Africa June 19. He lived on Lawson road in the house now owned by Harrison F. Lyman for some years while a member of the firm of Lee, Higginson & Co. of Boston.

A native of England, he came to the United States in 1886 and worked for the Bank of Montreal. He joined Lee Higginson in 1902, and was admitted to partnership in 1906. Later Sir Hugh was a member of the London firm of Higginson & Co. He served as adviser to the British Treasury from 1917 to 1919 and was assistant British delegate on the Reparations Commission in Paris from 1919 to 1921.

Many older residents of Winchester remember him very well. His son Hugh went to the Winchester schools for some years and he is well remembered for his rugged British way. During the war he became a captain in the British army and was severly wounded in the head requiring a silver plate to close the wound in his skull. Some of our Winchester residents met him on the street in Paris while they were in the American army and although he was a British captain and they were American enlisted men he knew them at once and invited them to dinner in a hotel. He now inherits his father's title.

JOHN CHESTER MOAKLER

John Chester Moakler, president of the Enterprise Moakler Company, bedding and mattress manufacturers, of Cambridge, died Monday afternoon, June 21, at his home, 25 Swan road, after a week's illness.

Mr. Moakler was the son of John and Ruth Moakler. He was born 52 years ago in Medford, was educated in the Medford schools and made that city his home until he came to Winchester in 1927.

As a young man he entered the bedding and mattress manufacturing business with the Boston firm of G. W. Bent & Co., remaining with that house until ten years ago when he joined the Enterprise Mattress Company, which subsequently became the Enterprise Moakler Company, of which he was president and director. He was formerly treasurer of the Massachusetts Bedding Association, a director of the Sleeper Corporation of Chicago, with which the Enterprise Moakler Company is affiliated and a member of the Belmont Country Club.

PROMINENT AT HARVARD REUNION EXERCISES

Two well known Winchester residents, former Chairman of Selectmen Raymond S. Wilkins and Library Trustee Edgar J. Rich have been prominently identified with the reunion festivities of the Harvard alumni classes at Cambridge this week.

Mr. Rich, as chairman of the 50 year class of 1887, was busy with many details, including the class outing at Hamilton, luncheon at Dillon Field House, reception given by President and Mrs. Conant and the class dinner at the Algonquin Club.

Mr. Wilkins, secretary of the 25 year class of 1912, made outstanding contributions to his reunion festivities in an exhaustive class history and an extensive musical score of much interest. Mr. Wilkins is not exactly a tyro in the field of musical composition, for his stirring march, dedicated to the local Legion Post has been in use for some years and is deservedly popular.

SELECTMEN'S NOTES

The Edison and New England Tel. & Tel. Companies have been granted permission to erect and maintain one pole on Elmwood avenue, approximately 90 feet north of Park street.

A letter from the Secretary of the Metropolitan District Commission stated that the Commission has agreed to eliminate the traffic hazard at Waterfield road and the Mystic Valley Parkway by flattening the curve, the work to be done by the Commission.

NATIONAL BANK ENJOYED DINNER

The associates of the Winchester National Bank enjoyed a fine duck dinner at Weber Duck Inn, Wrentham, on Monday evening. Dancing was enjoyed during the courses. All had a splendid time and look forward to more social get-together parties. Mr. William Sullivan was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

DALRYMPLE—NICHOLS

In Ripley Memorial Chapel of the First Congregational Church on Friday evening, June 18, Miss Janet Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Guild Nichols of Hillcrest Parkway, became the bride of Donald Ewer Dalrymple, son of Mr. Albert H. Dalrymple of Cambridge street. Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony at 8:30 o'clock, and Mr. Nichols gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride, wearing ivory satin with duchess lace and carrying a bouquet of gardenias, valley lilies and white roses, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Herbert L. King, Jr., of Drexel Hill, Pa., as matron of honor; and by Miss Virginia A. Wadsworth of Winchester, as bridesmaid. Mrs. King wore a pink georgette gown, carrying contrasting blue spring flowers, and Miss Wadsworth carried pink spring flowers with the blue georgette gown she wore.

Mr. Dalrymple had for his best man the bride's brother, Kezar Guild Nichols, and the corps of ushers included Charles P. Anderson of West Medford, George B. Wood, Jr., of Rockland, Me., Andrew A. Skilling and John T. Dalrymple, both of this town.

After the ceremony the bridal party and guests went on to the home of the bride's parents for a reception and dancing. Roses and mountain laurel with princess pine and hemlock made a most attractive setting.

Mr. Dalrymple and his bride left Saturday morning by plane for New York, where on Saturday afternoon they sailed for a honeymoon in Bermuda.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School. Mr. Dalrymple, a graduate of Dartmouth and of the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance, is engaged in business as an investment broker in Boston. He and his bride will make their home in Winchester.

FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS ON ABERJONA RIVER SITUATION

With conditions materially improved in the Aberjona River, according to the State Department of Public Health, the department now calls attention to developments in the Mystic River, below Craddock Bridge, where sewage has begun to flow directly into the river from a Metropolitan sewer.

Accordingly the state department has ordered bathing stopped in Mystic River and has so notified the Metropolitan District Commission and the Somerville and Medford boards of health. Previously the department had advised against bathing in upper Mystic Lake.

These developments have been reported to the Selectmen's office by the state health department. The department further advises that steps were taken this week to begin the chlorination of the Aberjona River at the dam constructed by the town near Swanton street. Apparatus for the treatment is being furnished by the state health department and the necessary chemicals by the Metropolitan District Commission.

Laboratory tests are being made to see whether the midges in Upper Mystic Lake can be killed with copper sulphate and if they can this chemical will be, sprayed on the upper lake.

Arrangements are being made to have the M. D. C. raise the sewer manhole near the Atlantic Gelatin plant, which seems now to be the only point in Winchester where sewage has still been flowing into the Aberjona.

The recent heavy rains have materially assisted in flushing out the river and reducing the odor.

SWITCHED PLATES ON CAR

At 1.45 yesterday morning Sergt. Joseph Derro and Patrolman Henry P. Dempsey, while patroling on Cambridge street discovered two youths attempting to start a Chevrolet sedan. Their answers to questions were not satisfactory and when it was discovered that the driver had no license to operate, the pair were taken to headquarters.

There it was learned that the car the youths were driving was taken from a second hand yard in Charlestown owned by Joseph Stagnaro, for whom one of the youths said he worked. The plates on the machine were taken from a Ford roadster, owned by the same youth's brother.

Lieut. Edward O'Connell called the owner of the Chevrolet, W. C. Eisner of 92 Nelson street, Melrose, and the latter refused to prosecute. The youth who was driving the car, however, was locked up, charged with driving without a license, illegal use of number plates, operating an unregistered car and operating an uninsured car. He was booked as Arigo Fiorentino, 17, of 64 Washington street, Charlestown. His companion, Guy J. Lapointe, 15, of 15½ Union street, Charlestown, was permitted to go after the owner of the car refused to prosecute.

Fiorentino appeared in court later Thursday morning. He was given a two-months' suspended sentence for driving an uninsured car and fined $10 for attaching number plates illegally. The other charges were filed.

PLAY GROUP BEGINS MONDAY

The Winchester Day School, of which Miss Elizabeth Mullin is director, announces that its summer Play Group for boys and girls will open at the school, 63 Washington street, corner of M. V. Parkway on Monday, June 28, at 9 a. m.

ROTARY CLUB NOTES

Ten members were absent from the meeting of June 24, two of whom have already made up for their absences.

Warren Hersey missed his last opportunity to appear as vice president and presiding officer of the club, but as incoming president we shall see him regularly in the chair. In his stead incoming Vice President Ralph Bonnell wielded the gavel and made it plain that he is no novice in this role. We propose that in due season Ralph's opportunities in this respect shall be enlarged.

Among the numerous communications received since our last meeting this time, belatedly, but none the less cordially greetings from the Nice, France, convention penned by District Governor Bert Emard. Also the splendid sentiments expressed by our George Reed as he started on his European tour and the fine letters from Ward Libro, lately associated with this club as a Junior Rotarian.

Matthew Cox, incoming president of the Rotary Club of Melrose, is in the field with a highly meritorious suggestion. The proposition is that the Rotary Clubs of Malden, Melrose, Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Winchester and Woburn which recently met in joint session at Reading, shall establish a golf tournament with representative teams from each of the above clubs; this as an introductory step to the formation of a council for the consideration and development of such social and service projects as may be of interest in the region under the jurisdiction of these clubs. While our club has not as yet taken specific action in the matter it may be said that it meets with general approval and we shall be gratified if the idea becomes a reality.

Announcement is made that the District Assembly will be held at Lemonister on Aug. 19. Details will be forthcoming shortly.

We are in receipt of his final monthly letter from District Governor Bert Emard, whose term of office expires on June 30. Governor Bert has been a faithful, hard-working, progressive official, and the district has prospered during his administration. It has been a pleasure to watch him and to anticipate that his valuable services will be available indefinitely to the district and to Rotary. He will pursue his future activities with the best wishes of the members of this club.

William Eben Ramsdell, Representative for Winchester in the Legislature of Massachusetts, was guest speaker at the current meeting of the club. Mr. Ramsdell presented a timely and illuminating description of various proceedings of the governing body of this Commonwealth with particular reference to certain criticisms which have recently been brought to the attention of local Rotarians. We are indebted to him for his efforts in bringing to us a more thorough understanding of the attitude of our legislators on public affairs which are brought to them for consideration.

Our next meeting on July 1, is the first of the Rotary year 1937-1938. We hope that all members who are in town will be present for an auspicious entry into the "New Year."

Percentage of attendance June 7—77.42 per cent.

MYSTIC LAKE "UNSATISFACTORY" FOR BATHING

Various requests have recently been made to the State Department of Public Health relative to the suitability of the water of the Mystic River and Upper Mystic Lake for public bathing and in response to these requests various investigations and numerous analyses have been made.

The results of the analyses of samples of water from Sandy Beach in Upper Mystic Lake, Winchester, show no great increase in bacterial contamination over those obtained in past years, although this lake is seriously polluted by sewage and industrial wastes overflowing from the Metropolitan sewers and the local sewers in the valley of the Aberjona River. Regardless of the fact that there is no marked increase in bacterial pollution at Sandy Beach in Winchester, Upper Mystic Lake is so obviously polluted as to render it unsatisfactory for bathing, and until all the sewage is removed in the North Metropolitan Relief Sewer and the existing sewers and the character of the water of the Aberjona River improved by chemical means, the Department is of the opinion that the water of Upper Mystic Lake should not be used for bathing.

TO SING FIRST MASS SUNDAY

Rev. Fr. George M. Kilcoyne, S. J., who was ordained to the Catholic priesthood last Sunday in the chapel of the Holy Spirit at the Jesuit House of Studies in Weston, will celebrate his first solemn mass in St. Mary's Church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Father Kilcoyne, who is the son of Mrs. Katherine Kilcoyne of 326 Washington street and the late John Kilcoyne, is a native of Winchester and it is to his boyhood parish that he returns to sing his first mass. It is of interest that another Winchester young man, now numbered among the Jesuits, Rev. Fr. Henry Martin S. J. of Weston College, will be among the priests assisting Father Kilcoyne on Sunday, and the sermon will be preached by Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons, pastor of St. Jerome's Arlington-Belmont Parish, who was formerly for some years assistant pastor of St. Mary's Parish, under the late Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt.

SMITH—LOWTHER

Wearing a white satin gown, en train, with a cap style tulle veil, and carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies, Miss Mary Mills Lowther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Lowther of Boston avenue, West Medford, was married Sunday evening, June 20, in St. Raphael's Church, Medford, to Earle Leslie Smith, son of Mrs. Charlie O. Smith and the late Mr. Smith of Bridge street. Rev. Father Sullivan of St. Raphael's Church performed the ceremony at 6 o'clock, the bride being given in marriage by her brother James A. Lowther. The conventional wedding music from Lohengrin and the "Wedding March" by Mendelssohn were played by the church organist for the entrance of the bridal party and at the recessional. Decorations on the altar were roses and peonies.

Miss Lowther was attended only by Miss Doris Coleman of Malden, who wore a peach satin gown with matching hat and carried a bouquet of talisman roses.

Harold R. Smith of this town was his brother's best man, and the corps of ushers, headed by Henry P. Murray of Winchester, included two brothers of the bridegroom, James N. Smith of West Medford and Charlie O. Smith of Winchester; Walter F. Malley of Winchester, Wilfred DeLaurier of Newton and Edward W. Romans of West Medford.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Hotel Manger, Boston, the mothers of both the bride and bridegroom assisting in receiving. Upon their return from a honeymoon spent at Bemis Falls and in Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home on Truro avenue in Medford.

The bride is a graduate of the Medford Extension School and of Burdett College. Mr. Smith, who is associated with a radio manufacturing concern, is a graduate of Winchester High School, a member of Winchester Council, K. of C., and Democratic Town Committee and president of the Y. M. P. P. of this town.

Miss Parsons has been at Beaver College only two years having transferred from Penn Hall Junior College at the beginning of her junior year.

Miss Parsons has been a member of the Glee Club while she has been a student at Beaver College and participated in all of the concerts given by that organization chief among which this year were the two appearances at Atlantic City at the Haddon Hall and Hotel Dennis.

CHANGE IN SCOUT CAMP PERSONNEL

Due to an unexpected change in plans the Winchester Girl Scout Day Camp will not have Miss Elizabeth Hovey as assistant director this summer.

The camp committee, however, has been fortunate in securing Miss Janet Cobleigh, a Sargent School graduate to assist the director, Miss Gregg. Miss Cobleigh has a fine background in scouting, having come up from the ranks to serve as lieutenant and then captain of a troop. For added experience in camping she has taken the Kentucky River boat trip of two weeks' practical training in pioneering for leaders.

A cousin of the bridegroom, Rev. Fr. Edward Flaherty of St. Mathew's Church, Dorchester, performed the marriage ceremony at 9 o'clock and was also celebrant of the nuptial mass which followed. Miss Hodge was attended by her sister, Mrs. Lawrence McCauley (Martha Hodge) and by her small niece, Miss Phyllis Waldron of Woburn, who served as flower girl. Joseph Foley of Woburn was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Leo Schindler of Winchester and Albert Foley of Woburn.

EUGENE SCULLY

Eugene Scully, a veteran of the Spanish-American War and former resident of this town, died Sunday morning, June 20, in the Chelsea Naval Hospital, after a four years' illness.

Mr. Scully was born in Ireland in 1874. He served in the War with Spain, and was a member of Roger Wolcott Post, U. S. W. V., of Roxbury. Upon first coming to Winchester he was employed at the tannery of Beggs & Cobb, later serving for some years as sexton at St. Mary's Church, a position he held until failing health made it necessary for him to enter the hospital.

While a resident of Winchester, on Sept. 3, 1907, Mr. Scully married Miss Winifred York of this town, who died in Roslindale some years ago. He leaves two daughters in Roslindale, Miss Winifred and Miss Mary Scully.

WINCHESTER CUBS WON TWO GAMES OVER WEEK-END

Over the past week-end the Winchester Cubs annexed two games. On Friday evening they nosed out the Boston & Maine team 4 to 2 on Leonard Field with a three run rally in the sixth inning, and Sunday afternoon added their second victory, beating the Arlington Cubs 5 to 1 at Arlington.

In both contests the stick work of "Bud" Stygles was an outstanding feature. Against the B. & M. he got two out of three and then against Arlington garnered three out of five including a double.

ABANDONED CAR FOUND ON ARLINGTON STREET

Sunday evening Police Headquarters was notified that an automobile had apparently been abandoned on Arlington street opposite the driveway to the Downs Estate.

Sergt. Charles J. Harrold and Patrolman James F. Noonan went to investigate and found a 1937 Oldsmobile, with two flat front shoes, the distributor head missing and part of the radio gone. The officers were told that two young men had let the air out of the tires and had entered an automobile at the foot of Arlington street, driving off in the direction of Arlington.

The machine was found to be registered to John DeLucco of 7 Benedict street, Somerville, but was listed as a Chevrolet sedan. It was reported stolen by the Police of Division 4 in Boston. The machine was towed to the Central Garage and the Somerville Police requested to check on the discrepancy in registration.

AROUND THE BOAT CLUB

In spite of friendly (?) neighbors who deem it their duty to inform the local constabulary every time anyone at the club breaths out of turn, the boat club is a flourishing business and will continue to prosper as long as we can offer good clean sport to our members.

A good brisk sail on the lake has it all over sitting with one's hand on the telephone—Why not try it?

In our humble opinion the be-fouled condition of the lake is having an effect on some dispositions and we are sympathetic! And now for something of importance—

We have some delightful new neighbors in the brick house right next to the club. The Brooks from Long Island, N. Y. They have joined the club and Betty and Emerson Brooks are regular visitors.

Skipper Hill, Phil Cabot and Lester Curtis launched their snipes over the week-end. That leaves "Micky" Meurling who expects to be in by the time this appears in print. Although this finishes up the snipes that were started last winter there is another under construction for Mr. Oscar Merrow, a new member.

By the way, "Micky" Meurling's boat is the most "de-lovely" thing we've seen out of glass. "What about dotted-swiss sails "Micky"?

The Skrap is being re-conditioned and will be launched in about 10 days. Ownership changing from John McGill to Dr. Clarke Staples of Malden who is also a new member.

Other boats put in this week-end were Paul Maynard's hydro-plane, Quentin Skene's dinghy, Johnnie Ross' Snipe and Al Gautreau's sailing dory.

Through the courtesy of Dick Flewelling every member will receive monthly, starting July 1, a copy of The New England Yachtsman free of charge.

This is the publication mentioned before in which the write-up of the Snipes will appear.

News of the two-day regatta held at Medford will be found elsewhere in this paper, except for the sailing results.

The sailing race was run as a free-for-all handicap. The winners: 1st, Walther, Medford, Comet—"Gadget"; 2nd, Rawding, Medford, Crescent — "Morningside"; 3rd, Killhoun, Medford, Comet—"Skippy."

The Winchester Club snipe race held in the afternoon at our own club gave Skipper Hill first place; Bud Blanchard, 2nd; Don Simonds, 3rd.

Like the steel strike, the status of our river remains neutral—with its smell and sewage exactly where it was months ago.

With the CIO war cry of "Henry Ford Next," it seemed quite appropriate Thursday morning, on the occasion of Postmaster General Farley's visit here, that his cavalcade, accompanied by screaming sirens and a detail of State Police, should use Lincoln Zephyr cars.

ONE OF SIXTEEN MILLION

To the Editor of the Star:

I am one of the sixteen million who knew what they were voting for at the last election. They balloted for economy, a balanced budget, righteous government and common sense. If the Roosevelt administration ever gets out of the mess it has made in its futile effort to run the government properly it will be by enacting the tenets of those voters. The other twenty seven million did not know what they were voting for and now many of them admit it. They voted for a man with a smile, not for a principle, not for a policy of government, not for sound administration, not for common sense. There is something glamorous about a smiling spendthrift that appeals to the thoughtless rank and file who swirl in the superficial eddies of the profounder depths of human affairs. When they realize that they must pay the prodigal's bills, the smile of smiles loses its glamour as their backs are bent under the burden of them. High taxes are dangerous and he who makes them is an enemy of the poor, because they foot the bills. The rich are few. Less than two per cent of the people pay federal income taxes; the masses have not income enough to require it. The world dictators, first hailed as liberators and friends of the common people, have reduced the masses to abject poverty and slavery and destroyed civil, political and individual liberty. The President of the United States is no friend of the poor; he is their enslaver. His blundering and stupid experiments with other peoples money have created a national debt that will burden the populace for years to come. Much of the $11,000,000,000 he has spent on relief in the last three years has been wasted. Carefully administered, half of the money would have done a better job. In a certain city 37 men with relief cards were arrested in one week for drunkenness. "The liquor saloons of my town," said a thoughtful man to me, "are supported by government relief money." Notwithstanding an increase in employment, relief expenditures have mounted through gross and scandalous mismanagement. Relief should be administered by the states through the counties and towns where the recipients are known and the needful, worthy and unworthy, wisely cared for by those familiar with local conditions. Thus millions of dollars could be saved.

The President is the tool of a group of young men of much knowledge but no wisdom, inexperienced in large administrative affairs. The mistakes of small men whom he has appointed to positions that only large men are capable of filling has been one of the most costly blunders of his whole experimental administration. Like Rehoboam he has spurned the counsel of the wise old men of his party and has acted on the foolish advice of the young men. The fate of Rehoboam awaits him. Intolerant, stubborn and insincere his example of lawlessness has been followed by the lower elements of society all over the country resulting in contempt of law, strikes and riots. He has supported Lewis, Murphy and Earle in their acts to prevent honest citizens of the United States from exercising their constitutional rights to work to support their families and themselves. He has refused to protect them in their lawful pursuits against assault and intimidation by the lawless mob. He has approved the sending of soldiers to close factories where men wanted to work for good wages. He has sided with the lawless against the law abiding. He has created unemployment and poverty. He has broken his solemn oath to support the constitution which guarantees the rights of men to labor where and for whom they please. His impracticable schemes of social regeneration delight the communists and visionaries, but the fact is, however, that an idealist without practical experience, common sense and administrative ability, is no more fit to be President of the United States, or Secretary of Labor for that matter, than hell is fit for a powder house. From the Passamaquoddy dam nonsense through a series of unprecedented administrative blunders to the Supreme Court fiasco we contemplate with amazement the acts of a greatly overrated man.

The Roosevelt administration, after increasing the national debt to over $36,000,000,000 is now spending two dollars for every one dollar of income. There are more federal employees in Washington today than there were at the peak of the World War and the number is being increased now at the rate of 100 a day. More jobs have been created since 1933 than in the first century of the nation's existence. A group of patriotic, democratic Senators, including Senator Byrd of Virginia, has protested against the "outrageous waste" of the administration. We already have a federal bond inflation. Do you know what that means? It means the beginning of a greater inflation and repudiation of government debts if the Roosevelt policies go on; chaos, anarchy, revolution and dictatorship. It means your life insurance policies and government securities, bonds and notes, will be worth no more than the paper upon which they are written. It means the destruction of American institutions, the poor made poorer and the rich despoiled and helpless. This is not unprecedented. It was done in Russia, Germany and France.

Speaking of "tax evasion" our forefathers did a thorough job of it because they were over taxed. They began in Dec. 16, 1773 with a little fracas called the Boston tea party, and they finished Oct. 18, 1781 with the surrender of Cornwallis. If government officials propose to investigate all who have sought to avoid taxation it will keep them busy for the next 50 years and most of them will be found in the middle class. Men have changed their legal residences from states where taxes are high to those where the rates are low, from towns with high assessments to others with low and they have bought millions of tax free securities. The landlord passes his taxes on to his tenants by increasing rentals. How silly the President's little candle "tax evasion," political smoke screen looks when one considers the great murk that will shroud the land from coast to coast if his destructive policies are continued.

When a majority wants to work to support themselves and their families it were far better to have blood shed if necessary to protect them in their rights than to have a small minority close the shops and force them, against their wills, on government relief. President Roosevelt helped Lewis and Governor Earle do this to a mill that was operating successfully with 70 per cent of the employees working and contented. Another example of his lawlessness.

Let us salute the spirit of Nathan Hale who said, "I only regret that I have but one life to give to my country," and shall we not raise our voices in a great amen to Patrick Henry's thrilling words "As for me give me liberty or give me death."

Daniel C. Dennett, M.D.

THE PRISON PROBLEM

It is a pity that the executive council's majority report on Massachusetts' prison problem was not fairer in its remarks and more realistic in its conclusions.

It takes a slap at the library at the Norfolk prison colony, "of which any educational institution would be proud." The library cost the state nothing, as it was the gift of former Senator Lewis Parkhurst of Winchester. It disparges the prison's "lavishly designed" hospital. The Norfolk hospital cares for all major surgical cases in state penal institutions, as well as some county institutions. At present one of its patients is a man from the Dedham jail, who is awaiting trial, and whose treatment and safeguarding in a private hospital would have been extremely expensive to the county.

Such matters, however, are relatively unimportant. The real test of a prison, after it has served its primary duty of keeping convicts locked up so that they will no longer endanger the public, is to what extent its inmates are cured of lawbreaking. Out of 100 men paroled from Norfolk, all of them originally state prison inmates, about 20 return to criminal ways. This percentage is admittedly not as good as it should be, but it is decidedly better than that of the Concord reformatory, which the councillors praised. Of every 100 men paroled from that institution, where presumably "common sense" methods prevail, 40 go back to crime.

The councillors were particularly distressed because the Norfolk prison colony has "definitely failed to fulfill the purpose for which it was built, namely, to take the place of the present state prison." Whatever the "group of self-elevated theorists" may have "dreamed," no recent commissioner of correction, including Sanford Bates, until a few months ago director of federal penitentiaries throughout the United States, had any such idea. The Norfolk colony has always been regarded as a supplementary institution for the confinement of prisoners who showed definite promise of reformation.

The feeling that every prison should be as tough and hard-boiled as possible in the treatment of its inmates may be a natural one. But it completely overlooks the fact that eventually most prisoners return to society, and that to harden all of them into confirmed criminals is not the most successful way of reducing our large and expensive law-breaking population.—[Boston Herald.

LIFE SAVING

Are you at home in the water or would you like to learn how to dive and crawl and float?

Our Red Cross examiner, George Carnie, will teach you all branches of swimming and life saving at Palmer street beach beginning June 28 at 10 a. m. and continuing for a period of six weeks.

The very tiniest citizens of Winchester in the beginners swimming class, generally hold the record for rapid progress, but there are groups of advanced swimmers and divers as well as the junior and senior life-saving classes.

The Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross sponsors this activity and urges everyone who is a resident to take advantage of the opportunity.

Here is a chance to attain a valuable accomplishment while having a most enjoyable time.

Ethel C. Goodwin,
Chairman Life-Saving
Winchester Red Cross

Miss Evelyn Corey is leaving today for a two month's stay at the Isle of Shoals.

WINCHESTER TAX COLLECTOR PRAISED

Winchester residents and taxpayers will be interested in the following letter sent by Commissioner Henry F. Long to our Winchester Collector of Taxes, Nathaniel M. Nichols. In sending this complimentary letter, Commissioner Long followed it two days later with a general letter to all Massachusetts tax collectors calling to their attention Collector Nichols' methods and urging them to follow his example.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Department of Corporations and Taxation
State House, Boston
June 16, 1937

Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols
Town Hall, Winchester, Mass.

Dear Mr. Nichols:

Your letter of June 11 was particularly pleasing to me because I think it is evidence of the sort of thing that should be done by every collector.

I congratulate Winchester for having a collector who protects the future by the care that you constantly have as your guide.

With every good wish for your continued success.

Cordially yours,
Henry F. Long,
Commissioner of Corporations
and Taxation

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Department of Corporations
and Taxation
State House, Boston
June 18, 1937

To Each Collector:

It will be recalled that each year I have asked collectors to be certain to prove their commitments from the assessors to the end that they will not be collecting less than they are charged for in the warrant or more than they are charged for because in one instance they will be out of pocket and in the other they will have in their possession money that does not belong to them. Each collector adding his commitment and seeing that it corresponds with the warrant obviates future financial difficulty, and I am always hoping that all will do it for their own protection.

Nathaniel M. Nichols, Collector of Taxes of Winchester, and also Secretary of the Massachusetts Treasurers and Collectors Association, writes me as follows:

I have added the Poll Tax bills and compared them with the Commitment and found the amount to be correct. Warrents will go out in a day or two. I have added the Personal bills and found them to compare with the Commitment. Many are already collected.

I have added the Real Estate bills and found them to compare correctly with the Commitment. These were mailed today.

This is the sort of a communication I would like to get from every collector in Massachusetts. If all did this many of the discoveries that we make upon audit of a city or town where there were shortages or overs in the tax collector's account would be obviated and their families relieved of chagrin and sorrow. It is surprising what little is needed to be done to prevent real trouble.

With every good wish,
Cordially yours,
Henry F. Long,
Commissioner of Corporations
and Taxation

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

It is rumored that a certain former member of the Board of Selectmen has received condemnatory letters concerning the practice of abandoning positively dead pollock on the front doorsteps of self-respecting citizens of the community. Thus far positive identification of the culprit has eluded the Star, but lines are out, so to speak and we expect to learn definitely before long who this Goliath is to leave fish nearly as big as Jonah's whale where folks don't seem to want them!

Mr. Marshall Pihl of Mystic Valley Parkway attended the 15th reunion of the Harvard Class of 1922 at Kittanset this week.

Miss Betty Dissell of this town was one of the ushers at the Radcliffe Class night exercises held this week at Cambridge.

Rev. Allen Evans, former rector of the Church of the Epiphany, with Mrs. Evans and their daughter, was in town last Friday and called at the Star office. Rev. Mr. Evans, now dean of the Episcopal Theological School in Philadelphia, was looking in excellent health and asked the Star to convey his regards to his many friends in Winchester.

Mrs. T. Price Wilson and daughters Jane and Bonney are at their camp at Seaconsett Island, Waquoit, for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Rowe left today for their summer home at Beach Pines, Saco, Me.

W. H. S. CLASS OF '32 REUNION HUGE SUCCESS

On Tuesday evening, June 15, the Class of 1932, Winchester High School, held their first class reunion. Due to the untiring efforts of Agatha Shinnick, committee chairman, the dinner-dance was a huge success, with over 40 members attending.

After the banquet, which was held in the Old Boston Room of the Hotel Puritan, dancing was enjoyed.

Leonard Chandler, class president, acting as toastmaster, conducted himself in fine style. His witty remarks and interesting announcements, were received with much applause.

The Class of '32 deserves credit for their initiative in inaugurating class reunions among recently graduated classes. May they have success in those to come.

CHAPTER 90 FUNDS ALLOTTED

The town's allotment of State funds for Chapter 90 road construction amounts to $21,000 for Swanton street and $7000 for Mt. Vernon street. The reconstruction of Bacon street and Everett avenue is not to be undertaken this year.

Winchester appropriated $25,000 for this reconstruction work at the past March meeting when it was believed that all four roads would receive attention.

Wednesday testimonial meeting, 7:45 P. M.
Reading room in Church Building. Open daily from 12 M. to 5 P. M. except Sundays and holidays.

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, June 27.

The Golden Text is: "The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea" (Isaiah 11:9).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him: and he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying, . . . Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil" (Matthew 5:1, 2, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The term Science, properly understood, refers only to the laws of God and to His government of the universe, inclusive of man. . . . If God, the All-in-all, be the creator of the spiritual universe, including man, then everything entitled to a classification as truth, or Science, must be comprised in a knowledge or understanding of God, for there can be nothing beyond illimitable divinity" (pp. 128, 127).

HEART TO HEART TALKS

Passing of a Friendship

Not long ago we overheard one man remark to another: "He was my friend but is a friend no longer. I looked his friendship out the door several weeks ago." We do not know just what was behind this statement but its seriousness leads us to momentarily pause to reflect that the eclipse of friendship through death is not nearly so much to be lamented as the loss of a personal friendship. As Hugh Black has so truly written: "There are worse losses than the losses of death; and to bury a friendship is a keener grief than to bury a friend. The latter softens the memory, the former hardens and embitters. Few of us go through life without some scars on the heart, which even yet throb if the finger of memory touch them. In spite of all that has been said, and may be said in praise of this golden friendship, it has been too often found how vain is the help of man. The deepest tragedies of life have been the failure of this very relationship."

Some human temperaments are so constituted that it is easier for them to make friends, and likewise it is easier for some dispositions to retain friends. Little faults of manner, little occasions of thoughtlessness, or lack of the little courtesies, do more to separate people than glaring mistakes. To quote Hugh Black again:

"There are some men so built that it is difficult to remain on very close terms with them, there are so many corners to knock against. Even strength of character, if unmodified by unsweetness of disposition, adds to the difficulty of pulling together. Strong will can so easily develop into self-will; decision can become dogmatism; wit, the salt of conversation, loses its savor when it becomes illnatured; a faculty for argument is in danger of being mere quarrelsomeness."

We should keep this in mind at all times and make it our business day by day to see that the ordinary amenities of life are preserved among friends. We can never feel very secure with the individual whose sense of humor is perverted to the extent of engaging in bitter speaking or keen sarcasm, or with the individual who "flies off the handle" at every or no provocation at all, or with the individual who is argumentative and assertive—

Who'd rather on a gibbet dangle
Than miss his dear delight to wrangle.

So, folk, let us treat our friends with more respect. Let us not make the sordid mistake of looking upon the common as if it were one of the cheapest things on earth. Let us treat our friends with a sort of sacred familiarity, as if we appreciated the precious gift of friendship and feared its eclipse.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Feeding children when released from school is a job at which they can and should be helpful. They can help prepare vegetables, learn to cook simple dishes and carry foods to and from the table.

Vegetables become daily more plentiful as local gardens come into bearing. More fruits are available at lower cost. Fish is fairly plentiful and moderate in price. Poultry is a good value. Veal and lamb are the best meat values. Smoked meats and beef are high. Eggs, butter, and cheese have apparently reached their lows for the season.

Seasonable foods make up the following menus.

Low Cost Dinner
Shoulder Lamb Chops
Creamed Potatoes Green Beans
Bread and Butter
Blackberry Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Chicken Fricassee Boiled Rice
Green Peas
Bread and Butter
Berry Cream Tarts
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Fruit Cup
Roast Leg of Spring Lamb
Pan Browned Potatoes Lima Beans
Cucumber Salad
Rolls and Butter Raspberry Trifle

OBSERVATIONS

By the Observer

Which inspires the Observer to ask: How many Winchesterites recall the old days when we kids flipped on the street car while the conductor was inside collecting fares and pulled the bell rope, making the driver stop his nags, and this resulted in a chase from the conductor unless we were too far away to catch?

Some people here in Winchester always feel richest when they are paying too much for a thing. However, these people don't buy such things in town.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Preservation of Antiques Pilgrimage

Thirty-seven enthusiastic members of the Fortnightly visited the Gore Place in Waltham last Thursday, enjoying a two hour inspection of this historical house under the guidance of the superintendent, Mr. James Curran.

Gore Place seat of Gov. Christopher Gore (1758-1827) is called "one of the half dozen outstanding houses of the United States." Gore Place was noted by Downing in 1841, and by Eliot in 1888, as outstanding in the entire country according to a description issued by Gore Place Society in a national appeal for funds to promote the work of restoration. Today, after the destruction of so many contemporaries, its preservation offers an opportunity, unique in the North, to demonstrate the life and form of that historic period in which Governor Gore took such an active part. Threatened with destruction in 1935 and dramatically saved, it can be permanently secured for present and future generations. The house standing on a sight eminence from which it commands an unobstructed view to the south, is of brick, its imposing central structure flanked east and west by a two-story wing—a plan unusual in New England. It is probably the finest surviving example of a private residence in the Northern States.

Following the death of the last private owner, Gore Place has been in turn the office of an automobile company, a country club, and a road house. Foreclosed by the bank a promoter offered $75,000 with the intention of tearing down the house and dividing the place into small building lots. The bank realizing the loss this would be to the community and to the nation agreed to accept a counter offer of $15,000 cash and a $60,000 mortgage from the small group interested in the preservation, providing the money could be raised in less than three days. Faced with this crisis, the place was immediately offered to the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, the Trustees of Public Restorations, and the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, no one of whom was able to undertake, but all of whom co-operated in raising the necessary money in the short time available.

Gore Place Society, a charitable corporation, was formed to preserve restore and maintain the house and grounds. It has been the policy of the Society to establish Gore Place on a sound economic basis. A year of steady work has produced order and a plan. To permit accomplishment, nation-wide interest and help are necessary. The furnishings already loaned or given to the House express the spirit of the period as well as its material form. There have been returned to the House as loans or gifts a portrait of the Governor, two of Mrs. Gore, an original sideboard, and two chairs which were formerly here. The Governor's inaugural suit of embroidered plum-colored suit has recently been returned.

The story of Gov. Christopher Gore is the record of the history of the United States during the period in which he lived, it was said. He served the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the nation as a revolutionary soldier, and as a commissioner with Adams and Hancock to ratify the Federal Constitution. He was the first district attorney in Massachusetts by appointment of George Washington, and was commissioner with Pinkney and Trumbull and Charge d'Affaires to England; Congressman, and Senator. In 1783 he married Rebecca Payne, daughter of Edward Payne and Rebecca Amory.

In private life he was an able lawyer, an officer or member of the existing learned societies, scientist, pioneer of manufacturing in America, and a benefactor of Harvard.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Boutwell and their family sailed last Friday from New York for a trip through Europe. They will return the latter part of August.

ANNUAL REPORT BETTER HOMES GARDEN CLUB, 1936-1937

In order to make the report of the activities of the club this year a brief one it will be necessary to sketch in lightly only those occasions when as a group we have gathered together to learn how to become better gardeners. Our gardens themselves are the visible evidence whether or not we have made use of the wise counsel and experience given to us by means of lectures and demonstrations throughout the year. The club has prospered and grown numerically, and we have not lost sight of our object, namely "To stimulate the knowledge and love of gardening, and to aid in the protection of native trees, plants and birds."

In June last year our second venture in flower exhibiting was at the home of Mrs. Torr Wagner Harmer which proved a beautiful setting for the flower show. It was a success from the standpoint of number of entries, specimen exhibits and variety of flower arrangements. Mrs. Charles Grover of Newton served as judge. Approximately 200 visitors registered in the guest book.

In July and August no regular club meetings were held. In August under the leadership of our president, preparations got under way for an all Winchester flower show and country fair. The Winchester Garden Club and Fortnightly Garden Club co-operated with us in this project as did many townspeople who are not members. As you will remember, this was a tremendous undertaking and a community activity which developed civic interest enormously. It was a financial success and the hope has been expressed that a similar venture would be attempted again.

In October, one of our members, Mrs. Herbert T. West, spoke to us on a hobby of hers, "Mushrooms" and her interesting talk unquestionably started some of us along the mushroom path.

The November speaker was Mr. Bradford Williams, Fellow of American Society of Landscape Architects, who gave an illustrated talk on Garden Design. This was extremely useful to owners of new homes with garden plans ahead of them.

In December Mrs. Charles F. Pease demonstrated holiday table decorations and the making of Christmas Greens.

There was no meeting in January. In February Prof. Ray M. Koons of the Waltham Field Station of Massachusetts State College gave a most instructive talk on Soils and Plant Foods.

The subject of the lecture at the March meeting was the "A.B.C. of Iris Growing" given by Mrs. Guy Newhall of Lynn. This was a timely lecture and of great help to those interested in growing this lovely flower.

Our club year would not be complete unless Prof. Arnold M. Davis of Massachusetts Agricultural College visited us at least once. He spoke to us in April on New England Gardens and demonstrated his talk with colored slides. Professor Davis' talks are always entertaining and instructive and we hope he will continue to be an honorary member of our club for a long time to come.

Mrs. Walter Scott Williams, corresponding secretary of the Federated Garden Clubs of Massachusetts lectured to us in May about bulbs and following her talk there was a little spring flower show of bulbs and other material in the downstairs room of the library. The year's program concludes today with a talk on "Herbs" by Mrs. Hollis Webster of Lexington.

During the year regular board meetings have been held each month and many special meetings as the need arose.

Last year the club became a members of the Massachusetts Federation of Garden Clubs, and this has enlarged the interest and scope of our activity. In October a number of our members attended the annual meeting and luncheon of the Federation at the Hotel Statler. There was also a mid-winter conference of the Federation in Horticultural Hall in January which several representatives of the club attended. About 20 club members went to the all day meeting of the Federation held under the auspices of the Salem Garden Club April 18. This was an extremely interesting day. This club's entry in the competitive exhibit of flowering shrubs took second place. The entries came from a great many clubs in this regional district, and the committee in charge of the Better Homes Garden exhibit is to be congratulated. The membership of the committee was as follows: Mrs. Norman Mitchell, chairman; Mrs. E. W. Bratt and Mrs. Willard Hudson. The prize, a beautiful book on Wildflowers, the club has placed in the public library where it will be available to everyone.

We were invited to exhibit in the Winchester Garden Club Flower Show June 9 and among the guest exhibits the flower arrangement by Mrs. Norman Mitchell won first place by popular vote.

Members are invited to visit the garden at the Home for the Aged where they will see a bird bath and feeding station presented to the Home by the club. The bird bath was purchased from the Audubon Society and designed by E. E. Soderholtz of West Gouldsboro, Me. Mr. C. H. Symmes contributed the first five pounds of seeds for the birds.

At the Christmas season we furnished wreaths and Christmas greens for the Home for the Aged, also for the library including the children's room.

At the May meeting the slate of officers for the coming year was read which will be voted on today.

The executive board have gladly given much time and thought to the work of their different offices, but the club's particular gratitude goes out to our retiring president, Mrs. Woodside, through whose wisdom and splendid leadership for three years we have a garden club built on a strong foundation and of real benefit to the community which it serves.

Respectfully submitted,
Mrs. John T. Terry, Jr.,
Recording Secretary

A. C. A. CANOE MEET AT MYSTIC LAKES

The two-day canoe regatta sponsored jointly by Medford and Winchester Boat Clubs and held at the Medford end of Mystic Lakes was quite a colorful scene. Saturday was a gray and cloudy day but Sunday topped it off with bright sunshine and a moderate southeast wind. The novel feature of this gathering was that the usual straightaway half-mile course, was made over into two quarter mile stretches with a turn at the half way mark. In a way, this slowed up the paddlers a bit, as they were a trifle wary of the turn and also very much unaccustomed to it. In one of the fastest races on Saturday afternoon, the Crescent Canoe Club's senior single-bladed four, which was leading at the time, capsized completely at the turn. This was the only real upset of the day. The very same four men on Sunday paddling for the Crescent's in the double bladed event, came up fast from behind and just nosed out the Needham crew by inches for first place. It was as pretty a sprint as one could ask for.

The turn made for some hard feeling between some of the crews and the referee. In a couple of cases, the turning buoy was submerged by the crew, coming about. It had been ruled at the start that a canoe or paddle could come in contact with the buoy but must not sink it. The crews argued this to be a ruling made just for the day and not to be found in the "good book" of rules.

"Reggie" Bishop of Medford brought joy to the home-gathering at the outset by winning the very first race, the junior single, and this was good news also to Coach Arthur Mather, in who's canoe "Reg" was doing just what "Arthur George" used to do when he was champ of the single bladers, for so long.

In the fourth race, the junior double blade tandem, "Reg" Bishop and "Dick" Evans of Medford were awarded the race over Newhall and Kent of Breeds Canoe Club, who fouled the turning buoy.

The next junior class event the single blade fours, was also captured by Medford Boat Club The crew were "Reg" Bishop, Bud Evans, Henry Seret and "Dick" Evans. This race was a very close finish between Breeds, Medford and Winchester. A matter of inches only separated the boats and that means, on all sides, since they crossed the line in a huddle. Winchester's boat of Jim Fitch, Bill Croughwell, Ned Bean and Ken Pratt reached the turn a full length behind the others but by better navigation, was ahead, leaving the buoys. This slight lead faded, however, on the second stretch and our gang placed third. Hurrah, one point for Winchester.

In the intermediate tandem for double blades Jim Fitch and Ken Pratt were awarded first place, when Leo Volk and Walter Hasenfus of Needham climbed over a turning buoy. This brings Winchester's total of points up to six.

Medford was very partial to junior events, taking all there were, on the opening day, leaving none for anyone else, and thus garnering a total of 15 points against six for Winchester at the end of Saturday's races.

The only blot on the fair sheet of Saturday was a big smudge by Winchester (the less said about it the better, they could have been kicked out of the A. C. A.) They sacrificed five easy points rather than accept a promotion in rank. And in what manner "they" did it.

On Sunday Winchester's intermediate double blade four, composed of Arthur Bowler, Jimmie Gustin, Capt. Ned Bean and Downey Bowler were awarded the race over Needham's four which smacked down the turning buoy.

The same Winchester four entered the senior race but the heavy wash from the judge's launch hampered them at the turn and put their crew out of the running.

Five war canoes raced over a straight away half mile course from Sandy Beach to the dam at Medford. Crescent Canoe Club's nine, won it, Needham was second Breed's third. Medford and Winchester battled it out all the way for to see who would be tail-ender. Winchester's non descript load of Jim Fitch, Bill Locke, Bill Croughwell, Jimmie Gustin, Red Irving, Downey Bowler, Happy Bowler, Capt. Ned Bean and Ken Pratt, did the trick but Medford only lost by a fraction of a boat length. We are told this gave Winchester one more point.

This is a summary of points for the meet:

	Points
Breeds Canoe Club	45
Needham Canoe Club	44
Crescent Canoe Club	38
Medford Boat Club	15
Winchester Boat Club	12

Among the officials were:
Edward B Sandberg, former W. B. C. double blade specialist, Starter.
Jack Sinclair of Providence Referee.
Earle Woodward Providence—Clerk of Course
Judges—Earl Nichols of Medford Boat Club, Arthur Mather of Medford Boat Club, Harry Bean of Winchester Boat Club, Dwight B. Hill of Winchester Boat Club, Bill Locke of Winchester Boat Club.

The committee in charge of the meet were:
Earl Nichols of Medford.
Reg Bishop of Medford.
Ken Pratt of Winchester.
Ned Bean of Winchester.

Practically the whole burden of putting across this meet fell on Ned Bean. For over three weeks prior to it he has had to give every evening, all of each Saturday and Sunday to it. He handled the very difficult task of arranging the various starting, finishing and turning buoys and that's no slouch of a job. He took care of getting, arranging and listing all entries, secured the officials and a hundred and one minor details which are a part of this sort of regatta. If you don't think it a job ask "Gus" some time. Except for a little growling from dissatisfied "turners" the meet went off in "apple pie order." Saturday's races started very shortly after 3 p. m. as scheduled and except for the "sit down strike" in the next to the last event of the day, everything was 1-2-3.

Sunday at 1:30 p. m. the first race was called and the list of ten races, including the war canoes was run off snappily and was all finished up soon after 4:30 p. m. and ready for the prizes to be distributed.

The various sailing races which took place on Sunday in the A. M. will be found reported elsewhere here. It's enough trying to keep up with one kind of "skimmer."

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

Janet Gaynor and Frederic March in "A Star Is Born" is the special screen attraction opening a seven day run at the Granada Theatre in Malden today. This glamorous story of a little country girl who came to Hollywood, faced the odds of 100,000 to one and scaled the heights of stardom, marks the first up-to-the-minute story to be filmed in Technicolor. Adolph Menjou, Andy Devine, May Robson and Lionel Stander are featured in the supporting cast which also includes Owen Moore, Peggy Wood, Edgar Kennedy, J. C. Nugent, Guinn Williams and others. The film opens with Miss Gaynor coming to Hollywood to crash the movies. Frederic March is a hard-drinking screen idol who has passed his peak. He meets Janet, gives her first chance on the screen, falls in love with her and they get married. "A Star Is Born" is generally conceded to have a fine chance to win the Academy award as the best picture of the year.

"A Family Affair," with Lionel Barrymore, Eric Linden, Cecelia Parker, Mickey Rooney, Charles Grapewin, Spring Byington, Sara Haden and Julie Haydon is the second attraction on the bill starting today. This is a strong story of life in a small American town. When the family is caught in the shadow of grief and shame, it is Barrymore who saves his daughter from martial disaster and restores himself in the eyes of his fellows by proving his decision was wise.

READING THEATRE

A new star, with a genius for quiet comedy and high voltage romance, flashes on the cinema horizon!

He is Fernand Gravet, screen idol of the Continent, whose first American picture, "The King and the Chorus Girl," which opens at the Reading Theatre Sunday for three days.

In "The King and the Chorus Girl," M. Gravet plays the role of wealthy, spendthrift ex-King Alfred VII who tumbles madly in love with an independent little American chorus girl.

Edward Everett Horton is magnificently humorous as the worried uncle of the profligate king, as is Mary Nash, the veteran comedienne, as his aunt. The cast is studded with noted names—Luis Alberni, Alan Mowbray, Jane Wyman, Kenny Baker of radio fame and many others.

There, also, Bobby Connelly's dancing girls perform the exciting "can can" dance. Combine all that with the masterful direction of Mervyn LeRoy and the result is grand entertainment.

On the same bill will be Ricardo Cortez and Gail Patrick in "Her Husband Lies." The double feature bill for today and tomorrow includes Richard Dix in "The Devil's Playground" and Lloyd Nolan with Claire Trevor in "King of Gamblers."

"A STAR IS BORN" AT THE UNIVERSITY

Janet Gaynor and Fredric March come to the University Theatre for four days on Sunday in the technicolor production, "A Star Is Born." This glamorous story of a little country girl who came to Hollywood, faced the odds of 100,000 to one and scaled the heights of stardom, marks the first up-to-the-minute story to be filmed in technicolor. Adolphe Menjou, May Robson, Andy Devine and Lionel Stander are featured in the supporting cast, which also includes Owen Moore, Peggy Wood, Elizabeth Jenns, Edgar Kennedy, J. C. Nugent, Guinn Williams and others.

The dramatic story of what happens when a beautiful newlywed Navy wife defies all the social taboos of her husband's service is told in "Wings Over Honolulu," Wendy Barrie plays the young wife and Ray Milland is her lieutenant-husband. Other members of the cast include Kent Taylor, William Gargan, Polly Rowles, Joyce Compton and Samuel Hinds.

A carnival scene—where people laugh and enjoy themselves is the unusual background for what has been described as Hollywood's most bizarre picture of the year—"Night Must Fall"—with Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell which comes Thursday. It's not a mystery picture. You know in advance every turn and twist of the plot. The cast includes Dame May Whitty, Merle Tottenham, Matthew Boulton, Alan Marshal and E. E. Clive and others.

Can you imagine Edward Everett Horton as Tarzan? Can you picture the tall comedian as a human fly? Can you visalize the Horton you've known as the reckless driver of a hundred-mile-an hour racing car? Impossible? Believe it or not, Edward Everett Horton plays a combination of Tarzan, human fly and racing driver in Universal's comedy, "Oh, Doctor!" the co-feature. The picture is based on Harry Leon Wilson's novel of the same name.

MALDEN STRAND THEATRE

"Turn Off the Moon," with a cast including Charles Ruggles, Eleanore Whitney, Johnny Downs, Ben Blue, Kenny Baker and Phil Harris and his orchestra, opens a four day run at the Strand Theatre in Malden today. The plot is hilarious. The musical portion of the film brings in Kenny Baker, the tenor on the Jack Benny hour and Phil Harris' great orchestra. Three of the hit songs are "That's Southern Hospitality," "Turn Off the Moon" and "Jamming." In addition it introduces America's newest dance craze called "Jamming." Eleanore Whitney in this new film proves Bill Robinson's statement that she is the world's fastest dancer.

"Midnight Taxi," with Brian Donlevy and Frances Drake as the stars, is the second attraction on the bill starting today. Brian Donlevy is cast as a Federal man on the trail of a ring of counterfeiters. Discovering that the gang is using taxi men to distribute the "queer" money, Donlevy poses as a cabby.

"The Crime Nobody Saw," with Lew Ayers, Ruth Coleman, Vivienne Osborne, Bennie Baker and Colin Clive will head the bill for next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. "Man of the People" with Florence Rice, Joseph Calleia, Thomas Mitchell and Ted Healy as the players will be the second attraction on the bill starting next Tuesday.

THIS WEEK'S GARDENING

By Alfred A. Fraser, Wellesley

Cut back Achillea—it'll give you a fresh crop of flowers in a few weeks.

Cut off faded flowers of annuals so the plants won't go to seed. If you don't, the plants will throw all their energy to produce seeds—throw fewer flowers.

Annual seeds must be planted by now.

Newly planted seedlings should be slightly shaded if planted on hot days to give them a chance to establish themselves.

Tree fruit should be thinned out about half to get better and larger fruit.

Dig tulip and narcissi bulbs and keep in a dry place until next fall—to plant.

Be sure lima beans are tied to poles and the peas are on some brush or netting.

Sweet peas appreciate applications of liquid manure during their blooming season.

Don't plant grass seed until about Sept. 1. Soy beans planted now make a fine cover crop that should be turned under about Aug. 15 in areas where grass is to be planted.

Heavy watering for any plant is always the best as it gets a chance to reach the roots.

Iris may be divided and set out anytime now.

Kale, sweet corn, beans, rush squash, carrots, beets and endive can still be planted.

OBSERVATIONS

By The Observer

Everybody likes the fellow whose personality is magnetic and draws one as the Pole draws the needle of the compass.

"Old Timer" says he recalls when if the horse cars were blocked drivers pulled off the track, drove around the obstacle, and back on the tracks.

Mountain laurel is now in full bloom and it is hard to believe the stories of older residents about the woods of Winchester being full of this beautiful flower. It was picked and picked until not one single one remains in the township. As one drives through the western part of the state or in New Hampshire, we often wish it were back with us here. When brought here wild from other sections it does not seem to live due to soil conditions. Many states have forbidden the picking of mountain laurel but ours is already gone for good.
